Eligibility Bypass	The Department of Social Services (DSS) improperly issued capitation payments on behalf of participants whose eligibility was previously activated (and remained active) in the Missouri Eligibility Determination and Enrollment System (MEDES) through a manual bypass process. This bypass state prevented MEDES controls from deactivating eligibility (and, in turn, discontinuing payments) when these participants later became ineligible.
Indicator Control	The DSS improperly issued capitation overpayments on behalf of some participants, and issued potentially preventable capitation payments (not considered overpayments) on behalf of other participants. This occurred because of weaknesses in an "indicator" control (i.e., system flag) in the MEDES and the related manual tracking processes.
Out-State-Participants	The DSS improperly issued capitation payments on behalf of participants who were ineligible due to no longer residing in Missouri. Automatic and manual attempts to deactivate eligibility were not always successful due to MEDES control limitations.
Incarcerated Participants	The DSS is not performing effective incarceration matches, or the results are not always used effectively, to detect, discontinue, and recoup capitation payments issued on behalf of participants who are incarcerated.

Missouri State Auditor

Honorable Michael L. Parson, Governor
and
Jennifer Tidball, Acting Director
Department of Social Services
Jefferson City, Missouri

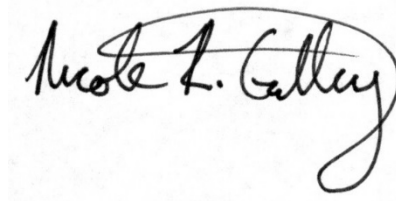

We have audited certain operations of the Department of Social Services, Medicaid Managed Care program. This audit was conducted in fulfillment of our duties under Chapter 29, RSMo. The objectives of our audit were to:

1. Evaluate the effectiveness of procedures for ensuring the reliability of submitted and reported managed care encounter data.
2. Evaluate the use and effectiveness of data management, monitoring, and analytic techniques for providing oversight of the program.
3. Evaluate compliance with certain legal provisions.
4. Evaluate the economy and efficiency of certain management practices and information system control activities.

We conducted our audit in accordance with the standards applicable to performance audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform our audit to obtain sufficient, appropriate evidence to provide a reasonable basis for our findings and conclusions based on our audit objectives. We believe that the evidence obtained provides such a basis.

For the areas audited, we identified (1) no significant deficiencies in procedures for ensuring the reliability of encounter data, (2) the need for improvement of data analytic techniques utilized by the department for overseeing the program, (3) noncompliance with state and federal laws, and (4) the need for improvement in management practices and information system control activities.

The accompanying Management Advisory Report presents our findings arising from our audit of the Medicaid Managed Care Program.

Medicaid Managed Care Program

Introduction

Background

The Medicaid program was created in 1965, under Title XIX of the Social Security Act, to provide health coverage to individuals with low income and/or disabilities. The Medicaid program, called MO HealthNet in Missouri, is jointly administered and funded by the federal government (Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services [CMS]) and state governments. In Missouri, the Department of Social Services (DSS) MO HealthNet Division (MHD) administers the Medicaid program, with the assistance of the Family Support Division (FSD) for participant eligibility determinations.

Missouri's Medicaid Managed Care (MC) program was established in September 1995. According to the CMS,¹ "Managed Care is a health care delivery system organized to manage cost, utilization, and quality. Medicaid managed care provides for the delivery of Medicaid health benefits and additional services through contracted arrangements between state Medicaid agencies and managed care organizations (MCOs) that accept a set per member per month (capitation) payment for these services."

Since May 2017, Missouri has contracted with three MCOs: Home State Health, Missouri Care, and UnitedHealthcare. The MCOs do not directly serve program participants, but act as health management organizations administering networks of providers, such as hospitals, doctors, and subcontractors. In Missouri, providers serve participants with doctor visits, hospital stays, emergency care, specialist referrals, behavioral health and substance/tobacco abuse services, and other services such as dental, eye care, medical equipment, and family planning.

The CMS also indicates,¹ "By contracting with various types of MCOs to deliver Medicaid program health care services to their beneficiaries, states can reduce Medicaid program costs and better manage utilization of health services. Improvement in health plan performance, health care quality, and outcomes are key objectives of Medicaid managed care." The state's collection, use, and submission of encounter data (records of services provided to MC program participants) are critical to achieving these objectives.

The MHD administers the Medicaid Management Information System (MMIS) to issue capitation payments to, and collect encounter data from, MCOs. The MMIS receives and relies on participant eligibility and enrollment data from other DSS systems to issue capitation payments and determine if received encounter data are valid. For the majority of MC program participants, eligibility data comes from the Missouri Eligibility Determination and Enrollment System (MEDES), which the FSD administers to activate, adjust, and deactivate participant eligibility. Therefore, coordination between the MHD and FSD through the MMIS and MEDES is crucial.

During the 3 state fiscal years ending June 30, 2019, the state's MC program covered approximately 1 million unique participants. The MMIS received records for approximately 21 million encounters (instances of services provided), and issued approximately $5.58 billion in MC benefits.

Medicaid Managed Care Program Introduction

Figures 1 and 2 show the average MC participant counts and total benefit issuances for each of the 5 state fiscal years ending June 30, 2019. In May 2017, the DSS completed a statewide MC program expansion that increased MCO coverage from 54 counties to all 114 counties in the state. During this expansion, individuals in uncovered counties who were participating in the existing Medicaid fee-for-service (FFS) program were generally moved to the MC program. Exceptions included individuals who either opted out, or were elderly (age 65 or older), blind or disabled. This change resulted in a significant increase in MC participants and benefits issued, which is reflected in state fiscal year 2018 data. In state fiscal year 2019, the state had an average of approximately 650,000 participants in the MC program, and issued approximately $2 billion in benefits.

Medicaid Managed Care Program Introduction

Eligibility and enrollment

Initial eligibility determinations and periodic redeterminations are regulated by complex factors that are beyond the scope of this audit. However, certain basic factors facilitate understanding the topics discussed in this report.

Upon applying for assistance, initial eligibility is determined individually for all members of a household, but considers factors such as family composition, income level, and insurance status. Federal law² requires the individual to be a Missouri resident and U.S. citizen or qualified alien. In addition, the individual must be within one of the following eligibility groups:

- MO HealthNet for Families
- MO HealthNet for Pregnant Women
- MO HealthNet for Kids
- Children's Health Insurance Program (CHIP)
- Children in care and custody of the state
- Children receiving adoption subsidy
- Individuals in the refugee assistance program (program ended May 2018)

Eligibility groups for the elderly (age 65 or older), blind and disabled are not listed above because such individuals receive Medicaid services under the FFS program instead of the MC program.

After an individual is determined to be eligible, he/she is formally enrolled with (assigned to) an MCO. This process generally begins both the participant's coverage under the MCO (and providers), as well as the capitation payments to the MCO.

Eligible participants are subject to annual redeterminations, in which the DSS reviews participants for changes in circumstances to continue, adjust, or deactivate eligibility. Participants are required to report changes in their circumstances that potentially affect eligibility (such as residency, income, employment, household composition, and other factors) to the DSS within 10 calendar days. However, as observed during audit reviews and explained by DSS personnel, participants do not always report, or timely report, such changes to the department.

Capitation payments

MC program benefit payments most frequently occur as capitation payments, or "per member per month" payments. As long as a participant remains both eligible and enrolled, the DSS automatically issues monthly capitation payments on his/her behalf. Capitation payments are issued to MCOs and never issued directly to the participants or providers.

² Section 42 USC Section 1396b(x) and 42 CFR Section 435.403.

Medicaid Managed Care Program Introduction

According to 42 CFR Section 438.2, "The State makes the [capitation] payment regardless of whether the particular beneficiary [participant] receives services during the period covered by the payment." For example, even if a participant does not receive services for a consecutive year, capitation payments will continue as long as the participant remains eligible and enrolled.

If services are provided, capitation payments are not reimbursements of the provider's service cost. According to the GAO,³ "...capitated payments generally reflect the average cost to provide covered services to enrollees, rather than a specific service. Federal law requires capitation rates to be actuarially sound, meaning that, among other things, they must be reasonably calculated for the populations expected to be covered and for the services expected to be furnished under contract."

The capitation payment amount issued on a participant's behalf depends on the person's age, eligibility group, income, county of residence, and the MCO. In general, capitation payments are approximately $200 to $400 per month for most children and adults, but typically exceed $1,000 per month for newborns (individuals younger than one year old). Participants eligible under CHIP may be required to pay monthly premiums. Capitation payments can be pro-rated, for example, if a participant is only eligible and enrolled for a portion of a given month.

The state's MC program costs are partially reimbursed by the federal government. During the 3 years ending June 30, 2019, the federal share was approximately 65 percent of MC program costs.

Encounter data

According to the GAO,⁴ "Encounter data are the primary record of services provided to beneficiaries in managed care, and these data are used for several critical purposes, including program oversight, expenditure forecasting, and policy analysis." The GAO also indicates "Reliable encounter data—which . . . we have defined to mean data that are complete, accurate, and submitted in a timely manner, as required by regulation—are central to CMS's and the states' abilities to effectively oversee the Medicaid managed care program."

Encounter data are continuously created and transmitted, beginning with providers and ultimately flowing to the federal government. Upon completing a service, a provider creates and sends encounter data to its associated MCO;

Medicaid Managed Care Program Introduction

each MCO sends data collected from all contracted providers to the DSS; and the DSS sends data collected from each MCO to the CMS.

Encounter data include detailed information for a given service, including basic concepts such as the participant, provider, and MCO involved in the service; the medical procedure completed; when the service occurred; and when the MCO submitted the data to the DSS.

A given service, once generated into encounter data, is also known as an "encounter claim." Despite this label, encounter data do not represent claims for payment, and do not result in the DSS reimbursing service costs to MCOs or providers. The DSS only issues capitation payments to MCOs.

MCO contracts indicate the department "collects and uses encounter data for many purposes such as federal reporting, rate setting and risk adjustment, payment indication of [newborn] delivery and NICU [neonatal intensive care unit] supplemental payments, services verification, managed care quality improvement activities, utilization patterns and access to care, hospital rate setting, and research studies."

Federal law⁵ requires states to conduct at least once every 3 years an independent audit of the accuracy, truthfulness, and completeness of the encounter and financial data submitted by MCOs. The department's first deadline for this audit is June 30, 2021.

Overpayments

Improper payments, including overpayments, may occur in the MC program. Under 42 CFR Section 431.958, improper payments are defined as "any payment that should not have been made or that was made in an incorrect amount (including overpayments and underpayments) under statutory, contractual, administrative, or other legally applicable requirements; and includes any payment to an ineligible beneficiary..."

If a participant's eligibility is not deactivated in the MEDES (or if enrollment is not deactivated through other systems) when appropriate, capitation payments will continue automatically (as overpayments) because the MMIS will not receive an update to discontinue such payments.

When overpayments begin, they can continue indefinitely without further DSS intervention. Among other system control factors, this depends on if the DSS sets the participant's eligibility and/or enrollment to remain active (1) for a definite period (for example, a specific deactivation date, such as one year in the future, was preemptively entered) or (2) indefinitely (MEDES and MMIS recognize the deactivation date as December 31, 9999). The practice of setting a participant's eligibility and/or enrollment to remain active indefinitely is not necessarily unusual. While some eligibility groups have pre-defined time limits that allow the DSS to preemptively set a definite deactivation date (for example, MO HealthNet for Pregnant Women participants have an initial 60-day limit for postpartum benefits), most do not.

Medicaid Managed Care Program Introduction

Overpayments can occur due to timing delays between when (1) a participant change in circumstance occurs; (2) the participant informs the DSS of the change, or when the DSS directly detects the change; and (3) the DSS acts on the change to deactivate the participant's eligibility and/or enrollment. For example, if a participant moved out-of-state on January 1, but capitation payments continued until the DSS detected the move on March 31, the participant becomes ineligible going forward, but the capitation payments issued during that 3-month period would be overpayments. Such timing delays are not unusual, and are not unique to the MC program.

However, overpayments can also occur due to significant MEDES control limitations that are unique to the MC program. When the MEDES was implemented in January 2014, control limitations prevented the DSS from activating, adjusting, and deactivating a participant's eligibility using standard processes intended by the system. In addition, the MEDES was designed to perform automatic redeterminations (annual reviews for changes in circumstances to continue, adjust, or deactivate a participant's eligibility). However, control limitations caused eligibility for some participants to be inappropriately deactivated either before a redetermination could occur, or as a result of the redetermination. To protect participant eligibility until development of MEDES updates, (1) automatic redeterminations were disabled until June 2018, and (2) all participants were put in a "blocked" state until October 2018 to further prevent eligibility deactivation. These actions significantly increased the number of manual redeterminations required of DSS personnel, and disabled controls that counteract risks associated with setting a participant's eligibility to remain active indefinitely (deactivation date of December 31, 9999). In addition, while automatic redeterminations were re-enabled in June 2018, the DSS has not performed an expected annual redetermination within MEDES for some current participants due to remaining MEDES control limitations or complexities arising from the DSS's long-term resolution efforts in the MEDES.⁶ We noted this problem in the state's single audit report for the year ended June 30, 2019.⁷

Medicaid Managed Care Program Introduction

The DSS has contractual authority to recoup overpayments from MCOs. If the DSS elects to recoup overpayments, the MCO repays the capitation payments (state and federal shares) to the DSS. The department repays the federal share to the CMS.

However, the DSS generally only recoups overpayments associated with deceased or incarcerated participants, because it is physically impossible for such participants to receive services. In contrast, the DSS will generally not recoup overpayments associated with ineligible participants in other scenarios because it is still physically possible for such participants to receive services and they were listed as eligible in the MEDES when the MCO checked eligibility. In such other scenarios, DSS officials indicated, "the health plan [MCO] has exercised their due diligence if they have checked [the participant's] eligibility prior to authorizing services, therefore it would be inappropriate to penalize them by recouping the capitated payment." Also, the "DSS does not recoup capitation payments from a participant when eligibility is granted due to an agency error."

Because the DSS only recoups capitation payments in limited situations, it is unlikely that overpayments identified in this report will be recovered (with the exception of MAR finding number 4 that concerns incarcerated participants). Overall, the overpayments identified emphasize the need for the DSS to prevent overpayments from occurring.

The MEDES has been periodically updated since January 2014 to resolve system weaknesses. While these updates improved functionality going forward (for new participants), given the nature of the MEDES control limitations and complexities arising from the DSS's long-term resolution efforts in the MEDES, the updates do not necessarily automatically correct all previously impacted participants. As a result, there remains a need for significant effort by the DSS to identify participants with active eligibility who are truly ineligible, and to deactivate their eligibility to discontinue overpayments.

Public health emergency and restrictions on deactivating eligibility

On January 31, 2020, the federal Department of Health and Human Services declared a public health emergency for COVID-19. On March 18, 2020, the Families First Coronavirus Response Act was signed into law.

The act temporarily increases the federal share of MC program costs. Specifically, it provides Missouri a 6.2 percent Federal Medical Assistance Percentage (FMAP) increase beginning January 1, 2020, for the MO HealthNet program. The state's FMAP percentage was approximately 66 percent prior to this act.⁸ The increased FMAP is available for qualifying expenditures incurred on or after that date and through the end of the quarter in which the public health emergency, including any extensions, ends.

To receive the temporary increase in federal share, among other requirements, states may not deactivate participants' eligibility from Medicaid if such participants were already enrolled (or become enrolled) during the emergency period. Limited exceptions only allow states to deactivate eligibility if the participant (1) voluntarily requests closure of his/her case, (2) is no longer a resident of the state, (3) becomes deceased, or (4) is a child eligible under CHIP who ages out when he/she turns age 19. While there is no exception for incarcerated participants, one is not specifically needed because the act does not supersede existing federal law prohibiting states from obtaining federal share reimbursements for benefits issued on behalf of incarcerated participants.

As discussed in the report's MAR findings, MEDES system control limitations and complexities arising from the DSS's long-term resolution efforts in the MEDES cause situations in which participants who are truly ineligible remain actively eligible, and therefore, their eligibility should be deactivated. However, if such situations do not meet an exception, the DSS cannot deactivate such participants' eligibility during the emergency period. As a result, any future overpayments set to continue for such participants cannot be immediately discontinued. This requires the DSS to continue identifying truly ineligible participants during the public emergency, to enable timely deactivation once the public emergency ends.

Scope and Methodology

The scope of our audit included evaluating (1) DSS management's procedures to ensure reliable MC encounter data, (2) DSS management's techniques to provide oversight of the program, (3) policies and procedures, and (4) other management functions and compliance requirements in place during the period July 2016 to June 2019. Due to MEDES system control limitations and complexities rising from the DSS's long-term resolution efforts in the MEDES, we also observed activity beyond June 2019 for further comprehension and to assess significance.

Our methodology included reviewing written policies and procedures, and interviewing various DSS personnel. We obtained an understanding of the applicable controls that are significant within the context of the audit

⁸ The FMAP is used as a base for the Enhanced FMAP (EFMAP) for the state's Children's Health Insurance Program (CHIP). CHIP represents one of the MC program's eligibility groups available to participants. Therefore, the increase in FMAP will also result in an increase in EFMAP, but not necessarily by 6.2 percent. The state's EFMAP rate was approximately 87 percent prior to this act. The state's FMAP and EFMAP collectively affect federal share coverage of MC program costs.

Medicaid Managed Care Program Introduction

objectives and assessed whether such controls have been properly designed and placed in operation. We tested certain of these controls to obtain evidence regarding the effectiveness of their design and operation. We also obtained an understanding of legal provisions that are significant within the context of the audit objectives, and we assessed the risk that illegal acts, including fraud, and violation of contract or other legal provisions could occur. Based on that risk assessment, we designed and performed procedures to provide reasonable assurance of detecting instances of noncompliance significant to those provisions.

We obtained data files of MC program participant records, capitation payments, and encounter data from the MMIS for the period July 2016 through June 2019 from the DSS. We also obtained data files of additional MC program participant records from the MEDES. Such data generally covered the same July 2016 through June 2019 period. However, because our requests were made after June 2019, and also because the MEDES could not generate snapshot (point-in-time) reports as of June 30, 2019, the data received also contained up-to-date (at the time of DSS fulfillment) information for periods beyond June 2019. Such information generally enhanced our ability to assess other details and analyze the flow of information from the MEDES to the MMIS. While the DSS owns MMIS and MEDES data, such data are collected and managed by separate contractors on the department's behalf. To determine the reliability of the MC program data, we evaluated the materiality of the data to our audit objectives and assessed the data by various means, including (1) interviewing knowledgeable DSS officials, (2) reviewing existing information about the data and the systems that produced them, (3) performing certain analytic techniques, and (4) reviewing internal controls. Based on this evaluation, we determined the data and information were sufficiently reliable for the purposes of the audit.

We obtained a listing of deaths recorded in the state for the period 1995 to 2018 from the Missouri Department of Health and Senior Services (DHSS). We matched these records to MC participant records to determine if any deceased participant cases continued to have capitation payments made on behalf of the participant after death.⁹ Although we used computer-processed data from the DHSS for our audit work, we did not rely on the results of any processes performed by the DHSS system in arriving at our conclusions. Our conclusions were based on our review of the issues specific to the audit objectives.

Medicaid Managed Care Program Introduction

We obtained a listing of individuals incarcerated by the state during the period July 2016 through June 2019 from the Missouri Department of Corrections (DOC). We matched those records to MC participant records to determine if incarcerated participant cases continued to have capitation payments made on behalf of the participants after incarceration. Although we used computer-processed data from the DOC for our audit work, we did not rely on the results of any processes performed by the DOC system in arriving at our conclusions. Our conclusions were based on our review of the issues specific to the audit objectives.

Medicaid Managed Care Program

Management Advisory Report

State Auditor's Findings

1. Eligibility Bypass

The Department of Social Services (DSS) improperly issued capitation payments on behalf of participants whose eligibility was previously activated (and remained active) in the Missouri Eligibility Determination and Enrollment System (MEDES) through a manual bypass process. This bypass state prevented MEDES controls from deactivating eligibility (and, in turn, the Medicaid Management Information System [MMIS] from discontinuing payments) when these participants later became ineligible. We identified 18,248 participants in a bypass state. For 23 of 45 participants we reviewed, actual and potential overpayments totaled $87,185 during the 3 years ended June 30, 2019, with an additional $44,211 through the 8 months ending February 28, 2020.

Bypass process

When the MEDES was implemented in January 2014, significant control limitations impeded the department's ability to properly administer participant eligibility. The DSS could not always activate, adjust, and deactivate participants' eligibility using standard processes intended by the system. According to DSS officials:

- MEDES functionality only allowed applications to be taken and did not allow changes in cases or annual reviews to be completed in the system. When implemented, MEDES accepted an initial application to create a household and associated participant eligibility, but it prevented future adjustments that could impact eligibility, such as adding or removing household members, or adjusting a participant's details following a change in circumstance. These limitations meant automatic annual redeterminations of participant eligibility could not be completed. MEDES updates resolved these limitations by August 22, 2016; however, automatic redeterminations remained disabled until June 2018.
- MEDES did not systematically approve newborn eligibility. Initially, newborns of women eligible for MO HealthNet (participants younger than 1 year old), who by federal law are automatically provided Medicaid eligibility, could not be directly added to their existing household to allow MEDES to activate their eligibility. MEDES updates resolved this limitation by December 2016.

Before the MEDES updates resolved these control limitations, the DSS established a bypass process as a labor-intensive workaround to manually activate, adjust, and deactivate eligibility. This process was necessary to activate and/or maintain the eligibility of applicants and participants meeting program requirements. Otherwise, such applicants and participants would have been at risk of being unable to obtain program services, because MEDES (and, in turn, providers) could not formally confirm their active eligibility.

The MEDES updates improved functionality going forward for new participants and households. However, these updates could not automatically correct the state of previously bypassed participants. While the department's need to continue bypass processes has declined considerably since 2016, some participants still remain in that state, with eligibility set to remain active indefinitely (deactivation date of December 31, 9999).

Medicaid Managed Care Program Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Participants who remain in a bypass state are not subject to MEDES controls, including the system's June 2018 update to complete automatic annual redeterminations. Because MEDES controls cannot deactivate such participants' eligibility, DSS personnel must use the same bypass process to manually deactivate the participant's eligibility. Therefore, these participants are generally at increased risk of improper capitation payments over time.

Review

We reviewed MEDES eligibility records generated around December 31, 2019, to identify participants who, at that time, remained in a bypass state because their eligibility was (1) previously activated manually via the bypass process during (or preceding) the 3 years ended June 30, 2019, and (2) set to remain active indefinitely. Participants meeting these conditions remain in a bypass state until manually removed by DSS personnel. We identified 18,248 participants in this state, for whom the DSS paid approximately $101 million in capitation payments during the 3 years ended June 30, 2019. These participants and payments do not all necessarily reflect ineligible participants or overpayments; it is possible for a participant's eligibility to remain valid despite being in a bypass state.

In a separate analysis, we also determined 1,633 of these 18,248 participants maintained MC program eligibility during the entire 3 year period ended June 30, 2019, but did not have any encounter claims reported during that time.¹⁰ There is no requirement for a participant to periodically obtain medical services, as a condition to maintain eligibility; however, not obtaining any medical services for an extended period of time may indicate a participant is no longer a state resident or some other situation that would question further program eligibility.

We reviewed 45 of the 18,248 participants. The DSS paid $337,734 in capitation payments associated with these participants during the 3 years ended June 30, 2019. When we began our review in late February 2020, capitation payments were still being issued on behalf of 44 of the 45 participants.

As shown in Table 2, our review found that actual and potential overpayments totaling $87,185 (approximately 26 percent of the $337,734) during the 3 years ended June 30, 2019, occurred for 23 of the 45 participants. In addition,

Further explanation of the information in Table 2 follows:

- Failed to close (10 of 23 participants): Review of the case information in MEDES for these participants indicated their eligibility was previously intended to be deactivated. Participants were known to be ineligible for various reasons, such as not responding to an annual review notice to redetermine eligibility, or because the department's attempts to mail communications to the participant were returned as unable to locate. DSS personnel attempted to deactivate eligibility; however, such attempts were unsuccessful due to the participant's bypass state.

- No redetermination (13 of 23 participants): Review of the case information in MEDES for these participants found nothing to indicate their eligibility was previously intended to be deactivated. However, the bypass state prevented an annual redetermination from occurring in MEDES at least once every 12 months as required, even after this control was reestablished in June 2018. The DSS may also complete redeterminations within other programs, and outside of the MEDES, to satisfy the participant's MC program redeterminations. However, none occurred for these participants.

Capitation payments listed for these participants are considered potential overpayments. To confirm if actual overpayments occurred for a given participant, the DSS must complete a current redetermination, and its outcome must find the participant is ineligible for the MC program. We requested DSS personnel perform current redeterminations for these participants; however, they could not complete them prior to completion of our audit.

When our review of this area was substantially completed, the DSS had not deactivated eligibility for 22 of 23 participants. Therefore, these 22 participants are at increased risk of continued actual and potential overpayments.

For the 22 of 45 participants reviewed but not listed in Table 2, we did not identify overpayments within the 3 years ending June 30, 2019. However, for 5 of the 22 participants, our review observed similar concerns after June 30, 2019: 2 participants' cases failed to close and 3 participants had late or outstanding redeterminations. This shows that participants remaining in the bypass state is an ongoing problem.

We provided the DSS with the list of all 18,248 participants identified. While we only formally reviewed 45 participants, we analyzed the remaining 18,203 participants. Of these, 17,634 appear at greatest risk of continued actual and potential overpayments, and need further investigation. Capitation payments for the full month of June 2019 were issued on behalf of all 17,634 participants, and nearly all were still actively eligible as of January 2020.

Under 42 CFR Section 431.958, improper payments are defined as "any payment that should not have been made or that was made in an incorrect amount (including overpayments and underpayments) under statutory, contractual, administrative, or other legally applicable requirements; and includes any payment to an ineligible beneficiary..." 42 CFR Section

Medicaid Managed Care Program Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

435.916(a) requires a redetermination of eligibility once every 12 months, or when criteria affecting a participant's eligibility changes.

Without effective controls to identify and discontinue capitation payments issued on behalf of ineligible participants who remain in a bypass state, the DSS is at increased risk of making actual and potential overpayments.

The DSS may be unable to deactivate eligibility when applicable for participants reported to the department in this finding until after the public health emergency ends, to remain compliant with the requirements for the temporary increase in the federal share of Medicaid program costs.

Recommendation

The DSS continue resolving MEDES control limitations as applicable, to prevent issuing capitation payments on behalf of ineligible participants who remain in a bypass state. In addition, the DSS should perform redeterminations on the 13 identified participants without a current redetermination and deactivate eligibility (as soon as possible, permitting the public health emergency) for applicable participants and the other 9 participants whose cases did not close properly. Also, the DSS should review the provided participant listing to determine if further action is needed.

Auditee's Response

The Missouri Eligibility Determination and Enrollment System (MEDES) development began in calendar year 2013 and was implemented in January 2014. Due to development issues, the bypass process was necessary to activate and/or maintain the eligibility of applicants and participants meeting program requirements. In 2018 the DSS completed the functionality for MO HealthNet MAGI processes in MEDES. Since the final functionality to complete systemic annual reviews was implemented in June 2018, the DSS has continued resolving MEDES control limitations for participants in a bypass state during the period under review, July 1, 2016 through June 30, 2019. The DSS has continued to move the individuals with manual eligibility determinations into MEDES and complete eligibility reviews. After the MEDES eligibility review, the DSS ends eligibility if the individual is determined ineligible. This audit confirms that the DSS' action to implement annual renewals in 2018 and 2019 to verify continued eligibility was the correct action.

Additionally, the DSS is reviewing the provided participant listing to determine if further action is needed.

Auditor's Comment

The audit shows many cases in bypass status have not been reviewed or resolved timely. It is not clear why the department mentions actions taken to implement annual reviews in 2018 as noteworthy when such annual reviews have been a federal requirement for many years. For any cases in which the participant is no longer eligible, each additional monthly capitation payment results in unnecessary costs to the state and federal government.

Medicaid Managed Care Program Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

2. Indicator Control

The DSS improperly issued capitation overpayments on behalf of some participants, and issued potentially preventable capitation payments (not considered overpayments) on behalf of other participants. This occurred because of weaknesses in an "indicator" control in the MEDES and the related manual tracking processes. For all participants reporting a disability, if MEDES attempts to deactivate MC program eligibility for any reason, the indicator triggers and instead maintains the participant's eligibility indefinitely. The indicator's intended purpose is to allow the DSS to maintain eligibility for some participants, as legally required, until department personnel can manually review whether the participant is eligible for the separate MO HealthNet Aged, Blind and Disabled (MHABD) program. However, the indicator can trigger unnecessarily (i.e., when a participant's circumstances make MHABD program eligibility impossible). In addition, DSS personnel did not always effectively track all triggered indicators to ensure timely completion of the review. This weakness allowed overpayments and potentially preventable capitation payments to continue for extended periods.

We identified 2,810 participants with outstanding triggered indicators. Our review of 20 participants identified concerns with 17. We separated the results into two groups.

- In Group 1, covering 10 participants reviewed, overpayments occurred because the indicator triggered unnecessarily. Overpayments totaled $45,431 during the 3 years ended June 30, 2019, with an additional $25,038 through the 9 months ending March 31, 2020.
- In Group 2, covering 7 participants reviewed, overpayments did not occur because the indicator triggered appropriately, and the DSS was required to maintain MC program eligibility until its review for MHABD program eligibility was complete. However, for 6 of the 7 participants, MC program eligibility continued for 12 to 30 months after the indicator triggered. More timely resolution of the review may have made some of the capitation costs preventable.

Indicator overview

The MEDES indicator control (essentially a flag) is only associated with participants who receive benefits from the Supplemental Security Income (SSI; assistance to the aged, blind and disabled) or Social Security Disability Insurance (SSDI) programs, and/or report a disability. It maintains the participant's MC program eligibility, as required by federal law,¹¹ until DSS

¹¹ When an individual is found ineligible for one MO HealthNet category, the department explores eligibility for other MO HealthNet programs prior to ending the individual's current eligibility because 42 CFR 435.909 mandates that Medicaid agencies not require a separate application if an individual receives certain other benefits.

Medicaid Managed Care Program Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

eligibility specialists (ESs) complete a review to determine if the participant is eligible for the state's separate MHABD program.

For such participants, when the MEDES attempts to deactivate eligibility for any reason, the indicator automatically triggers. Once triggered, the participant's eligibility remains active indefinitely (superseding any deactivation attempt), and capitation payments continue indefinitely, until the indicator is manually terminated or the participant's enrollment with an MCO ends.

Because the indicator triggers when MEDES attempts to deactivate eligibility for any reason, we observed the system cannot distinguish between situations that suggest possibility of MHABD eligibility (for example, an update shows income now exceeds a set MC program threshold) from those that do not (for example, the participant is deceased, incarcerated, cannot be located, no longer resides in the state, or did not respond to annual redetermination notices). In the latter case, to prevent overpayments, we also determined it is more efficient for the indicator to not trigger, since standard MEDES controls would deactivate eligibility more promptly.

Regardless of whether the indicator triggers unnecessarily or appropriately, all triggered indicators are intended to be manually tracked, then queued for ES review. The participant's indicator is not terminated (and MC program eligibility is not deactivated) until the review is complete. According to DSS officials, payments to MCOs for the participants are not considered overpayments for the period between when the indicator triggers, and when the ES review is completed.

DSS officials explained that reviews generally take 3 months to complete, but can take significantly longer. The time needed to complete each review varies by participant: "Application processing time for MHABD cases for individuals receiving SSI or SSDI is 45 days," but "When an individual claims a disability and does not receive SSI or SSDI, a Medical Review Team (MRT) determination is necessary to complete the MHABD determination. An MRT determination often takes a minimum of 90 days, but can take a significantly longer time due to needing a disability exam and waiting on medical records from providers." MRT determinations are further impacted by provider cooperation and medical record clarity.

Upon completing the review, the ES terminates the indicator, and MC program eligibility deactivates. Alternatively, if the review finds the participant should remain eligible in the MC program (for example, because the MEDES incorrectly attempted to deactivate eligibility), the ES terminates the indicator but takes additional action to reactivate or maintain eligibility. If a review is not completed, then the indicator remains triggered.

Medicaid Managed Care Program Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Indicator tracking

The DSS relies on a manual tracking process to ensure all participants with a triggered indicator are queued for ES review. However, per discussions with DSS officials, the following factors reflect difficulties in successfully tracking all necessary reviews. These weaknesses increase the risk that the indicator will remain triggered without ES review:

- While MC program eligibility is administered in the MEDES, MHABD program eligibility is administered using a separate system. The use of two systems requires DSS personnel to manually track the indicators outside of the systems.
- In November 2018, the DSS implemented an external site/queue to track triggered indicators requiring ES review. Indicators triggered prior to this month were generally subject to weaker tracking procedures, in part due to overall MEDES system control limitations. Indicators triggered during or after November 2018 are generally subject to stronger tracking procedures, but continue to require manual effort.
- When the indicator triggers, the MEDES does not automatically create a notification (either internal or external to the MEDES) alerting an ES of the event. Instead, an ES must manually add a task in the external site/queue, to consider the indicator successfully tracked.
- If the indicator triggers because eligibility is deactivated by automatic MEDES controls (without ES action or presence), it is unlikely any ESs will become aware of the indicator, and subsequently the need to manually add a task in the external site/queue.
- Alternatively, if the indicator triggers because eligibility is deactivated by manual ES action, there remains risk the ES will not see the indicator trigger, and subsequently will not realize the need to manually add a task in the external site/queue. This problem is due to the time period between (1) when MEDES first recognizes intent to deactivate eligibility (the ES is present), and (2) when MEDES actually attempts to deactivate eligibility (the ES may not be present). In most situations, when the MEDES first recognizes intent to deactivate eligibility, state and federal law requires the DSS to notify the participant 10 business days before the deactivation may truly occur. This period allows the participant a chance to request an administrative hearing to continue eligibility. When that period expires, if no request is received, the MEDES will attempt to deactivate eligibility (and, subsequently, trigger the indicator). By this time, it is unlikely the ES will return to add a task in the external site/queue.
- During the 3 years ending June 30, 2019 (and after), the DSS ran a daily report regarding disabled participants. However, it was not designed to identify participants losing MC program eligibility. Therefore, it would not necessarily help department personnel identify indicators that triggered, but were not tracked in the external site/queue. To evaluate further, we requested and received records directly from MEDES for outstanding indicators. DSS officials explained they have begun using the data we requested to enhance tracking efforts going forward.

Medicaid Managed Care Program Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Review

We reviewed MEDES records generated around January 28, 2020, of participants who (1) had at least one indicator trigger during the 3 years ended June 30, 2019, and (2) the indicator(s) had not been terminated (meaning an ES review either had not been performed or had not been completed). We identified 2,810 such participants for whom the DSS paid approximately $10.47 million in capitation payments during the 3 years ended June 30, 2019, after the indicator triggered.

We reviewed 20 of the 2,810 participants. The DSS paid $101,057 in capitation payments associated with these participants during the 3 years ended June 30, 2019, after their indicator triggered. When we began our review in late March 2020, capitation payments were still being issued on behalf of 16 of 20 participants.

Our review of the 20 participants identified concerns with 17, between two groups, both reflecting weaknesses in tracking processes. Group 1 concerns 10 participants for which overpayments occurred because the indicator triggered unnecessarily. Group 2 concerns 7 participants for which overpayments did not occur, and it was appropriate for the indicator to trigger; but because the DSS review took or was taking a significant amount of time it is likely some of these capitation payments could have been prevented.

Group 1: Indicator trigger was unnecessary For the 10 participants in this group, the indicator triggered unnecessarily. The participants' eligibility circumstances supported prompt deactivation of eligibility, without need for an ES review.

As shown in Table 3, our review found that overpayments totaling $45,431 (approximately 45 percent of the $101,057) during the 3 years ended June 30, 2019, occurred for the 10 participants. In addition, overpayments totaling $25,038 during the 9 months ended March 31, 2020, continued to occur for 9 of 10 participants.

Further explanations of the information in Table 3 (specifically, the events causing an attempted deactivation of the participant's eligibility) follow:

- Non-response (3 of 10 participants): The participant or the head of household did not respond to an annual review notice to redetermine eligibility.
- Unable to locate (4 of 10 participants): A DSS attempt to mail communication to the participant was returned as unable to locate. In these situations, federal law and DSS policy allow immediate deactivation of the participant's eligibility if no other address or contact information can be found.
- Left household (1 of 10 participants): The participant moved out of the household.
- Voluntary close (1 of 10 participants): The participant contacted the DSS to voluntarily close his/her case.
- Other (1 of 10 participants): The participant's indicator was triggered for not being pregnant when applying for MO Pregnant Women coverage and non-compliance with Child Support Enforcement.

When our review of this area was substantially completed, the DSS had not deactivated eligibility for 9 of the 10 participants. Therefore, these participants are at increased risk of continued overpayments. In MAR findings number 3 and 4, we also observed the indicator trigger unnecessarily and caused overpayments for participants in our out-of-state residency and incarceration test work.

Medicaid Managed Care Program Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

DSS officials previously identified problems with the indicator control, including triggering in unnecessary situations, and created a request with its vendor in January 2017 to resolve these issues. However, the underlying cause of the problem has not been resolved and department officials indicated efforts remain in progress.

Group 2: Indicator trigger was appropriate For the 7 participants in this group, it was appropriate for the indicator to trigger. Overpayments did not occur because the DSS was required to maintain MC eligibility until its review for MHABD eligibility was complete. For 6 of 7 participants, as shown in Table 4, payments continued for 12 to 30 months after the indicator triggered. This length of time may indicate untimely reviews due to control weaknesses previously mentioned. Table 4 also includes the capitation payments issued on behalf of the participants after their respective indicators triggered. It is likely some of these capitation payments were preventable. However, we cannot calculate a specific amount because the time required to complete a given review varies by participant.

Further explanations of the information in Table 4 (specifically, the events causing an attempted deactivation of the participant's eligibility) follow:

- Excessive income (5 of 7 participants): The participant or the head of household had income exceeding established eligibility thresholds.

Medicaid Managed Care Program Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

- No dependents (2 of 7 participants): The participant was the head of household, but his/her child or children left or were removed from the household, leaving the participant without dependents. The presence of dependents was necessary for the participant's own continued eligibility.

When our review of this area was substantially completed, the DSS had not deactivated eligibility for 4 of 7 participants. Therefore, these 4 participants are at increased risk of (potentially preventable) continued capitation payments.

Conclusions

We provided the DSS with a listing of all 2,810 participants with outstanding triggers indicated. While we only formally reviewed 20 participants, we could not further split the remaining 2,790 participants between Group 1 and Group 2. This distinction requires a review of each participant's case to understand why the indicator triggered, and whether it was unnecessary or appropriate. DSS officials could not provide an estimated percent of participants who historically, as a result of the indicator trigger and review, were determined eligible for the MHABD program.

However, from our analysis of the 2,790 remaining participants, 2,440 appear at greatest risk of continued concern (and potential overpayments), and should be further investigated. Capitation payments for the full month of June 2019 were issued on behalf of all 2,440 participants, and nearly all were still actively eligible as of January 2020.

DSS officials indicated they believe that for the majority of the 2,790 remaining participants, the indicators triggered when the tracking procedures were weaker, prior to the November 2018 implementation of an external site/queue. While tracking issues continued after November 2018, this conclusion is generally supported by Table 5, which lists the number of outstanding triggers, and their days/months outstanding since June 30, 2019, for such participants.

Medicaid Managed Care Program Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Under 42 CFR Section 431.958, improper payments are defined as "any payment that should not have been made or that was made in an incorrect amount (including overpayments and underpayments) under statutory, contractual, administrative, or other legally applicable requirements; and includes any payment to an ineligible beneficiary..."

Without the ability for MEDES to avoid triggering indicators in unnecessary situations, and without effective controls to track and review (or timely review) participants with triggered indicators, the DSS is at increased risk of making overpayments, or otherwise potentially preventable capitation payments.

The DSS may be unable to deactivate eligibility when applicable for participants reported to the department in this finding until after the public health emergency ends, to remain compliant for the temporary increase in the federal share of Medicaid program costs.

Recommendation

The DSS continue working with its system vendor to prevent the indicator from triggering unnecessarily; improve processes to ensure all participants with triggered indicators are successfully tracked and reviewed timely; and deactivate eligibility (as soon as possible, permitting the public health emergency) for all 9 participants in Group 1, and the 4 identified participants in Group 2, if applicable. In addition, the DSS should review the provided participant listing to determine if further action is needed.

Auditee's Response

The DSS continues to work with the MEDES vendor to prevent the indicator from triggering unnecessarily. Additionally, the DSS is working with the MEDES vendor to implement systematic tracking of individuals with triggered indicators to ensure all participants are tracked and reviewed timely. These processes are expected to be complete by June 2021. The DSS will take action to deactivate eligibility for the 9 identified participants in Group 1 when the public health emergency expires. The DSS will review the 4 identified participants in Group 2 for necessary action and if appropriate, the DSS will deactivate eligibility when the public health emergency expires. The DSS is also reviewing the provided participant listing to complete reviews and determine if further action is needed.

3. Out-of-State Participants

The DSS improperly issued capitation payments on behalf of participants who were ineligible due to no longer residing in Missouri. Automatic and manual attempts to deactivate eligibility were not always successful due to MEDES control limitations. We identified 2,615 participants with out-of-state home addresses. For 34 of 35 participants reviewed, overpayments totaled $133,107 during the 3 years ended June 30, 2019, with an additional $17,227 through the 8 months ended February 2020.

Medicaid Managed Care Program Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

We reviewed MEDES address records generated around December 31, 2019 (and later additional records generated around May 18, 2020), to identify participants whose home address was outside of Missouri during the 3 years ended June 30, 2019. We identified 2,615 participants, for whom the DSS paid approximately $6.56 million in capitation payments during their out-of-state periods (within the 3 years ended June 30, 2019).

We reviewed 35 of the 2,615 participants. The DSS paid $139,174 in capitation payments associated with these participants during their out-of-state periods (within the 3 years ended June 30, 2019). As of mid-February 2020, shortly after our review began, capitation payments had been discontinued for all 35 participants.

As shown in Table 6, our review found overpayments totaling $133,107 (approximately 96 percent of the $139,174) during the 3 years ended June 30, 2019, occurred for 34 of 35 participations. In addition, overpayments totaling $17,227 during the 8 months ended February 28, 2020, continued to occur for 11 of 34 participants, before their eligibility was deactivated.

Medicaid Managed Care Program Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Further explanations of the information in Table 6 follow:

- Indicator (13 of 34 participants): When the DSS added the participant's out-of-state home address in MEDES, the system automatically attempted to deactivate the participant's eligibility. However, as described in MAR finding number 2, because the participant received SSI or SSDI and/or reported a disability, MEDES also automatically triggered the indicator control. Therefore, eligibility remained active. None of these participants overlap with those reviewed in MAR finding number 2.
- Newborn (9 of 34 participants): The participant is a newborn (younger than 1 year old). According to DSS officials, "Currently, MEDES determines [activates] eligibility for newborns for one full year of eligibility and does not take into consideration whether the individual is a Missouri resident or not. This has previously been identified as an issue and there is an open ticket [vendor request] to modify MEDES functionality to take action to close newborns if they move out-of-state." The correction remains in progress. Overpayments involving newborn participants are often significant, because the capitation rates for newborns are higher than rates for most other participants. The monthly rates paid for the 9 participants tested in detail ranged from $701 to $1,262 during the audit period.
- Blocked (11 of 34 participants): The participant was in a "blocked" state that generally prevented automatic eligibility deactivation attempts from being effective. Previously, all MEDES participants were forced into a blocked state in the DSS's long-term efforts to prevent MEDES from automatically deactivating eligibility in an unintended manner. However, this state created additional complexities that required a greater degree of DSS manual action to deactivate eligibility when necessary. DSS personnel manually unblocked individual participants on an as-needed basis until October 2018, when they unblocked all remaining participants.
- Policy error (1 of 34 participants): The participant was moving out-of-state and called the DSS to deactivate his/her eligibility. DSS personnel set the participant's eligibility to deactivate immediately (as opposed to after 10 business days had passed). Federal law and DSS policy only allow this method when the participant makes the request in writing. DSS personnel identified the error and reactivated/re-deactivated eligibility to return to compliance. Overpayments occurred because the second deactivation was not timely.

We provided the DSS with the list of all 2,615 participants identified. While we only formally reviewed 35 participants, we analyzed the remaining 2,580 participants. Of these, 642 are at greatest risk of continued overpayments (MEDES address records indicate the participant remains out-of-state), and should be further investigated. Capitation payments for the full month of June 2019 were issued on behalf of all 642 participants, and all were still actively eligible as of January 2020. The DSS is allowed to deactivate eligibility for all applicable participants before the public health emergency ends, using the exception for non-residents, and remain compliant for the temporary increase in federal share of Medicaid program costs.

According to 42 CFR 435.403, state agencies must only provide Medicaid to eligible residents of the state. According to DSS officials, "the requirement is only that the individual states they are a resident of the state and intend to remain, even without a fixed address;" however, "having a home address located within the state of Missouri is what the DSS uses to support residency requirements." These home address records were used in our review. Furthermore, DSS policy states "when FSD discovers an individual or household has moved out of state, action must be taken to close the MO HealthNet eligibility."

Without effective controls to identify and discontinue capitation payments issued on behalf of participants who no longer reside in Missouri, the DSS is at increased risk of making overpayments.

Recommendation

The DSS improve efforts to timely and successfully deactivate eligibility, and continue resolving MEDES control limitations as applicable, to prevent issuing capitation payments on behalf of participants no longer residing in Missouri. In addition, the DSS should review the provided participant listing to determine if further action is needed.

Auditee's Response

The DSS is in the process of implementing the Program Participation Analyzer, which is a clearinghouse that ensures duplicate participation does not occur across state lines. This is expected to be implemented in December 2020. The DSS continues to work with the MEDES vendor to resolve MEDES control limitations to deactivate eligibility for participants no longer residing in Missouri. Additionally, the DSS is reviewing the provided participant listing to determine if further action is needed. The implementation of annual renewals in 2018 assisted in addressing this issue.

4. Incarcerated Participants

The DSS is not performing effective incarceration matches, or the results are not always used effectively, to detect, discontinue, and recoup capitation payments issued on behalf of participants who are incarcerated. We identified 515 incarcerated participants potentially missed in the department's match processes. For the 10 participants reviewed, overpayments totaled $73,620 during the 3 years ended June 30, 2019, with an additional $16,117 during the 7 months ended January 2020. As of July 2020, the DSS had recouped the majority of the overpayments.

Medicaid Managed Care Program Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

The DSS uses Missouri Department of Corrections (DOC) data to create monthly reports to identify recently incarcerated MC program participants. Matches detected in these reports do not automatically result in deactivation of a given participant's eligibility. Instead, DSS ESs manually review each match, and potentially confirm information with the DOC, to verify the match results before proceeding.

We compared records of capitation payments to records of individuals who were in the custody of the DOC. We identified 515 participants who were incarcerated during a portion of the 3 years ended June 30, 2019. The DSS paid approximately $1.65 million in capitation payments associated with these participants during their periods of incarceration (within the 3 years ended June 30, 2019).

We reviewed 10 of the 515 participants. We obtained copies of the DSS's July 2017 and January 2019 match reports. None of the 10 participants we selected are listed in these reports, despite several remaining incarcerated during at least one of those months. According to DSS officials, the report is generated using the incarceration month and is not an accumulative report of all incarcerated individuals. Instead, if a match is identified, that initial identification is the only time the participant will appear in a report. Further review of the two reports confirmed that almost all of the participants the DSS detected were newly incarcerated in the month immediately preceding each report (June 2017 or December 2018). None of the 10 participants we reviewed began their incarceration in these months.

The DSS paid $73,620 in capitation payments associated with these participants during their incarceration periods (within the 3 years ended June 30, 2019). As shown in Table 7, our review found the entire amount represented overpayments. When we began our review in mid-October 2019, capitation payments were still being issued on behalf of 9 of 10 participants. Overpayments totaling $16,117 during the 7 months ended January 31 2020, continued to occur for each of them.

Further explanations of the information in Table 7 follow:

- Not detected (5 of 10 participants): Prior to our review, the DSS did not detect the participant's incarceration. Among other reasons, DSS reports may fail to detect participants if key data between the DSS and DOC, such as the participant's Social Security number (SSN), disagree. However, our comparisons of key data between the DSS and DOC found the SSN always agreed, and names either agreed or were strong matches.
- Bypass (2 of 10 participants): The participant's bypass state, as described in MAR finding number 1, caused the participant to not be subject to MEDES controls. Therefore, eligibility remained active despite DSS attempts to deactivate eligibility. Neither of these 2 participants overlap with those reviewed in MAR finding number 1.
- Indicator (3 of 10 participants): The system automatically attempted to deactivate the participant's eligibility (potentially for reasons unrelated to incarceration). However, as described in MAR finding number 2, because the participant received SSI or SSDI and/or reported a disability, MEDES also automatically triggered the indicator control. Therefore, eligibility remained active. None of these 3 participants overlap with those reviewed in the other MAR findings.

By mid-October 2019 (when our review of this area was substantially completed), the DSS had not deactivated eligibility for 9 of 10 participants. The DSS deactivated eligibility for all 9 participants by February 2020, recouped $73,718 (82 percent) of overpayments listed in Table 7 by August 2020, and indicated an additional $13,687 (15 percent) would be recouped by early October 2020. The DSS cannot recoup the remaining $2,332 (3 percent), for the 7 months preceding May 2017, for Participant 03. These overpayments were issued to a previous MCO whose contract ended prior to the May 2017 statewide MC program expansion. The state will still be responsible for repaying the federal share for all of the amount overpaid including the portion not recouped.

We provided the DSS with a list of all 515 participants identified. While we only formally reviewed 10 participants, we analyzed the remaining 505 participants. Of these:

- 18 participants appear at greatest risk of continued overpayments, and should be further investigated. Capitation payments for the full month of June 2019 were issued on behalf of all 18 participants, and nearly all were still actively eligible as of January 2020.
- 487 participants are of reduced (or no) risk of continued overpayments, because prior to June 2019, their eligibility was deactivated and/or they were released from incarceration. However, department personnel need to investigate these participants for recoupment, because overpayments occurred during the 3 years ended June 30, 2019.

Federal law does not explicitly deem incarcerated participants to be ineligible. However, under 42 USC Section 1396d(a)(30)(A), 42 CFR Section 435.1009(a)(1), and 42 CFR Section 435.1010, federal law prohibits states from obtaining federal Medicaid matching funds for health care services provided to inmates of public institutions, such as state prisons and local jails. These laws remain in effect and are not superseded by the Families First Coronavirus Response Act's limitations to deactivate participant eligibility.

According to DSS officials, for cases in which the participant is incarcerated, there is no physical way to provide the service, so enrollment can be retroactively ended. Enrollment is ended on the day before the date of incarceration for incarcerated individuals. Procedures to deactivate eligibility were in effect until August 28, 2019, when Sections 217.930 and 221.125, RSMo, began requiring the DSS to suspend eligibility. The change from deactivating to suspending eligibility has substantially the same effect of discontinuing capitation payments. Suspension expedites the potential reactivation of eligibility for incarcerated participants that meet certain exceptions (need medical attention that requires their release for a minimum of 24 hours); but such services are reimbursed under the fee-for-service model, instead of the capitation payment model.

Without effective controls to detect, discontinue, and/or recoup capitation payments issued to MCOs on behalf of participants who are incarcerated, the DSS is at increased risk of allowing overpayments to continue.

Medicaid Managed Care Program
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Recommendation

The DSS improve incarceration match processes and procedures, and continue resolving MEDES issues as applicable, to prevent the issuance of capitation payments on behalf of incarcerated participants. In addition, the DSS should review the provided participant listing for further action, including deactivation of eligibility, recoupment of overpayments, and repayment of federal shares.

Auditee's Response

The DSS is working to improve incarceration match processes and procedures.

As noted in the Management Advisory Report, effective August 28, 2019, Sections 217.930 and 221.125, RSMo, require the DSS to suspend MO HealthNet coverage for incarcerated individuals, rather than deactivate eligibility. While the DSS acknowledges that the change from deactivating to suspending eligibility has essentially the same effect of discontinuing capitation payments, the statutory change has required a change in incarceration match processes. These statutory changes require the Department of Corrections (DOC), county, city, and private jails to inform the DSS when an individual receiving MO HealthNet becomes incarcerated. The DSS is working with DOC, county, city, and private jails to develop reports and processes to receive accurate and timely notice of incarcerated individuals requiring suspension and reactivation of MO HealthNet coverage.

Additionally, the DSS has reviewed the provided participant listing and completed the necessary actions to discontinue capitation payments.

NICOLE GALLOWAY, CPA

Missouri State Auditor

To the Honorable Mayor
and
Members of the Board of Aldermen
City of Edgar Springs, Missouri

The State Auditor was petitioned under Section 29.230, RSMo, to audit the City of Edgar Springs. We have audited certain operations of the city in fulfillment of our duties. The scope of our audit included, but was not necessarily limited to, the year ended December 31, 2019. The objectives of our audit were to:

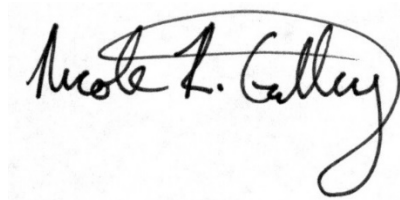

1. Evaluate the city's internal controls over significant management and financial functions.
2. Evaluate the city's compliance with certain legal provisions.
3. Evaluate the economy and efficiency of certain management practices and procedures, including certain financial transactions.

Our methodology included reviewing minutes of meetings, written policies and procedures, financial records, and other pertinent documents; interviewing various personnel of the city, as well as certain external parties; and testing selected transactions. We obtained an understanding of internal control that is significant to the audit objectives and assessed the design and implementation of such internal control to the extent necessary to address our audit objectives. We also obtained an understanding of legal provisions that are significant within the context of the audit objectives, and we assessed the risk that illegal acts, including fraud, and violations of applicable contract, grant agreement, or other legal provisions could occur. Based on that risk assessment, we designed and performed procedures to provide reasonable assurance of detecting instances of noncompliance significant to those provisions.

We conducted our audit in accordance with the standards applicable to performance audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform our audit to obtain sufficient, appropriate evidence to provide a reasonable basis for our findings and conclusions based on our audit objectives. We believe that the evidence obtained provides such a basis.

The accompanying Organization and Statistical Information is presented for informational purposes. This information was obtained from the city's management and was not subjected to the procedures applied in our audit of the city.

For the areas audited, we identified (1) deficiencies in internal controls, (2) noncompliance with legal provisions, and (3) the need for improvement in management practices and procedures. The accompanying Management Advisory Report presents our findings arising from our audit of the City of Edgar Springs.

City of Edgar Springs

Management Advisory Report

State Auditor's Findings

1. Budgets and Financial Reporting

City officials did not prepare complete annual budgets in accordance with state law or monitor budgets appropriately. They also did not prepare and publish complete and accurate financial statements, maintain accurate accounting records, file adequate financial reports timely, or obtain required audits for the city's sewer system.

1.1 Budgets

City officials do not have adequate procedures to prepare or monitor budgets.

The budgets prepared for the years ended December 31, 2019, and December 31, 2020, did not contain all statutorily-required elements. The budgets did not include the actual or budgeted amounts for the 2 preceding years or the city's indebtedness information. In addition, the budgets did not include the actual beginning and estimated ending cash balance for any funds, the estimated revenues and expenditures for each fund, a budget message, or a budget summary. In addition, the Board does not adequately monitor budget-to-actual receipts and disbursements because year-to-date budget-to-actual reports of financial activity are not presented to the Board. As a result, the Board is not using all available information to assist in effectively managing the city, and the public is not provided a complete overview of the city finances.

Section 67.010, RSMo, requires the budget to present a complete financial plan for the ensuing budget year and outlines the various information to be included in the budget. A complete budget should include the beginning available resources and a reasonable estimate of the ending available resources. Section 67.080, RSMo, provides that no expenditures of public monies should be made unless it is authorized in the budget. A complete and well-planned budget, in addition to meeting statutory requirements, serves as a useful management tool by establishing specific financial expectations for each area of city operations. It also assists in providing information to the public about city operations and current finances and in setting the tax levy and utility rates. Proper monitoring is necessary for the budget to be an effective management tool and to comply with state law.

1.2 Financial statements and accounting records

City officials did not prepare and maintain accurate financial statements and accounting records.

Financial statements

The city's financial statements did not accurately reflect the financial activity of the city. The total beginning balance of $19,698 for all funds on the January 2019 monthly financial statement did not agree to the total ending balance of $4,945 for all funds on the financial statement submitted to the State Auditor's Office (SAO) for the year ended December 31, 2018. It also did not agree to the total ending balance of $12,073 for all funds on the semiannual financial statement published for the six months ended December 31, 2018. In addition, city officials do not agree reconciled bank account balances to the ending fund balances on the monthly financial statements. Reconciled bank account balances totaled $32,921 at December 31, 2019, while the ending fund balances on the December 2019 financial statement totaled $25,532, resulting in a difference of $7,389.

Accounting records

The city did not maintain accurate accounting records, resulting in errors on monthly financial statements. We noted untimely transfers, transfers classified as receipts, and unrecorded disbursements. City officials typically make sewer disbursements from the General Operations Fund bank account and later transfer monies from the Sewer (Wastewater Treatment) bank account to reimburse the General Operations Fund bank account; however, these transfers are not made during the month of the related disbursements. As a result, cash balances do not agree to fund balances. For example, sewer disbursements totaling $6,351 incurred in November and December 2018, were recorded as Sewer Fund disbursements, but were paid from the General Operations Fund bank account. These monies were not transferred from the Wastewater Treatment bank account to the General Operations Fund bank account until February 2019, and were improperly classified as receipts in the General Fund on the February 2019 financial statement. We also noted check number 1005 for $1,161 issued February 11, 2019, from the Wastewater Treatment bank account was omitted from the listing of monthly disbursements for each fund. As a result, it was not included in the Sewer Fund disbursements on the February 2019 financial statement. Because accounting records are used to prepare and verify the financial statements, it is important transactions are accurately and timely recorded.

To be of maximum assistance to the Board and to adequately inform the public, the city's financial statements and accounting records should accurately report financial activity and account balances. Monthly comparisons of reconciled bank account balances to ending fund balances on the financial statements help ensure transactions have been properly recorded, and increase the likelihood errors will be identified and corrected timely. Inaccurately recorded financial information makes it more difficult to detect loss, theft, or misuse of funds.

1.3 Published financial statements

City officials did not publish complete and accurate financial statements as required by state law. The 2 semiannual financial statements published for the year ended December 31, 2019, did not include beginning or ending fund balances or a detailed accounting of receipts and disbursements for each fund. Instead the city published summary statements of receipts and disbursements. As a result, citizens were not provided an accurate, detailed accounting of the city's financial activity.

Section 79.160, RSMo, requires the Board to prepare and publish semiannual financial statements that include a full and detailed account of the receipts, disbursements, and indebtedness of the city.

City of Edgar Springs
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

1.4 Filing of financial reports City officials did not file an accurate and timely financial report with the SAO for the year ended December 31, 2019, as required by state law. This financial report, due by June 30, 2020, was not filed until August 3, 2020. The financial report submitted consisted of the 2019 budget and the published summary statement of revenues and expenditures for the 6 months ended December 31, 2019. The financial report submitted did not include the financial data for the first 6 months of 2019, beginning and ending fund balances, and the city's property tax levy as required by state regulations.

Section 105.145, RSMo, requires each political subdivision to file annual reports of its financial transactions with the SAO. Section 105.145.5, RSMo, prohibits elected officials from continuing to receive compensation or processing disbursements after the deadline to submit the financial statement and until the financial statement is submitted to the SAO. Section 105.145.9, RSMo, allows political subdivisions to be fined $500 per day for missing filing deadlines. In addition, 15 CSR 40-3.030, requires each political subdivision to file annual financial reports within 6 months of the end of the subdivision's fiscal year.

1.5 Annual audits The city has not obtained annual audits of its sewer system as required by state law.

Section 250.150, RSMo, requires the city to obtain annual audits of the sewer system and the cost be paid from revenues received from the system.

Recommendations

The Board of Aldermen:

- 1.1 Prepare annual budgets that contain all information required by state law and ensure budgets are properly monitored.
- 1.2 Prepare financial statements and accounting records that accurately reflect the financial activity of the city. In addition, the Board should establish monthly procedures to compare reconciled bank account balances to ending fund balances on the financial statements, and ensure accounting transactions are properly recorded.
- 1.3 Ensure the city's published financial statements are complete, accurate, and contain all statutorily-required elements.
- 1.4 Submit annual financial reports to the State Auditor's Office as required by state law.
- 1.5 Obtain annual audits of the sewer system as required by state law.

City of Edgar Springs
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Auditee's Response

- 1.1 The annual budget has been revamped and now contains all information required by state law. The Board will monitor budget-to-actual reports of financial activity monthly.
- 1.2 Financial statements and accounting records will be monitored so they will show the accurate amounts and reconciliations of bank balances and fund balances will be done monthly to ensure transactions are recorded properly.
- 1.3 The Board will make sure that published financial statements are complete, accurate, and comply with state statutes.
- 1.4 The annual financial reports will be reported to the State Auditor's Office on time as required by state law.
- 1.5 An annual audit of the sewer system will be done to comply with state statutes.

2. Sewer System Controls and Procedures

2.1 Sewer rates

Sewer system controls and procedures need improvement. According to the city's accounting records, the city collected approximately $60,500 for sewer services and customer deposits during the year ended December 31, 2019.

Current sewer rates are not supported by a cost study or other documentation showing how the rates were determined. The city's sewer billing structure charges customers on the public water supply a per-gallon rate based on the number of gallons of water used. For sewer customers with private water wells, the city bills a flat rate. The Board increased the per-gallon rates charged to customers on the public water supply in July 2018 and the flat rate charged to customers with private wells in July 2019.

Section 67.042, RSMo, provides that fees may be increased if supported by a cost study that shows the increase is necessary to cover costs of providing the service. To ensure sewer rates are appropriately set, city officials should perform and document a detailed cost study of the city's sewer costs, including depreciation, and establish rates to cover the total cost of operations without generating excessive profits.

2.2 Sewer deposits

The city does not maintain a listing of refundable customer deposits held in the Wastewater Treatment bank account. The city currently requires new customers to pay a $100 refundable deposit. City officials were not sure when customer deposits started being charged, and indicated customer account records did not indicate if a customer deposit was being held.

Refundable customer sewer deposits are restricted funds held for customers. To ensure all deposits received from customers are accounted for properly,

City of Edgar Springs
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

the Board should determine the deposit amounts being held in the Wastewater Treatment account, require an accurate list of deposits held by the city be prepared monthly, and reconcile the list to the deposit amounts held in the Wastewater Treatment bank account monthly. Performing such reconciliations provides the city assurance the Wastewater Treatment bank account balance is sufficient to cover customer liabilities and ensures the deposits are not used for sewer operations.

2.3 Delinquent accounts

The city's procedures for collecting delinquent sewer charges do not comply with city ordinance, sewer user contracts, or state law. In addition, the city ordinance does not agree with some requirements of the sewer user contract.

The city improperly assessed a special tax to be collected with city real estate property taxes for 12 delinquent sewer accounts totaling $5,190 plus an additional $900 for lien filing fees. In addition, the city did not properly notify land owners of liens placed on property and did not limit the rental property owner's liability when the sewer account was held by the occupant to the first 90 days of delinquent charges as required by state law. We noted 4 sewer bills for one account in which the landowner's name was added retroactively to the sewer bills in the accounting system immediately prior to filing a lien and assessing a special tax for delinquent sewer fees. The invoices were originally issued to the tenant, who was responsible for the account. While no written notice was given to 4 landowners of special assessments, one of these landowners indicated the city made a courtesy call and allowed her to pay the city directly for delinquent sewer fees, canceling the special assessment.

Additionally, the city ordinance does not agree with some requirements of the sewer user contract. The $100 reconnect fee in city ordinance does not agree to the $50 reconnect fee in the sewer user contract. The sewer user contract also requires the customer to pay all charges incurred with blocking the sewer ($300 to $400), but this is not authorized by city ordinance.

City ordinance No. 60-A article 5, section 4, requires the city to discontinue service to customers with delinquent accounts and requires customers to pay all delinquent fees and a $100 reconnect fee before service can be restored. In addition, section 5 of the ordinance states the owner and occupant shall be jointly and severally liable for the delinquent amount, and allows the city to file a lien that may be enforced by suit or foreclosure. Per the sewer user contract, the city will install a sewer plug if delinquent accounts are not paid and the customer must pay all sewer charges, late fees, charges incurred for blocking sewer ($300 to $400), and a $50 reconnect fee before service can be restored. Section 250.234, RSMo, allows the city to file a lien against the property, enforceable by suit or foreclosure. However, Section 250.140.2, RSMo, requires the city to make a good faith effort to notify the owner of the premises receiving such service of the delinquency and the amount thereof.

City of Edgar Springs
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

In addition, it limits the land owner's liability to no more than 90 days when the account is held by the occupant and not the owner.

2.4 Adjustments

The City Clerk makes adjustments to customer accounts, including writing off charges caused by water leaks, filling swimming pools, billing errors, and waiving late fees, without obtaining independent approval or maintaining any documentation supporting the adjustments. In addition, the Board does not review and approve all adjustments. The same employee receives payments and posts payments and billing adjustments to customer accounts, including her own account, with no independent supervisory review. As a result, there is an increased risk of loss, theft, and misuse of funds occurring without being detected.

To ensure adjustments to sewer accounts are valid and authorized, adjustment transactions should be approved before they are made in the computerized system and the posted adjustments should later be compared to the list of approved adjustments. Review and approval of adjustments by the Board is necessary to ensure adjustments are proper.

2.5 User contract retention

The city did not retain sewer user contracts for some customers. City officials could not locate 5 of the 12 sewer user contracts requested for review.

Retention of written contracts is necessary to ensure contractual duties and responsibilities can be enforced and to prevent misunderstandings. Section 109.270, RSMo, provides that all records made or received by an official in the course of his/her public duties are public property and are not to be disposed of except as provided by law. In addition, Section 109.255, RSMo, provides that the Local Records Board issue directives for the destruction of records. Record retention schedules can be found on the Secretary of State's website.¹

Recommendations

The Board of Aldermen:

- 2.1 Ensure a statement of costs is prepared to support sewer rate increases and document formal reviews of sewer rates periodically to ensure revenues are sufficient to cover all costs of providing these services.
- 2.2 Determine the amount of customer deposits held in the Wastewater Treatment bank account and develop procedures to track the balance of those funds. Ensure a list of customer deposits is prepared and reconciled to the balance of deposits held monthly and promptly investigate any differences.

City of Edgar Springs
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Auditee's Response

- 2.3 Ensure procedures for delinquent sewer collection comply with city ordinance, sewer user contracts, and state laws. In addition, ensure the requirements of the city ordinance and the sewer user contract are in agreement.
- 2.4 Review and approve all adjustments made to customer accounts and periodically compare adjustments posted to adjustments approved.
- 2.5 Retain sewer user contracts in accordance with state law.
- 2.1 A cost analysis will be done for the sewer system to review the rates and costs to ensure that revenues are sufficient to maintain the costs of providing these services.
- 2.2 The Board will review records to determine the amount of customer deposits paid and that amount will be moved to the newly created sewer savings account. A list of customer deposits will be maintained and reconciled to the balance of customer deposits held in the sewer savings account monthly. Any differences will be investigated.
- 2.3 A new ordinance has been put in place that agrees with the new sewer user contracts to comply with state laws regarding delinquent sewer account collection.
- 2.4 The Board has implemented procedures to review and approve all adjustments at monthly Board meetings and to periodically compare adjustments posted to those approved.
- 2.5 New sewer contracts have been drawn up and the customers have been asked to fill them out; the contracts will be retained and updated as needed to comply with state law.

3. Accounting Controls and Procedures

3.1 Segregation of duties

Accounting controls and procedures need improvement. According to the city's monthly receipts registers, the city received approximately $142,000 for the year ended December 31, 2019.

The Board has not adequately segregated accounting duties or ensured documented supervisory or independent reviews of work performed by city officials are completed. Prior to February 2020, the City Clerk was responsible for receipting, recording, depositing, and disbursing all monies and preparing bank reconciliations and financial reports. Beginning in February 2020, with the appointment of a City Treasurer, duties were split between the City Clerk and City Treasurer. The City Clerk is responsible for sewer billing, receipting, recording, and preparing deposits. The City Treasurer is responsible for making deposits and preparing disbursements, bank reconciliations, and financial statements. Reviews of detailed accounting and deposit records, bank reconciliations, and financial statements are not performed by other city officials or the Board.

City of Edgar Springs Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Proper segregation of duties helps ensure all transactions are accounted for properly and assets are adequately safeguarded. If proper segregation of duties cannot be achieved, documented independent or supervisory reviews of accounting and bank records should be performed.

3.2 Receipting and depositing

The city's procedures for receipting and depositing monies are poor. As a result, there is no assurance all monies collected are properly receipted, recorded, and deposited.

- Payments in the drop slot are not adequately safeguarded. The city has a drop slot on the side of the city building for customers to submit payments after hours. Monies collected through the drop slot fall into a basket in the front office that is accessible by the public during business hours and all city officials during business and non-business hours. The drop slot should be secured to ensure access to payments is limited to personnel responsible for processing payments.
- City officials do not issue receipt slips for most monies received. Receipt slips are only issued if a receipt slip is requested. Sewer receipts and bank deposits are recorded in the computerized accounting system, but there is no comprehensive record of individual receipts.
- City officials do not account for the numerical sequence of receipt slips issued, and do not reconcile receipt records to deposit records. Generally, city officials deposit the monies on hand without reconciling to receipt records.
- Checks and money orders received are not restrictively endorsed.

Failure to implement adequate receipting and depositing procedures increases the risk that loss, theft, or misuse of funds will go undetected.

Recommendations

The Board of Aldermen:

- 3.1 Segregate the accounting duties. If proper segregation cannot be achieved, ensure documented independent or supervisory reviews of detailed accounting and bank records are performed.
- 3.2 Ensure the drop slot is secured, require issuance of receipt slips for all monies received, account for the numerical sequence of receipt slips issued, reconcile receipt records to deposit records, and restrictively endorse checks and money orders at the time of receipt.

City of Edgar Springs
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Auditee's Response

- 3.1 All financials and bank records will be reviewed and approved by a member of the Board, and these reviews will be documented.
- 3.2 The Board will be working to make the drop slot for payments more secure and will develop procedures over receipts as recommended.

4. Disbursements

City procedures over disbursements need improvement. According to the city's monthly expense registers, the city disbursed $119,530 for the year ended December 31, 2019.

4.1 Review and approval process

The Board's review and approval process for disbursements is not adequate. The City Treasurer (who was formerly the City Clerk) prepares manual checks for payment of invoices and presents a list of disbursements to the Board at each meeting. Although meeting minutes may document discussion of specific purchases and a vote of the Board to approve the disbursements, the Board generally does not review any invoices or any other documentation supporting the disbursements. In addition, the Board does not sign the disbursement listings to document approval and does not reconcile disbursement listings to payments issued. Disbursement listings presented to the Board in 2019 totaled $53,467, or 45 percent of the $119,530 actually disbursed. We reviewed 25 disbursements for the year ended December 31, 2019, and 13 of these disbursements (52 percent) were not on the disbursement listing presented to the Board.

To adequately document the Board's review and approval of disbursements, a complete and detailed listing of disbursements should be signed or initialed by Board members to denote their approval, and retained with the official minutes. In addition, the Board or someone independent of the disbursement process should review supporting documentation before payment is made and reconcile approved disbursements to payments issued. Failure to properly review all invoices and supporting documentation and document authorizations increases the possibility of inappropriate disbursements.

4.2 Procurement procedures and contracts

The city does not have a bidding policy and has not established policies for the selection of vendors providing professional services. In addition, written contracts were not always obtained for professional services. The city did not:

- Solicit bids or document the vendor selection process for street repairs. In addition, the city did not document the vendor selection process for building repairs. Both projects were related to Federal Emergency Management Agency grants totaling $27,484 and $10,009,² respectively.

² The city did not complete the building repairs and returned unused grant funds of $6,479 in May 2019.

City of Edgar Springs Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

- Solicit proposals for professional services including legal ($10,721) and banking services.
- Obtain contracts for legal services paid to the former City Prosecutor or for sewer testing services and fuel card services.

The federal grant award requires the city to have a documented procurement policy that complies with applicable federal, state, and local regulations, and publicly solicit competitive bids. To ensure compliance the city should document the solicitation of bids and the evaluation and selection of vendors.

Formal bidding procedures for major purchases or services provide a framework for economic management of city resources and help ensure the city receives fair value by contracting with the lowest or best bidders. Competitive bidding also helps ensure all parties are given an equal opportunity to participate in city business. Formal bidding procedures should be sufficiently detailed and include requirements for documenting the process of awarding a bid.

Soliciting proposals for professional services is a good business practice, helps provide a range of possible choices, and allows the city to make better-informed decisions to ensure necessary services are obtained from the best qualified provider after taking expertise, experience, and cost into consideration. Written contracts are necessary to ensure all parties are aware of their duties and responsibilities and to prevent misunderstandings. Section 432.070, RSMo, requires that contracts for political subdivisions must be in writing.

4.3 Supporting documentation

City officials could not provide supporting documentation for all disbursements. Our review determined supporting documentation was not maintained for 4 of 25 disbursements (16 percent) reviewed for the year ended December 31, 2019.

To ensure obligations were actually incurred and amounts paid are proper, all disbursements should be supported by paid receipt slips, itemized vendor invoices, or other detailed documentation with payment information clearly indicated.

Recommendations

The Board of Aldermen:

- 4.1 Review and document approval of all disbursement listings and retain with Board minutes. In addition, ensure an independent review of supporting documentation is performed before payment is made and reconcile approved disbursements to payments issued.

City of Edgar Springs
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

- 4.2 Establish formal bidding policies and procedures, periodically solicit proposals for professional services, and ensure the solicitation for bids and proposals and the evaluation and selection of vendors is documented. In addition, enter into written contracts for services received.
- 4.3 Require adequate, detailed supporting documentation be retained for all disbursements.

Auditee's Response

- 4.1 The Board now reviews invoices and documents approval of all disbursement payments at monthly Board meetings. Records will be periodically reviewed to ensure payments issued were approved.
- 4.2 The Board will establish formal bidding policies and procedures, and periodically solicit proposals for professional services. Solicitation and selection evaluations will be documented and written contracts will be entered into for services received.
- 4.3 The Board will ensure adequate documentation is kept on file for all disbursements.

5. Ordinances and Sunshine Law

City ordinances are not organized, complete, or up to date. In addition, the Board did not always comply with the Sunshine Law.

5.1 Ordinances

City ordinances are not organized, complete, or up to date.

- Ordinances are poorly maintained. Many ordinances are old and not updated. In addition, an index of all ordinances passed and rescinded by the city is not maintained, making it difficult to determine which ordinances remain in effect.
- City ordinance No. 60-A has not been updated since 1991 and does not authorize the per-gallon rate structure currently billed to sewer customers. In addition, the city's sewer ordinance does not authorize the $100 refundable customer deposit charged to new customers.
- The city does not have ordinances establishing the compensation for the City Clerk, City Treasurer, and Chief of Police.
- The city does not have ordinances establishing an employee travel policy and a conflict of interest policy.
- The city does not have ordinances establishing procedures for credit and debit card usage and city hall rental.

City of Edgar Springs
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Because ordinances passed by the Board to govern the city and its residents have the force and effect of law, it is important ordinances be complete and organized and in compliance with state laws. In addition, ordinances documenting approved salary amounts help ensure equitable treatment and prevent any misunderstandings. Section 79.270, RSMo, authorizes the Board to fix the compensation of all city officials and employees by ordinance.

5.2 Public access policy

The Board has not adopted a written policy regarding public access to city records as required by state law. A written policy regarding public access to city records would establish guidelines for the city to make records available to the public. This policy should identify a person to contact, provide an address to mail such requests, and establish fees that may be assessed for providing copies of public records.

Section 610.023, RSMo, lists requirements for making records available to the public. Section 610.026, RSMo, allows the city to charge fees for providing access to and/or copies of public records and provides requirements related to fees. Section 610.028, RSMo, requires a written policy regarding release of information under the Sunshine Law.

5.3 Record requests

City officials do not maintain adequate documentation of requests for records to show compliance with state law. In addition, the city did not respond to any records requests from March 18 to June 9, 2020.

- The city does not maintain a log of records requests. The city was unable to produce a record of dates requests were made, when records were provided, or communications related to these requests.
- City officials did not respond to record requests timely. On March 18, 2020, the former Mayor closed city hall to the public due to the Coronavirus Disease 2019 (COVID-19) pandemic and directed the City Clerk to only process and bill sewer payments. City hall reopened to the public and the City Clerk resumed responding to records requests when the former Mayor resigned on June 9, 2020.

Section 610.023, RSMo, provides that each request for access to public records shall be acted upon as soon as possible, but in no event later than the end of the third business day following the date the request was received by the custodian of records. To ensure compliance with state law, the city should document adequate information in a log to determine if requests are completed timely and all requests are adequately filled. Necessary information includes, but is not limited to, the date of request, a brief description of the request, the date the request is completed or reason why the request cannot be completed, and any associated costs of fulfilling the request.

City of Edgar Springs
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

5.4 Closed meetings

The city did not comply with state law regarding closed meetings.

- Open meeting minutes did not document the specific reasons or section of law allowing the meeting to be closed for any of the 6 closed meetings held in 2019. In addition, the vote of each member approving to enter into a closed meeting was not documented.
- Some topics discussed in closed session were not allowable under the Sunshine Law. For example, the Board discussed paid time off for employees, mowing, cleanup and maintenance at sewer department, and the trimming of trees on roadways.
- Roll call votes were not always recorded. The closed meeting minutes for the February 11, 2019, meeting indicate the Board agreed on a personnel matter discussed, but the roll call votes were not documented.

Section 610.022, RSMo, requires the reason and the specific section allowed by law for going into a closed session be entered into the minutes, and prohibits the discussion of any business not directly related to the specific reason announced. Additionally, Section 610.015, RSMo, requires any votes taken during a closed meeting shall be taken by roll call.

5.5 Meeting minutes

Minutes were not prepared for all meetings and minutes are not signed. On December 16, 2019, a meeting was held by the Board to discuss sewer repairs. The city did not give notice or record and maintain minutes for this meeting. City officials indicated this was not a Board meeting because the Board members present were acting in their capacity as volunteer backup sewer operators. In addition, meeting minutes are not signed by the preparer or the Board. Without signatures, there is less assurance the minutes are a true and unaltered record of matters discussed and actions taken during the meeting.

Section 610.010.5, RSMo, defines a public meeting as any meeting of a public governmental body at which any public business is discussed, decided, or public policy formulated. Sections 610.020.1 and 610.020.2, RSMo, provide the requirements for the meeting notice and that the notice must be posted at least 24 hours before the meeting. Section 610.020.7, RSMo, requires meeting minutes be maintained as a record of business conducted and to provide an official record of Board actions and decisions. The meeting minutes should be signed by the preparer and subsequently approved by the Board to provide an independent attestation that the minutes are a correct record of the matters discussed and actions taken during the meeting.

Recommendations

The Board of Aldermen:

- 5.1 Ensure ordinances are maintained in a complete and well-organized manner, and establish an index of all ordinances passed and

City of Edgar Springs
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

rescinded. The Board should establish, by ordinance, the terms and compensation of all city officials and employees, and policies and procedures for employee travel, conflict of interest, credit and debit card use, and city hall rental.

- 5.2 Develop a written public access policy.
- 5.3 Ensure requests for information are responded to timely and maintain a public request log or other documentation to help ensure compliance with state law.
- 5.4 Ensure the specific section of law allowing the meeting to be closed is announced publicly and recorded in the minutes, discussion is limited to business directly related to the specific reason announced, and votes taken in closed session are recorded by roll call.
- 5.5 Ensure minutes are maintained for all meetings, and ensure meeting minutes are signed by the preparer and the Mayor or a Board member after approval.

Auditee's Response

- 5.1 The Board is in the process of updating ordinances as recommended. Ordinances are now kept in order and there is an updated index. Ordinances are also now kept electronically.
- 5.2 The Board will develop a public access policy.
- 5.3 Requests for information are now taken care of in a timely manner in compliance with state law. Documentation of such will be maintained.
- 5.4 All closed meetings will be announced in a timely manner and recorded in the minutes with the proper state statute showing the reason for the closed meeting. Discussions in closed meetings will be limited to the reason stated and any votes taken will be recorded by roll call.
- 5.5 Meeting minutes are now kept by both paper copy and electronically, and are now being signed by both the preparer and the Mayor at the time of approval.

6. Ticket Accountability

The police department has not developed adequate procedures to account for the numerical sequence of tickets and the ultimate disposition of tickets issued.

Police officers issue manual tickets and the department maintains an electronic record of manual tickets issued. Tickets issued are periodically

City of Edgar Springs
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

picked up by the City Prosecutor who determines whether to dismiss a ticket or file it with the municipal court (held at the circuit court) for processing. However, there are no procedures to account for the numerical sequence and ultimate disposition of all tickets issued to ensure tickets have been handled properly. The City Prosecutor indicated city officials declined her offer to provide the city a report of the disposition of tickets issued.

Tickets are not always recorded or recorded timely in the department's electronic record system. Our review of all ticket numbers entered into the electronic record system during the year ended December 31, 2019, identified 56 gaps in sequence. However, 25 of these tickets were issued in 2018, leaving 31 unaccounted for tickets in 2019. We also noted that of the 191 tickets issued during 2019, 170 tickets issued from February through December 2019 were not recorded in the electronic record system until December 29, 2019.

Our review of 60 ticket numbers in the sequence utilized by officers during February and September 2019, included 13 of the 31 unaccounted for tickets. Three of these tickets had been voided, 6 tickets were filed with the municipal court, and 1 ticket was dismissed by the City Prosecutor. Neither the Chief of Police nor the City Prosecutor could account for the disposition of the remaining 3 tickets.

Without properly accounting for the numerical sequence and ultimate disposition of tickets issued, the department cannot be assured all tickets are properly accounted for or submitted for processing to the municipal court.

Recommendation

The Board of Aldermen ensure tickets are entered timely into the electronic record system. In addition, the Board should work with the City Prosecutor to ensure the numerical sequence and ultimate disposition of all tickets (including voided tickets) are accounted for properly.

Auditee's Response

The Board plans to fully implement the recommendation.

7. Excess Revenues

The city did not prepare and submit the financial report addendum containing excess revenues calculations to the SAO as required by state law.

Section 479.359, RSMo, requires cities to submit to the SAO an addendum to the city's annual financial report containing an accounting of annual general operating revenue; total revenues from fines, bond forfeitures, and court costs for municipal ordinance violations and minor traffic violations; and the percent of annual general operating revenue from fines, bond forfeitures, and court costs for municipal ordinance violations and minor traffic violations. Code of State Regulations, 15 CSR 40-3.170, requires the city to submit the addendum to the SAO within 6 months of the city's fiscal year end. The city's addendum for 2019 was due by June 30, 2020.

City of Edgar Springs
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

To ensure compliance with state law, city officials should implement procedures to promptly prepare and submit the addendum annually to the SAO.

Recommendation

The Board of Aldermen ensure the addendum is prepared annually and submitted to the State Auditor's Office by the statutory due date.

Auditee's Response

The excess revenues addendum will be completed and submitted by the statutory due date.

8. Electronic Communication Policies

The city has not developed records management and retention policies in compliance with the Missouri Secretary of State Records Services Division guidance, as approved by the Missouri Local Records Commission. This guidance recommends government entities have a policy on electronic messaging, including text messages, email, and other third party platforms.

City officials do not always use city email accounts when conducting city business. Some city business communications were transmitted by personal email accounts or by text messages from personal cell phones. In addition, city personnel indicated they receive and respond to record requests through email but could not provide documentation of requests made and fulfilled during 2019. As a result, electronic communications may not be retained in accordance with state law.

Section 109.210(5), RSMo, defines a public record as "documents, books, papers, photographs, maps, sound recordings or other material, regardless of physical form or characteristics, made or received pursuant to law or in connection with the transaction of official business." Section 109.270, RSMo, provides that all records made or received by an official in the course of his/her public duties are public property and are not to be disposed of except as provided by law. Section 109.255, RSMo, provides that the Local Records Board issue directives for the destruction of records. The guidelines for managing electronic communications records can be found on the Secretary of State's website.³

To ensure compliance with state law, the Board should develop written policies to address the use of personal email, social media and message accounts, and management and retention of electronic communications.

Recommendation

The Board of Aldermen develop written records management and retention policies to address electronic communications management and retention to comply with Missouri Secretary of State Records Services Division Electronic Communications Guidelines.

Auditee's Response

The Board will develop written records management and retention policies for electronic communications to comply with state laws.

Additional Comments	Because counties are managed by several separately-elected individuals, an audit finding made with respect to one office does not necessarily apply to the operations in another office. The overall rating assigned to the county is intended to reflect the performance of the county as a whole. It does not indicate the performance of any one elected official or county office.

NICOLE GALLOWAY, CPA

Missouri State Auditor

County Commission
and
Officeholders of DeKalb County

We have audited certain operations of DeKalb County in fulfillment of our duties under Section 29.230, RSMo. The scope of our audit included, but was not necessarily limited to, the year ended December 31, 2019. The objectives of our audit were to:

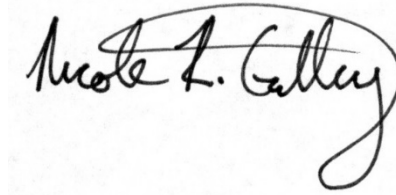

1. Evaluate the county's internal controls over significant management and financial functions.
2. Evaluate the county's compliance with certain legal provisions.
3. Evaluate the economy and efficiency of certain management practices and procedures, including certain financial transactions.

Our methodology included reviewing minutes of meetings, written policies and procedures, financial records, and other pertinent documents; interviewing various personnel of the county, as well as certain external parties; and testing selected transactions. We obtained an understanding of internal control that is significant to the audit objectives and assessed the design and implementation of such internal control to the extent necessary to address our audit objectives. We also obtained an understanding of legal provisions that are significant within the context of the audit objectives, and we assessed the risk that illegal acts, including fraud, and violations of applicable contract, grant agreement, or other legal provisions could occur. Based on that risk assessment, we designed and performed procedures to provide reasonable assurance of detecting instances of noncompliance significant to those provisions.

We conducted our audit in accordance with the standards applicable to performance audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform our audit to obtain sufficient, appropriate evidence to provide a reasonable basis for our findings and conclusions based on our audit objectives. We believe that the evidence obtained provides such a basis.

The accompanying Organization and Statistical Information is presented for informational purposes. This information was obtained from the county's management and was not subjected to the procedures applied in our audit of the county.

For the areas audited, we identified (1) deficiencies in internal controls, (2) noncompliance with legal provisions, and (3) the need for improvement in management practices and procedures. The accompanying Management Advisory Report presents our findings arising from our audit of DeKalb County.

Management Advisory Report

State Auditor's Findings

1. Sheriff Controls and Procedures

Controls and procedures in the Sheriff's office need improvement. The Sheriff's office processed receipts for civil paper service, concealed carry weapon permits, and other miscellaneous receipts totaling approximately $33,000 through the fee account and bond receipts totaling approximately $66,000 through the bond account during the year ended December 31, 2019.

1.1 Segregation of duties

The Sheriff has not adequately segregated accounting duties and does not ensure adequate supervisory review of detailed accounting and bank records is performed. The Office Administrator is responsible for receipting payments, making disbursements and deposits, reconciling the bank account, and performing various duties associated with bonds. The Sheriff does not review accounting records to ensure payments received have been properly recorded, deposited, and disbursed to the appropriate parties.

Proper segregation of duties is necessary to ensure transactions are accounted for properly and assets are adequately safeguarded. Internal controls would be improved by segregating the duties of receiving, recording, and depositing payments; making disbursements; and reconciling bank accounts. If proper segregation of duties cannot be achieved, documented independent or supervisory reviews of detailed accounting and bank records are essential and should include comparing daily receipt activity to deposits and disbursements to supporting documentation.

1.2 Disbursements

The Sheriff's office does not timely disburse fees and other receipts to the County Collector-Treasurer. Office personnel turned over August 2019 fees ($2,321) on October 8, 2019, September 2019 fees ($2,005) on November 8, 2019, October 2019 fees ($3,243) on December 13, 2019, and January 2020 fees ($3,164) on March 12, 2020.

Section 50.370, RSMo, requires all county officials who receive fees or any other remuneration for official services to pay this money monthly to the County Collector-Treasurer. Section 50.380, RSMo, provides that any county officer that fails to pay fees or other remuneration to the treasurer timely may be subject to penalties for such failure.

1.3 Seized property

The Sheriff's office has not established adequate controls and procedures over seized property. A complete and accurate seized property inventory listing is not maintained and a physical inventory of seized property has not been performed. In addition, the Sheriff does not periodically review cases and dispose of related seized property items. Some seized property has been held for more than 10 years.

Two different logs are used to track seized property, and neither of the logs is accurate or complete. Items obtained since 2017 are maintained in one log and items obtained prior to 2017 are maintained in the other log.

DeKalb County
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

We tested 11 seized property items and identified 2 items in the evidence room not included on the seized property logs. One of the items was a handgun. The evidence officer could locate no records regarding why the office held the gun as seized property.

Considering the often sensitive nature of seized property, adequate internal controls are essential and would significantly reduce the risk of loss, theft, or misuse of the property. Complete and accurate inventory control records should be maintained, and periodic physical inventories performed with the results compared to inventory records to ensure seized property is accounted for properly. The use of multiple logs to track seized property is cumbersome and reduces the assurance that all information is accurately recorded and accounted for properly. Section 542.301, RSMo, provides the requirements for the disposition of seized property that has not been forfeited or returned to the claimant.

1.4 Receipting

The Office Administrator began recording the composition of receipts on the one-write receipt book during last 2 weeks of 2019, after audit staff discussed this issue with her. Prior to that, the composition of receipts had not been tracked. Without the composition of receipts, the Office Administrator cannot reconcile the composition of receipts to composition of deposits.

Failure to implement adequate receipting and reconciling procedures increases the risk that loss, theft, or misuse of money will go undetected.

Similar conditions previously reported Recommendations

Similar conditions to sections 1.1 and 1.3 were noted in our prior audit report.

The Sheriff:

- 1.1 Segregate accounting duties or ensure adequate independent or supervisory reviews of detailed accounting and bank records are performed and documented.
- 1.2 Disburse fees and other receipts to the County Collector-Treasurer monthly in accordance with state law.
- 1.3 Maintain a complete and accurate seized property evidence log, and ensure a periodic inventory is conducted and reconciled to the seized property evidence log, and investigate any differences. The Sheriff should also make timely and appropriate dispositions of seized property in accordance with state law.
- 1.4 Maintain adequate records for receipting and reconciling payments received. Such records would include reconciling the composition of

DeKalb County
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Auditee's Response

- receipts to the composition of deposits and ensuring the method of payment is accurately documented on all receipt slips.
- 1.1 We are in the process of implementing a system to help ensure accountability.
 - 1.2 We are trying to expedite the turnover process to avoid issues in the future.
 - 1.3 We have appointed an evidence officer and have updated the seized property logs. We plan to conduct an annual inventory of seized property. We are currently working with the Prosecuting Attorney and Judge to determine which property can be disposed.
 - 1.4 We have instituted new policies to ensure the method of payment is included on all receipts and then to reconcile those receipts to the composition of deposits.

2. Prosecuting Attorney Controls and Procedures

Controls and procedures in the Prosecuting Attorney's office need improvement. The office collected approximately $34,000 for bad check and restitution fees and restitution during the year ended December 31, 2019.

2.1 Segregation of duties

The Prosecuting Attorney has not adequately segregated accounting duties and does not ensure adequate supervisory review of detailed accounting and bank records is performed. The Office Manager is responsible for receipting and recording payments received; preparing deposits; preparing disbursements; and performing bank reconciliations. The Prosecuting Attorney does not review accounting records to ensure payments received have been properly recorded, deposited, and disbursed to the appropriate parties.

Proper segregation of duties is necessary to ensure transactions are accounted for properly and assets are adequately safeguarded. Internal controls would be improved by segregating the duties of receiving, recording, and depositing payments; making disbursements; and reconciling bank accounts. If proper segregation of duties cannot be achieved, documented independent or supervisory reviews of detailed accounting and bank records are essential and should include comparing daily receipt activity to deposits and disbursements to supporting documentation.

2.2 Liabilities

The Prosecuting Attorney does not ensure a monthly list of liabilities for the office's main bank account is reconciled to the bank balance. The liabilities for the Prosecuting Attorney's main bank account was $1,639 at December

DeKalb County Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

31, 2019. The reconciled bank balance was $2,199 at that date, leaving an unidentified balance of $560.

Monthly lists of liabilities should be reconciled to the available cash balance to ensure sufficient cash is available for the payment of amounts due and all money in the bank can be identified. Prompt follow up on discrepancies is necessary to resolve errors. In addition, various statutory provisions provide for the disposition of unidentified money.

2.3 Outstanding checks

The Prosecuting Attorney has not established procedures to routinely follow up on outstanding checks. As of December 31, 2019, 12 checks ($1,266) had been outstanding for more than a year with 4 ($899) outstanding more than 3 years.

Procedures to routinely follow up on outstanding checks are necessary to prevent the accumulation of money in the account and ensure the checks are appropriately reissued to the payee or the money is disbursed as otherwise provided by state law.

Recommendations

The Prosecuting Attorney:

- 2.1 Segregate accounting duties or ensure adequate independent or supervisory reviews of detailed accounting and bank records are performed and documented.
- 2.2 Reconcile the list of liabilities to the reconciled bank balance monthly. Any differences should be promptly investigated and resolved. Any unidentified money should be disposed of in accordance with state law.
- 2.3 Establish procedures to routinely investigate outstanding checks. Old outstanding checks should be voided and reissued to payees that can be readily located. If payees cannot be located, the money should be disposed of in accordance with state law.

Auditee's Response

- 2.1 The Prosecuting Attorney has and will continue to deposit all the money orders and certified checks received and assist in the preparation of the disbursements. The Prosecuting Attorney's office does not accept cash, so these are the only two forms of payment that are received.

In January of 2019, the Prosecuting Attorney's office switched from an Excel management system to QuickBooks. The Prosecuting Attorney will continue to review each reconciliation and initial these records every month, as was previously done before switching to QuickBooks. In addition, the Prosecuting Attorney will conduct a quarterly review of the payments in relation to their respective case files.

DeKalb County
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

2.2 In January of 2019, the Prosecuting Attorney's office switched from an Excel management system to QuickBooks. Before this switch, the account zeroed out, however currently the new management system appears to show an unidentified balance of $560. We believe this was a data entry error that occurred when we switched systems, and the office is diligently working to determine the source of this error and fix it. The Prosecuting Attorney will review the reconciled bank balances monthly and any discrepancies will be immediately investigated and resolved.

2.3 The Prosecuting Attorney's Office will review all outstanding checks quarterly. We will either call or send a letter to all victims who have not cashed their checks and urge them to do so promptly. Any outstanding checks will be dispersed as provided by state law after three years.

The 4 checks that have been outstanding for over three years will be turned over to the state.

3. Daviess-DeKalb Regional Jail

3.1 Budget

The Daviess-DeKalb Regional Jail Commission budget prepared for the year ended December 31, 2019, did not contain all required elements. The budget document did not include a budget message, actual or budgeted amounts for the 2 preceding years, beginning and ending fund balances, debt amortization, or a budget summary.

Section 67.010, RSMo, requires the budget to present a complete financial plan for the ensuing budget year and sets specific guidelines for the information to be included in the budget. A complete and well-planned budget, in addition to meeting statutory requirements, can serve as a useful management tool by establishing specific financial expectations for jail operations. It also assists in informing the public about jail operations and current finances. Proper monitoring is necessary for the budget to be an effective management tool and to comply with state law.

3.2 Receipting, recording, and depositing

The Commissary Manager does not account for the numerical sequence of receipt numbers assigned by the commissary/inmate software system. In addition, credit card payments received are not reconciled to deposits on the bank statement. As a result, there is no assurance all money collected is properly receipted, recorded, and deposited and all credit card payments have been posted accurately to inmate accounts.

Failure to implement adequate recording and reconciling procedures increases the risk that errors, loss, theft, or misuse of payments received will go undetected.

3.3 Bank reconciliations and liabilities

The Commissary Manager does not prepare adequate bank reconciliations for the inmate/commissary account. In addition, a monthly list of liabilities is not prepared to reconcile to the inmate/commissary account balance. The bank statement balance as of December 31, 2019 was $40,158. A Statement Reconciliation Report is prepared using the computerized accounting system each month and includes individual checks and deposits that have cleared the bank during the month. However, outstanding checks, deposits in transit, and other reconciling items are not included on the report and the Commissary Manager does not perform other procedures to determine these amounts. At our request, the Jail Director generated a list of inmate balances (liabilities) as of December 31, 2019, totaling $6,926.

Performing adequate monthly bank reconciliations helps ensure accurate records are kept and increases the likelihood errors will be identified. Monthly lists of liabilities should be prepared and reconciled to the available cash balance to ensure sufficient cash is available for the payments of amounts due and all monies in the bank can be identified. Prompt follow up on discrepancies is necessary to resolve errors. In addition, various statutory provisions provide for the disposition of unidentified money.

3.4 Inactive inmate account balances

The Daviess-DeKalb Regional Jail does not have adequate procedures to ensure all inmate account balances are refunded upon release. Jail administrative staff provide a debit card with the inmate account balance to the inmate upon release unless the inmate is transferred to another agency or the Missouri Department of Corrections (DOC). In those instances, a check is mailed to the other agency or DOC for the inmate. However, if deposits to the inmate account are pending at the time of release these amounts are not included in the account balance and not included in the amount disbursed through a debit card or check and the jail continues to hold this money. As of December 31, 2019, the regional jail held $1,297 for 248 former inmates in the inmate account.

Follow up on inactive accounts is necessary to ensure remaining balances are appropriately disbursed to former inmates or as otherwise provided by state law. In addition, establishing procedures to refund an inmate all of his/her money upon release will allow the regional jail to more adequately safeguard any money being held and reduce the risk of loss, theft, or misuse of funds.

3.5 Outstanding items

The Daviess-DeKalb Regional Jail does not have procedures to routinely follow up on reconciling items identified in the bank reconciliations for the operating and payroll bank accounts. Our review of the December 31, 2019, bank reconciliations for the operating and payroll bank accounts found:

DeKalb County Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

- The operating account had 3 checks ($107) outstanding more than 4 years, with one issued in 2010.
- The payroll account had 15 checks ($1,032) outstanding more than a year, with 7 ($832) outstanding more than 4 years.
- The payroll account had 6 other adjustments ($387) outstanding for more than 6 months in the accounting system. These adjustments related to adjusting entries made for checks that had been voided and reissued. No one could explain why the adjustments had not cleared in the accounting system.

Procedures to routinely follow up on reconciling items are necessary to prevent the accumulation of money in the account and ensure accounting records are accurate and old outstanding checks are reissued to the payee or the money disbursed as otherwise provided by state law.

3.6 Commissary inventory

Commissary inventory records are not accurate. The manager in charge of commissary items does not maintain accurate records of inventory purchased, sold, and remaining on hand. Also, the Commissary Manager does not document her periodic physical inventory counts and no one reviews her changes to inventory records. In addition, the jail does not maintain an inventory of e-cigarettes. We performed a test of 9 commissary items and determined the quantity on hand did not agree to the inventory records for 7 of the items tested (78 percent). For 5 items the number on hand exceeded the number listed in the inventory records. For 4 of the 7 items the difference was 1 to 3 units.

Loss, theft, or misuse of the commissary inventory may go undetected without adequate inventory records and procedures. Detailed inventory records are necessary to adequately account for commissary inventory. Correcting inventory records is necessary to ensure accuracy; however, review and approval of all changes is necessary to ensure commissary items and related money is properly recorded and handled.

Recommendations

The County Commission work with the Daviess-DeKalb Regional Jail Board to:

- 3.1 Prepare annual budgets that contain all information required by state law.

DeKalb County
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

- 3.2 Ensure the numerical sequence of system-assigned receipt numbers is accounted for properly. In addition, ensure credit card transactions are reconciled to the credit card transaction reports and deposits.
- 3.3 Ensure adequate monthly bank reconciliations are prepared using outstanding checks, deposits in transit, and other reconciling items. In addition, the regional jail should prepare a monthly list of liabilities and reconcile the listing to the available cash balance. Any differences between accounting records and reconciliations should be promptly investigated and resolved.
- 3.4 Improve procedures so that inmates receive their entire remaining balance upon release. In addition, the regional jail should attempt to resolve unclaimed balances of inactive inmate accounts. If the payee cannot be located, the money should be disbursed in accordance with state law.
- 3.5 Establish procedures to routinely investigate reconciling items. Old outstanding checks should be voided and reissued to payees that can be readily located. If payees cannot be located, the money should be disbursed in accordance with state law.
- 3.6 Maintain accurate commissary transaction records and reconcile these records to inventory purchased and sold. In addition, ensure someone performs an independent review of changes to inventory records.

Auditee's Response

- 3.1 We have already began changing and conforming with Section 67.010, RSMo. It will be ready for our next budget report for the Board to review on the 2021 budget.
- 3.2 We are working with representatives from the commissary software vendor and the Commissary Manager to resolve these issues.
- 3.3 In order for the account to be reconciled correctly, multiple reports are required and we are working on this issue.
- 3.4 We are working on correcting and closing the inactive accounts. This is being monitored and processed according to state law.
- 3.5 In the future we will routinely review and process outstanding checks as per the recommendations of the audit. A payroll software update has resolved the liability adjustment issue.
- 3.6 We will maintain accurate commissary records by following the guidelines recommended by the audit.

DeKalb County
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

4. Sunshine Law

The County Commission did not make specific reference to the section of law allowing the closure of Commission meetings when voting to go into a closed session for all 3 closed meetings held during the year ended December 31, 2019.

Section 610.022, RSMo, requires public bodies announce the specific reasons allowed by law for going into a closed session and to enter the reason into the minutes. Section 610.020.7, RSMo, requires minutes of meetings be maintained as a record of business conducted and to provide an official record of actions and decisions.

Recommendation

The County Commission ensure the specific section of law allowing the meeting to be closed is announced publicly and recorded in the minutes when the county commission holds a vote to close a meeting.

Auditee's Response

As County Clerk and the Official Record Keeper of the minutes, I will work with the County Commission to ensure that the statute pertaining to closed meetings will be noted in the minutes if a closed meeting is needed.

5. Capital Assets

Procedures and records to account for county property are not adequate. The county does not have procedures in place to identify capital asset purchases and dispositions throughout the year. In addition, county officials have not conducted annual physical inventories or provided inventory lists to the County Clerk as required. As a result, the county's capital asset records are not complete and up to date.

Adequate capital asset records and procedures are necessary to ensure effective internal controls, meet statutory requirements, and provide a basis for determining proper insurance coverage. Procedures to track capital asset purchases and dispositions throughout the year and compare to physical inventory results would enhance the county's ability to account for capital assets and potentially identify unrecorded additions and dispositions, identify obsolete assets, and deter and detect theft of assets. Section 49.093, RSMo, provides that the officer or his/her designee of each county department is responsible for performing annual inspections and inventories of county property used by his/her department and for submitting an inventory report to the County Clerk.

Recommendation

The County Commission and County Clerk work with the other county officials to ensure complete and accurate inventory records are maintained, annual physical inventories are conducted, and implement procedures for tracking capital asset purchases and dispositions throughout the year.

Auditee's Response

The Commission and County Clerk will work with other county officials to ensure that complete and accurate records of all inventories are maintained.

DeKalb County

Organization and Statistical Information

DeKalb County is a township-organized, third-class county. The county seat is Maysville.

NICOLE GALLOWAY, CPA

Missouri State Auditor

Honorable Michael L. Parson, Governor
and
Members of the General Assembly
Jefferson City, Missouri

The primary objective of this report is to show Missouri's spending of federal assistance in the month of August 2020 for the Coronavirus Disease 2019 (COVID-19) emergency and the cumulative financial activity since the state began receiving funding in April 2020.

In March and April 2020, Congress passed several legislative measures signed into law to provide assistance to citizens, businesses, healthcare facilities, and government entities during the COVID-19 emergency. The funding received by or made available to Missouri state government agencies will help pay for the state's emergency response to COVID-19 and provides (1) additional federal matching funds for the state's Medicaid program (MO HealthNet) and other applicable programs, and (2) funding for various other assistance and benefit programs. The state is passing through some of the funding to local governments. Some funding authorized in the legislation also went directly to local government entities, healthcare facilities, and colleges and universities. The majority of the funding has specific restrictions on its use or state actions and must be spent in defined limited time periods.

In August, the state spent $96.5 million from federal COVID-19 assistance (Appendix A). Through the end of August, the state has received $2.69 billion and spent $1.20 billion from this assistance. Details of the cumulative financial activity by fund are presented in Appendix B and the expenditures by appropriation in Appendix C. The majority of the state's disbursements have been for MO HealthNet and other services receiving federal matching funds ($340 million) and funding passed through to counties and the City of St. Louis ($521 million). Other funding has been (1) provided to schools, institutes of higher education, child care providers, and nursing facilities; and (2) used for food and nutrition programs, mental health services, purchase of personal protective equipment, and other disaster relief purposes. In addition, the state is currently using $250 million of COVID-19 relief funding for cash management needs.

August 2020

Executive Summary

Executive Summary

Missouri has been awarded federal funding under the following federal laws enacted in March and April 2020:

- Coronavirus Preparedness and Response Supplemental Appropriations Act, 2020 (Public Law 116-123; H.R. 6074)
- Families First Coronavirus Response Act (Public Law 116-127; H.R. 6201)
- Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security (CARES) Act (Public Law 116-136; H.R. 748, as amended)
- Paycheck Protection Program and Health Care Enhancement Act (Public Law 116-139; H.R. 266)

The Coronavirus Preparedness and Response Supplemental Appropriations Act provides for grants to or cooperative agreements with states to carry out surveillance, epidemiology, laboratory capacity, infection control, mitigation, communications, and other preparedness and response activities. The state has been awarded as of August 31, 2020, approximately $18.8 million under this act for additional or new funding under various federal grant programs. Part of this funding went directly to community health centers from the federal government. Each grant program has a separate time limit on use of the funding.

The Families First Coronavirus Response Act provides Missouri a 6.2 percent Federal Medical Assistance Percentage (FMAP) increase beginning January 1, 2020, for the state's Medicaid program (MO HealthNet) and other applicable programs. The state's FMAP percentage was approximately 66 percent prior to this act.¹ The increased FMAP is available for qualifying expenditures incurred on or after that date and through the end of the quarter in which the COVID-19 public health emergency, including any extensions, ends. To qualify for the temporary FMAP increase, Missouri must:

- Maintain eligibility standards, methodologies, or procedures that are no more restrictive than what the state had in place as of January 1, 2020, (maintenance of effort requirement).
- Not charge premiums that exceed those that were in place as of January 1, 2020.

August 2020
Executive Summary

- Cover, without impositions of any cost sharing, testing, services, and treatments including vaccines, specialized equipment, and therapies related to COVID-19.
- Not terminate individuals from Medicaid if such individuals were enrolled in the program as of the date of the beginning of the emergency period, or become enrolled during the emergency period, unless the individual voluntarily terminates eligibility or is no longer a resident of the state (continuous coverage requirement).

Under the Families First Coronavirus Response Act, the state has also been awarded as of August 31, 2020, approximately $36.2 million of additional or new funding under various federal grant programs for meal assistance, food subsidies, and administrative costs. Each grant program has a separate time limit on use of the funding.

The CARES Act specifies that payments provided to the state from the Coronavirus Relief Fund² may only be used to cover costs that (1) are necessary expenditures incurred due to the public health emergency with respect to COVID-19; (2) were not accounted for in the budget most recently approved as of March 27, 2020, (the date of enactment of the CARES Act) for the state; and (3) were incurred during the period that begins on March 1, 2020, and ends on December 30, 2020. The state has received approximately $2.38 billion in Coronavirus Relief Fund assistance including nearly $173.5 million for St. Louis County and $122.7 million for Jackson County.³ Twenty-five percent of the remaining state share (approximately $521 million) was distributed to other counties in the state and the City of St. Louis based on population. In early July, the Department of the Treasury Office of Inspector General (OIG) issued interim and quarterly reporting requirements for Coronavirus Relief Fund payments. The OIG is responsible for monitoring and oversight of the receipt, disbursement, and use of these payments.

Eligible expenditures for Coronavirus Relief Fund assistance include, but are not limited to, payment for:⁴

1. Medical expenses such as:
 - COVID-19-related expenses of public hospitals, clinics, and similar facilities.

² From the U.S. Department of the Treasury, CFDA number 21.019.

³ The funding for Jackson County and St. Louis County went directly to those local governments from the federal government.

The state may also use Coronavirus Relief Fund assistance to meet immediate cash management needs provided that the full amount of the payment is used to cover necessary expenditures.⁵ If the state has not used the Coronavirus Relief Fund assistance it has received to cover costs that were incurred by December 30, 2020, as required by federal law, those funds must be returned to the federal government.

The General Assembly has authorized the Office of Administration (OA) to transfer up to $750 million in Coronavirus Relief Fund assistance from the State Emergency Management Federal Stimulus Fund to the General Revenue Fund for cash management needs. Any transferred funds must be repaid to the State Emergency Management Federal Stimulus Fund prior to June 30, 2021. In May, the OA transferred $250 million from the stimulus fund to the General Revenue Fund. No cash management transfers occurred in August.

Under the CARES Act, the state has also been awarded as of August 31, 2020, approximately $2.94 billion of additional or new funding under other various federal grant programs for assistance for public schools, institutions of higher education, and healthcare facilities; child care and family services; health care worker training programs; public health education; expanded telehealth services; and numerous other assistance services or benefits. A significant part of this funding went directly to local governments or the awarded entity. Each grant program has a separate time limit on use of the funding.

The Paycheck Protection Program and Health Care Enhancement Act provides funding to states for expanded COVID-19 testing. Under the act, the state has been awarded approximately $165 million with some of this funding going directly to rural health departments from the federal government.

In August, the state spent $96.5 million from federal COVID-19 assistance (Appendix A). Through the end of August, the state has received $2.69 billion and spent $1.20 billion from this assistance. The majority of the state's disbursements have been for MO HealthNet and other services receiving federal matching funds ($340 million) and funding passed through to counties and the City of St. Louis ($521 million).

Other funding has been (1) provided to schools, institutes of higher education, child care providers, and nursing facilities; and (2) used for food and nutrition programs, mental health services, purchase of personal protective equipment, and other disaster relief purposes. The state will be responsible for monitoring use of the funding it passes through to local governments. Details of the cumulative financial activity by fund are presented in Appendix B and the expenditures by appropriation are presented in Appendix C.

² This fund's negative $2,038,144 disbursements total and negative $658,232 transfers out total in August 2020 reflect movement of pandemic stipend activity from the original appropriation in this fund to a new identical appropriation within the State Emergency Management Federal Stimulus Fund, as intended by the Office of Administration.

² This fund's disbursement total includes $15,844,178 through August 2020, regarding activity during the fiscal year ending June 30, 2021, that we reclassified from a transfer out. See this fund's footnote in Appendix A for more details.

³ The General Assembly has authorized the Office of Administration to transfer up to $750 million in federal funds from the State Emergency Management Federal Stimulus Fund to the General Revenue Fund for cash management needs. These transferred funds must be repaid to the State Emergency Management Federal Stimulus Fund. As of the end of August, $250 million has been transferred to the General Revenue Fund.

¹ The appropriation authority is the maximum amount that may be expended for the purpose as documented and approved through appropriations bills.

² For the fiscal year ended June 30, 2021, the FMAP (Federal Medical Assistance Percentage) Enhancement Fund was only authorized an appropriation to transfer receipts to the Federal Budget Stabilization Fund and/or the General Revenue Fund. Therefore, the Department of Social Services cannot directly expend any receipted monies from the fund, as it could during the fiscal year ended June 30, 2020.

⁵ Coronavirus Relief Fund assistance must be returned to the federal government if it is not spent to cover allowable costs incurred by December 30, 2020. State officials did not know whether or to what extent the state may have to repay any funding received at the time the appropriation was established. To acknowledge the existence of the obligation, the state established appropriations authorizing the return of up to $750 million.

NICOLE GALLOWAY, CPA

Missouri State Auditor

Honorable Tishaura O. Jones, Treasurer
City of St. Louis, Missouri

We have audited certain operations of the City of St. Louis Treasurer's Office in fulfillment of our duties under Section 29.200.3, RSMo. The State Auditor initiated audits of the City of St. Louis in response to a formal request from the Board of Aldermen. The city engaged KPMG LLP, Certified Public Accountants (CPAs), to audit the city's financial statements for the year ended June 30, 2019. To minimize duplication of effort, we reviewed the CPA firm's report for the June 30, 2018 audit since the June 30, 2019 audit had not been completed. The scope of our audit included, but was not necessarily limited to, the year ended June 30, 2019. The objectives of our audit were to:

1. Evaluate the office's internal controls over significant management and financial functions.
2. Evaluate the office's compliance with certain legal provisions.
3. Evaluate the economy and efficiency of certain management practices and procedures, including certain financial transactions.

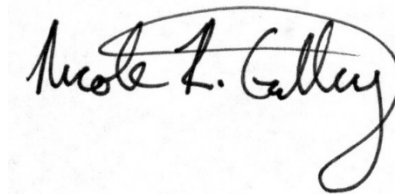

Our methodology included reviewing minutes of meetings, written policies and procedures, financial records, and other pertinent documents; interviewing various personnel of the office, as well as certain external parties; and testing selected transactions. We obtained an understanding of internal controls that are significant within the context of the audit objectives and assessed whether such controls have been properly designed and placed in operation. We tested certain of those controls to obtain evidence regarding the effectiveness of their design and operation. We also obtained an understanding of legal provisions that are significant within the context of the audit objectives, and we assessed the risk that illegal acts, including fraud, and violations of applicable contract or other legal provisions could occur. Based on that risk assessment, we designed and performed procedures to provide reasonable assurance of detecting instances of noncompliance significant to those provisions.

We conducted our audit in accordance with the standards applicable to performance audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform our audit to obtain sufficient, appropriate evidence to provide a reasonable basis for our findings and conclusions based on our audit objectives. We believe that the evidence obtained provides such a basis.

The accompanying Organization and Statistical Information is presented for informational purposes. This information was obtained from the office's management and was not subjected to the procedures applied in our audit of the office.

For the areas audited, we identified (1) deficiencies in internal controls, (2) noncompliance with legal provisions, and (3) the need for improvement in management practices and procedures. The accompanying Management Advisory Report presents our findings arising from our audit of the City of St. Louis Treasurer's Office.

Additional audits of various officials and departments of the City of St. Louis are in process, and any additional findings and recommendations will be included in subsequent reports.

City of St. Louis - Treasurer's Office

Management Advisory Report

State Auditor's Findings

1. Bank Accounts and Investments

Controls and procedures over bank accounts and investments need improvement. The Treasury Division does not perform competitive procurement of services for the deposit of most city funds. Also, Treasury Division staff do not promptly prepare bank reconciliations or timely resolve reconciling items on various bank reconciliations. In addition, division staff do not timely post investments to accounting records or maintain documentation to support investment decisions. Division officials have not obtained an annual external audit of investment activities and controls.

The Treasurer's Office processes city monies through 49 accounts at 10 banks and maintains various short term investments. At June 30, 2019, city funds held by the Treasurer's Office totaled approximately $300 million in bank accounts and $403 million in various investments.

1.1 Banking services

Neither the Treasury Division nor other city departments competitively procure services for the deposit of most city funds. Annually, the Funds Committee approves the financial institutions the city can perform business with. Officials in each city department notify the Treasury Division which bank they want to use. The city's General Fund receipts and disbursements (except for city payroll transactions processed through other accounts) are processed through one account, referred to as the clearing account. Other accounts are maintained for various enterprise and fiduciary funds of the city. The Treasurer earns varying rates of interest on the accounts with the rate earned on the large-balance accounts during June 2019 ranging from 0 to 2.43 percent. Various factors can affect the rate of interest earned on an account such as frequency, type, and amount of transactions, required minimum balances, type of institution, and collateral needs. In addition, the city incurred approximately $2,300 in bank service charges in June 2019 on the 49 bank accounts held by the city.

The Funds Committee, comprised of the Treasurer, Mayor, and Comptroller, adopted a new investment policy for the city on June 23, 2016. The policy outlines the investment priorities, from highest to lowest, as safety, liquidity, yield, local economic benefit, and social policy. The policy also outlines various other investment standards including the suitable and authorized investments.

The investment policy requires the Treasurer to select financial institutions through a formal, competitive procurement process. However, the Treasury Division has not competitively procured the bank depositaries except for the Parking Division account and the payroll account. For accounts used by other officials and departments, the Treasurer's Office uses the financial institution requested by those officials and departments. By periodically soliciting formal bids or proposals for all accounts, the Treasurer's Office could demonstrate compliance with the investment priorities and procurement process outlined in the investment policy, as well as ensuring the city is obtaining the required level of service at a reasonable cost.

Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

1.2 Bank reconciliations

Treasury Division staff do not prepare timely bank reconciliations. At the beginning of our audit fieldwork in April 2019, reconciliations for 24 of the 40 bank accounts held by the Treasury Division were at least 2 months behind and the city clearing account had not been reconciled since June 2018. The Assistant Treasurer indicated understaffing contributed to the delays. Timely bank reconciliations are necessary to ensure city records agree to the bank statements and allow discrepancies to be promptly resolved.

1.3 Timely posting and monitoring

Treasury Division staff do not always timely monitor or post wire transfers and investment activity to the daily ledger. For example, a $2.8 million certificate of deposit (CD) matured on January 27, 2019; however no one posted the money to the city's ledger until June 28, 2019, when division staff closed the accounting records for the fiscal year ended June 30, 2019. At that time, they realized the matured CD principal and interest had been put into the wrong city account. In addition, approximately $30,000 in interest from this CD was not posted to the daily ledger until September 5, 2019.

During our review of daily receipts for the week ending September 21, 2018, we noted no one posted investments made during this time. The investments for this period did not get posted until February 14, 2019. The Assistant Treasurer indicated the division lost its investment accountant in July 2018 and did not have a dedicated staff accountant to work on investments until November 2018.

In addition, during our review of the bank reconciliations we identified several outstanding wire transfers. For example, the city clearing account listed wire transfers dating back to March 2017 that had not been receipted and posted to the daily ledger as of June 30, 2019. The Assistant Treasurer indicated the division has to wait for the other departments to initiate the receipting process.

The Treasury Operations Manual states the investment detail schedule should be reviewed daily for maturing securities and adjustments should be provided to the cashier to post to the daily ledger. Failure to implement adequate recording and monitoring procedures increases the risk that loss, theft, or misuse of funds will go undetected.

1.4 Investments

The Treasury Division does not maintain adequate documentation to support investment decisions and does not have a system in place to track when CDs mature. The Treasury Division holds the city's funds in bank accounts, CDs, and obligations of federal agencies with varying maturities. As of June 30, 2019, the Treasury Division held city funds of approximately $703 million in accounts and investments. When determining the amounts available for investment and the desired maturities, Treasury Division staff indicated they consult with the applicable city departments about cash flow needs for upcoming expenses and consider the bank balances and maturities of existing investments. However, they do not document these processes, including the information received and the reasons for the decisions made. In addition, division staff do not track when CDs mature; instead they rely on email messages from the bank or the applicable city departments to notify them. Also, while bids are solicited prior to the placement of many investments, the Assistant Treasurer will sometimes reinvest maturing investments into similar instruments at the same bank without obtaining bids if the reinvestment rate offered by the bank seems reasonable. Documentation is not maintained of the reinvestment rate evaluation process. According to the Treasurer's investment policy, "investments shall be made with judgement and care;" however, without maintaining documentation compliance cannot be determined. The Treasury Division should maintain documentation of the factors considered to provide assurance that investment decisions provide for sufficient liquidity of the city's funds and maximize investment returns.

Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

1.5 External investment audit The Treasury Division does not obtain an annual external audit of investment activities and controls. Section 95.530, RSMo, and the city's investment policy require the Treasurer and the city's external auditors to report to the Comptroller on the city's compliance with the internal controls over investments at least once per year.

Similar conditions previously reported Similar conditions to MAR 1.1, 1.2, and 1.4 were noted in our prior audit report. In the Follow-up Report on Audit Findings City of St. Louis Office of Treasurer, Report No. 2018-115, released in November 2018, the Treasurer's Office stated MAR 1.1 and 1.2 were in progress and MAR 1.4 had been implemented; however, we found that corrective action taken was not always effective and problems continue to exist.

Recommendations

The Treasurer's Office:

- 1.1 Periodically solicit formal bids or proposals for all banking services.
- 1.2 Perform bank reconciliations timely for all accounts.
- 1.3 Work with other city departments, as necessary, to ensure that receipts are promptly posted to or adjusted on the accounting ledgers.
- 1.4 Maintain documentation to support investment decisions and create a system to track the maturity of CDs.
- 1.5 Obtain annual external audits of investment activity and policies.

City of St. Louis - Treasurer's Office
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Auditee's Response

- 1.1 The St. Louis City Treasurer's Office used a competitive procurement process for banking services it directly controls, the Parking Division and city payroll in 2019. Traditionally, the selection of city depositories is a two-step process. The first step requires the St. Louis Funds Committee, comprised of the Treasurer, Mayor, and Comptroller, to certify all financial institutions eligible to serve as city depositories.

Financial institutions applying to become certified city depositories must submit an application with data related to their lending activities and provide information on their community involvement and business practices. Initially, the only information requested in city depository applications was related to mortgage data. Since 2013, the information requested in the city depository application has grown to include workforce diversity, efforts to reduce the unbanked and underbanked population in St. Louis, foreclosure prevention practices, small business lending, and a Community Reinvestment Plan, which establishes clear goals for lending, investing, and charitable giving for two years. The Funds Committee uses the applications to approve a list of city depositories.

The second step of the process allows various city departments to select a financial institution that qualifies as a city depository. The Treasurer's Office is currently in discussions with other departments about re-evaluating their service agreements with existing financial institutions and anticipates having more RFPs in the future which will help to reduce banking fees and improve services for the city.

- 1.2 The failure to prepare timely bank reconciliations is the result of understaffing, which has been addressed since this audit. Previous Treasury Operation budgets only provided one staff accountant to reconcile over 40 bank accounts in addition to other duties. The Treasurer's Office has now included additional accounting staff to reconcile all city accounts in a timely fashion. In addition, we have implemented a reconciliation tracker and require that all reconciliations be completed within two weeks of the prior month. Treasury Division staff have monthly meetings to review reconciliations and any issues associated with the accounts. The reconciliations are reviewed by the Assistant Treasurer and Accounting Manager before being submitted to the Treasurer for final approval. Current reconciliations are all within compliance of the Auditor's recommendation.
- 1.3 It is the policy of the City Comptroller not to post wires to the city's General Ledger unless the city department submits a Receipt Coding Form (RCF). The Treasurer's Office does not have the authority to post wires to the general ledger without receiving an RCF. The role of the Treasurer's Office is to receive and document the wire transactions from the bank reports. The Treasury Division Clerk notifies departmental contacts daily of receipt of wires via email. All wires are maintained in a log by the Treasury Division Clerk and updated accordingly.

City of St. Louis - Treasurer's Office
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

The Treasurer's Office has increased its efforts/communications with city departments to reduce the number of outstanding wires. Our efforts have improved the timeliness of wire postings and the organization has seen a significant reduction in the number and amount of wires outstanding. The Comptroller's Office is aware of this issue and has proposed some additional measures to help address outstanding wires, including creating an additional category in the general ledger and future discussions with Oracle, the vendor for the pending Enterprise Resource Planning (ERP) system.

1.4 Additional staffing and new procedures have improved Treasury Division tracking and documentation of investment decisions. The organization performs daily/weekly review of the investments sales, purchases, and maturities. These transactions and proceeds are then reviewed by the Treasury Division's Accounting Manager for accuracy. Also, there is an additional review performed during the monthly reconciliation. The Treasury Division now obtains a minimum of three quotes for any potential investment and documents this information. The documentation for investment decisions are held by the Assistant Treasurer, Accounting Manager, and Staff Accountant. Any investments are tracked via an investment detail schedule. From this schedule, the office is aware of when investments mature and its current value. This document is updated daily.

1.5 While there is not one external audit of investment activity for the city, such activity is typically reviewed in the external audits for various city departments. We have requested that the external auditors add this to their scope of work for the annual financial audit for the City of St. Louis.

2. College Kids Children's Savings Account Program

The College Kids Children's Savings Account Coordinator does not prepare a monthly list of liabilities to reconcile to the incentive bank account balance and annual goals for collecting donations for the incentive funds are not established and analyzed.

The College Kids Children's Savings Account Program was established by the Treasurer in 2015 to provide kindergarten students enrolled in City of St. Louis public schools and charter schools within the city limits with a savings account for postsecondary education. Each participant's account is established with an initial $50 earmarked within the Treasurer's College Kids Children's Savings bank account. This account is funded from parking revenue collected by the Treasurer's Office. Additional incentives are provided by the Treasurer's Office for student attendance bonuses up to $30, matching of family contributions up to $100 per school year through fifth grade, and up to $50 per year for parent participation in financial education courses provided by the Treasurer's Office. These incentives are funded by donations held by the Treasurer in an interest bearing incentive bank account. As of May 14, 2019, the Treasurer had established 13,564 participant accounts with program balances ranging from the initial $50 earmark to $3,260 consisting of program and family contributions. The average program account balance totaled approximately $70 and 78 percent of the accounts consisted of only the initial $50 earmark. Also as of May 14, 2019, families had contributed $104,116 into 937 non-interest bearing accounts and 2,618 students had earned $170,438 in incentives held by the Treasurer in the incentive bank account.

City of St. Louis - Treasurer's Office
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

The incentive bank account balance and CD as of May 14, 2019, totaled $157,994, which is $12,444 less than the $170,438 in documented incentives earned according to the Treasurer Office's records. Office officials indicated that they have not fundraised enough money to meet the amount currently promised in incentives. Treasury Division staff indicated they periodically work with the coordinator to perform a liabilities reconciliation for the account. The coordinator stated since she started in December 2017, the incentive account balance has only been reconciled twice to the incentives earned, in August 2018 and January 2019; however neither reconciliation was documented.

Monthly identification and comparison of incentives earned to the available cash balance is necessary to ensure funds are available to satisfy all incentives. In addition, periodic analysis is needed to ensure fundraising needs are met to keep the incentives offered sustainable.

Recommendation

The Treasurer's Office should prepare a monthly list of liabilities and reconcile it to the available cash balance in the bank account. In addition, periodically analyze the incentives offered by the Treasurer's Office to the amount of donations to ensure the incentives offered are sustainable and develop a plan to cover the shortage in the account.

Auditee's Response

College Savings Account (CSA) programs are an emerging field of research and this finding may partially reflect not fully understanding their structure and management. The College Kids Children's Savings Account Program Coordinator does not incur liabilities for the program. Program liabilities and expenses are covered by the budget for the Office of Financial Empowerment and tracked accordingly. We currently have enough funds to cover all of the incentives pledged. As the program grows, we are also ramping up our fundraising capacity to meet the needs of all of our program

City of St. Louis - Treasurer's Office
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

participants. Our office will continue to evaluate the incentive structure and revise it based upon available and anticipated funds.

Auditor's Comment

Pledges represent future liabilities and the Treasurer's Office should have procedures in place to meet those liabilities and calculate any shortages that may need to be addressed through fundraising efforts.

3. Procurement Procedures and Contracts

Treasurer's Office procurement and contracting procedures and practices need improvement.

3.1 Procurement procedures

The Treasurer's Office has not established policies and procedures for the selection of vendors providing goods and services. In addition, the Treasurer's Office did not always solicit bids or proposals for goods and services, has not periodically conducted a competitive selection process for various professional services, and did not always maintain documentation supporting some procurement decisions. Our review of 45 expenditures incurred during the fiscal year ended June 30, 2019, noted the following issues:

Bids and proposals

The Treasurer's Office did not solicit bids or proposals for purchases or services for 17 of the 26 expenditures tested, which exceeded $5,000 a year. These 17 expenditures included purchases of engineering services ($38,000), legal services ($147,000), other professional services ($56,000), and various other goods and services ($676,000).

Long term contracts

The Treasurer's Office did not periodically solicit proposals for 3 of the 26 expenditures tested. Instead, office staff renegotiated or entered into long-term contracts with multiple and/or indefinite renewal periods. The contracts included purchases of investment and custodian services ($418,000), and financial advisor services ($36,000).

Documentation

The Treasurer's Office did not maintain documentation of the evaluation process used to determine the most qualified vendor selected for 4 of 9 bids/proposals reviewed. In addition, 3 of those 4 vendors did not have the lowest bid/proposal. The contracts were for parking enforcement ($247,000), investment and custodian services ($418,000), and elevator repairs ($58,000).

Conclusion

Formal procurement procedures would provide a framework for economical management of resources of the Treasurer's Office and help ensure the office receives fair value in its contracts as well as help ensure all parties are given an equal opportunity to participate in the business of the Treasurer's Office. Bids can be handled by telephone quotation, by written quotation, by sealed bid, or by advertised sealed bid. Various approaches are appropriate, based on dollar amount and type of purchase. In addition, a request for proposal or request for qualification process may be more appropriate for professional services. For engineering services, Sections 8.289 and 8.291, RSMo, provide the requirements for obtaining, evaluating, and negotiating for such services. Regardless of the approach used, complete documentation should be maintained of all bids and proposals received and justification for awarding the bid or proposal.

Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

3.2 Contracts

The Treasurer's Office does not always enter into written contracts when appropriate or monitor contracts effectively. We reviewed transactions for 43 vendors paid more than $8.1 million for the fiscal year ended June 30, 2019. We identified the following issues regarding those vendors:

- The Treasurer's Office did not always enter into written contracts. The office did not have a written contract or a current written contract in place for 18 of the 43 vendors reviewed. For example, the office paid a security company $275,000 during fiscal year 2019, but the contract on file had not been updated since June 2015 and the office paid a communications firm $47,400 during fiscal year 2019 without a contract.
- Two contracts reviewed did not adequately define the fees the vendor was allowed to charge.

Section 432.070, RSMo, requires government contracts to be in writing. Clear, detailed, and timely written contracts are necessary to ensure all parties are aware of the services to be performed and the compensation to be paid for the services.

Similar conditions
previously reported

Similar conditions to MAR 3.1 and 3.2 were noted in our prior audit report. In the Follow-up Report on Audit Findings City of St. Louis Office of Treasurer, Report No. 2018-115, released in November 2018, the Treasurer's Office stated these previous recommendations had been implemented; however, we found that corrective action taken was not always effective and problems continue to exist.

Recommendations

The Treasurer's Office:

- 3.1 Establish complete, formal procurement policies and procedures, including documentation requirements regarding the bids or proposals received and document the justification for the vendor selected. Solicit competitive bids or proposals for contracts on a periodic basis.
- 3.2 Enter into written contracts defining services provided and benefits received. In addition, the Treasurer's Office should ensure vendor contracts are updated periodically.

Auditee's Response

3.1 While the Treasurer's Office has utilized a competitive procurement process for the majority of services, we have recently implemented a revised Request for Proposals (RFP) Policy. We have begun the RFP process for one vendor, but it had to be postponed due to COVID-19. We plan to issue an RFP for two other vendors prior to December 2020.

We have procedures for contractual obligations that are greater than $5,000. We have a draft of an Intergovernmental Memorandum of Understanding for security services. Unfortunately, we have not implemented this agreement due to the postponement of events requiring security services due to COVID-19.

We submitted detailed responses regarding procurement procedures, contracts and disbursements on March 12, 2020, which addressed the comments in the audit report. In specific to the report:

a. Bids and Proposals:

- i. There are several stand-alone transactions with repeat vendors that were not a feasible option to anticipate that they would exceed $5,000 within a year due to the unique circumstances of each engagement. Therefore, an RFP process was not required. This relates to $72,000 of the other goods and services for $676,000 cited in the report.*
- ii. Our office policy is to select legal representation based on expertise, not through an RFP process. This relates to the legal services cited in the report for $147,000 and $11,000 of the other goods and services for $676,000 cited in the report.*
- iii. Our office has brokerage/consulting firms that engage in the bidding process on our behalf. This relates to the engineering services for $38,000 and $201,000 of the other goods and services for $676,000 cited in the report.*
- iv. Our office will bid out $70,000 of services prior to December 2020, which relates to the $56,000 of professional services and $14,000 of the other goods and services for $676,000 cited in the report.*
- v. Our office will finalize an intergovernmental Memorandum of Understanding for $275,000 in fiscal year 2021, which is associated with the $676,000 cited in the report.*

b. Long Term Contracts:

vi. The contracts for investment and custodial services of $418,000 and financial advisor services of $36,000 were implemented after a competitive bidding process. Subsequently, they have been renewed due to the excellent performance achieved from the utilization of their services, which includes:

a. Identifying opportunities to restructure debt and optimize financial performance, resulting in a savings of $11,500,684 in gross savings and $4,604,103 in net present value.

b. Increasing the city's portfolio book yield from 0.19 to 2.19 percent and consistently outperforming municipal benchmarks. Also, reducing fees by 50 percent while earning over $25 million in gross interest earnings for the City of St. Louis. Lastly, building relationships with several city departments which have led to a growth of assets under management by over $100 million since 2013.

c. Documentation:

vii. Several of the companies that may have had lower bids for investment and custodian services of $418,000 were disqualified based upon failure to comply with the RFP directives. The RFP Selection Committee met several times and unanimously selected the chosen vendors based upon their proposal. Official minutes reflecting the Selection Committee's decision were provided to the auditors, but our new policy will also require submission of all official scoring sheets.

viii. The contract for custodial services was established after a lengthy RFP process, which included a consultant who independently evaluated vendor responses. We provided documentation of the initial scoring before interviewing respondents in-person. This RFP resulted in improved services and $100,000 in annual savings for the City of St. Louis. The RFP Committee selected Wells Fargo based upon their expertise, customer service, and willingness to reduce their initial fees. While the RFP Committee submitted scoring sheets prior to interviews, the decision-making which occurred after the vendor interviews will be incorporated into future scoring sheets per the new policy.

City of St. Louis - Treasurer's Office
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

- ix. The parking enforcement contract for payment by phone for $247,000 was established after a lengthy process of selection and due diligence. In late 2013 the Treasurer's Office issued an RFP for integrated parking services, including ticket processing, meter maintenance, and meter collections. The RFP required vendors to submit a formal proposal and manage a pilot consisting of sixty parking meters in St. Louis for six months. Based upon references, pilot area performances, public input, and the formal proposals, two vendors were selected as finalists. We subsequently interviewed the finalists and engaged a parking consultant to analyze their proposals. Ultimately, we selected the vendor for $247,000, based upon a greater depth of municipal parking experience than the other finalist. Going forward, this type of information will be incorporated in a scoring sheet.
- x. The elevator repair vendor for $58,000 was established from an RFP process conducted from January 25, 2019, through February 26, 2019. We received four bids for this RFP. The choice was made by analyzing each of those proposals. This RFP was prompted by several elevator outages in our garages, which entrapped our customers. The elevator repair vendor at the time, who won the contract as the lowest bidder, failed to respond in a timely manner to elevator outages. As a result, we placed a priority on securing a reliable elevator maintenance company in efforts to restore the credibility of our garages. The RFP selection committee reached out to each vendor's references for in-depth discussions of performance and reliability. The chosen vendor's references consistently cited their track record for good and reliable service. Going forward, the RFP process has been revised to ensure that an official scoring sheet is included each time, which will incorporate the feedback we received regarding each vendor's references.

- 3.2 As stated in 3.1, we have procedures for contractual obligations that are greater than $5,000.

We submitted detailed responses regarding procurement procedures, contracts, and disbursements on March 12, 2020, which addressed the comments in the audit report. In specific to the report:

- i. The security company for $275,000 has a contract in place. Per the wording in the contract, it is allowable for the rates to increase based on the following terms:

City of St. Louis - Treasurer's Office
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

- a. In the event any federal, state, local tax or license rates based on gross sales or payroll, or rates for insurance coverage are increased, the charges for services provided hereunder shall automatically be increased to the extent such rate increases apply to personnel hereunder.*
- ii. The network services for $47,400 is offered to the entire City of St. Louis. It started as a franchise agreement in the early 1990s under a previous communication firm and transitioned to the services provided to-date. A formal contract for the City of St. Louis is not in place.*

4. Accounting Controls and Procedures

Internal controls in the Treasury Division are in need of improvement and employee leave records are not submitted to the Comptroller's Office.

4.1 Segregation of duties

As noted in our prior audit, receipting procedures do not provide adequate control over money received in the Treasury Division. Strengthening procedures could provide more assurance that all money received is recorded on the accounting records and deposited.

The various city departments turn over collections of fees, taxes, and other payments received to the Treasury Division for deposit into city accounts. The remitting city departments document each turnover on a Receipt Coding Form (RCF) and a Form 449 and remit these forms along with the collections to the cashier in the Treasury Division. Division staff indicated these forms are not prenumbered because they originate in multiple city departments. The Treasurer's cashier verifies the cash and checks to the form, stamps the RCF paid, records a sequential number on the form, remits one copy of the RCF to the Comptroller's Office and returns one copy of the RCF to the remitting department. The cashier also records the collections and RCF document numbers on the daily ledger, deposits the cash collections, and sends the checks and the 449 forms to a clerk in the Treasury Division who deposits the checks and compares each form's information to the daily ledger.

During our previous audit conducted in 2008, the cashier's supervisor compared the bank deposits to the daily ledgers to ensure payments recorded on the daily ledger are deposited and accounted for the sequential order of the RCFs; however, the Treasury Division Manager indicated this control is no longer in place because the department being understaffed. He stated this review is now completed during the monthly bank reconciliation. However, as noted in MAR 1.2, bank reconciliations are not performed timely. Also, these procedures would only ensure payments recorded on the daily ledger are deposited; however, errors or irregularities could occur that these procedures would not detect. Because the RCFs and 449 forms are not prenumbered, but are instead assigned a sequential number by the cashier receiving them and the cashier also deposits the cash received, there is less assurance that all collections are posted to the daily ledger. During the fiscal year ended June 30, 2019, average monthly receipts of cash and checks remitted to the Treasury Division totaled approximately $19 million.

Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Prenumbered receipt slips or supporting documents would provide more assurance that all transactions are accounted for properly and assets are adequately safeguarded. If prenumbered documents or receipts are not feasible, the Treasury Division should consider having someone independent of the cashier periodically confirm recorded RCF and 449 form documents with the various remitting departments.

4.2 Centralized leave records The Treasurer's Office does not submit employee leave records to the Comptroller's Office to maintain and reconcile with the city's centralized leave records. While records of vacation leave, medical/sick leave and compensatory time earned, taken, or accumulated are prepared and maintained by the Treasurer's Office, they are not submitted to the Comptroller's Office to be properly accounted for by the city. Comptroller's Office officials indicated it would be useful to receive this information periodically.

By not submitting complete leave records to the Comptroller's Office, the city cannot ensure total city employees' compensatory time and leave usage and balances are accurate and properly accounted for. Centralized records also aid in ensuring equitable treatment of employees, and help demonstrate compliance with the Fair Labor Standards Act.

Recommendation

The Treasurer's Office:

- 4.1 Strengthen controls over monies received by the Treasury Division.
- 4.2 Ensure records of vacation leave, medical/sick leave, and compensatory time are forwarded to the Comptroller's Office.

Auditee's Response

- 4.1 Processing and management of Receipt Coding Forms (RCF) extend beyond the control of the Treasurer's Office. However, the Treasury Division's monetary controls are documented in the Treasury Operations Procedure Manual. Monetary controls have been strengthened with a daily review and verification of funds deposited into the various banking accounts by Treasury Division staff. The Treasury Division has added a dedicated staff person who has resumed independently reviewing bank deposits and the ledger daily. Any potential variances are researched within a timely manner, communicated to Treasury Division Management and addressed

City of St. Louis - Treasurer's Office
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

until the outcome is rendered. The Treasury Division documents the explanation and detail regarding any discrepancies in confidential e-mail correspondence between the bank in question, adjustments, and reconciliations as needed.

Additionally, the Cashier reviews checks written on the Airport and Water accounts and compares the bank statements to the information in the current accounting software, AIMS. If there is any discrepancy, the Accountant contacts the bank to resolve or question any items that were not resolved through positive pay.

In order to comply with the recommendation of having someone independent of the Cashier to confirm RCFs with various remitting departments, additional staff would be required, such as another Treasury Division Accountant or Accounting Manager. In the meantime, we have created a log to maintain an additional record of this process.

The RCF process is paper-driven, in which all departments are required to submit RCFs with their cash deposits. The Cashier for the Treasury Division processes all RCFs by stamping the paperwork and creating a new RCF number for booking and tracking purposes. It is not within our authority to create RCF numbers that match department invoices. Any changes or improvements to the RCF numbering system will be addressed by the ERP system, which is scheduled to be installed in August 2021.

- 4.2 The current payroll system used by the Comptroller's Office does not have the capability of tracking Treasurer's Office employee leave records due to this office having independent leave policies and accrual rates from the City. The Comptroller's Office, and the City of St. Louis, are implementing a new ERP system, which will include time keeping software program with the capability to track all departments' employee leave records. The Treasurer's Office submits leave records to the city's external auditors on an annual basis. The Comptroller's Office has not previously requested that leave records be provided. However, the Treasurer's Office will provide leave records if requested.

City of St. Louis - Treasurer's Office

Organization and Statistical Information

The Office of Treasurer is an elective office. The Treasurer's duties are defined in Missouri statutes and the city of St. Louis Revised Code. These duties include serving as the custodian of city funds, ensuring the amount of money needed for current city operations is available, and investing money not currently needed in investment vehicles as allowed by the city's investment policy. Additionally, as provided by the City of St. Louis Revised Code Section 3.130.010, the Treasurer was given the authority to establish the Office of Financial Empowerment, to research and conduct educational programs, provide counseling and disseminate information regarding financial education, small business support, and access to banking for residents of the city. In addition, as provided by Section 82.485, RSMo, the Treasurer serves as the supervisor of city parking meters and facilities. In this role, it is the Treasurer's responsibility to collect all parking meter fees, enforce parking laws, supervise the expenditures for repairs and maintenance, and to make all disbursements on any parking contracts.

Tishaura O. Jones currently serves as the Treasurer and Parking Meter Supervisor for the City of St. Louis. She was elected to her position in November 2012 and reelected in November 2016. Her current term expires in December 2020. Office functions are performed and supervised by the Treasurer's appointed staff in the Parking Division, Office of Financial Empowerment, and the Treasury Division. The Treasurer employs approximately 124 employees in the Parking Division, 3 employees in the Office of Financial Empowerment, and 8 employees in the Treasury Division.

NICOLE GALLOWAY, CPA

Missouri State Auditor

Honorable Michael L. Parson, Governor
and
Members of the General Assembly
Jefferson City, Missouri

The primary objective of this compilation is to report the filing status for political subdivisions other than cities, towns, and villages, required to file a financial report, under Section 105.145, RSMo, and 15 CSR 40-3.030. Section 105.145, RSMo, provides that the State Auditor's Office notify the Department of Revenue if any political subdivision fails to timely submit a copy of its annual financial report. Because of different filing requirements, a separate report is issued for cities, towns, and villages.

The filing status for the 12 political subdivisions required to file a financial report by August 31, 2020, is presented in summary on page 3 and by individual entity in Appendix A. We have not audited the reports submitted and, accordingly, do not express an opinion or any other assurance on them.

This report also includes the updated filing status for political subdivisions, other than cities, towns, and villages, that filed a financial report in August 2020, after their filing deadline. The filing status for these 117 entities is presented in summary on page 3 and by individual entity in Appendix B-E.

The State Auditor's Office posts individual annual financial reports to its website. A searchable link is available at <http://auditor.mo.gov>.

Section 105.145, RSMo, requires the state auditor to notify the Department of Revenue if any political subdivision fails to timely submit a copy of its annual financial report. Any political subdivision that fails to timely submit the annual financial report shall be subject to a fine of $500 per day upon notice by the Department of Revenue, except transportation development districts with a gross revenues less than $5,000 in the fiscal year of the annual financial report.

This report includes the filing status for the 12 political subdivisions, other than cities, towns, and villages, with a fiscal year end of February 29, 2020. Cities, towns, and villages have additional filing requirements and their reporting status is included in a separate report. Of the 12 political subdivisions, 7 filed an annual financial report timely.

Missouri State Auditor

Honorable Michael L. Parson, Governor
and
Members of the General Assembly
Jefferson City, Missouri

The primary objective of this compilation is to report the filing status for the municipality required to file a financial report by August 31, 2020, under Section 105.145, RSMo, and 15 CSR 40-3.030, and, when applicable, an addendum under Section 479.359, RSMo, and 15 CSR 40-3.170 and a municipal court certification under Section 479.360, RSMo, and 15 CSR 40-3.180.

Section 105.145, RSMo, provides that the State Auditor's Office (SAO) notify the Department of Revenue if any city, town, or village fails to timely submit a copy of its annual financial report. Additionally, Section 479.362, RSMo, provides that the SAO notify the Department of Revenue whether counties, cities, towns, and villages have timely filed under Sections 479.359 and 479.360, RSMo. Because of different filing requirements, a separate report is issued for all other political subdivisions required to file a financial report.

The filing status for the 5 cities and 4 villages is presented in summary on page 3 and by individual entity in Appendix A. This compilation is limited to presenting information submitted to our office. We have not audited the information submitted and, accordingly, do not express an opinion or any other form of assurance on it.

This report includes the updated filing status for municipalities that filed at least one of the items (financial report, addendum, or certification) in August 2020, after their filing deadline. The filing status for these 35 cities, 2 towns, and 22 villages is presented in summary on pages 3 and 4 and by individual entity in Appendixes B to E.

Executive Summary

Executive Summary

Section 105.145, RSMo, requires the governing body of each political subdivision, except counties and school districts, in the state to prepare and remit to the state auditor an annual report of financial transactions. 15 CSR 40-3.030 requires the financial report to be remitted to the state auditor within 6 months of the end of the political subdivision's fiscal year. The State Auditor's Office (SAO) posts individual annual financial reports to its website. A searchable link is available at <http://auditor.mo.gov>.

Section 105.145, RSMo, requires the state auditor to notify the Department of Revenue if any political subdivision fails to timely submit a copy of its annual financial report. Any political subdivision that fails to timely submit the annual financial report shall be subject to a fine of $500 per day upon notice by the Department of Revenue, except transportation development districts with a gross revenues less than $5,000 in the fiscal year of the annual financial report.

Section 479.359.1, RSMo, requires every county, city, town, and village to annually calculate the percentage of its annual general operating revenue received from fines, bond forfeitures, and court costs for minor traffic violations.

Section 479.359.3, RSMo, provides that all entities having a municipal court file an addendum to the annual financial report containing items listed in 15 CSR 40-3.170, which also provides the procedures to file an addendum.

Section 479.360, RSMo, requires every county, city, town, and village that has a municipal court to file, with its annual financial report, a certification of substantial compliance with 10 municipal court procedures. This certification must be signed by the municipal court judge. 15 CSR 40-3.180 provides the procedure to file the municipal court certification. Any county, city, town, or village that does not have a municipal court judge is not required to file a certification.

Section 479.362, RSMo, requires that the SAO notify the Department of Revenue whether counties, cities, towns, or villages have timely filed their addendums under Section 479.359 and certificates of substantial compliance under Section 479.360, RSMo. Section 479.368, RSMo, provides penalties for counties, cities, towns, and villages that fail to file, including loss of revenue and mandatory ballot measure to dissolve the political subdivision.

This report includes the filing status for the 5 cities and 4 villages with a fiscal year end of February 29, 2020, whose financial report was due by August 31, 2020. Of the 9 municipalities, 4 filed the report timely. Of the 4 municipalities required to file an addendum, 1 filed timely. Of the 3 municipalities required to file a certification, none filed the certification timely.

This report includes the filing status for 35 cities, 2 towns, and 22 villages that filed at least one of the items (financial report, addendum, or certification)

NICOLE GALLOWAY, CPA

Missouri State Auditor

Honorable Michael L. Parson, Governor
and
Members of the General Assembly
and
Board of Directors of Fire Protection
Districts in Greene County

Certain fire protection districts are required by Section 321.690, RSMo, to be audited and to submit their audit reports to the State Auditor's Office (SAO). To address our responsibilities of Section 321.690.3, RSMo, and 15 CSR 40-4.010 to 15 CSR 40-4.020, we have reviewed the independent audit reports of the fire protection districts in Greene County for audit periods ending December 31, 2019. The purpose of this review was to evaluate the districts' compliance with statutory audit requirements and SAO regulations. Because our review is limited to statutory and regulatory compliance, we do not express an opinion or any other form of assurance on the audit reports.

There are 11 fire protection districts in Greene County. Each district has a fiscal year end of December 31. All the districts, except for the Ash Grove Fire Protection District, submitted audit reports for the year or 2 years ended December 31, 2019, when required. Section 321.690.2, RSMo, requires certain fire protection districts to have an audit performed biennially, and Section 321.690.3, RSMo, requires the districts to forward the audit report to our office within 6 months of fiscal year end. Some of the districts were not required to submit a report in 2020, because they obtain biennial audits and the most recent audit report submitted was for the 2 years ended December 31, 2018. These districts are expected to submit a biennial audit report for the 2 years ended December 31, 2020. The Ash Grove Fire Protection District did not timely obtain the required independent audit for the 2 years ended December 31, 2019. However, the district has engaged independent auditors to perform an audit for that period. Upon completion of the audit, the district is expected to submit the report to the SAO.

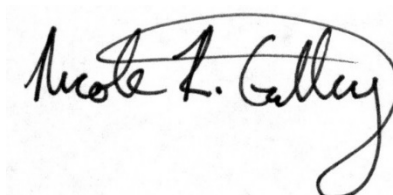

The SAO posts the individual audit reports to the office's website. A searchable link is available at <https://auditor.mo.gov>. A table summarizing our review of the Greene County fire protection districts' audit reports follows.

District	Audit Report Period	Report Complied with Section 321.690.3, RSMo	Findings in Independent Audit Report

Walnut Grove	1 Year Ended 12/31/19	Yes	No
West Republic ¹
Willard	1 Year Ended 12/31/19	Yes ²	No

¹ The fire protection district had an independent audit for the 2 years ended December 31, 2018. The district's next audit is expected to cover the 2 years ended December 31, 2020, and is required to be submitted to the SAO no later than June 30, 2021.

² The audit report was filed after the statutory deadline of 6 months after the close of the fiscal year end.

Except for the Ash Grove Fire Protection District failing to obtain and submit an audit report, we identified no other concerns from our review of the audit reports submitted by the Greene County fire protection districts.

CITIZENS SUMMARY

Findings in the audit of St. Louis County

Background

The former County Executive, Steve Stenger, was indicted on April 25, 2019, and pleaded guilty on May 3, 2019 to three federal counts of honest services bribery/mail fraud in a pay-to-play scheme involving county procurement operations. On August 9, 2019, he was sentenced to 46 months in prison and fined $250,000.

On May 10, 2019, Sheila Sweeney, the former Chief Executive Officer (CEO) of the St. Louis Economic Development Partnership (SLEDP) pleaded guilty in U.S. District Court to one count of misprision of a felony. On August 16, 2019, Sweeney was sentenced to probation and fined $20,000.

On May 7, 2019, the County Council unanimously approved a resolution requesting the State Auditor perform an independent review of county operations. The State Auditor accepted the request on May 15, 2019.

Former County Executive Abused His Position

Several significant weaknesses in the county's charter and ordinances allowed the former County Executive to abuse his position to manipulate the procurement and contract award processes of the county. The former County Executive held contracts indefinitely prior to execution, resulting in the delay of projects, and the loss of federal funding and contractors. The former County Executive manipulated procurement procedures and processes, which gave him more influence over county procurement decisions. Due to a lack of oversight from the SLEDP Board, the former County Executive used his position to set the compensation for the former SLEDP CEO.

Inadequate County Council Oversight

A lack of adequate oversight by the County Council helped allow the former County Executive to take actions not in the best interests of the county. The County Council passed ordinances allowing the county to enter into a significant lease without reviewing the lease agreement, cost analysis, appraisals, and other supporting documentation. The County Council does not review all non-merit employees appointed by the County Executive, allowing the County Executive to shift approximately $1 million per year in personnel expenses for executive employees to other county departments. The County Council has not fully utilized the office of the County Auditor and requested audits of concerns brought to the attention of the Council, and has not ensured the County Auditor has the appropriate qualifications.

Unauthorized Payments of SLEDP Funds

The former SLEDP CEO abused her position by overseeing large bonuses for herself and other administrators that were not authorized or approved by the Board. In addition, the former Chief Financial Officer (CFO) abused her position to provide herself with paid time off (PTO) hours without proper authorization or documented approval. The former SLEDP CEO and former CFO oversaw bonus payments totaling $348,000 to SLEDP employees in 2016 and 2017. The former CFO instructed staff to add an additional 320 hours to her PTO balance without proper authorization or documented approval, and rolled over 100 percent of PTO hours in 2016 and 2017 to future periods, contrary to SLEDP policy, without approval.

SLEDP Board Oversight	The SLEDP Board provided limited oversight and monitoring of the former CEO and SLEDP organizational activities, and did not fulfill the function of the board to "fix the terms and conditions of such employment or contract for services," of the SLEDP CEO. The SLEDP paid bonuses to employees without sufficient Board oversight or approval. In addition, the SLEDP did not have procedures to evaluate and determine which employees earned bonuses and the amount of the bonus.
County Personnel Policies and Records	Policies and procedures regarding appointed employees need improvement. The county has poor controls in place for ensuring timesheets are signed and approved before appointed employees are paid. The county had not prepared job descriptions for 46 of the 60 appointed positions tested (77 percent) as of February 2020.
Best and Final Offers	The Procurement Division has not established a formal policy for the use of best and final offers.
SLEDP Procurement	SLEDP procurement procedures need improvement. Procurement documentation was not always retained and contracts may not have been adequately reviewed or evaluated prior to execution.

In the areas audited, the overall performance of this entity was Poor. *

*The rating(s) cover only audited areas and do not reflect an opinion on the overall operation of the entity. Within that context, the rating scale indicates the following:

Missouri State Auditor

To the Honorable Dr. Sam Page, County Executive
and
St. Louis County Council
and
St. Louis Economic Development Partnership Board
St. Louis County, Missouri

We have audited certain operations of the St. Louis County in fulfillment of our duties under Section 29.200.3, RSMo. The State Auditor initiated an audit of the St. Louis County in response to a formal request from the County Council. Our audit also included certain operations of the St. Louis Economic Development Partnership. The scope of our audit included, but was not necessarily limited to, the 2 years ended December 31, 2019. The objectives of our audit were to:

1. Evaluate internal control over significant management and financial functions.
2. Evaluate compliance with certain legal provisions.
3. Evaluate the economy and efficiency of certain management practices and procedures, including certain financial transactions and procurement policies and procedures.

We conducted our audit in accordance with the standards applicable to performance audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform our audit to obtain sufficient, appropriate evidence to provide a reasonable basis for our findings and conclusions based on our audit objectives. We believe that the evidence obtained provides such a basis.

For the areas audited, we identified (1) deficiencies in internal controls, (2) noncompliance with legal provisions, and (3) the need for improvement in management practices and procedures. The accompanying Management Advisory Report presents our findings arising from our audit of St. Louis County.

St. Louis County

Introduction

Background

The former County Executive, Steve Stenger, was elected to the County Council in November of 2008 and served on the County Council from 2009 through 2014. In November 2014, Steve Stenger was elected for a 4-year term as the St. Louis County Executive, took office in January 2015, and was reelected for a second term in November 2018. He was indicted on April 25, 2019 and pleaded guilty on May 3, 2019, to three federal counts of honest services bribery/mail fraud in a pay-to-play scheme involving county procurement operations. On August 9, 2019, he was sentenced to 46 months in prison and fined $250,000.

As discussed throughout the report, the former County Executive abused his position and manipulated and circumvented procurement and contract policies and procedures as part of the pay-to-play scheme.

On May 10, 2019, Sheila Sweeney, the former Chief Executive Officer (CEO) of the St. Louis Economic Development Partnership (SLEDP) pleaded guilty in U.S. District Court to one count of misprision of a felony. Sheila Sweeney was appointed as interim CEO of the SLEDP on June 24, 2015 and became the CEO on or about August 2015. On January 3, 2019, prior to the federal indictment of Steve Stenger, the SLEDP Board of Directors replaced Sweeney with a new CEO. The federal indictment¹ of Steve Stenger states Sheila Sweeney worked at the direction of Steve Stenger to award contracts as directed by Stenger for the SLEDP, which is further discussed in MAR finding number 1.3. On August 16, 2019, Sweeney was sentenced to probation and fined $20,000.

John Rallo, a local business owner, pleaded guilty to three felony counts of honest services bribery/mail fraud on July 16, 2019. According to his indictment,² John Rallo made:

political donations to Stenger throughout 2015, 2016, 2017, and in April, 2018, all with the understanding from Stenger that in exchange he would help Rallo and Cardinal Insurance get insurance contracts with St. Louis County and, ultimately, help Rallo get a consulting contract from the St. Louis County Port Authority. Stenger also helped Rallo and a group known as Wellston Holdings, LLC obtain land in Wellston, Missouri for development purposes. Rallo also held several fundraisers for Stenger where Rallo invited friends and associates who also made political donations to Stenger. During 2015, Stenger requested that Rallo become a member of Stenger's "Trustee" program, a group of individuals who agreed to donate $2,500 to Stenger each quarter, for a total of $10,000 per year. Rallo agreed to become a Trustee, and also recruited one other member of Wellston Holdings, LLC to become a Trustee. Together, Rallo and the other member of Wellston Holdings, LLC personally donated approximately $50,000 to Stenger, and obtained additional political donations for Stenger through several fund raisers.

Rallo's activities are discussed in MAR finding number 1.3. On March 5, 2020, John Rallo was sentenced in federal court to 17 months in prison and 2 years of probation.

As part of their guilty pleas, Stenger, Sweeney, and Rallo were ordered to pay $130,000 in restitution to the St. Louis County Port Authority.

On May 31, 2019, William Miller, Steve Stenger's Chief of Staff, pleaded guilty to a felony count of aiding and abetting honest services bribery/wire fraud. According to William Miller's indictment,³ Stenger directed Miller to contact Sheila Sweeney to ensure a lobbying firm, who was also a political contributor to Steve Stenger, was awarded a state lobbying services contract as discussed in MAR finding number 1.3. On September 6, 2019, William Miller was sentenced to 15 months in federal prison followed by 3 years of probation.

The County Executive is the chief executive officer of the county and is elected, in partisan elections, to 4-year terms. The County Council is the legislative body of the county. Its seven members are elected to 4-year staggered terms, by district, in partisan elections. The presiding officer of the County Council is the Chairman, who is selected from among the County Council members every calendar year. The county provides the full range of services contemplated by statute or charter. These include public safety, transportation services, community health and social services, culture-recreation, public improvements, planning and zoning, and general administrative services.

The SLEDP, formerly known as the St. Louis County Economic Council, was established November 19, 1984 with the purpose to engage in all such lawful activities as necessary to advance the social welfare, health, and economic interest of St. Louis County. On August 1, 2013, the Economic Council entered into an intergovernmental agreement with the County and the City of St. Louis to expand its operations to include both St. Louis County and St. Louis City, Missouri, and thereafter changed its name to SLEDP. The SLEDP

St. Louis County Introduction

consists of up to 15 board members, 11 of which are appointed by the St. Louis County Executive.

Scope and Methodology

On May 7, 2019, the County Council unanimously approved resolution number 6448 requesting the State Auditor perform an independent review of county operations. The State Auditor accepted the request on May 15, 2019. The scope of our audit included, but was not necessarily limited to, the 2 years ended December 31, 2019.

To gain an understanding of the personnel, procurement, contract, and lease controls and procedures, we held discussions with personnel from the St. Louis County and SLEDP, elected officials, and reviewed written policies and procedures. We obtained an understanding of the internal controls that are significant within the context of the audit objectives and assessed whether such controls have been properly designed and placed in operation. In addition, we reviewed County Council meeting minutes and met with the County Auditor to obtain an understanding of actions taken.

In addition, to gain an understanding of legal provisions that are significant within the context of the audit objectives, we reviewed relevant sections of the county charter, ordinances, and statutes. We assessed the risk that fraud and violations of applicable contract or other legal provisions could occur. Based on that risk assessment, we designed and performed procedures to provide reasonable assurance of detecting instance of noncompliance significant to those provisions.

To evaluate whether personnel, procurement, contract, and lease procedures are compliant in accordance with county, SLEDP, and statutory requirements, we judgmentally selected and tested 104 personnel records for appointed employees from the county, and 30 and 23 procurement solicitations from the county and SLEDP respectively. In addition, we reviewed bonus payments and paid time off records for the SLEDP.

To evaluate the economy and efficiency of certain management practices and procedures, we gained an understanding of procurement processes including competitive bidding, vendor selection, and contract execution for the county and SLEDP. In addition, we reviewed payroll and human resources procedures including payroll for appointed positions for the county, budgeting of appointed positions for the county, hiring practices for appointed positions for the county, paid time off procedures for the SLEDP, bonus procedures for the SLEDP, performance appraisals procedures for the SLEDP, and hiring practices for the SLEDP. Also, we reviewed the procedures for handling the purchase, sale, or transfer of real estate for the SLEDP. We also reviewed the leasing procedures, the County Council's approval of leasing procedures for the county, and the County Council's use of the County Auditor. We based our evaluation on state law, the St. Louis County Charter and ordinance, Governmental Auditing Standards, accepted Institute of Internal Auditor standards, and The National Association of State Procurement Officials best practices.

St. Louis County Management Advisory Report State Auditor's Findings

1. Former County Executive Abused His Position

Several significant weaknesses in the county's charter and ordinances allowed the former County Executive to abuse his position to manipulate the procurement and contract award processes of the county. The County Charter allows the County Executive to delay contracts indefinitely and ordinances regarding procurement procedures provided the former County Executive the ability to manipulate those procedures. The former County Executive also abused his position to influence the former SLEDP CEO to manipulate various contracts and land development deals. In addition, the County Council did not provide adequate oversight of the former County Executive, which allowed these abuses to continue.

1.1 Contracts held

The former County Executive held contracts indefinitely prior to execution, resulting in the delay of projects, and the loss of federal funding and contractors. In addition, the former County Executive held contracts prior to the County Council's review and delayed renewals. The county has not established a procedure to prevent the County Executive from holding contracts indefinitely.

We identified the following concerns:

- The former County Executive held 13 of 21 contracts tested (62 percent) for more than 14 days prior to signing. He held 4 contracts for more than 100 days, with the longest held for 260 days. He held these 13 contracts for an average of 81 days. A list of the contracts and the length of time the former County Executive held them is included at Appendix E.
- The county lost federal funding due to the former County Executive holding a contract. On March 24, 2015, the County Council approved a federally funded sidewalk project and later received a bid of $164,000 for construction. According to a Missouri Department of Transportation (MoDOT) official, this project would provide a pedestrian route to Larimore Elementary School. The project was subsequently canceled by the Department of Public Works on January 22, 2016, because the former County Executive refused to sign the contract for more than 9 months. Email messages between the that department, the County Counselor's Office and the former County Executive's office show department officials attempted to save the project. The messages also showed MoDOT had approved the contractor and the county did not provide adequate justification to the MoDOT to cancel and rebid the project. In addition, the contractor had to hold a bond for the project during the time the former County Executive refused to sign the contract, despite it being approved by the County Council. The contract was not rebid and the county did not start the project.
- The former County Executive held a road construction contract approved by the County Council on May 10, 2016, for more than 5 months before the project was canceled. According to a letter from Department of Public Works personnel to the former County Executive, this contract was for the milling and resurfacing of Hildesheim Avenue and South Broadway Street. On November 1, 2016, the attorney for the contractor contacted the former County Executive's office to inquire why the project had not been authorized to proceed and stated, "the unnecessary delays on this Project have increased its costs and have made it difficult for the Project to be completed within the time designated in the contract." On December 20, 2016, the attorney for the contractor brought the delay to the County Council's attention at the County Council meeting during the public forum. Based on the meeting minutes, the attorney stated, his "client was notified it was the low bidder, was issued a contract it signed and returned, attended a pre-construction conference, and mobilized and was prepared to do the work upon receipt of a notice to proceed." In addition, the attorney informed the County Council of the contractor's efforts to communicate with the former County Executive and the Department of Public Works. The attorney told us 2 weeks after that meeting, the contractor received an envelope from St. Louis County returning the bond and the unsigned contract, indicating the contract was canceled without any stated explanation.

St. Louis County
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

- The former County Executive held requests to approve a selected contractor from the County Council. Projects solicited using the county's request for proposal (RFP) process and some transportation projects solicited using the invitation for bid (IFB) process, must pass through the County Executive's office prior to going to the County Council to enact legislation to award the contract. This process provides the County Executive another opportunity to hold contracts. For example, for 2 of 9 RFPs tested, the Department of Public Works sent the request to the former County Executive, however, he did not send the request to the County Council. One of these contracts was held for approximately 9 months and the other never officially canceled.

For the contract held 9 months, Department of Public Works personnel indicated a request for the department's selected contractor was sent to the former County Executive's office on April 13, 2018. Department personnel could not locate any documentation of the cancellation and indicated the request must have been canceled verbally. This project was eventually rebid as an IFB.

For the contract never officially canceled, Department of Public Works personnel indicated the request for the department's selected contractor was sent to the former County Executive's office on November 16, 2017, however, this project was never executed.

St. Louis County
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Department personnel did not know why these projects were held up, and we identified no reasons explaining the cancellations.

Conclusion

The ability of the County Executive to unilaterally hold and fail to execute contracts that had been properly procured resulted in a loss of funding from outside sources, delayed completion of approved projects, and the loss of the contractors selected by bid or proposal. Allowing the County Executive to unilaterally cancel a contract by inaction also results in a loss in transparency of the procurement and contracting process because it is not always clear why contracts are being held, and there is no requirement the County Executive disclose which contracts are being held or why. Allowing the County Executive to unilaterally undo the county procurement process serves no legitimate purpose.

Requiring the County Executive to make his objections to contracts known to the Council, or allowing the Council to execute contracts without the executive's signature would help prevent unnecessary delays, help ensure outside funding for projects is not lost, and would improve transparency of the procurement and contracting process.

1.2 Procedures manipulated

The former County Executive manipulated procurement procedures and processes, which gave him more influence over county procurement decisions.

Selection committee ordinances were abused

County personnel from the Procurement Division and the Department of Public Works indicated the former County Executive manipulated the contractor selection process by adding employees from the former County Executive's staff to selection committees for RFPs. The ordinances for the RFP process did not specify who should be on the selection committees, which allowed the former County Executive to add people from his office to the selection committees so that he could control who was awarded contracts. For example, for 2 of the 9 RFPs tested, 50 percent or more of the selection committee was comprised of employees in positions appointed by the County Executive.

Four of the six members of one selection committee for one project were in appointed positions, with three members being from the former County Executive's office. Department of Public Works officials indicated when the selection committee met to discuss proposal scores, the three members of the selection committee from the former County Executive's office did not score the proposals prior to the meeting, but instead waited until the other three members presented their scores before scoring the proposals. Procurement meeting minutes provided by the Department of Public Works show these three employees left the room twice to discuss the selection and submitted scoring sheets, which resulted in the selection of the contractor preferred by the former County Executive's office, according to county personnel. In addition, the other appointed employ (the former Director of the Children's Service Fund) scored the contractors similarly to these employees. None of these 4 employees had prior public works experience.

Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

In addition, five of eight members of another selection committee were in appointed positions, with three of the members being from the former County Executive's office.

The County Council has taken action to address the weakness in the county ordinance that allowed the former County Executive to take advantage of the selection committee process. In November 2018, Chapter 107.132 of the county's ordinances was updated to require the selection committee be made up of three or more subject experts and to require the Procurement Director to certify the RFP process was followed. Additionally, on May 15, 2018, the county updated 110.040 section of the county's ordinances to require the County Counselor's office receive approval for any contract over $10,000 relating to the County Counselor or for services to be provided to the office of the County Counselor.

Lease procurement

County personnel indicated the normal procedures for leasing were circumvented by the former County Executive for the Northwest Crossing lease. This lease involved relocating several county offices. See Management Advisory Report (MAR) finding number 2.1 for more detail on this lease. The former Department of Public Works Director refused to sign the Northwest Crossing leases but they were instead signed by the Chief of Operations, who reports to the County Executive. Section 4.310 of the County Charter states the Director of Public Works is responsible for any "acquisition, by purchase or otherwise, of any interest in real property, except as otherwise provided by this charter or by ordinance." County standard operating procedure for new leases states, "the Director of Public Works initials a decision memo requesting the lease agreement be signed and signs a minimum of four copies of the Lease document, with a copy of the authorizing ordinance attached."

County personnel indicated instead of having the county's Department of Public Works facilitate the leases for Northwest Crossing, the former County Executive assigned his former campaign manager to facilitate the leases. In addition, the former Director of the Department of Public Works noted his department was not as involved with the Northwest Crossings leases as the department typically is and he could not recall being included in any conversations considering the leases.

The former Director of the Department of Public Works indicated the department would typically be involved in all of the lease analyses, because it has more experience with leases and handles them more frequently. He indicated the County Counselor's office was aware that his department was being circumvented and the County Counselor's office reviewed the lease prior to his department receiving it.

The former County Executive received $237,500 in campaign contributions from the developers of Northwest Crossings project in the timeframe prior to and after the signing of the Northwest Crossings lease. Contributions of this nature give the appearance of a significant conflict of interest.

In response to public concerns over the appearance of these conflicts, the county's charter was updated by a general election to include Section 12.020 which states, "No candidate committee for a person who is a candidate for an elective office authorized by this Charter shall accept a campaign contribution from any person who, or entity that is competing or submitting an application for any St. Louis County contract beginning ninety (90) days before any solicitation or request for proposals issued and ending ninety (90) days after the corresponding contract has been awarded."

process abused

Ordinances guiding the IFB and RFP procurement processes did not clearly define when each process should be used. Under the IFB process, the lowest responsive bidder is selected, while the RFP process allows for more subjectivity so that the winning bidder is not necessarily the lowest. According to county personnel in the Procurement Division and the Department of Public Works, the former County Executive took advantage of these ordinances not clearly defining which projects should go through which process and required several projects previously bid using the IFB process to be solicited using the RFP process. This allowed the former County Executive to avoid the requirement to select the lowest bidder and may have led to higher procurement costs.

In October 2018, Section 107.132 of the St. Louis County Ordinances was updated to specifically outline when a RFP can be used for procurement. In addition, since the changes in October 2018, RFPs over $100,000 are required to be approved by the County Council prior to solicitation. A policy was also added by the Procurement Division after the October 2018 revision, requiring departments to submit a form for approval prior to solicitation by RFP. Also, the Director of Procurement must certify that the RFP process was followed. After these changes went into effect, we noted several instances where a contract was procured as an RFP during the Stenger administration, but was subsequently procured using the IFB process.

Insufficient oversight from
the County Council

The County Council did not provide sufficient oversight of the former County Executive's operations. The Council allowed procedures to be circumvented and did not use the County Auditor to investigate issues brought to its attention. See MAR finding number 2 for additional information.

St. Louis County
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Conclusion

Effective procurement processes help ensure the county is getting the best product or service for the best price. The county has made improvements to the selection committee and procurement ordinances to help ensure the integrity of the county's procurement processes going forward.

1.3 Manipulation of the SLEDP Chief Executive Officer

Due to a lack of oversight from the SLEDP Board (discussed in detail at MAR finding number 4), the former County Executive used his position to set the compensation for the former SLEDP CEO. Based on information publicly obtained,⁴ her annual compensation package was approximately $131,000, or 45 percent, greater than the compensation package of the CEO prior to her (see table 4 in MAR finding number 4 for additional information). The federal indictment⁵ of Steve Stenger states Sheila Sweeney worked at the direction of Steve Stenger to award contracts as directed by Stenger for the SLEDP.

SLEDP procurement process
manipulated

The former CEO of the SLEDP colluded with the former County Executive to assist certain contractors in winning SLEDP contracts, improperly increased a contract amount, and executed contracts on real estate without obtaining appraisals.

A test of 23 judgmentally selected contracts, identified 5 contracts with the following concerns:

Cardinal Creative

In April 2016, the former County Executive directed the former CEO to improperly coordinate with John Rallo,⁶ principal of Cardinal Creative Consulting, to ensure his proposal to provide professional services as a media consultant was selected by the St. Louis County Port Authority. While Cardinal Creative Consulting's initial proposal was submitted for $100,000, and was the most expensive of the 2 firms considered responsive, it was approved by the Board. The Port Authority contracted with the firm for $130,000.

The federal indictment⁷ states Sweeney had several discussions with Rallo concerning the proper wording of the Port Authority's RFP, and Sweeney also reviewed and recommended revisions to Cardinal Creative's responsive bid to the RFP. Sweeney recommended and urged the Port Authority Board to approve Cardinal Creative's bid as the winning bid, and the Board followed

Sweeney's recommendation and approved Cardinal Creative's consulting contract. According to the federal indictment, the former County Executive directed the former CEO to increase the award amount by $30,000, without Board approval, and instructed Rallo to pay the additional amount to a "close associate of a public official who had helped Stenger get out the vote in the November 2014 County Executive election."⁸ In addition, the indictment⁹ states Rallo understood from Sweeney the other individual "would not do any actual work under the consulting contract, but needed to be paid the $30,000."

As a result of the former CEO's abuse of her position, the Port Authority entered into a contract not in the best interest of the organization or the county, but as indicated in the indictment,¹⁰ was for a political payoff. As a result of her actions, the former CEO pleaded guilty to one count of misprision of a felony for covering up and participating in the former County Executive's criminal activity.

Wellston Holdings

At the direction of the former County Executive, the former CEO assisted Wellston Holdings, LLC in submitting a winning proposal for two parcels of vacant real estate located in Wellston, Missouri in 2016. The land sale was made by the Land Clearance Redevelopment Authority (LCRA). As documented in the felony indictment¹¹ against the former County Executive, Wellston Holdings, LLC was formed by John Rallo and his partners for the sole purpose of purchasing and developing the properties. Wellston Holdings, LLC paid $272,213 and $288,395 for 2 parcels of land, located at 1335 Ogden Avenue (parcel 1) and 6440 Page Avenue (parcel 2), respectively.

The county spent approximately $10 million, according to a SLEDP official, clearing, grading, and preparing the properties. However, the former CEO set the minimum bid prices in the RFPs at "must exceed" $255,499 and $250,000, for the properties at parcel 1 and parcel 2 respectively. Appraisals were not performed or obtained for either parcels prior to the sales, although the SLEDP had an individual on staff who was a licensed real estate appraiser and obtaining an appraisal for LCRA properties is required by state law.¹² To date, no appraisal of these properties has been finalized or made public, however, according to a SLEDP official, preliminary appraisals have estimated the value of these properties at significantly more than the sales price paid by Wellston Holdings, LLC.

St. Louis County
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

The former CEO anticipated Wellston Holdings, LLC would be the sole bidder. However, when another bid was received on parcel 1 the former CEO advised Rallo to increase his bid on the property from $256,000 to $275,000 in order to ensure Wellston Holdings, LLC was the highest bidder.¹³

For the property at parcel 2, the federal indictment¹⁴ states, "Sweeney reviewed Rallo's group's bid response to the RFP, and directed Rallo to make certain revisions and edits before submitting their final bid." Wellston Holdings, LLC's formal bid for the property at parcel 2 was submitted after the deadline for responses to the RFP, however, the former CEO directed SLEDP staff to accept the late proposal.

As a result of the intervention by the former County Executive and the former CEO, the SLEDP has no assurance the sale of the parcels in question resulted in the highest purchase price, or was in the best interests of taxpayers.

The LCRA Board of Commissioners eventually rejected the two proposals for redevelopment from Wellston Holdings LLC because the proposals did not meet the terms of the redevelopment covenants (a condition of the purchase). The 2-year window for Wellston Holdings LLC to substantially complete redevelopment expired in 2019, after which the LCRA exercised its rights to repurchase the properties. The properties are currently owned by the LCRA and are awaiting redevelopment.

Less than arm's length transaction

On July 27, 2017, the County Port Authority executed a purchase and sale agreement for two properties located at 7100 and 7120 N. Market Street in a less than arm's length transaction. The original RFP closed September 26, 2016 with Developer 1 paying $325,000 for both properties.

In an email dated July 8, 2016, two months prior to the RFP process, an email from the former SLEDP CEO to Developer 1 states:

I went over the project with the County Exec yesterday and he is excited as well. I know you will deliver a great building that Wellston can be proud of and also will be the catalyst to a real change that community deserves.

In addition, SLEDP staff prepared and submitted a federal Economic Development Agency (EDA) grant application on August 31, 2016, and SLEDP staff provided a letter of support for the development dated August 27, 2016. This action seems to indicate the SLEDP was considering and actively facilitating the project of Developer 1 before a formal bid or proposal had been submitted. In addition, appraisals were not performed or obtained for the properties prior to the sales, even though the SLEDP had an individual on staff who was a licensed real estate appraiser.

Based on this information, this land sale was not an arm's length transaction. Due to abuse of the procurement process, the SLEDP has no assurance this transaction resulted in the highest purchase price, or was in the best interests of taxpayers.

Lobbying services contract

The former County Executive, and his Chief of Staff, who was also appointed to the SLEDP Board by the former County Executive, directed the former SLEDP CEO to award a state lobbying services contract to a particular lobbying firm for $149,000 in December 2018.¹⁵ The former County Executive's federal indictment¹⁶ states, "When Stenger learned that the SLEDP lobbying contract was going out for bids, he directed his top staff members to contact Sheila Sweeney to insure that Company One was awarded the contract." Our review of the RFP documentation noted another vendor had submitted a proposal for a $60,000 retainer. In addition, our review of Missouri Ethics Commission reports identified this lobbying firm contributed $17,750 between June 2015 and December 2016 to Citizens for Stenger, a political committee for the former County Executive's campaign.

Although supporting documentation indicates the selection was based on current qualifications and past experience of delivering quality work on prior contracts, due to the former County Executive's involvement in the procurement, and with his appearance of conflicts of interest, the SLEDP has no assurance this contract was in the best interest of the organization or taxpayers. This state lobbying services contract was rebid by the SLEDP and a new lobbying firm selected on December 11, 2019.

the SLEDP Board

The SLEDP Board did not provide sufficient oversight of the former CEO's activities. The board did not adequately oversee the selection of the CEO or the compensation paid to the CEO. See MAR finding number 4 for additional information.

The CEO has a fiduciary responsibility to the taxpayers of St. Louis County and to ensure complete transparency for all business transactions of the SLEDP. The Articles of Incorporation for the SLEDP state a purpose for which the SLEDP was organized is, "to advance the social welfare, health, and economic interest of St. Louis County and St. Louis City, Missouri, and their residents." appraisals prior to the sale of SLEDP properties would provide additional assurance a reasonable price is received.

Recommendations

- 1.1 The County Council consider enacting legislation requiring the County Executive to timely make any objections to contract awards known to the Council and allowing the Council to execute contracts after a certain period of inaction by the County Executive.
- 1.2 The County Council continue to ensure future evaluation committees are independent and free of potential conflicts of interest before awarding contracts.
- 1.3 The SLEDP Board ensure the contracting process is competitive and transparent, and appraisals are obtained for all real estate transactions.

Auditee's Response

The county's written response to MAR finding numbers 1.1 and 1.2 is included at Appendix F, and the SLEDP's written response to MAR finding number 1.3 is at Appendix G.

2. Inadequate County Council Oversight

A lack of adequate oversight by the County Council helped allow the former County Executive to take actions not in the best interests of the county. The County Council did not perform sufficient due diligence over lease agreements, did not provide oversight of employees appointed by the County Executive, and did not ensure the county's internal audit capabilities were operating effectively. As a result, (1) the county has committed to a 20 year lease that is expected to cost approximately $67 million¹⁷ over the lease term, (2) the county exchanged ownership of undeveloped real estate appraised for $1,370,000 for undeveloped real estate appraised for $560,000, (3) the County Executive's Office has shifted approximately $3.78 million in personnel costs from that office to other departments from 2017 through 2019, and (4) the County Auditor position has not been effective in providing oversight of county operations.

2.1 Lease oversight

The County Council passed ordinances allowing the county to enter into a significant lease without reviewing the lease agreement, cost analysis, appraisals, and other supporting documentation. The County Council allowed established procedures to be circumvented without being questioned, and did not request appropriate analysis prior to passing the ordinance. Also, the County Council approved a lease agreement allowing the former County Executive to exchange property of unequal value.

Northwest Crossings

On July 12, 2016, the County Council passed an ordinance allowing the county to enter into the Northwest Crossings office space leases at a cost of approximately $67 million over a 20-year period without sufficient review and oversight. The Council did not review lease documents or a cost analysis prepared by the Department of Public Works prior to passing the ordinance. In addition, some County Council members expressed public reservations about the lease, and citizens expressed in open forum concern regarding (1) developer contributions to then County Executive Steve Stenger, (2) the seemingly high cost of the new lease proposal, and (3) the departure from the standard process.

The former Director of the Department of Public Works told us the County Council did not ask him or his department any questions about the Northwest Crossings lease. He stated he did not sign the leases with the Northwest Crossings landlords because they were bad leases which exposed the county to significant risk. The leases did not allow the county an option to terminate and were "triple net," which made the county responsible for insurance, maintenance, and taxes on the property. The former director stated he had never seen another lease which favored the owner's side so heavily. In addition, he noted the county may have been better off purchasing property rather than entering into a lease agreement for Northwest Crossings. These comments are substantiated by the department cost analysis done prior to the Northwest Crossings lease being approved.

County Council comments from the meeting minutes from the July 12, 2016 meeting reflect the Council's awareness of the issues surrounding the procurement of the lease. However, the County Council approved the leases based on the potential cost savings the lease would generate. However, the Council was never provided with a market survey or analysis to support the costs savings, but rather, was relying on the existence of a market survey the former County Counselor had told them existed.

During Ethics Committee Hearings in 2018, the committee concluded "the (former) County Executive falsely claimed that there was competitive bidding for the (Northwest Crossings) leases and that the County obtained an opinion from an outside financial advisor concerning the leases," and, "the (former) County Executive and his staff falsely claimed that the (Northwest Crossings) leases would save the County money and misled the County Council concerning how much the County's leases would cost."

A County Council member told us the Northwest Crossings leases were not reviewed and a cost analysis was not provided to the council at the time the leases were approved. The member stated in general, leases are not reviewed by the County Council because that would make the leases public information. However, Section 610.021(2), RSMo, allows the county to close meetings, records, and votes relating to the "leasing, purchase or sale of real estate by a public governmental body where public knowledge of the transaction might adversely affect the legal consideration therefor."

Land exchange

On January 26, 2016, the County Council passed an ordinance allowing the former County Executive to execute a lease agreement with Developer 2. The agreement included an article authorizing the former County Executive to trade ownership of 60.94 acres owned by the county for 15 acres owned by Developer 2, without further review from the County Council.

On November 2, 2018, the former County Executive executed the land exchange. The County Parks Department did not obtain an appraisal of either property prior to the execution of the exchange. Based on concerns regarding conflicts of interest the properties were appraised on June 21, 2019. The appraisals valued the 60.94 acres formerly owned by the county at $1,370,000, and the 15 acres currently owned by the county at $560,000. Parks Department personnel indicated the department did not have plans for the property received in the exchange at the time of the lease and still has no plans for it. The property the county traded has not been developed. The necessity of including the exchange of these properties clearly of unequal value in the lease agreement is unclear.

On June 12, 2018, the Ethics Committee recommended the County Council amend the purchasing code to require a detailed cost analysis and a final draft lease. County personnel indicated as of May 22, 2020, no changes have been made to the County Charter or ordinances that specify what is required to be provided to the County Council for lease approvals. Additional recommendations made by the committee that have been implemented included ballot measures to adopt campaign finance restrictions and amend the County Charter to prohibit the County Executive from presenting spending proposals within a false budget plan. In November 2018, voters approved amendments to the County Charter Sections 8.050, 12.010 and 12.020 to restrict campaign contributions and prevent the County Executive from deceptive budget practices.

Citizens have placed a fiduciary trust in their elected officials to spend county money in a transparent, prudent, and necessary manner. Under Section 2.180 of the County Charter, the County Council is given the power by ordinance to "...rent or lease other property for county use." In the case of the land swap described above, the Council delegated its authority to the County Executive without adequate oversight.

2.2 Appointed employees

The County Council does not review all non-merit employees appointed by the County Executive, allowing the County Executive to shift approximately $1 million per year in personnel expenses for executive employees to other County departments. This activity was not exclusive to the Stenger administration, however, we did not perform any analysis of this issue for years prior to 2017. County personnel indicated this practice has been in place for at least the last 20 years. In addition, the County Executive sets the rate of pay for each of these positions. The County Council does not review these positions and does not take advantage of its power to set the rate of pay for these positions. The salary for some of the appointed employees are charged to other departments even though these employees work for the County Executive. As a result, the County Executive is able to hire staff, in addition to his budgeted staff, at a salary of his choice, and charge the appointed staffs' salaries to other departments.

St. Louis County
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Table 1 summarizes the employees appointed by the County Executive excluding director positions approved by the County Council.

Examples of appointed positions working in the County Executive's Office whose salaries were paid by other department's budgets include:

- Special Assistant to the County Executive (Planning Department)
- Chief of Staff (Department of Revenue)
- Policy Advisor (Public Health Department)

A complete listing of these employees is documented at Appendixes A, B, and C.

Section 2.180.1 of the county's charter gives the County Council the power to "set the compensation of members of boards and commissions and of all county officers and employees not under the merit system, whether or not the this charter fixes any such compensation." In addition, the county's budget does not present the public with a transparent representation of the County Executive's staffing when positions reporting to the County Executive are paid from a different department's budget.

2.3 County Auditor

County Auditor not being utilized to provide oversight

The County Council has not fully used the office of the County Auditor and requested audits of concerns brought to the attention of the Council. The county's charter requirements for the County Auditor's qualifications do not ensure the County Auditor will possess the knowledge, skills, and other competencies to ensure the position is adequately staffed and allowed the County Auditor to hire personnel without any auditing experience. In addition, the County Auditor is not in compliance with government and internal auditing standards.

The County Council is not using the County Auditor to investigate concerns that are brought to the attention of the Council. In addition, the County Auditor has been unable to complete audits planned.

The County Auditor and a County Council member indicated the County Council has not requested specific audits and did not request any investigations or audits concerning the former County Executive.

The County Auditor also has been unable to perform the audits documented in his annual audit plan. In the 2018 audit plan, nine areas were listed as new areas to audit in 2018. During calendar year 2018, only three of the nine areas were audited. In addition, during calendar year 2019, the County Auditor issued at most 2 audits.¹⁸ The County Auditor stated staffing limitations resulted in the low number of audits being released. The office hired an Auditor Advisor in the first quarter of 2018 and an Audit Manager in the first quarter of 2019. For comparison purposes, during calendar year 2019, the St. Charles County Auditor issued 8 audits while the personnel budget for the St. Charles County Auditor was approximately $125,000 less than the personnel budget for the St. Louis County Auditor.

Section 2.210.4 of the county's charter states the county auditor shall have the power to, "make such other investigations and reports in relation to fiscal matters as shall be directed by the council." In addition, best practices from the Institute of Internal Auditors (IIA) indicate Internal Auditors can help an audit committee, such as the County Council, evaluate various policies and practices by observing accounting decisions, policies, and any complex or unusual events, transactions, and operations.

Section 2030 of the IIA Code of Ethics and Standards (IIA Standards) states, "The chief audit executive must ensure that internal audit resources are appropriate, sufficient, and effectively deployed to achieve the approved plan." Internal Auditors can be invaluable resource to the County Council in its oversight role for financial completeness, accuracy, and disclosure. A properly functioning internal audit department could have helped in discovering and resolving several of the areas commented on in this report including procurement and personnel areas.

¹⁸ We accessed the St. Louis County Auditor's website on March 2, 2020, which indicated two reports were issued during 2019. However, we accessed the website again on July 31, 2020, and the website did not list any reports were issued during 2019. We requested the County Auditor to confirm how many reports were issued during 2019 and to provide supporting documentation. The County Auditor could not confirm how many reports were issued during that year.

Inadequate qualifications

None of the 3 employees working in the County Auditor's office had auditing experience prior to being appointed or hired. St. Louis County's charter Section 2.200 states, "The council shall appoint a county auditor. The auditor shall have had at least five years' experience in accounting and shall possess such further qualifications as may be provided by ordinance." However, the "five years' experience in accounting" requirement is vague and does not ensure adequate experience in public accounting or auditing. In contrast, the St. Charles County Auditor is required to "have the equivalent of a bachelor degree in accounting or have experience as a County Auditor." In addition, based on public comments made by a Council member in 2017,¹⁹ the Council is aware the current qualifications are vague. However, the County Council has not passed any ordinances to strengthen the required qualifications for the County Auditor as allowed by the County Charter.²⁰

The County Auditor's qualifications include experience as a legislative liaison, lobbyist related to legislative issues, account manager, account representative, and district sales manager as well as a Bachelor's in Business Administration. The County Auditor appointed an attorney as an advisor rather than hiring an employee with auditing experience. In addition, the County Auditor recently hired an Audit Manager with an Associate's Degree in Accounting and a Masters of Business Administration, who worked in the county's Fiscal Management department since November 2014. The County Auditor indicated the Audit Manager's expertise is working with the county's accounting system. The County Auditor has no other staff.

Section 1210 of the IIA standards state, "Internal auditors must possess the knowledge, skills, and other competencies needed to perform their individual responsibilities. The internal audit activity collectively must possess or obtain the knowledge, skills, and other competency's needed to perform its responsibilities." In addition, best practices from the IIA also indicate the County Council should ensure the internal audit activity is sufficiently resourced with competent, objective internal audit professionals to carry out the internal audit plan.

²⁰ Section 2.200 of the St. Louis County Charter allows additional qualifications to be imposed by ordinance.

St. Louis County Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Auditing standards

Despite the County Auditor indicating on his office website, in audit reports, and in discussions with us that his office conducted audits in accordance with IIA standards, and with Government Auditing Standards issued by the Comptroller General of the United States (Yellow Book), the office has not complied with these standards.²¹ Areas not complied with include lack of an office peer review on a periodic basis and staff not meeting the continuing professional education requirements of the Yellow Book. Also, the office is not in compliance with the risk assessment, audit planning, and quality assurance or the external assessment requirements of the IIA standards.

Indicating adherence with applicable auditing standards suggests a certain level of competence, quality, integrity, objectivity, and independence in the audit work presented. Ensuring compliance with some level of audit standards would provide some assurance to policy makers and the public of the accuracy and reliability of the audit work produced.

Conclusion

Improved oversight from the County Council and the County Auditor would have helped identify some portion of the inappropriate and criminal actions of the former County Executive. The Council has a duty to the taxpayers of St. Louis to ensure oversight of the County Executive and the administration.

Recommendations

The County Council:

- 2.1 Ensure lease agreements are sufficiently reviewed and the County Charter requirements are followed.
- 2.2 Provide adequate oversight for all appointed positions and the compensation of non-merit employees. In addition, ensure all appointed positions working for the County Executive are included in the County Executive's budget to ensure transparency to the public.
- 2.3 Review and update the requirements for the County Auditor position and staffing. Ensure the County Council is fully utilizing the County Auditor to identify and review ineffective or inefficient operations and ensure established policies are followed. In addition, clarify which standards, if any, the County Auditor is to follow.

Auditee's Response

The county's written response is included at Appendix F.

²¹ Our audit was not designed to identify instances of non-compliance with auditing standards. These violations were identified during interviews that were designed to obtain an understanding of the St. Louis County Auditor duties and practices.

St. Louis County
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Auditor's Comment

The County Council's response letter states the audit is based on the "inaccurate premise" the county is Council-managed, and states the County Charter gives the Council "limited oversight power." However, Article II of the County Charter gives the County Council broad authority to oversee the county. E.g., Section 2.180 (conferring the powers vested in the Council). In addition, the remainder of the County Council's response details actions the Council has already taken, or will take, to improve county operations and oversight.

The response to MAR finding number 2.1 makes mention of false information provided to the Council regarding the land swap deal discussed in the report. However, no information regarding this allegation has been presented. The existence of such false information was not mentioned to auditors during fieldwork, or during the report exit process despite requests for any information relevant to this transaction. Therefore, the information referenced has not been assessed or verified.

3. Unauthorized Payments of SLEDP Funds

The former SLEDP CEO (Sheila Sweeney) abused her position by overseeing large bonuses for herself and other administrators that were not authorized or approved by the Board. In addition, the former Chief Financial Officer (CFO) abused her position to provide herself with paid time off (PTO) hours without proper authorization or documented approval.

3.1 Bonuses paid without Board authorization or approval, policies, or procedures

The former SLEDP CEO and former CFO oversaw bonus payments totaling $348,000 to SLEDP administrators in 2016 and 2017. These bonuses were paid without an official policy, board authorization or approval, supporting documentation, or an established process to determine eligible employees.

In 2016 and 2017, the SLEDP paid bonuses to 15 employees totaling $160,500, and 16 employees totaling $187,500, respectively. The bonus totals included $80,000 paid to the former CEO each year in 2016 and 2017. Since no employment contracts or compensation packages were formally documented, it is unclear who decided what bonus amounts were to be paid. It is also unclear what, if any, performance criteria were used to determine who was eligible for such bonuses. SLEDP staff could not locate approval or supporting documentation for the bonuses paid. Also, no record of formal Board approval could be located. The then Board Chairman stated he only vaguely recalled hearing about the CEO receiving a bonus, but did not consider it a formal SLEDP Board discussion or approval.

Table 2 lists the bonuses paid in 2016 and 2017 to SLEDP employees which were greater than $10,000.

St. Louis County
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Table 2: 2016 and 2017 bonuses paid greater than $10,000

Title	Annual Salary	2016 Bonus Paid	2016 Bonus	2017 Bonus Paid	2017 Bonus

CEO	$ 260,000	$ 80,000	31	$ 80,000	31
CFO	187,460	30,000	16	35,000	19
Vice President of Administration	NA	NA	NA	15,000	13
		$ 120,000		$ 130,000

Source: St. Louis Economic Development Partnership Human Resources Section.

The former CEO and former CFO abused their positions to provide these bonuses. The payments were not budgeted, and were not authorized or approved by the Board. The bonuses primarily benefited these two individuals with no justified public purpose. Pursuing repayment of these unauthorized payments would be in the best interest of county taxpayers.

3.2 Chief Financial Officer Unauthorized Paid Time Off

The former CFO instructed staff to add an additional 320 hours to her PTO balance without proper authorization or documented approval, and rolled over 100 percent of PTO hours in 2016 and 2017 to future periods, contrary to SLEDP policy, without approval. In total, the former CFO received additional compensation of $38,020 for these unauthorized hours upon leaving employment with the SLEDP.

Unauthorized PTO hours

Based on our review of PTO records, Accounting Department and Human Resources (HR) staff added an additional 40 hours annually to the former CFO's PTO balance from 2011 to 2019 (with the exception of 2016), for a total of 320 hours. The 40 hours were in addition to the standard accrual of PTO as described in Section VI, Subsection B, of the SLEDP Employee Handbook. Current SLEDP staff could not locate any supporting documentation approving the additional 40 hours per year. In addition, neither the CEO prior to Sweeney nor the former Executive Vice President and Chief Operating Officer, who were both direct supervisors over the former CFO, had knowledge of the additional 40 hours added to the PTO balance annually, and did not recall ever approving any additional PTO. The former CFO received payouts for her unused PTO upon terminating employment from SLEDP. Based on our analysis of PTO records, the former CFO received additional compensation of approximately $28,840 in her final paycheck as a result of the 320 unauthorized hours of PTO improperly added to their balance.

Unauthorized PTO rollover

In 2016 and 2017, the former CFO improperly rolled forward PTO in excess of the amount allowed by policy without proper authorization.

St. Louis County
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

SLEDP policy²² allows staff to accumulate a PTO balance of one and a half times a team member's annual PTO allocation, with any unused PTO above that limit at the end of the year being forfeited. However, the former CFO instructed staff to roll over her entire PTO balance, a total of 102 hours more than allowed by policy, in 2016 and 2017. SLEDP policy states roll overs in excess of allowable balances must be approved by the CEO in writing. Current SLEDP staff could not locate any documentation or authorization for these rollovers.

Based on our analysis of PTO balances, the former CFO received additional compensation on her final paycheck of $9,180 as a result of these unauthorized rollovers. In addition, current staff indicated the former CFO was the only individual to receive the 100 percent PTO rollover in excess of the limit in 2017.

Controls over PTO balances need improvement

Controls over PTO balances need improvement. While the former CFO abused her position by instructing staff to perform these unauthorized actions, improved controls requiring documented approval from the CEO would have helped ensure the actions taken were appropriate and in compliance with established policy. Strict compliance with personnel policies is necessary to ensure employees are properly and equitably compensated.

The former CFO received a total of $38,020 in compensation from unauthorized and unused PTO. Pursuing repayment of this unauthorized compensation is in the best interest of county taxpayers.

Recommendations

The SLEDP Board:

- 3.1 Pursue reimbursement for the unauthorized bonus payments paid.
- 3.2 Ensure personnel policies are applied equitably and any departure from policy is documented and approved by the appropriate level of authority. Also, the SLEDP should pursue reimbursement for improperly paid out compensation to the former CFO.

Auditee's Response

The SLEDP's written response is included at Appendix G.

4. SLEDP Board Oversight

The SLEDP Board did not provide adequate oversight or monitoring of SLEDP organizational activities. As a result, Sheila Sweeney, the former CEO was hired as the full-time CEO without a formal job offer, employment contract, or compensation package. This lack of oversight played a part in the former County Executive's ability to influence the former SLEDP CEO to manipulate various contracts and land development deals the agency oversaw

²² Section VI, Subsection B, of the SLEDP Employee Handbook

St. Louis County
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

as discussed in MAR finding number 1.3. In addition, employee bonuses were disbursed improperly in violation of SLEDP policy without oversight.

4.1 Chief Executive Officer Search and Compensation

The SLEDP Board provided limited oversight and monitoring of the former CEO and SLEDP organizational activities, and did not fulfill the function of the board to "fix the terms and conditions of such employment or contract for services," of the SLEDP CEO. The SLEDP Board consists of 15 members with 11 appointed by the County Executive and the remaining 4 appointed by the Mayor of the City of St. Louis. Former County Executive Stenger appointed 6 members to the Board during his time in office.

CEO search

The SLEDP Board approved a contract on May 27, 2015, for an executive search firm. SLEDP paid the firm $61,600 to help identify candidates to fill the SLEDP CEO vacancy. However, the SLEDP Board received no official report or recommendation from the Search Advisory Committee, and did not formally vote to make Sheila Sweeney the CEO of the organization after appointing her as the interim CEO.

On March 25, 2015, the SLEDP Board finalized the membership of the newly formed SLEDP Search Advisory Committee comprised of SLEDP Board members and community members. The Search Advisory Committee was formed for the express purpose of developing and issuing an RFP for executive search firm services with the ultimate goal of locating a suitable candidate for presentation to the full board as the next SLEDP CEO. The full SLEDP Board was to have the final approval of the CEO candidate.

On June 24, 2015, the SLEDP Board appointed Sheila Sweeney the interim²³ CEO of the SLEDP in anticipation of the current SLEDP CEO's retirement, because the CEO search and selection process was still underway. The closed session meeting minutes from September 30, 2015, documented discussion of "...personnel matters as related to the Executive Search Committee and the recommendation on a CEO." The meeting minutes included no additional information regarding the individual recommended as the SLEDP CEO candidate or a documented Board vote or Board Resolution authorizing the CEO's appointment.

The previous Board Chairman, who has been on the board since August 1, 2013, did not recall any discussions or reports from the Search Advisory Committee to the full board concerning the appointment process of the former CEO, or the Search Advisory Committee presenting a list of potential candidates to be interviewed or considered for the permanent CEO position. In addition, the Board Chairman did not recall any discussions concerning the appointment of the former interim CEO as the permanent CEO. SLEDP staff could not locate a report from the Search Advisory Committee to the full board detailing the selection criteria used in evaluating potential CEO candidates, or the committee's recommendation for the CEO position. SLEDP staff could not provide the date Sheila Sweeney was officially named CEO of the SLEDP.

²³ Prior to being named Interim CEO Sweeney was a member of the SLEDP and Port Authority Boards.

St. Louis County
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Overseeing the process of selecting an executive officer to run the SLEDP is a significant responsibility of the Board. The SLEDP Board's failure to properly provide oversight and documentation of this process resulted in a CEO being named potentially without proper vetting and with a lack of transparency.

Compensation terms not approved by Board or formally documented

Sheila Sweeney served as the CEO of the Board for more than 3 years with an annual salary of $260,000, plus bonuses and additional compensation, without her compensation terms being approved by the Board as required by SLEDP bylaws, and without a contract documenting her compensation package. The current Chairman could not recall Board discussions concerning the former CEO's salary and staff could not locate a formal job offer.

Rather than the Board setting Sweeney's compensation terms, the terms were established by the former County Executive's office. On October 9, 2015, the former CFO contacted the former County Executive's Director of Policy to request external confirmation of Sweeney's salary and benefits, which had been provided to the former CFO by Sweeney. In addition to being the Director of Policy for the former County Executive, this individual was also appointed to the SLEDP Board by Stenger as of January 1, 2015. On October 19, 2015, the Director of Policy confirmed Sweeney's salary and benefits, which included $260,000 annually, 8 weeks of paid time off, a car allowance, and all other benefits for full-time SLEDP employees. The current Board Chairman at that time and current SLEDP staff were unaware of under what authority this individual approved Sweeney's salary and benefits.

St. Louis County
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Allowing the former County Executive's office to set and approve the former CEO's compensation and benefits provided the former County Executive influence over the former CEO. As discussed in MAR finding number 1.3, this influence allowed the former County Executive to manipulate various contracts and land development deals the agency oversaw.

Formal written employment contracts that clearly define all contractual terms, are necessary with the CEO to ensure all parties are aware of their duties and responsibilities, and to prevent misunderstandings. Also, as the highest level of authority within the organization, the SLEDP Board is required to provide oversight of the SLEDP CEO. The SLEDP By-Laws state:

The Board of Directors may employ an individual to perform the function of the Chief Executive Officer or contract with other entities for the furnishing of any services of Chief Executive Officer. The Chief Executive Officer shall be responsible for the administration and operating functions of the corporation. The Board of Directors shall fix the terms and conditions of such employment or contract for services.

4.2 Oversight of employee bonuses

The SLEDP paid bonuses to employees without sufficient Board oversight or approval. In addition, the SLEDP did not have procedures to evaluate and determine which employees earned bonuses and the amount of the bonus.

Excess bonuses paid

SLEDP administrators paid $52,000 in bonuses in 2015, $24,510 of which exceeded board approved policies. These bonuses were paid without justification, and without Board approval. In 2015, SLEDP policies allowed for up to a 4 percent bonus based on performance and on financial results. Table 4 summarizes the 3 bonuses paid in excess of the 4 percent, and totaling $5,000 or more.

Table 4: 2015 Bonuses paid in excess of Board policy, and totaling $5,000 or more

Title - Former Employee	Annual Salary	Amount of Bonus	Bonus Percent	4 Percent	Excess Bonus
			of Annual Salary	of Annual Salary Limit
Chief Financial Officer	$ 187,460	$ 25,000	13%	$ 7,498	$ 17,502
Vice President of HR	138,000	10,000	7%	5,520	4,480
VP of Real Estate and Community Investment	70,170	5,000	7%	2,807	2,193
Totals	$ 395,630	$ 40,000		$ 15,825	$ 24,175

Source: St. Louis Economic Development Partnership Human Resources.

As indicated in Table 4, the bonuses for these 3 employees ranged from 7 to 13 percent of their annual salary. The previous SLEDP Board Chairman did not recall the Board approving bonuses in 2015 and there was no indication in the Board meeting minutes regarding approval of them.

St. Louis County
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

In addition to being more than the 4 percent limit, it is unclear how any bonuses were justified in 2015. The SLEDP employee handbook at that time stated:

.... a bonus system whereby bonuses of up to 4 percent of an employee's regular earning may be given in recognition of outstanding performance as measured by increased revenues and reduced expenses, as approved by the (SLEDP) Board of Directors.

According to the Statement of Revenues, Expenditures, and Changes in Fund Balances for the General Fund from 2014 to 2015, excess revenues over expenditures decreased by $380,000 (36 percent), and the net fund balance decreased by $251,000 (22 percent), so it is unclear how the bonuses were justified based on SLEDP policy.

In addition, current SLEDP staff indicated a formal appraisal system was not used to determine bonus eligibility and amounts paid from 2015 through 2017. In 2015, 2016, and 2017, the SLEDP paid 8 bonuses totaling $52,000, 15 bonuses totaling $160,500, and 16 bonuses totaling $187,500, respectively. Bonuses were removed from SLEDP policy following 2015. See MAR finding number 3.1 for additional discussion of the 2016 and 2017 bonuses.

The SLEDP has not paid any bonuses after January 1, 2018.

Recommendations

The SLEDP Board:

- 4.1 Continue to ensure employment contracts are executed with the CEO and are in the best interest of the SLEDP. All terms and conditions should be formally approved by the Board and publicly documented in the Board minutes.
- 4.2 Continue to follow current SLEDP policy regarding bonuses.

Auditee's Response

The SLEDP's written response is included at Appendix G.

5. County Personnel Policies and Records

Significant improvement regarding personnel policies and employee records for appointed employees is needed. The county has not established adequate personnel policies for appointed employees. In addition, the county's Personnel Division does not maintain personnel files, and the County Executive's office could not provide a personnel file for all appointed employees. Also, appointed employees received raises during a county-wide wage freeze, the personnel department does not verify certifications and qualifications required by the county's charter, and all appointed positions did not have documented job descriptions.

St. Louis County
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

5.1 Personnel issues regarding appointed employees

Policies and procedures regarding appointed employees need improvement. Per the county's charter and ordinances, the County Executive appoints his/her own staff, the director for each department, and 2 non-merit employees for each department. Our review of various employment records for 104 appointed employees identified the following concerns:

- Several appointed employees received a wage increase in their current position during a County Council approved county-wide wage freeze. Our work determined 17 of the 22 appointed employees tested received a wage increase even though their job title did not change. The Director of the Personnel Division indicated when the division received direction from the former County Executive to give raises to certain people, as long as the increase was within the range of salary for the position, the division staff would process the raise. In addition, the Director indicated appointed employee positions routinely change job classes and pay ranges when requested. The table in Appendix D, shows the wage increases received by these 17 appointed employees.
- The Personnel Division does not verify certifications and qualifications required by charter for appointed employees, which could result in unqualified personnel in appointed positions. The Division Director indicated she did not see this weakness as an issue, because the county government process is public. In addition, she indicated she had never been asked to document a verification. Of the 22 appointed employees selected for testing, 8 were required by charter or ordinance to have a certification. We determined 6 of these 8 appointed employees tested (75 percent) did not have supporting documentation showing the employee met the certifications required by charter or ordinance.
- Appointed employee personnel files were not centrally maintained in the Personnel Division. As a result, personnel files could be misplaced or lost when a new County Executive is elected. For example, 29 of the 104 (28 percent) appointed employees tested did not have a personnel file in either the County Executive's office or the Personnel Division.

For appointed employees with personnel files, we selected 65 files for additional testing. Personnel files provided were not always complete. Federal W-4 forms were missing for 19 of the 65 employees tested (29 percent). The I-9 form was missing for 11 employees and was incomplete for another 2 employees (20 percent).

Written personnel policies and strict compliance with those policies is necessary to ensure equitable treatment of employees, prevent misunderstandings, and ensure employees are properly compensated. In addition, the county's charter and ordinances require certain appointed positions have specified qualifications.²⁴ By not verifying the applicants/employees have those qualifications, the county cannot ensure the charter and ordinance requirements are met. Without sufficient employee personnel records, the Personnel Division has less assurance payments made to employees are appropriate.

5.2 Timesheet controls

The county has poor controls in place for ensuring timesheets are signed and approved before employees are paid. We tested 6 months of timesheets for 87 appointed employees to review for timesheet approvals. We identified 43 of 87 (49 percent) appointed employees tested had some unsigned or unapproved timesheets.

Without adequate timesheets the county cannot ensure hours worked by appointed employees are properly documented. Ensuring all timesheets are signed by the submitting employee and reviewed and timely approved by a supervisor helps ensure the accuracy of hours worked.

5.3 Job descriptions

The county had not prepared job descriptions for 46 of the 60 appointed positions tested (77 percent) as of February 2020. As a result, the responsibilities of these appointed employees are not clearly defined and communicated to the public. The Director of the Personnel Division indicated no appointed positions had job description documentation in the division under the former County Executive. The current County Executive has started to create job descriptions for appointed positions.

Job descriptions are needed to clarify duties, responsibilities, required qualifications, and reporting relationships of each position to prevent misunderstandings among employees and supervisors about performance expectations.

Recommendations

The County Council:

- 5.1 Develop and ensure compliance with formal written personnel policies for appointed employees including policies concerning increases in salary or pay rate. In addition, ensure personnel meet minimum qualifications for the position and adequately document a review of qualifications. Also, establish what the required contents of 5.2 Ensure timesheets are adequately prepared, and properly signed and approved.

5.3 Prepare job descriptions for all positions.

Auditee's Response Auditor's Comment

The county's written response is included at Appendix F.

The County Council's response to MAR finding number 5.1 states no county-wide wage freeze ever existed. While this issue does not directly impact any of the report recommendations, for clarification, the November 2, 2018 budget letter submitted to the Council states that county wages were frozen 7 times in the previous 10 years. Audit staff confirmed this information with Human Resources personnel. The suggestion that no such wage freezes were ever in place was not discussed with auditors during fieldwork or during the report exit process. Based on the information obtained during the audit, the information presented in the report is accurate.

The response to MAR finding number 5.2 regarding timesheet controls states timesheets are not traditionally used for salaried appointed positions. However, our review of timesheets for appointed personnel showed that timesheets were used for all appointed employees involved in our test, with only one exception for 87 employees tested. The indication that timesheets were not used for such employees was not discussed with auditors during fieldwork or during the report exit process. As discussed in the report, adequate timesheets help ensure hours worked by appointed employees are properly documented.

6. Best and Final Offers

The Procurement Division has not established a formal policy for the use of Best and Final Offers (BAFOs). In addition, the Director of the Procurement Division does not review BAFOs to ensure the process for RFPs is followed. As a result, the county cannot ensure the process for BAFOs is fair for all companies submitting proposals and results in offers that cannot be easily and accurately evaluated.

For example, in a recent RFP, companies submitting proposals were mistakenly asked for inconsistent best offers. The Procurement Division asked the three finalists with the highest scores from the scoring committee for BAFOs on their lowest dollar amount proposal. However, some companies provided more than one proposal, some with setup fees and some without. The lowest cost proposal did not allow a comparison to be made between similar proposal types, which prevented the scoring committee from fairly evaluating the proposals. The RFP was canceled when a proposer brought this discrepancy to the county's attention and has not been reissued.

St. Louis County
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

The Acting Procurement Division Director indicated these problems resulted from the division's lack of experience with the BAFO process. In addition, written formal procedures for the BAFO have not been documented.

Formal procedures for BAFOs help ensure all parties are given an equal opportunity to participate in city business. The National Association of State Procurement Officials (NASPO) best practices state:

The principles that apply to the evaluation of initial proposals also apply to the revisions that offerors submit in their best and final offers. The evaluation must stay within the criteria outlined in the solicitation and the plan that the procurement officer and the evaluators put into place at the outset of the evaluation process.

Recommendation

The County Council establish formal policies and procedures for BAFOs.

Auditee's Response

The county's written response is included at Appendix F.

7. SLEDP Procurement

SLEDP procurement procedures need improvement. Procurement documentation was not always retained and the contracts may not have been adequately reviewed or evaluated prior to execution.

Noncompliance with policies The SLEDP procurement process and procedures need improvement. We noted several contracts were missing supporting documentation, a contract may not have been advertised, and several contracts circumvented the normal routing process.

A test of 20²⁵ judgmentally selected procurement contracts from 2015 to 2018 identified the following issues:

- Procurement files were incomplete for 4 of 12 applicable contracts. The files were missing the originating RFP documentation and/or responsive bids or proposals from vendors required by the SLEDP procurement policy.

For example, on June 23, 2016, the Port Authority executed a contract of $422,000 for a public infrastructure study. During the procurement process, two firms submitted proposals. The Port Authority determined one firm "failed to comply with a material term of request" and concluded the proposal was non-responsive. No documentation could be provided defining "material term of request" and how the proposal failed to ²⁵ A total of 23 contract solicitations were reviewed, however, 3 solicitations related to land sales were not considered as part of this test work.

St. Louis County
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

comply. In addition, current SLEDP staff could not provide supporting documentation showing the request for proposal was advertised in a newspaper of general circulation in St. Louis County as required by state law for contracts executed by Port Authorities.

- The SLEDP does not have a formalized process to ensure procurement selections comply with SLEDP policy. Documentation for 2 of 7 applicable procurement contracts did not include sufficient supporting documentation showing why the vendor selected was chosen.
- In reviewing procurement contracts, we noted 3 of 19 applicable contracts appeared to have deviated from the approved SLEDP contract routing process. SLEDP personnel document their review of contracts on an internal routing sheet. We noted the dates of various levels of review occurred after the contract was executed for two contracts and the former SLEDP CEO approved the third contract without having a routing sheet. As a result, these contracts did not receive the levels of internal review required by SLEDP policy prior to the contracts being executed.

SLEDP Procurement Policy Section 9.2 Retention of Records states,

The Procuring Party shall retain all procurement records for a period of five (5) years following the date of final payment or the date that the grant with which such procurement is funded is closed, whichever is later; except that if any litigation, claim, or audit is started before the expiration of the five (5)-year period, the records must be retained until all litigation, claims, or audit findings involving the records have been resolved and final action taken.

Formal procurement procedures for evaluations of bids would provide a framework for the economic management of resources of the SLEDP and help ensure the SLEDP receives fair value in its contracts as well as help ensure all parties are given an equal opportunity to participate in partnership business. In addition, the SLEDP Procurement Policy Section 3.5(B)(5) for competitive proposals states, "the contract files shall contain the basis on which the award is made." Also, Chapter 68.055(1) RSMo., which governs the activities of port authorities in state, requires them to advertise the RFP in a newspaper of general circulation in the city or county at least 20 days before letting the contract.

Also, Section 8.1(D) of the current SLEDP Procurement Policy states,

All written contracts shall be distributed for approval and execution by the originating division ... to the originating department's Vice President, General Counsel, Chief Financial Officer, and Chief Executive Officer.

Recommendation

The SLEDP should retain procurement documents in accordance with SLEDP policy and document a formal selection process to ensure all contracts are formally reviewed and evaluated in accordance with the established procurement policy. In addition, the SLEDP should ensure port authority contracts are advertised in compliance with state law.

Auditee's Response

The SLEDP's written response is included at Appendix G.

Dear Auditor Galloway,

This letter is in response to the findings contained in the report of the audit of St. Louis County government and the former County Executive conducted by your office and presented to the County Council on August 18, 2020.

As a threshold matter, we would be remiss if we did not point out that the report seems to operate upon an inaccurate premise, namely that St. Louis County government is Council-managed. This is not the case. Beyond appropriation authority, the County Charter gives the Council limited oversight power over the executive branch.

The St. Louis County Council confronted unprecedented challenges over the past few years dealing with the criminal administration of Steve Stenger. Beginning in 2017, the council, as the elected representatives of the people, spent the majority of the last 4 years in hearings, investigating, and pursuing legal actions to reveal and rein in the corruption of the past administration. We have also created measures, through ordinances and charter amendments that will provide proper oversight and transparency over the operation of government in the future. But there is still more work to be done. We welcome this opportunity to discuss our plan to finally put the past malfeasance behind us and work towards a better government for all the residents of St. Louis County. (These responses will become Appendix F. of the audit report)

Appendix F

St. Louis County Response

1.1 Contracts

Auditor Finding:

The former County Executive held contracts indefinitely prior to execution, resulting in the delay of projects, and the loss of federal funding and contractors. In addition, the former County Executive held contracts prior to the County Council's review and delayed renewals resulting in a loss of funding from outside sources, delayed completion of approved projects, and the loss of the contractor selected by bid or proposal. This ability to hold contracts also results in a loss in transparency of the procurement and contracting process.

Council Response:

We agree. To the extent permitted by the Charter, the Council will consider legislation to address this issue. For example, the Council could consider enacting and/or amending ordinances providing that Council authorization for the County Executive to execute a contract, lease, or any other legal agreement is rescinded as to any such agreement that remains unexecuted by the County Executive after fifteen (15) days. In addition, the Council could consider formalizing its existing custom by changing its rules to state that any council member who receives a communication from the County Executive on matters affecting the County must share such communication with all council members.

1.2 Procedural Manipulation

Auditor Findings:

The former County Executive manipulated procurement procedures and processes, which gave himself more influence over county procurement including:

- Selection committee ordinances were abused. The former County Executive added his own staff to RFP selection committees.

Council Response:

We agree. However, the Council, like all governmental entities, expects and relies upon the honest exercise of authority. Nonetheless, the County Council has taken action to address this weakness by amending Section 107.132 of the County's ordinances in October 2018 to require the selection of individuals with professional experience for RFP review committees. The Council could also consider prohibiting certain appointees from voting on proposals and/or contracts submitted in response to an RFP.

Appendix F
St. Louis County
St. Louis County Response

- Lease procurement procedures were circumvented.

Council Response:

We agree that customary procedures were circumvented. To the extent permitted by the Charter, the Council should consider action to address this issue. For example, the Council could consider enacting an ordinance to require that the negotiation and approval for execution of all real estate related contracts for the County shall be the joint and collaborative responsibility of the Transportation & Public Works Department and the County Counselor's office.

- Contributions from developers gave the appearance of a significant conflict of interest.

Council Response:

We agree and have taken action. On October 6, 2018 Article 12.020 the County's Charter was amended by vote of County residents to prohibit contributions related to transactions being negotiated with the County ninety (90) days before a contract is approved and ninety (90) days after.

- Request for proposals process was abused. Ordinances guiding the IFB and RFP procurement processes did not clearly define when each process should be used.

Council Response:

We agree and have taken action. In October 2018, Section 107.132 of the St. Louis County Ordinances was updated to better distinguish these processes.

- Insufficient oversight from the Council – See Section 2

2. Inadequate County Council Oversight

The County Council did not perform sufficient due diligence over lease agreements, did not provide oversight of employees appointed by the County Executive, and did not ensure the county's internal audit capabilities were operating effectively

Lease oversight

Auditor Findings:

- The County Council passed ordinances allowing the county to enter into a significant lease without reviewing the lease agreement, cost analysis, appraisals, and other supporting documentation

Appendix F
St. Louis County
St. Louis County Response

Council Response:

We agree in part and to limited extent. As referenced above, the County Charter in section 2.180.7-10 lists Council powers related to real estate purchases, leases, condemnation, and disposal. Prior to 2017 the Council failed to proactively and assertively exercise these powers. Nonetheless, the Council should consider taking action(s) to address this issue. For example, enacting an ordinance requiring the Transportation and Public Works Department, in coordination with the County Counselor's office, to supervise initial consideration, review, preliminary negotiation and recommendation for execution(s) all real estate related contracts for the County.

Land exchange.

Auditor Findings:

- The council delegated its authority to the County Executive for a land swap deal without adequate oversight.

Council Response:

The Council was intentionally misled and lied to by Gary Bess, Director of the Parks Department about the valuation of the property in question. In addition, then County Executive, Steve Stenger, requested legislation authorizing him to lease and/or exchange the subject properties. The Council passed authorization to do so was based on false information supplied by Mr. Stenger and Mr. Bess. Moreover, in 2018 County voters approved a Charter amendment, now in effect, that requires all sale and/or exchange of County Park property to be subject to approval by County residents via ballot initiative.

Appointed non-merit employees

Auditor Findings:

- The County Executive is able to hire staff, in addition to his budgeted staff, at a salary of his choice, and charge the appointed staffs' salaries to other departments.

Council Response:

As a threshold matter, Charter Section 3.040 governs the County Executive's ability to hire an executive staff. Section 201.070 SLCRO addresses the structure of non-merit employees. In the future, the Council will examine compliance with the ordinance. In addition, the council could consider, to the extent permitted by the Charter, amending Section 201.070 to require that all employees that report directly to the County Executive as his executive staff must be covered directly and exclusively by the County Executive's budget. Section 2.180.1 of the County

Appendix F
St. Louis County
St. Louis County Response

Charter already gives the Council authority to set the compensation levels for non-merit employees. The Council currently has the authority to review all non-merit employee compensation annually as part of the budget process.

2.3 County Auditor Position

The County Council has not fully utilized the office of the County Auditor and requested audits of concerns brought to the attention of the council. The county's charter requirements for the County Auditor's qualifications do not ensure the County Auditor will possess the knowledge, skills, and other competencies to ensure the position is adequately staffed and allowed the County Auditor to hire personnel without any auditing experience.

Auditor's Findings:

- Current County Auditor is not being utilized to provide oversight
- Current County Auditor does not possess adequate qualifications to fulfill the job requirements.
- Current County Auditor has not met auditing standards or followed best practices

Council Response:

We agree. The County Council created an audit review committee. The auditor was poorly supervised by this committee and council Chairs. No list of annual audit targets was produced by the committee or the auditor. The committee has since been abolished. The Council should consider taking action to address this issue. For example, the Council could consider passing an ordinance adding qualifications and more clearly defining the Auditor's job description.

5.1 Personnel issues regarding appointed non-merit employees

Auditor Findings:

- Several appointed employees received a wage increase in their current position during a County Council approved county-wide wage freeze
- The Personnel Division does not verify certifications and qualifications required by charter for appointed employees, which could result in unqualified personnel in appointed positions
- Appointed employee personnel files were not centrally maintained in the Personnel Division.

Appendix F
St. Louis County
St. Louis County Response

Council Response:

To begin with, the Director of Personnel does not oversee or have any responsibilities concerning non-merit employees. In addition, no "county-wide wage freeze" ever existed or was in place. The report is in error on this point. As already discussed under Section 2, oversight and supervision of non-merit employees is the province of the entity/individual that hired said employee(s). Regarding non-merit employee wages, the Council could consider taking action(s) to address this issue. For example, developing a procedure to do an annual review of Council non-merit employee compensation.

Appointed employees serve at the pleasure of the hiring authority/individual and it is that entity's responsibility to verify their qualifications. These employees should be managed by the hiring authority/individual.

5.2 Timesheet controls

Auditor Findings:

- The county has poor controls in place for ensuring timesheets are signed and approved before employees are paid.

Council Response:

These are salaried positions for which timesheets are traditionally not used. No further action needed.

5.3 Job descriptions

Auditor Findings:

- The county had not prepared job descriptions for many appointed positions.

Council Response:

Job duties and responsibilities contract, expand and are often subject to change on short notice. To the extent permitted by the Charter, the Council should consider the necessity, appropriateness and efficacy of enacting an ordinance requiring job descriptions for all non-merit employee positions.

Appendix F
St. Louis County
St. Louis County Response

6. Best and Final Offers

Auditor Findings:

- The Procurement Division has not established a formal policy for the use of Best and Final Offers (BAFOs).
- In addition, the Director of Procurement does not review BAFOs to ensure the process for RFPs is followed.

Council Response:

We agree. To the extent permitted by the Charter, the County Council should consider legislation addressing this issue. For example, an ordinance establishing formal policies and procedures for BAFOs to ensure that the process is fair for all companies submitting proposals and offer results that can be easily and accurately evaluated. Any such ordinance shall be written in alignment with the National Association of State Procurement Officials (NASPO) best practices.

Sincerely,

St. Louis County Council

RE: St. Louis Economic Development Partnership's Written Response to the St. Louis County Management Advisory Report State Auditor's Findings

Dear State Auditor Galloway:

On May 7, 2019, the St. Louis County Council formally requested the Missouri State Auditor to perform an independent review of county operations to certify to taxpayers that the assets of St. Louis County are safeguarded through proper internal controls, which comply fully with State and local law. In conjunction with that request, the Missouri State Auditor also reviewed the operations of the St. Louis Economic Development Partnership (the "Partnership" or "SLEDP").

The Board of Directors of the Partnership (the "Board") greatly appreciates the time and effort staff within the Missouri State Auditor's office devoted to conduct this audit and prepare the associated Management Advisory Report ("Report" or "MAR"). The Board recognizes its fiduciary responsibilities, particularly noting the importance of ensuring that the Partnership spends public funds wisely and remains a steward of the public trust as it fulfills its mission to attract, retain, and grow businesses in St. Louis County and St. Louis City.

General Background to Partnership Response

On January 3, 2019, based on its own inquiries, and prior to the federal indictments of the former St. Louis County Executive and the Partnership's former Chief Executive Officer ("CEO"), the Board took decisive action that resulted in the termination of employment of the former CEO. Concurrently, the Board appointed an Interim CEO who subsequently was made permanent CEO. With the Board's full support, the new CEO immediately began a rigorous review of the Partnership that identified critical issues and put new procedures in place that strengthened compliance with the Partnership's policies, increased transparency, and stabilized and improved day-to-day operations.

The Board agrees with the recommendations of the Report. The Partnership's enhanced and new procedures are outlined below in response to the applicable Auditor findings and recommendations.

SLEDP Response

STL PARTNERSHIP

In light of the above and on behalf of the Board, we provide the responses below to each Report recommendation that pertains to the Partnership.

Partnership Response to MAR Recommendation 1.3

MAR Recommendation 1.3: The SLEDP Board ensure the contracting process is competitive and transparent, and appraisals are obtained for all real estate transactions.

Competitive and Transparent Contracting Process

The Board agrees that competitive and transparent procurement processes are of the utmost importance to fulfill its fiduciary oversight role. To strengthen compliance and oversight of the Partnership's procurement policies, beginning in January 2019, the Partnership has made the following changes in its procurement and contracting processes:

1. Implementing a formal selection process for all consulting or service contracts, and other contracts in excess of $30,000. This process includes the following:
 - a. Oversight of the entire procurement process by the Partnership's Legal Department.
 - b. Establishment of selection committees comprised of a cross-section of Partnership staff who meet to review proposals based on pre-identified evaluation criteria, conduct interviews if required, and determine a selection recommendation. Selection committees also include individual members of the Board where appropriate, in an advisory capacity.
 - c. CEO review and approval of the selection committee recommendation prior to any communication with an outside party.
 - d. Preparation of a written memorandum to document the selection committee's recommendation, the reasons therefore, and the review process.
 - e. Maintenance of RFP bid documents, proposals, and selection materials by the procuring division and the Legal Department.
 - f. Inclusion of a description of the procurement and selection process in Board Resolutions approving contracts. Board approval is required prior to execution of all contracts in excess of $30,000.
 - g. Inclusion of a procurement and selection memorandum in the contract routing forms circulated for review and approval by the applicable division, General Counsel, Chief Financial Officer, and CEO. Review and approval of contract and procurement documents is required at each level prior to execution of a contract and prior to payment of any funds. Contract routing documents are ultimately stored with executed contracts in the Partnership's contract data base.
2. Conducting Partnership-wide mandatory procurement training for all Partnership staff. Trainings were completed in the Summer 2019, with 100% staff attendance. Additional mandatory procurement training is planned annually.

3. Requiring strict compliance with the Partnership's Policies regarding Board review of Contracts. The Partnership's Procurement Policy provides that the Board receive information regarding every contract to which the Partnership is a party. This is accomplished in two ways: (1) contracts not exceeding $30,000 must be reported to the Board at each meeting in a written contract report, containing the name of the vendor, the price, a short description of the contract, and the responsible staff person; and (2) contracts exceeding $30,000 must be approved by written resolution presented to the Board prior to execution. This system allows the Board the opportunity to inquire of staff as to the contracting process for each and every contract.
4. Creating and re-establishing active Board committees to provide ongoing oversight and expertise directly to Partnership staff in major Partnership decisions. These committees include: (1) Real Estate Advisory, (2) Employee Experience (Human Resources), (3) Budget and Audit, (4) Strategic Planning, and (5) Board Nominating.
5. Inclusion of training and reminders to Partnership staff of the Partnership's formal whistleblower protections included in the Partnership's Employee Handbook. These protections encourage employees to report to the Board any suspected instances of malfeasance of the CEO. In January 2020, with 100% staff participation, the Partnership conducted ethics training, which included training on the Partnership's whistleblower policy.

Additionally, please note that the Partnership was not the contracting entity in four (4) of the five (5) contracts identified in this Report section. For example, historically, the Partnership provided all staff, administration and management services to the Port Authority, pursuant to a management agreement. In November 2018, the County Council passed legislation to allow the Council to appoint an entirely new Board of Commissioners of the Port Authority in an effort to take control of the Port Authority from the former County Executive and former CEO of the Partnership. After the former County Executive's resignation, in April 2019, the new Board of Commissioners assumed control of the Port Authority. For the Port Authority, and for the other economic development entities it manages, the Board retains responsibility for the actions of the Partnership's employees and requires that the same rigor and consideration applied to the approach described above for the Partnership shall be provided for each managed entity, regardless of whether the particular managing board has requested that same level of service.

The portion of MAR 1.3 pertaining to CEO compensation is addressed in our response to MAR 4.1 and 4.2 below.

Appraisals for all real estate transactions

The Real Estate Advisory Committee of the Board is working with Partnership staff to create policies for the Partnership and for entities that the Partnership manages, for the disposition of real estate. These real estate policies will incorporate both statutory requirements and best practices relating to the sale of real estate for the ownership entity. The Board agrees that appraisals of real estate are essential to establish the anticipated market value for real estate before disposition or purchase. Real estate policies will require appraisals and further require that any variance from market value be documented and be within the applicable statutory and commercial standards that apply to the ownership entity. The Partnership's Real Estate Advisory Committee would be involved in all deliberations concerning the purchase or sale of real estate by the Partnership or any of the entities managed by the Partnership.

Partnership Response to MAR Recommendation 3.1

MAR Recommendation 3.1: Pursue reimbursement for the unauthorized bonus payments paid.

The Board acknowledges the importance of this recommendation and is consulting with legal counsel to determine the best course of action.

Partnership Response to MAR Recommendation 3.2

MAR Recommendation 3.2: Ensure personnel policies are applied equitably and any departure from policy is documented and approved by the appropriate level of authority. Also, the SLEDP should pursue reimbursement for improperly paid out PTO compensation to the former CFO.

Equitable Application of Personnel Policy

The Board agrees that personnel policies must be applied equitably to all employees and that any deviation from standard policy should be properly authorized and documented. The Partnership has adopted a process by which any departure from the Partnership's employee Handbook, including for PTO carry over, will be documented in writing, approved with the CEO's signature, and retained in permanent personnel records. Additionally, the Employee Experience Committee will advise staff on any such departure from policy, and it will be applied equally to all relevant employees. This process will ensure that the actions taken are appropriately authorized, documented for historical record, and compliant with applicable policies.

Reimbursement for Unauthorized PTO Payments

The Board acknowledges the importance of this recommendation and is consulting with legal counsel to determine the best course of action.

Partnership Response to MAR Recommendation 4.1

MAR Recommendation 4.1: Continue to ensure employment contracts are executed with the CEO and are in the best interest of the SLEDP. All terms and conditions should be formally approved by the Board and publicly documented in the Board minutes.

The Board agrees that formal written contracts, which clearly identify the duties and responsibilities of each party and are approved by the entire Board, are the best way to fulfill its responsibility to “fix the terms and conditions” of employment of a CEO. The Board utilized this process when employment of the current CEO was approved. A formal written contract ensures that all parties are aware of and accept the basic terms of employment, including job duties and compensation. Board oversight of terms and conditions of the CEO’s employment will continue as prescribed in the Partnership’s bylaws.

Appendix G

STL PARTNERSHIP

Partnership Response to MAR Recommendation 4.2

MAR Recommendation 4.2: Continue to follow current SLEDP policy regarding bonuses.

Continue to follow current SLEDP policy regarding bonuses.

As noted in the Report, bonuses have not been awarded beginning in 2018 onward. Bonuses should be awarded to employees only in accordance with a properly reviewed and approved policy, which includes a formal and objective appraisal system to document award determinations. Until and unless such a policy is in place, the Board will not direct the CEO to award bonuses to employees and will not approve a budget that includes an allocation for bonuses based upon MAR Recommendation 4.2. The Board’s Employee Experience Committee will assist in development and implementation of any future bonus policy, with Board approval.

With regard to Board oversight of unauthorized bonuses paid to employees, the Board notes that the budgets, audits, and financial statements the Board received during the audit period did not identify individual compensation or bonuses paid. In the absence of requests for approval of bonuses, the Board believed that no bonuses had been paid during the time in question. Additionally, the 2016 IRS Form 990, which is the first to list significantly higher than normal total compensation and bonuses paid to the former CEO was not filed with the IRS and made available to the public until October of 2018. By this time, the bonuses had long since been paid without Board knowledge or approval.

Partnership Response to MAR Recommendation 7

MAR Recommendation 7: The SLEDP should retain procurement documents in accordance with SLEDP policy and document a formal selection process to ensure all contracts are formally reviewed and evaluated in accordance with the established procurement policy. In addition, the SLEDP should ensure port authority contracts are advertised in compliance with state law.

Retention of procurement documents

The Board agrees that each step in the procurement process should be supported by adequate documentation, which should be retained in accordance with the mandates of the Partnership’s Procurement Policy. The Board had a retention of procurement documents policy that was not followed. In early 2019, the Board instituted new selection and documentation procedures to strengthen compliance with the Partnership’s procurement policy (see response to MAR 1.3 above). Additionally, to ensure proper compliance on each contract, the legal department provides training sessions to educate staff regarding the requirements of the Partnership's Procurement Policy. In the summer of 2019, prompted by many of the events detailed in the Report, legal staff presented a series of comprehensive training sessions to review the Partnership's entire Procurement Policy. One hundred percent (100%) of Partnership staff participated in those training sessions. Additional mandatory training is planned annually.

Formal Selection Process and Port Authority Contracts

Partnership staff have implemented the formal selection process as outlined in the Partnership's response to MAR 1.3.

Effective July 1, 2018, Partnership staff updated the Partnership's Procurement Policy to ensure Port Authority contracts comply with Chapter 68, RSMo. Please note the instance in which a Port Authority contract did not comply with state law regarding advertisement occurred in June 2016, prior to these updates to the Procurement Policy.

Summary

The Board of Directors and current management have progressed diligently to ensure the Partnership meets its obligations to spend public funds wisely and remain a steward of the public trust. Starting in 2019, current management, in conjunction with the Board, enhanced procurement and human resources procedures to strengthen compliance with Partnership policies.

The Board looks forward to completing the implementation of Report recommendations, as discussed herein, and to fully restoring public trust, and continuing the mission of the Partnership to attract, retain and grow businesses in St. Louis County and St. Louis City.

Sincerely,
Board of Directors, St. Louis Economic Development Partnership

NICOLE GALLOWAY, CPA

Missouri State Auditor

To the Honorable Mayor
and
Director of Department of Public Safety
City of St. Louis, Missouri

We have audited certain operations of the City of St. Louis Department of Public Safety in fulfillment of our duties under Section 29.200.3, RSMo. The State Auditor initiated audits of the City of St. Louis in response to a formal request from the Board of Aldermen. The city engaged KPMG LLP, Certified Public Accountants (CPAs), to audit the city's financial statements for the year ended June 30, 2019. To minimize duplication of effort, we reviewed the CPA firm's report. The scope of our audit included, but was not necessarily limited to, the year ended June 30, 2019. The objectives of our audit were to:

1. Evaluate the department's internal controls over significant management and financial functions.
2. Evaluate the department's compliance with certain legal provisions.
3. Evaluate the economy and efficiency of certain management practices and procedures, including certain financial transactions.

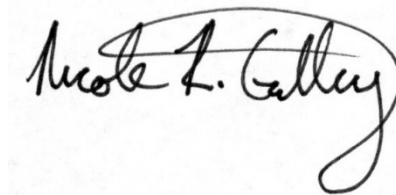

Our methodology included reviewing minutes of meetings, written policies and procedures, financial records, and other pertinent documents; interviewing various personnel of the department, as well as certain external parties; and testing selected transactions and inspection of capital assets. We obtained an understanding of internal controls that are significant within the context of the audit objectives and assessed whether such controls have been properly designed and placed in operation. We tested certain of those controls to obtain evidence regarding the effectiveness of their design and operation. We also obtained an understanding of legal provisions that are significant within the context of the audit objectives, and we assessed the risk that illegal acts, including fraud, and violations of applicable contract, grant agreement, or other legal provisions could occur. Based on that risk assessment, we designed and performed procedures to provide reasonable assurance of detecting instances of noncompliance significant to those provisions.

We conducted our audit in accordance with the standards applicable to performance audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform our audit to obtain sufficient, appropriate evidence to provide a reasonable basis for our findings and conclusions based on our audit objectives. We believe that the evidence obtained provides such a basis.

The accompanying Organization and Statistical Information is presented for informational purposes. This information was obtained from the department's management and was not subjected to the procedures applied in our audit of the department.

For the areas audited, we identified (1) deficiencies in internal controls, (2) noncompliance with legal provisions, and (3) the need for improvement in management practices and procedures. The accompanying Management Advisory Report presents our findings arising from our audit of the City of St. Louis Department of Public Safety.

Additional audits of various official and departments of the City of St. Louis are in process, and any additional findings and recommendations will be included in subsequent reports.

Management Advisory Report

State Auditor's Findings

1. SLMPD Secondary Employment Controls and Procedures

Significant weaknesses exist in St. Louis Metropolitan Police Department (SLMPD) controls and procedures over secondary employment.

Special Order 3-07 (SO 3-07), issued in July 2013 and February 2012, governs off-duty or secondary employment for SLMPD employees. Secondary employment is defined as employment in which an employee is compensated, not limited to the direct receipt of cash, in exchange for services rendered or an expectation of services from a party or employer, other than the SLMPD. The city had 1,041 SLMPD employees registered and approved to work for 164 secondary employers¹ as of June 30, 2019.

In March 2018, the SLMPD established a team to analyze the weaknesses in existing procedures and propose solutions to strengthen controls over secondary employment. The team completed a revised Special Order 3-07 in July 2020 that was approved for implementation in August 2020. In addition, SLMPD officials indicated the team referred a criminal case involving one employee for prosecution in August 2018. The case remains under review as of August 2020.

We selected 65 employees registered and approved to work secondary employment during fiscal year 2019. Many of these employees were authorized to work for more than one secondary employer. We requested the SLMPD obtain employee time records from each secondary employer for the period reviewed. In addition, we requested all employee and secondary employer documents on file with the SLMPD for the employers selected. We initially selected 30 employees and reviewed documentation from one of their secondary employers for one month. Based on our initial review and concerns received, we selected an additional 30 employees and reviewed documentation from all of their secondary employers for one month. Finally, based on additional concerns received, we expanded our review and selected an additional 5 employees employed by the same secondary employer and reviewed secondary employer documentation for the entire fiscal year. We reviewed documentation for 64² employees and 42 unique secondary employers.

¹ The SLMPD also had an additional 48 grant programs that are considered secondary employers because employees working on those grant programs are subject to many of the same requirements for authorization as described in MAR Section 1.2. However, grants are not subject to employer requirements as described in MAR Section 1.3; therefore, we did not review for those requirements during our testing.

² One employee in the first selection of 30 was not tested. Certain elements in the data provided from the department's timekeeping system were incorrect for this employee, resulting in the selection of an employee that did not have applicable secondary employment during the test period.

City of St. Louis - Department of Public Safety
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

1.1 Monitoring of secondary employment hours

The SLMPD does not have procedures to periodically review secondary employment hours reported. As a result, the SLMPD did not detect some employees claiming to be working at the SLMPD at the same time as their secondary employer or incorrectly recorded secondary employment hours. In addition, existing monitoring procedures did not detect employees working more than the allowed 16 hours per day.

The SLMPD does not periodically request timesheets or other time records from secondary employers and compare those records to secondary employment hours in the department's timekeeping system. Per SO 3-07, all commissioned employees are required to enter all time worked on secondary employment into the department's timekeeping system. Also, SO 3-07 requires all secondary employers to prepare and maintain a ledger of the date and number of hours worked by each SLMPD officer employed in a secondary capacity and for this ledger to be available to the SLMPD's Bureau of Professional Standards upon request.

We compared time records from secondary employers to SLMPD records and noted the following concerns.

Duplicated time

We identified 5 of the 42 (12 percent) applicable³ employees reported working at the SLMPD and their secondary employer at the same time. The duplicated time totaled approximately 16 hours and ranged from 30 minutes to more than 4 hours per day. Because the SLMPD does not have processes in place to detect errors, the duplicated time may represent errors in time records or time inappropriately reported as worked. Additional information is presented in Appendix B.

Secondary employment time not recorded

Department records for 31 of the 38 (82 percent) applicable⁴ employees indicated the employee did not enter any of his/her secondary employment time in the department timekeeping system or he/she entered the time inaccurately. Additional information is presented in Appendix C.

Daily and weekly hour maximums

SLMPD procedures for identifying employees working in excess of 16 hours per day did not detect some errors. Per SO 3-07, SLMPD employees may not work in excess of 16 hours in any one day; this daily limit includes regular duty, overtime, and secondary employment. SO 3-07 states that the requirements established are intended to promote officer safety and performance.

³ Only 42 of the employees worked secondary employment hours during the period reviewed.

⁴ Our test included 4 civilian employees who are not required to enter secondary employment hours in the department's timekeeping system.

City of St. Louis - Department of Public Safety
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Monthly, the department's internal auditor reviews a report from the timekeeping system that shows all employees who worked more than 16 hours per day, including any secondary employment hours entered. He notes if non-mandatory⁵ overtime and/or secondary employment resulted in the officer exceeding 16 hours worked in a day. Suspected violations are sent to commanders; however, they are not required to report back on any actions taken.

City employee and secondary employer records for 4⁶ of 64 (6 percent) employees reviewed showed the employee worked more than 16 hours total at the SLMPD and their secondary employer in one day. However, because none of these employees entered secondary employment hours into the department's timekeeping system the excess hours were not included on the list reviewed by the internal auditor and the errors were not detected. Issues noted included the following:

- One employee worked almost 13 duty hours (including overtime) for the SLMPD and also worked 4 hours of secondary employment, for a total of approximately 17 hours on a day in January 2019.
- One employee worked 14.75 duty hours (including overtime) for the SLMPD and also worked 7 hours of secondary employment, for a total of 21.75 hours on a day in July 2018.
- One employee worked 16 duty hours (including overtime) for the SLMPD and also worked 5 hours of secondary employment, for a total of 21 hours on a day in August 2018. On another day in the same month, this employee worked more than 12 duty hours (including overtime) for the SLMPD and also worked 5 hours of secondary employment, for a total of more than 17 hours.
- One employee worked 12 duty hours (including overtime) for the SLMPD and also worked 6.5 hours of secondary employment, for a total of 18.5 hours on a day in July 2018.

Conclusion

Periodic reviews of secondary employment time that includes comparing time records from secondary employers to the department's timekeeping system are necessary to ensure compliance with department rules, accurate time reporting, and to detect errors and any inappropriately claimed time. Also, existing procedures to identify employees working in excess of 16 hours per ⁵ An officer required to work mandatory overtime is exempt from the 16 hour per day rule.

⁶ These 4 employees are included in the 31 employees who did not record their secondary employment time and are included in Appendix C.

City of St. Louis - Department of Public Safety
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

day are ineffective if improvements are not made to ensure secondary employment hours are reported.

1.2 Employee authorization for secondary employment

The SLMPD does not ensure employees are approved for secondary employment annually as required.

The authorization for secondary employment forms for 2 of 64 (3 percent) employees reviewed had not been updated annually as required. As of July 2019, the most recent secondary employment permit update forms on file for these 2 employees were from 2017; however, they were still actively working for their secondary employers. Officials indicated employees are expected to voluntarily comply with the requirements. Also, when an employee is first approved for secondary employment, personnel enter the approval in the department's timekeeping system. This approval remains active indefinitely in the timekeeping system and the SLMPD only makes changes if the department receives notice that the employee no longer works for the secondary employer.

SO 3-07 requires all SLMPD employees requesting to work secondary employment to submit a separate application and permit form for each employer for which they are requesting authorization. This form must be approved through the chain of command. If the employee continues to work for the same secondary employer(s) longer than a year, the permit information must be updated annually by submitting an update form for approval. Improvements in controls and procedures are necessary to ensure SLMPD employees update their authorization for secondary employment on an annual basis as required. Without updated information, the SLMPD may not be aware of all personnel working secondary employment.

1.3 Secondary employer documentation requirements

The SLMPD does not have adequate controls and procedures in place to ensure employers submit required documentation.

SO 3-07 requires all businesses and organizations employing SLMPD personnel in a secondary employment capacity submit a completed and signed "Secondary Employer Indemnification/Disclaimer and Workers' Compensation/General Liability" form, a current certificate of liability insurance that reflects both general liability and workers' compensation coverage, and a completed and signed "Secondary Employer's Responsibility" form. In order to remain eligible, secondary employers must submit proof of continuing coverage for general liability and workers' compensation insurance annually at the policy renewal date. These requirements are designed, in part, to ensure secondary employers have acknowledged their understanding of all legal requirements and have necessary insurance coverage.

City of St. Louis - Department of Public Safety
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

We reviewed 42 secondary employers to determine if they were in compliance with the requirements of SO 3-07 and identified the following issues:

- A "Secondary Employer Indemnification/Disclaimer and Workers' Compensation/General Liability" form was not on file for 6 of the 42 employers (14 percent).
- A current certificate of general liability insurance coverage form was not on file for 7 of the 42 employers (17 percent).
- A current certificate of workers' compensation insurance coverage was not on file for 7 of the 42 employers (17 percent).
- A "Secondary Employer's Responsibility" form was not on file for 14 of the 42 employers (33 percent).

The SLMPD is responsible for ensuring secondary employers comply with the various requirements and improved controls and procedures are necessary to ensure secondary employers submit and update necessary documentation.

Recommendations

The SLMPD:

- 1.1 Monitor employee compliance with secondary employment regulations including periodically comparing secondary employer records to SLMPD records.
- 1.2 Establish controls and procedures to ensure employees working secondary employment submit documentation as required.
- 1.3 Establish controls and procedures to ensure the department obtains required documentation from secondary employers and retains the documentation.

Auditee's Response

- 1.1 This recommendation has been implemented.

Lt. Col. Michael Sack was assigned to the Bureau of Professional Standards on January 1, 2018. By the end of January, he discovered irregularities involving potential violations of timekeeping for secondary employment. In March 2018, he created a special audit team to look at possible criminal and internal violations related to time reporting and secondary employment. The audit team completed its work for this area in October 2019. Their investigation revealed a lack of oversight for secondary employment, the need for a rewrite of Special Order 3-07, and an assertive effort to gain compliance. A case involving an SLMPD employee was presented to the Federal

City of St. Louis - Department of Public Safety
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Bureau of Investigation and the United States Attorney's Office which is under review at this time.

Lt. Kirk Deeken was assigned to the Bureau of Professional Standards on April 15, 2019 to monitor compliance. He requests hours worked by SLMPD officers from their secondary employers. He compares the hours worked for the secondary employer against hours worked for the SLMPD and the hours the officer entered into PeopleSoft. He also uses the records to verify the officer has a current secondary employment form on file. Any violations are noted and acted upon.

With regard to the SLMPD's "16-hour rule," the recommendations have been implemented. The SLMPD Auditor II, assigned to the Budget and Finance Division, produces a bi-weekly report listing all "16-hour rule" violations and forwards the report to the Bureau of Professional Standards. Lt. Deeken reviews the report and investigates to ascertain if there are violations. If Lt. Deeken cannot determine if any exceptions in the report are violations, he contacts the Unit Commander to investigate further.

1.2 This recommendation has been implemented.

SLMPD Special Order 3-07 requires officers to submit a secondary employment form to work for an approved secondary employer. Officers are also required to submit a secondary employment update as part of their annual performance review. Failure to submit this form will prevent an officer from entering secondary employment hours into PeopleSoft. Similarly, failure to renew secondary employment annually will automatically cancel the officer's secondary employment privileges, preventing the officer from entering secondary employment hours into PeopleSoft.

1.3 This recommendation has been implemented.

SLMPD Special Order 3-07 requires employers to submit current documentation, including an "indemnification" form, to remain on file with the Bureau of Professional Standards. It also requires all documentation to be current. Failure to submit or maintain proper documentation results in the termination of the secondary employer's status with the SLMPD and prohibits officers from working for that secondary employer.

City of St. Louis - Department of Public Safety
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Lt. Deeken maintains a calendar on all secondary employers and sends them a renewal reminder sixty days prior to the lapse of their insurance.

2. SLMPD Overtime Management Controls

Analysis of high overtime usage

The SLMPD does not have adequate procedures in place to periodically review overtime data to identify potentially unusual, unexplained, excessive, or disproportionate overtime usage and, as a result, cannot identify potential improper overtime. The SLMPD paid more than 1,200 employees approximately $13.8 million⁷ in overtime wages during fiscal year 2019.

We requested a report⁸ of all salaries, overtime wages, and other payroll adjustments by check date for each SLMPD employee for fiscal year 2019. We reviewed this report and other data⁹ and determined at least 99 SLMPD employees (8 percent) in our analysis were paid overtime that was equivalent to 50 percent or more of their base salary during the period.

Number of employees who earned overtime of at least 50 percent of base salary

Overtime Wages as a Percentage of Base Salary	Commissioned Employees	Civilian Employees	Total Employees
100 or greater	8	0	8
90.00 to 99.99	1	0	1
80.00 to 89.99	12	1	13
70.00 to 79.99	14	3	17
60.00 to 69.99	18	0	18
50.00 to 59.99	38	4	42
	91	8	99

The 99 employees listed in the table were assigned to 26 different units within the SLMPD. The department's six districts accounted for a significant number of these employees (42) followed by various units including intelligence-federal task force (10), traffic/mounted patrol (9), communications (8), and homicide (5). The remaining 25 employees were from 16 other units. We obtained detailed reports of overtime by day from the department's timekeeping system for the top 5 overtime wage earners (based on

⁸ Personnel from the city's Information Technology Services Agency generated the report.

⁹ For police sergeants, the Budget and Finance division must periodically prepare a spreadsheet and perform calculations to determine the number of hours each sergeant worked in excess of 160 in a 28 day period as outlined in the city's payroll ordinance. Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings percentage) and noted they worked a combined total of 8,551 hours of overtime, an average of 1,710 hours each. That is an average of 73 hours worked per week for each employee.

SLMPD Budget and Finance division personnel indicated the majority of overtime hours were due to staffing shortages in the department. The SLMPD officials indicated they are continuing efforts to fill vacancies, including continuation of the cadet program and offering a higher starting salary for police officers. The Mayor and Chief of Police also testified before the Missouri House Judiciary Committee in January 2020 in support of lifting the residency requirement with the intent of filling vacancies. The Chief of Police testified the SLMPD has been operating from 100 to 150 officers below the department's authorized strength of 1,340 officers for at least the past 3 years. At the time of the hearing, the department was 138 officers short, or approximately 10 percent less than the authorized strength.

Monitoring of overtime

The SLMPD has limited procedures for monitoring overtime. The department primarily relies on supervisors to ensure any overtime worked by employees is reasonable and necessary. All employees submitting overtime hours must enter comments in the timekeeping system to explain the reason(s) for overtime hours worked and all overtime must be approved by a supervisor.

The only other process in place to monitor overtime usage and detect any unusual activity is a budget review performed by the SLMPD's Budget and Finance division. Division personnel periodically review a budget to actual report of all departmental expenses and distribute it to all civilian and commissioned commanders. This review includes base salaries and overtime; however, it is performed at a high level and is not documented. Budget and Finance division personnel responsible for reviewing this report indicated that due to ongoing staffing shortages in the department, they would only be concerned and perform further investigation if the combined amount of overtime and salaries exceeded the budgeted amount. The review does not include a targeted review of salaries and overtime at the division level and the SLMPD does not generate other reports or perform other procedures to identify and evaluate unusual, unexplained, or disproportionate overtime usage.

Conclusion

While overtime may be necessary to address staffing shortages, the SLMPD should remain diligent in identifying unusual or unexplained changes to ensure resources are properly allocated to those areas most in need. According to guidance from the National Institute of Justice¹⁰ (NIJ), because improper ¹⁰ National Institute of Justice, Research Brief: Police Overtime, 1998. In May 2020, we contacted the National Institute of Justice and their personnel verified that that this guidance for police overtime is the most recent guidance published on this topic and still represents their position on the topic.

Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

uses of overtime typically occur in the form of large and undetected overtime earnings by individuals or units, police departments should analyze patterns of overtime expenditures by individuals, by units, and by the nature of the work performed. In addition, the NIJ recommends police departments identify unusual payouts to individuals or units. Monitoring trends in the overtime usage of high users would allow the SLMPD to identify and investigate cases of potential improper uses of overtime.

Recommendation

The SLMPD should ensure there is sufficient oversight of overtime on a division and department-wide basis to better identify unusual, unexplained, or disproportionate use of overtime.

Auditee's Response

This recommendation has been implemented.

The department has experienced a large number of vacancies that has necessitated the use of overtime to backfill both commissioned and civilian positions. The department is a 24/7 operation and dispatchers and officers must be available to answer and respond to calls for service.

The department also has grants that require specialized skills that limit the number of officers that can perform the work required. For example, the Motor Carrier Safety Assistance Program involves officers with specialized training conducting traffic stops of semi-trailers and conducting safety inspections. Also, when homicide detectives start working a case they may work 24 hours straight to develop leads and question witnesses.

Additional overtime comes with a need for additional transparency on the number of hours of overtime worked by officers and by civilians.

Every two weeks commanders receive an email listing the overtime hours worked year-to-date and during the pay period for every employee. This will permit greater scrutiny by commanders and their subordinates and increase accountability.

In addition, every two weeks commanders receive a report highlighting employees who work more than 50 percent above the norm of hours for their class title.

3. SLMPD Accounting Controls and Procedures

The SLMPD's accounting controls and procedures need improvement. Various divisions within the department receive payments. The majority of this money is transmitted to the SLMPD's Budget and Finance division. That division also receives some payments directly, and this money along with the money received from the other divisions is transmitted to the Treasurer's office. Some payments such as bonds received by the Prisoner Processing section or collections by the Private Security section, are deposited directly into a SLMPD bank account.

City of St. Louis - Department of Public Safety
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

3.1 Receipting procedures

Weaknesses exist in receipting payments received by the Budget and Finance division.

Budget and Finance division personnel do not issue receipt slips for checks or money orders received. Division personnel also do not record these receipts on a receipt log. Receipt slips are only issued for cash that is initially received by the division. However, copies of checks and money orders are retained and attached to the stamped copy of the receipt coding form returned by the Treasurer's office after a deposit has been made. Special Order 2-06 requires that receipt slips be issued for any cash or checks received; this applies department-wide.

To properly account for all receipts and ensure payments received are accounted for properly and transmitted for deposit, official pre-numbered receipt slips should be issued in numerical order for all payments received or all receipts should be recorded on a log and receipts should be reconciled to receipt records as required.

3.2 Transmittals and deposits

Transmitting and depositing procedures for the Fitness Center, Records division, and Prisoner Processing section need improvement.

Fitness center

Fitness Center personnel do not always transmit fees collected timely and do not restrictively endorse checks or money orders immediately upon receipt. Checks and money orders are not restrictively endorsed until Fitness Center personnel prepare transmittals for the Budget and Finance division. The Fitness Center is part of the SLMPD Police Academy and the facilities are offered to all department personnel, their families, and any federal, state, or local government employees. The Fitness Center collects annual membership and access card fees. During fiscal year 2019, the Fitness Center transmitted receipts to the Budget and Finance division totaling $7,640.

During fiscal year 2019, the Fitness Center made 7 transmittals that ranged from $60 to $5,175. The receipts associated with these 7 transmittals were held by the Fitness Center for 6 to 62 days before transmittal to the Budget and Finance division. Special Order 2-06 requires receipts received to be transmitted to the Budget and Finance division weekly. Of these transmittals, only 1 included receipts that had been held for less than a week.

Records division

The Records division does not always transmit receipts intact. The Records division receives payments for police reports, background checks, and fingerprinting services. The division collected and transmitted receipts to the Budget and Finance division totaling approximately $85,000 during the year ended June 30, 2019.

Our review of receipts collected on January 5, 2019 (Saturday) and January 7, 2019 (Monday) identified 3 receipts, totaling $31, excluded from the next

City of St. Louis - Department of Public Safety
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

transmittal. Weekends are not considered official business days and the standard practice is to transmit these receipts on the next business day. All other receipts collected on these 2 days were transmitted at the end of the next business day as expected. Division officials could not explain why the receipts were not in that transmittal. The receipts were in the subsequent transmittal.

Fugitive bonds

The Prisoner Processing section does not always timely deposit fugitive cash bonds. This money is collected for individuals arrested and held on charges from other jurisdictions. During fiscal year 2019, the section collected approximately $120,000 in fugitive cash bonds.

Collections are often deposited several days or more after receipt, allowing a significant amount of cash to accumulate. We reviewed deposits and associated receipts for a 14-day period in December 2018 and another 14-day period in March 2019. The periods selected included 4 deposits. During these periods, we noted deposits did not occur timely. For example, collections totaling $11,049 receipted in November 2018 and December 2018 were deposited from 2 to 21 days later (14 of 20 bond receipts were held longer than 7 days). Although the timeliness of deposits made in subsequent periods improved, we still noted bond payments held for up to 8 days prior to deposit.

Conclusion

To safeguard receipts and to reduce the risk of loss, theft, or misuse of money received, procedures should be established to ensure all receipts are transmitted or deposited timely and intact. In addition, checks and money orders should be restrictively endorsed upon receipt.

3.3 Bank accounts and outstanding checks

The department's handling of bank accounts needs improvement. In addition, the SLMPD has not established procedures to routinely follow up on outstanding checks.

Fugitive bond account

The department incurred fees in the fugitive bond bank account that were not reimbursed by the Budget and Finance division timely. As a result, the reconciled book balance of the account was negative $46 as of June 2019.

We reviewed monthly bank statements and bank reconciliations for the fugitive bond bank account for fiscal year 2019. The department incurred monthly bank service charges and fees for purchasing checks totaling $673 during this period. In June 2019, the Budget and Finance division reimbursed the account approximately $1,014. This reimbursement covered nearly 2 years (April 2017 through February 2019) of monthly bank service charges and fees for purchasing checks.

The money in the fugitive bond account is owed to other jurisdictions. If fees are not reimbursed timely, the account is at risk of having insufficient funds for required disbursements and the reconciled book balance being negative.

City of St. Louis - Department of Public Safety
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Outstanding checks

The Budget and Finance division does not have adequate procedures to follow up on outstanding checks.

- Our review of the June 2019 bank reconciliation for the property custody account noted 2 checks ($583) have been outstanding more than 5 years.
- As of April 2019, the Budget and Finance division was holding 3 payroll checks ($36,300) for former employees. These checks were issued between February 2015 and November 2016. Budget and Finance personnel indicated these payroll checks were held for safekeeping because they did not have and could not locate proper contact information for the rightful owner. After we discussed this issue with division personnel, they located one of the former employees and issued a replacement check in May 2019.
- As of June 2019, 5 checks ($1,358) written from the fugitive bond account have been outstanding for more than 5 years.

Procedures to routinely follow up on outstanding checks are necessary to prevent money from accumulating in accounts and ensure it is appropriately disbursed to the payee or as otherwise provided by state law.

Similar conditions
previously reported

We noted similar conditions to sections 3.1 and 3.2 in our prior audit report. In the Follow-Up Report on Audit Findings City of St. Louis Department of Public Safety, Report No. 2018-119, released in November 2018, department officials indicated these previous recommendations had been implemented; however, we found that corrective action taken was not always effective and problems continue to exist.

Recommendations

The SLMPD:

- 3.1 Ensure pre-numbered receipt slips are issued for all payments received or all receipts are recorded on a log.
- 3.2 Transmit and deposit receipts timely and intact, and ensure checks and money orders are restrictively endorsed upon receipt.
- 3.3 Closely monitor the activity of the fugitive bond bank account and ensure monthly bank service charges and fees are reimbursed timely. In addition, the SLMPD should routinely investigate outstanding checks. Old outstanding checks should be voided and reissued to payees that can be readily located. If payees cannot be located, the money should be disposed of in accordance with state law.

Auditee's Response

- 3.1 This recommendation has been implemented.

City of St. Louis - Department of Public Safety
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Employees have received re-instruction on correct procedures. Checks are restrictively endorsed upon receipt and cash is logged by a different employee in Budget and Finance than the one tasked with preparing the Receipt Coding Form (RCF) and deposit slip submitted to the Treasurer's office. The Treasurer's office then returns a stamped copy of the RCF and a copy of the deposit slip to Budget and Finance. These copies are attached to the backup documentation for the deposit which includes check copies and receipts.

3.2 This recommendation has been implemented.

Employees have received re-instruction on correct procedures. Checks and money orders are restrictively endorsed upon receipt by the Police Academy, Prisoner Processing section, and Records Division. Police Academy deposits are picked up weekly by Budget and Finance and taken to the Treasurer's office for deposit. Fugitive bond account deposits are made twice per week by a commissioned officer.

3.3 This recommendation has been implemented.

Employees have received re-instruction on correct procedures. After 90 days unclaimed payroll checks are returned to the Treasurer's office. The two remaining outstanding payroll checks have been returned to City Hall. These two checks were payable to deceased employees and can't be released without proper court documentation. Outstanding fugitive bond account checks are in the process of being sent to the state's unclaimed property division. Bank service charges are reimbursed to the Fugitive Bond Account on a monthly basis.

4. Vehicle Maintenance and Use Allowance

The Building Division and St. Louis Fire Department (STLFD) procedures for authorizing and calculating monthly vehicle maintenance and use allowances (vehicle allowances) need improvement. During the fiscal year ended June 30, 2019, the city paid approximately $381,900 to DPS employees for monthly vehicle allowances.

4.1 Application of policies

The 3 DPS sections that provide monthly vehicle allowances (Building division, Fire department, and Neighborhood Stabilization team) interpret when allowance amounts should be reduced by ordinance differently. As a result, allowance payment amounts vary and Building Division and STLFD allowances may not be reduced as required.

The city's compensation ordinance, codified in city code section 4.10.020, states city employees who are required by their appointing authority to routinely use their personal vehicle in the performance of their job duties shall be compensated by receiving a vehicle allowance of $270 per month. The ordinance also states that eligible employees who use their personal vehicle with reduced frequency shall be entitled to a vehicle allowance that is reduced in proportion to the reduced frequency of use.

Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

In order for DPS employees to receive the vehicle allowance, the applicable division's payroll section submits a listing of employees and allowance amounts monthly to the Comptroller's office.

Building division

The Building Division Commissioner indicated the division only reduces the monthly vehicle allowance if an employee does not physically work more than 10 days during a month. Records provided indicated all employees received the full monthly vehicle allowance during fiscal year 2019. The city paid monthly vehicle allowances totaling approximately $292,800 to Building division employees during fiscal year 2019. The number of division employees receiving the allowance averaged about 90 employees per month.

Fire department

The St. Louis Fire Department (STLFD) Fiscal Services Manager indicated the department does not reduce the monthly vehicle allowance for any employees because they are considered to be on-call emergency personnel and respond to calls even when off duty or on vacation. Records provided indicated all employees received the full monthly vehicle allowance during fiscal year 2019. The city paid monthly vehicle allowances totaling approximately $18,400 to 7 STLFD employees during fiscal year 2019.

Neighborhood Stabilization team

The Neighborhood Stabilization Team's Office Specialist indicated the division reduces the monthly vehicle allowance proportionately for every 40 hours an employee does not physically work. For example, if an employee did not physically work 40 hours in a given month, his/her monthly vehicle allowance would be paid an allowance of $202.50 (75 percent). We noted that at least 1 employee per month, and often several employees, received a pro-rated vehicle allowance during fiscal year 2019. The city paid monthly vehicle allowances totaling approximately $70,700 to 27 Neighborhood Stabilization team employees during fiscal year 2019.

Conclusion

To ensure vehicle allowances are properly paid in a fair and equitable manner, the DPS should ensure the provisions governing vehicle allowances are consistently applied.

4.2 Overpayment

STLFD procedures for monitoring employee eligibility for the monthly vehicle allowance need improvement.

As a result of our inquiries regarding the accuracy and completeness of data provided by the STLFD of vehicle allowances paid, the Fiscal Services Manager identified one employee who continued to receive a monthly vehicle allowance in error. Effective February 2019, this employee was promoted to Acting Captain and provided an official department vehicle that he was allowed to take home for on-call purposes. However, he continued to receive the monthly vehicle allowance from February 2019 through February 2020, resulting in an overpayment of $3,510. The Fiscal Services Manager indicated a lack of communication at the time of the employee's promotion allowed the error to occur, and the department has initiated the process of recovering the overpayment.

City of St. Louis - Department of Public Safety
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

To ensure only eligible employees receive the vehicle allowance the STLFD should review division payroll records prior to sending the payment request to the Comptroller.

Recommendation

- 4.1 The Building Division and STLFD review and consistently apply the city ordinances governing monthly vehicle allowances.
- 4.2 The STLFD establish procedures to ensure only eligible employees receive the monthly vehicle allowance.

Auditee's Response

- 4.1 This recommendation has been implemented.

The Director of Public Safety sent out Executive Memorandum No. 17 instructing all divisions to review their Vehicle Maintenance and Use Allowance policy and procedures and, if required, implement any changes necessary to be in compliance with the city's compensation ordinance. The memorandum also included a rate chart that could be used to calculate allowance reductions in proportion to the reduced frequency of use.

- 4.2 This recommendation has been implemented.

The STLFD's Administrative Office developed a monthly automobile allowance log to track who is eligible to receive the allowance and for how many days.

5. Expenditures

Some DPS departments did not prepare disbursement vouchers timely, and as a result, one department paid unnecessary late fees.

As invoices and other supporting documentation for expenditures are received, the documents are reviewed, approved for payment, and a disbursement voucher is prepared. Upon completion of the disbursement voucher, it is submitted to the Comptroller's office for recording in the city's general ledger and for payment.

During our review of expenditures we reviewed invoices, receipts, disbursement vouchers, and other supporting documentation. We reviewed 92 SLMPD and 53 STLFD expenditures from fiscal years 2018 and 2019 and identified the following issues:

City of St. Louis - Department of Public Safety
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

- The SLMPD held 10 invoices, totaling over $27,000, from the same vendor for up to 11 months before creating and sending a disbursement voucher to the Comptroller's office for payment. Invoices held were dated the last calendar day of January 2017 through November 2017, excluding September 2017. The late fees payment for these invoices totaled approximately $1,100.

SLMPD Budget and Finance division officials indicated they held these invoices because they had to pay unexpected consulting services expenditures from the professional services budget. The consulting services were part of an agreement with the former Chief of Police upon his resignation in April 2017. The agreement included a provision for the former Chief to provide consulting services for a 1-year period and receive bi-weekly payments at his previous annual salary. Due to the timing of the agreement, these expenditures were not budgeted for fiscal year 2017 or fiscal year 2018.

Division officials indicated and the city's Budget division verified the SLMPD initiated a budget transfer in December 2017, more than 10 months after the first vendor invoice was received. This was also more than 7 months after the start of the unexpected consulting agreement. SLMPD personnel prepared the disbursement voucher for these 10 invoices soon after the transfer was approved; however, as previously noted, the disbursement vouchers were prepared up to 11 months after the invoices were received and the department had already incurred late fees.

The SLMPD held an invoice for global positioning system tracking for almost 9 months and another invoice for new fitness equipment for more than 3 months before preparing disbursement vouchers and submitting them to the Comptroller's office for payment. Personnel could not explain why these invoices were not processed timely.

- The STLFD did not process 5 of the 12 emergency medical services billing services invoices timely. These invoices were held for 38 to 77 days before preparing and submitting a disbursement voucher to the Comptroller's office for payment.

To prevent unnecessary late fees, procedures should be in place to ensure disbursement vouchers are prepared and submitted timely to the Comptroller's office for payment. When necessary, budget transfers should be requested timely to minimize any delay in paying vendors.

Recommendation

The SLMPD and STLFD prepare disbursement vouchers for expenditures and request budget transfers timely.

Auditee's Response

This recommendation has been implemented.

The appropriate SLMPD employees have received re-instruction on correct procedures. The SLMPD will submit budget transfer requests within 30 days of an unbudgeted expense and inform city administration when an unbudgeted expense such as additional overtime due to civil unrest has been incurred.

The STLFD hired an Emergency Medical Service accountant who, prior to the audit, developed a spreadsheet and has been logging and tracking invoices to ensure payments are prepared and submitted on time.

6. SLMPD Assets

Weaknesses exist in the SLMPD's asset controls and procedures. Per the SLMPD's capital asset listing, the department held land, buildings, vehicles, and other capital assets valued at approximately $102.7 million at June 30, 2019.

6.1 Capital assets

Our review of capital asset records noted items were not always recorded accurately, items were not always tagged or identified as SLMPD property, and some items could not be located.

City and SLMPD policy classify any asset with a value of $5,000 or more as a capital asset. The Budget and Finance division maintains a centralized capital asset database. This database includes the asset number, description, type, serial number (if applicable), date acquired, location, and acquisition price.

The SLMPD Supply division also tracks most SLMPD capital assets, excluding vehicles, in a separate database. Asset tag numbers are only assigned and tracked in the Supply division database. The Supply division coordinates an annual department-wide capital asset inventory.

We tested 20 capital assets in various locations. We selected 10 capital assets from the Budget and Finance database to trace to the asset location and the other 10 from various SLMPD locations to trace to asset records. Fourteen of the 20 assets should have been included in the Supply division database as well as the Budget and Finance division database. We identified the following issues:

- The Supply division did not accurately record 4 capital assets in its database and 2 of the items, a computer driving simulator and a computer shooting simulator, were classified as missing, in error, by the Supply division in 2014. Supply division personnel indicated the 2 assets are still in use and located in the Police Academy and the division did not receive proper notification when the assets were moved between divisions.

City of St. Louis - Department of Public Safety
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

- One item (surveillance equipment located in an undercover vehicle) observed was not recorded in either the Budget and Finance or Supply division databases but department personnel indicated it was a capital asset.
- One item (SWAT robot) did not have a property tag affixed and the item's serial number was not recorded in the Budget and Finance or the Supply division database. The Supply division database showed a property tag had been assigned.
- One item (digital robot for bomb and arson detection) could not be located.

According to Supply division personnel, the inventory process utilizes Supply division asset records and includes a process for divisions to include additional assets or assets transferred. However, the Supply division's manager indicated divisions do not always follow the instructions provided to each section or unit at the time of the annual inventory or perform an adequate review of their assets. Special Order 2-06 requires that sections or units submit a form to the Supply division for each asset that is moved between sections or units.

Adequate capital asset records and procedures are necessary to provide controls over city property; safeguard city assets that are susceptible to loss, theft, or misuse; and provide a basis for proper financial reporting and insurance coverage. Property control tags should be affixed to all property items to help improve accountability and ensure assets are properly identified as belonging to the city.

6.2 Firearms

Armory personnel do not update the firearms database timely and, as a result, the database is not complete and accurate. While firearms do not meet the city's definition of a capital asset, the department tracks them due to the nature of the items and susceptibility to loss or theft.

The firearms database includes various identifying information such as serial number, make, and model; the status of the firearm such as issued, safekeeping, in-stock, and other; and the name of the officer to whom the firearm is issued, if applicable. In order for the department to keep accurate records, Armory personnel are required to update the database for all changes such as issuing a firearm to an officer, new purchases, disposals, and firearms needing repair.

Our review identified 5 of 15 (33 percent) firearms tested were sold by the SLMPD in 2017 but still listed as "in-stock" in the database. According to SLMPD personnel, the department sold approximately 2,500 firearms during 2017; however, the Armory did not update the firearms database and these

Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

firearms were still listed as "in-stock" at the time of our review. Also, 1 of 15 (7 percent) firearms tested was listed as "in-stock" in the database but other records indicated it had been issued to a police officer.

Timely updates to firearms records are necessary to ensure records are complete and accurate and safeguard sensitive city assets that are susceptible to loss, theft, or misuse.

6.3 Computer equipment inventory

Approximately $439,000 of computer equipment purchased between 2005 and 2019 was stored at the SLMPD's Supply division warehouse at June 30, 2019. The equipment includes central processing units, printers, and scanners. Department personnel indicated that, through consultation with the city's Information Technology Services Agency (ITSA), purchased items are placed in the usage rotation within a reasonable period of time and most items are used or placed in service within 180 days of receipt. Approximately $53,200 (12 percent) of the equipment was purchased prior to January 2019, and approximately $21,600 (5 percent) was purchased prior to July 2018. Department personnel could not explain why some equipment on hand had been stored for an extended period of time and not placed in service or otherwise disposed of.

In the Follow-Up Report on Audit Findings City of St. Louis Department of Public Safety, Report No. 2018-119, released in November 2018, the department stated the SLMPD employs a common sense, two-pronged approach to maintaining sensible inventory levels. Personnel responsible for ordering computer equipment estimate a quantity that will last no more than a calendar year and can be stored within a reasonable area at the department's Supply division warehouse. However, based on the amount of older inventory on hand, the department is not always adhering to this process.

Acquiring equipment when it is not immediately needed is not a prudent use of public funds. In addition, because of rapid changes in technology, this equipment could be outdated before it is taken out of storage. To ensure computer equipment does not become obsolete before utilized, the SLMPD should refrain from purchasing equipment that cannot be placed into service timely. To increase the probability that the department will be able to recover some costs or otherwise provide a useful benefit to the city, the SLMPD should determine if any stored equipment can be used for immediate city needs and dispose of any unneeded items.

Similar conditions previously reported

As noted above, similar conditions were noted in our prior audit report. In the Follow-Up Report on Audit Findings City of St. Louis Department of Public Safety, Report No. 2018-119, released in November 2018, the department stated these previous recommendations had been implemented; however, we found that corrective action taken was not always effective and problems continue to exist.

Recommendations

The SLMPD:

- 6.1 Ensure complete and detailed capital asset records are maintained that include all pertinent information for each asset. The SLMPD should also ensure SLMPD personnel promptly record asset purchases, transfers, and dispositions in the databases; properly tag all applicable city property; and ensure annual inventories are sufficient to detect errors and review all assets.
- 6.2 Ensure the Armory updates firearm records timely to reflect the current location and status of firearms.
- 6.3 Work with the ITSA to ensure only equipment that is necessary and readily able to be placed into service is purchased. In addition, the SLMPD's Supply division should work with the ITSA to determine if any of the computer equipment in storage can be used by other divisions or other city departments, and dispose of items that cannot be used.

Auditee's Response

- 6.1 This recommendation has been implemented.

The digital robot for bomb and arson detection was located after the fieldwork for the audit was completed. The supporting documentation was provided to the auditors.

The Supply and Budget and Finance divisions will send teams to do annual spot checking at randomly chosen units. Assets at these units will be physically inspected to determine if inventories were performed properly and accurately. Each Unit Commander shall reconcile any discrepancies.

- 6.2 This recommendation has been implemented.

The Armory has updated its records to reflect the location and status of all firearms. All firearms are accounted for. SLMPD has implemented procedures to ensure records timely and accurately reflect the current location and status of all firearms.

- 6.3 This recommendation has been implemented.

The Information Technology Services Agency staff will conduct an annual review of equipment stored for more than one year and offer equipment not needed to other city departments.

7. Time Records

The Building and Corrections divisions do not require timesheets or other documentation for hours worked for some division employees, in violation of city personnel regulations.

City of St. Louis - Department of Public Safety
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

The Building Division Commissioner does not require his Executive Assistant, Payroll Manager, or Payroll Specialist to prepare and submit timesheets. The Corrections Division Commissioner does not require his Payroll Manager, Detention Center Superintendent, or Correctional Program Manager to prepare and submit timesheets. Division personnel indicated these individuals must still submit formal leave requests for approval.

The City of St. Louis Department of Personnel Administrative Regulation No. 134 states "it is the responsibility of each appointing authority to assure that employees on their payroll have actually worked the time for which they are paid" and also states "all departments shall keep daily attendance records." Without timesheets or other daily attendance records, the DPS cannot assure all employees have actually worked the time for which they are paid. Detailed timesheets would document hours actually worked and are beneficial in demonstrating compliance with the city policies.

Recommendation

The Building and Corrections divisions require all employees prepare detailed timesheets or other documentation for time worked.

Auditee's Response

This recommendation has been implemented.

The Building Division and the Corrections Division now require all employees to prepare detailed timesheets.

8. Sunshine Law

The Civilian Oversight Board (COB) discussed some topics in closed session that are not allowable under the Sunshine Law. Closed meeting minutes indicate the COB discussed new and existing COB and SLMPD policies and had a guest speaker discuss the SLMPD's search and seizure policy with COB staff and board members.

Section 610.022, RSMo, provides that the discussion topics in closed meetings should be limited to only those specifically allowed by law.

Recommendation

The COB ensure only topics allowed by state law are discussed in closed meetings.

Auditee's Response

This recommendation has been implemented.

Legal counsel was contacted for advice and Sunshine Law limitations were reviewed with COB Board Members. COB staff is reassessing its agenda content to ensure that matters set for discussion in closed sessions meet the requirements of state law. Cases discussed by the Board involve civilian complainants and accusations against SLMPD officers, so the need for discretion is a serious concern. The Board will likely discuss cases that do not involve discipline in open session, which will require Board members to guard the names of the parties involved with use of generic terminology

City of St. Louis - Department of Public Safety
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

(Complainant/Officer). While this may create a challenge for the Board it also presents an opportunity for the community to hear more of the particulars regarding complaints that are under review.

9. SLMPD Written Agreements

The SLMPD does not have a formal written agreement with the St. Louis Cardinals for performing bomb and explosive detection services for events held at Busch Stadium. The SLMPD billed and was paid more than $44,000 for these services during fiscal year 2019. Department officials indicated they have been unable to agree on terms of a written contract because of various legal matters, including ownership of the explosives detection dog. Officials indicated both parties previously entered into a written contract, but at least 5 years have elapsed since that contract expired.

Section 432.070, RSMo, requires contracts for political subdivision to be in writing. Written agreements, signed by the parties involved, should specify the services to be rendered and the manner and amount of compensation to be paid. Written contracts are necessary to ensure all parties are aware of their duties and responsibilities and to prevent misunderstandings.

Recommendation

The SLMPD enter into written agreements as required by state law.

Auditee's Response

This recommendation has been implemented.

The SLMPD enters into agreements according to city policy. The contractual issue described is resolved as the SLMPD is no longer providing a detection dog to the Cardinals organization.

10. Fire Department Merchandise Account

The STLFD maintains money in a bank account outside the city treasury, in violation of city charter. The account was established in 2015 with a loan from a not-for-profit organization whose mission is to support the STLFD. The loan was subsequently repaid the following year. The account is used to deposit the proceeds from the sale of STLFD merchandise including shirts, hats, and other logo apparel.

STLFD personnel indicated this account is held outside of the city treasury because no city money is associated with the account. At June 30, 2019, the cash balance of the bank account was approximately $1,300. The STLFD received approximately $4,000 from the sale of STLFD merchandise and disbursed approximately $5,300 from this account during the fiscal year. Purchases included approximately $3,450 for new merchandise, $1,600 for hosting community festivals for children, and $250 for other miscellaneous items. While these purchases seem reasonable, expending money outside of the city's normal budgeting and disbursement process increases the risk of it may be misused or spent unnecessarily.

City of St. Louis - Department of Public Safety
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

The money associated with this account was initially loaned to the STLFD, the STLFD is responsible for purchasing and selling the merchandise, and the STLFD controls the proceeds; therefore, this money looks like it belongs to the city. Article XV, Section 24 of the St. Louis City Charter requires all money belonging to the city received by an officer or agent thereof be deposited daily in the treasury division unless otherwise provided by law or ordinance, and any delinquency in this respect shall be reported promptly by the Treasurer to the Mayor and to the Comptroller.

Recommendation

The STLFD transfer the balance of the bank account to the Treasurer and close the account.

Auditee's Response

This recommendation has been implemented.

Merchandise sales are no longer a function of the STLFD. Sales are now handled by the St. Louis Fire Foundation, which is not a city entity. Thus, the St Louis Fire Foundation, not the STLFD, now maintains and controls the bank account.

Dear Ms. Galloway,

Thank you for conducting a thorough audit of the City of St. Louis' Department of Public Safety. Your objective assessment and feedback will help the Department of Public Safety maintain an efficient operation and provide transparency to the public.

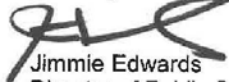

The Department has carefully reviewed your recommendations and offers the attached responses. This also confirms that your recommendations to make the Department of Public Safety more accountable and efficient have been implemented.

Four of the Department of Public Safety's operating divisions (Excise, City Emergency Management Agency, Neighborhood Stabilization Team and Director's Office) received no audit findings. Based upon the published evaluation criteria of the Missouri State Auditor, if evaluated individually each of these divisions would receive a rating of EXCELLENT.

The remaining operating divisions including Civilian Oversight Board, Corrections, Building, St. Louis Fire Department and St. Louis Metropolitan Police Department did receive a few audit findings. Your audit recommendations for each of the divisions have been implemented. Based upon the published criteria of the Missouri State Auditor these divisions are also well managed. If evaluated individually, each of these divisions would receive a rating of GOOD.

It is worth noting here that the Commanders of the St. Louis Metropolitan Police Department had already identified, addressed, and corrected several issues involving operations within the department before your audit began. I agree that those issues are important to maintaining an effective operation. Again, thank you for your public service. If you have any questions, please don't hesitate to contact me.

Best regards,

Jimmie Edwards

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT

To the County Commission
The County of Clark, Missouri

Report on the Financial Statements

We have audited the accompanying financial statements of the County of Clark ("County"), Missouri, which comprise cash and unencumbered cash for each fund as of December 31, 2019, and the related statements of cash receipts and disbursements and disbursements-budget and actual for the year then ended, and the related notes to the financial statements.

Management's Responsibility for the Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of these financial statements in accordance with the regulatory basis of accounting, a financial reporting framework prescribed or permitted by Missouri law as described in Note I of the accompanying financial statements. This includes determining that the regulatory basis of accounting is an acceptable basis for the preparation of the financial statements in the circumstances. Management is also responsible for the design, implementation, and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

Auditor's Responsibility

Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit. We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free from material misstatement.

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. The procedures selected depend on the auditor's judgment, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity's preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control. Accordingly, we express no such opinion. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements.

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinions.

Basis for Adverse Opinion on U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles

As described in Note 1 of the financial statements, the financial statements are prepared by the County on the basis of the financial reporting provisions prescribed or permitted by Missouri law, which is a basis of accounting other than accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, to meet the requirements of Missouri.

The effects on the financial statements of the variances between the regulatory basis of accounting described in Note 1 and accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, although not reasonably determinable, are presumed to be material.

Adverse Opinion on U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles

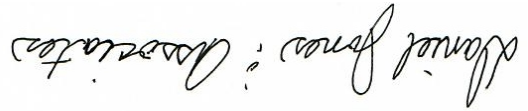

In our opinion, because of the significance of the matter discussed in the "Basis for Adverse Opinion on U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles" paragraph, the financial statements referred to above do not present fairly, in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, the financial position of each fund of the County as of December 31, 2019, or changes in net position or cash flows thereof for the year then ended.

Unmodified Opinions on Regulatory Basis of Accounting

In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the cash and unencumbered cash of each fund of the County as of December 31, 2019, and their respective cash receipts and disbursements, and budgetary results for the year then ended in accordance with the financial reporting provisions prescribed or permitted by Missouri law described in Note 1.

Other Reporting Required by Government Auditing Standards

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we have also issued our report dated August 25, 2020, on our consideration of the County of Clark's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grant agreements and other matters. The purpose of that report is solely to describe the scope of our testing of internal control over financial reporting and compliance and the results of that testing, and not to provide an opinion on the effectiveness of the County's internal control over financial reporting or on compliance. That report is an integral part of an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards in considering County of Clark's internal control over financial reporting and compliance.

THE COUNTY OF CLARK
KAHOKA, MISSOURI
NOTES TO THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
DECEMBER 31, 2019

I. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The County of Clark, Missouri (“County”), which is governed by a three-member board of commissioners, was established in 1836 by an Act of the Missouri Territory. In addition to the three board members, there are ten elected Constitutional Officers: Assessor, County Clerk, Collector of Revenue, Coroner, Circuit Clerk, Recorder of Deeds, Prosecuting Attorney, Public Administrator, Sheriff, and Treasurer.

As discussed further in Note I, these financial statements are presented on the regulatory basis of accounting. This basis of accounting differs from accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America (GAAP).

A. Reporting Entity

As required by generally accepted accounting principles, as applicable to the regulatory basis of accounting, these financial statements present financial accountability of the County.

The County’s operations include tax assessments and collections, state/county courts, county recorder, police protection, transportation, economic development, social and human services, and cultural and recreation services.

The financial statements referred to above include only the primary government of Clark County, Missouri, which consists of all funds, organizations, institutions, agencies, departments, and offices that comprise the County’s legal entity.

B. Basis of Presentation

The financial statements are presented using accounting practices prescribed or permitted by Missouri Law, which include a Statement of Receipts, Disbursements and Changes in Cash Balances – All Governmental Funds, Statement of Receipts, Disbursements and Changes in Cash Balances – Budget and Actual – All Governmental Funds, and a Statement of Assets and Liabilities Arising from Cash Transactions – Agency Funds.

Governmental resources are allocated to and accounted for in individual funds based upon the purposes for which they are to be spent and the means by which spending activities are controlled. A fund is considered a separate accounting entity with self-balancing accounts. The following fund types are used by the County:

Governmental Fund Types

Governmental funds are those through which most governmental functions are financed. The County’s expendable financial resources are accounted for through governmental funds. The measurement focus is upon determination of and changes in financial position rather than upon net income.

I. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES (continued)

B. Basis of Presentation (concluded)

Fiduciary Fund Types

Agency – Agency funds are used to account for assets held by the County in a trustee capacity as an agent of individuals, private organizations, other funds or other governmental units. Agency funds are accounted for and reported similar to the governmental funds. Agency funds are custodial in nature (assets equal liabilities) and do not involve the measurement of results of operations. These funds account for activities of collections for other taxing units by the Collector of Revenue and other officeholders.

C. Basis of Accounting

Basis of accounting determines when transactions are recorded in the financial records and reported on the financial statements.

The financial statements are prepared on the regulatory basis of accounting. This basis of accounting recognizes amounts when received or disbursed in cash and differs from accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. Those principles require revenues to be recognized when they become available and measurable or when they are earned, and expenditures or expenses to be recognized when the related liabilities are incurred.

As a result of the use of this regulatory basis of accounting, certain assets (such as accounts receivable and capital assets), certain revenues (such as revenue for billed or provided services not yet collected), certain liabilities (such as accounts payable, certificates of participation bonds and obligations under capital leases) and certain expenditures (such as expenditures for goods or services received but not yet paid) are not recorded in these financial statements.

If the County utilized the basis of accounting recognized as generally accepted, the fund financial statements for governmental funds would use the modified accrual basis of accounting, while the fund financial statements for proprietary fund types, if applicable, would use the accrual basis of accounting. All government-wide financials would be presented on the accrual basis of accounting.

D. Budget and Budgetary Accounting

The County follows these procedures in establishing the budgetary data reflected in the financial statements:

1. In accordance with Chapter 50 RSMo, the County adopts a budget for each governmental fund.

KAHOKA, MISSOURI

I. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES (continued)

D. Budget and Budgetary Accounting (concluded)

2. On or before January 15th, each elected officer and department director will transmit to the County Clerk, who serves as budget officer, the budget request and revenue estimates for their office or department for the budget year.
3. The County Clerk submits to the County Commission a proposed budget for the fiscal year beginning January 1. The proposed budget included estimated revenues and proposed expenditures for all budgeted funds. Budgeted expenditures cannot exceed beginning available monies plus estimated revenues for the year. Budgeting of appropriations is based upon an estimated unencumbered fund balance at the beginning of the year as well as estimated revenues to be received. The budget to actual comparisons in these financial statements, however, do not present encumbered fund balances, but only compare budgeted and actual revenues and expenditures.
4. A public hearing is conducted to obtain public comment. Prior to its approval by the County Commission, the budget document is available for public inspection.
5. Prior to February 1, the budget is legally enacted by a vote of the County Commission.
6. Subsequent to its formal approval of the budget, the County Commission has the authority to make necessary adjustments to the budget by formal vote of the Commission. Adjustments made during the year are reflected in the budget information in the financial statements.

Budgeted amounts are as originally adopted, or as amended by the County Commission throughout the year. Individual amendments were not material in relation to the original appropriations which were adopted.

7. Budgets are prepared and adopted on the cash basis of accounting.

State law requires that budgeted expenditures not exceed budgeted revenues plus anticipated beginning fund balance. Section 50.740 RSMo prohibits expenditures in excess of the approved budgets.

E. Property Taxes

Property taxes attach as an enforceable lien on property as of January 1. Taxes are levied on October 1 and tax bills are mailed to taxpayers in November, at which time they are payable. All unpaid property taxes become delinquent as of January 1, of the following year.

Interest earned from such deposits is allocated to each of the funds based on the funds' average daily cash balance. Cash equivalents include repurchase agreements and any other instruments with an original maturity of ninety days or less. State law authorizes the deposit of funds in banks and trust companies or the investment of funds in bonds or treasury certificates of the United States, other interest bearing obligations guaranteed as to both principal and interest by the United States, bonds of the State of Missouri or other government bonds, or time certificates of deposit, provided, however, that no such investment shall be purchased at a price in excess of par. Funds in the form of cash on deposit or time certificates of deposit are required to be insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) or collateralized by authorized investments held in the County's name at third-party banking institutions. Details of these cash balances are presented in Note II.

G. Interfund Transactions

During the course of operations, numerous transactions occur between individual funds for goods provided or services rendered. These receivables and payables, if applicable, are eliminated due to reporting the financial statements on the regulatory basis of accounting.

Legally required transfers are reported as “transfers in” by the recipient fund and as “transfers out” by the disbursing fund.

II. DEPOSITS AND INVESTMENTS

The County maintains a cash and temporary investment pool that is available for use by all funds. Deposits with maturities greater than three months are considered investments. Each fund type's portion of this pool is displayed as “Cash” under each fund's caption.

II. DEPOSITS AND INVESTMENTS (concluded)

Custodial Credit Risk – Deposits

For a deposit, custodial credit risk is the risk that in the event of a bank failure, the government's deposits may not be returned to it. The County's investment policy does not include custodial credit risk requirements. The County's deposits were not exposed to custodial credit risk for the year ended December 31, 2019.

Custodial Credit Risk – Investments

Investment securities are exposed to custodial credit risk if the securities are uninsured, are not registered in the name of the government, and are held by the party who sold the security to the County or its agent but not in the government's name. The County does not have a policy for custodial credit risk relating to investments. The County's investments were not exposed to custodial credit risk for the year ended December 31, 2019.

Investment Interest Rate Risk

Investment interest rate risk is the risk that changes in interest rates will adversely affect the fair value of an investment. The County does not have a formal investment policy that limits investment maturities as a means of managing its exposure to fair value losses arising from increasing interest rates.

Concentration of Investment Credit Risk

Concentration of investment credit risk is required to be disclosed by the County for any single investment that represents 5% or more of total investments (excluding investments issued by or explicitly guaranteed by the U.S. Government, investments in mutual funds, investments in external investment pools and investments in other pooled investments). The County has no policy in place to minimize the risk of loss resulting from over concentration of assets in specific maturity, specific issuer or specific class of securities. The County's deposits were not exposed to concentration of investment credit risk for the year ended December 31, 2019.

III. LONG-TERM DEBT

In 2010, the County issued Taxable General Obligation Bonds of $4,000,000 to provide for the construction of a new County Courthouse. The bonds are due in annual installments ranging from $125,000 to $360,000 through June of 2030. Interest payments are scheduled semi-annually and range from 2.30% to 6.50%, before any federal subsidy.

The bonds were issued through the Build America Recovery Zone Economic Development Bonds program that provides 45% in federal subsidies on the total interest requirements. The interest is paid to the County on a semi-annual basis corresponding with interest payments to the bondholders.

V. LOCAL GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES RETIREMENT SYSTEM (LAGERS)

Plan Description

The Clark County's defined benefit pension plan provides certain retirement, disability and death benefits to plan members and beneficiaries. Clark County participates in the Missouri Local Government Employees Retirement System (LAGERS). LAGERS is an agent multiple-employer, statewide public employee pension plan established in 1967 and administered in accordance with Section 70.600-70.755 RSMo. As such, it is LAGERS responsibility to administer the law in accordance with the expressed intent of the General Assembly. The plan is qualified under the Internal Revenue Code Section 401(a) and is tax exempt. The responsibility for the operations and administration of LAGERS is vested in the LAGERS Board of Trustees consisting of seven persons. LAGERS issues a publicly available financial report that includes financial statements and required supplementary information. This report may be obtained by accessing the LAGERS website at www.molagers.org.

Benefits Provided

LAGERS provides retirement, death and disability benefits. Benefit provisions are adopted by the governing body of the employer, within the options available in the state statutes governing LAGERS. All benefits vest after 5 years of credited service. Employees who retire on or after age 60 (55 for police and fire) with 5 or more years of service are entitled to an allowance for life based upon the benefit program information provided below. Employees may retire with an early retirement benefit with a minimum of 5 years of credited service and after attaining age 55 (50 for police and fire) and receive a reduced allowance.

	2019 Valuation
Benefit Multiplier:	1.00%
Final Average Salary:	5 Years
Member Contributions:	4%

Benefit terms provide for annual post retirement adjustments to each member's retirement allowance subsequent to the member's retirement date. The annual adjustment is based on the increase in the Consumer Price Index and is limited to 4% per year.

Employees Covered By Benefit Terms

At June 30, 2019, the following employees were covered by the benefit terms:

	General	Police
Inactive employees or beneficiaries currently receiving benefits	27	8
Inactive employees entitled to but not yet receiving benefits	4	2
Active employees	23	6
	54	16

Contributions

The employer is required to contribute amounts at least equal to the actuarially determined rate, as established by LAGERS. The actuarially determined rate is the estimated amount necessary to finance the cost of benefits earned by employees during the year, with an additional amount to finance an unfunded accrued liability. Full-time employees of the employer contribute 4% of their gross pay to the pension plan. Employer contribution rates are 0.2% (General) and 2.1% (Police) of annual covered payroll.

Net Pension Liability

The employer's net pension liability was measured as of June 30, 2019, and the total pension liability used to calculate the net pension liability was determined by an actuarial valuation as of February 28, 2019.

Actuarial Assumptions

The total pension liability in the February 28, 2019, actuarial valuation was determined using the following actuarial assumptions, applied to all periods included in the measurement:

Inflation	3.25% wage inflation; 2.50% price inflation
Salary Increase	3.25% to 6.55% including inflation
Investment rate of return	7.25%; net of investment expenses

The healthy retiree mortality tables, for post-retirement mortality, were the RP-2014 Healthy Annuitant mortality table for males and females. The disabled retiree mortality tables, for post-retirement mortality, were the RP-2014 disabled mortality table for males and females. The pre-retirement mortality tables used were the RP-2014 employees mortality table for males and females.

Both the post-retirement and pre-retirement tables were adjusted for mortality improvement back to the observation period base year of 2006. The base year for males was then established to be 2017. Mortality rates for a particular calendar year are determined by applying the MP-2015 mortality improvement scale to the above described tables.

The actuarial assumptions used in the February 28, 2019, valuation were based on the results of an actuarial experience study for the period March 1, 2010, through February 28, 2015.

The long-term expected rate of return on pension plan investments was determined using a model method in which the best-estimate ranges of expected future real rates of return (expected returns, net of investment expenses and inflation) are developed for each major asset class. These ranges are combined to produce the long-term expected rate of return by weighting the expected future real rates of return by the target asset allocation percentage and by adding expected inflation. The target allocation and best estimates of arithmetic real rates of return for each major asset class are summarized in the following table:

Asset Class	Target Allocation	Long-Term Expected Real Rate of Return
Alpha	15.00%	3.67%
Equity	35.00%	4.78%
Fixed Income	31.00%	1.41%
Real Assets	36.00%	3.29%
Strategic Assets	8.00%	5.25%
Cash	10.00%	0.00%
Leverage	-35.00%	-0.51%

Discount Rate

The discount rate used to measure the total pension liability is 7.25%. The projection of cash flows used to determine the discount rate assumes that employer and employee contributions will be made at the rates agreed upon for employees and the actuarially determined rates for employers. Based on these assumptions, the pension plan's fiduciary net position was projected to be available to pay all projected future benefit payments of current active and inactive employees. Therefore, the long-term expected rate of return on pension plan investments was applied to all periods of projected benefit payment to determine the total pension liability.

VII. COUNTY EMPLOYEES' RETIREMENT FUND (CERF)

A. Plan Description

CERF was established by an act of the Missouri General Assembly effective August 28, 1994. Laws governing the retirement fund are found in Sections 50.1000-50.1300 of the Missouri Revised Statutes (RSMo). The Board of Directors consists of eleven members, nine of whom are county employee participants. Two members, who have no beneficiary interest in CERF, are appointed by the Governor of Missouri. The Board of Directors has the authority to adopt rules and regulations for administering the system.

CERF is a mandatory cost-sharing multiple employer retirement system for each county in the state of Missouri, except any city not within a county (which excludes the City of St. Louis) and counties of the first classification with a charter form of government. CERF covers county elective or appointive officers or employees whose position requires the actual performance of duties not less than 1,000 hours per year; including employees of circuit courts located in a first class, non-charter county which is not participating in the Local Government Employees Retirement System (LAGERS); and does not cover circuit clerks, deputy circuit clerks, county prosecuting attorneys, and county sheriffs. Until January 1, 2000, employees hired before January 1, 2000, could opt out of the system.

CERF is a defined benefit plan providing retirement and death benefits to its members. All benefits vest after 8 years of creditable service. Employees who retire on or after age 62 are entitled to an allowance for life based on the form of payment selected. The normal form of payment is a single life annuity. Optional joint and survivor annuity and 10-year certain and life annuity payments are also offered to members in order to provide benefits to a named survivor annuitant after their death. Employees who have a minimum of 8 years of creditable service and who terminated employment after December 31, 1999, may retire with an early retirement benefit and receive a reduced allowance after attaining age 55. Annual cost-of-living adjustments, not to exceed 1%, are provided for eligible retirees and survivor annuitants, up to a lifetime maximum of 50% of the initial benefit which the member received upon retirement. Benefit provisions are fixed by state statute and may be amended only by action of the Missouri Legislature. Administrative expenses for the operation of CERF are paid out of the funds of the system.

The County Employees' Retirement Fund issues audited financial statements. Copies of these statements may be obtained from the Board of Directors of CERF by writing to CERF, 2121 Schotthill Woods Drive, Jefferson City, MO 65101, or by calling 1-573-632-9203.

B. Contributions

Prior to January 1, 2003, participating county employees, except for those who participated in LAGERS, were required to make contributions equal to 2% of gross compensation. Effective January 1, 2003, participating county employees hired on or after February 25, 2002, are required to make contributions of 4% if they are in a LAGERS county and contributions of 6% if they are in a non-LAGERS county. If an employee leaves covered employment before attaining 8 years of creditable service, accumulated employee contributions (other than those made by the county) are refunded to the employee.

NOTES TO THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
DECEMBER 31, 2019

VII. COUNTY EMPLOYEES' RETIREMENT FUND (CERF)(concluded)

The contribution rate is set by state statute and may be amended only by action of the Missouri Legislature. During 2019, the County collected and remitted to CERF, employee contributions of approximately $40,526.76, for the year then ended.

VIII. PROSECUTING ATTORNEY RETIREMENT FUND

In accordance with state statute Section 56.807 RSMo, the County contributes monthly to the Missouri Office of Prosecution Services for deposit to the credit of the Missouri Prosecuting Attorneys and Circuit Attorney Retirement System Fund. Once remitted, the State of Missouri is responsible for administration of this plan. The County has contributed $3,366, for the year ended December 31, 2019.

IX. POST-EMPLOYMENT BENEFITS

The County does not provide post-employment benefits except as mandated by the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act (COBRA). The requirements established by COBRA are fully funded by employees who elect coverage under the Act, and no direct costs are incurred by the County. There were no participants at December 31, 2019.

X. CLAIMS COMMITMENTS AND CONTINGENCIES

A. Litigation

The County is not involved in pending litigation as of the audit report date.

B. Compensated Absences (Vacation and Sick Time)

Clark County provides employees with up to 15 days of paid vacation based upon the number of years of continuous service.

Regular full-time employees who have worked beyond their probationary period with the County who either retire or leave by some other separation shall receive compensation for all of accumulated unused vacation time leave. Sick time is not paid upon separation.

Every employee is expected to take at least some vacation time every year. Vacation is not accrued past the anniversary date of the employee.

C. Federal and State Assisted Programs

The County has received proceeds from several federal and state grants. Periodic audits of these grants are required and certain costs may be questioned as inappropriate expenditures under the grant agreements. Such audits could result in the refund of grant monies to the grantor agencies. Management believes that any required refunds, if determined necessary, will be immaterial. No provision has been made in the accompanying financial statements for the potential refund of grant monies.

XI. RISK MANAGEMENT

The County is exposed to various risks of losses related to torts; theft of, damage to and destruction of assets; errors and omissions; injuries to employees; and natural disasters, and has established a risk management strategy that attempts to minimize losses and the carrying costs of insurance. There have been no significant reductions in coverage from the prior year and settlements have not exceeded coverage in the past three years.

The County is a member participant in a public entity risk pool, which is a corporate and political body created pursuant to state statute (Section 537.700 RSMo.). The purpose of the risk pool is to provide liability protection to participating public entities, their officials, and employees. Annual contributions are collected based on actuarial projections to produce sufficient funds to pay losses and expenses. Should contributions not produce sufficient funds to meet its obligations, the risk pool is empowered with the ability to make special assessments. Members are jointly and severally liable for all claims against the risk pool.

The County is also a member of the Missouri Association of Counties Self-Insured Workers' Compensation and Insurance Fund. The County purchases workers' compensation insurance through this Fund, a non-profit corporation established for the purpose of providing insurance coverage for Missouri counties. The Fund is self-insured up to $2,000,000 per occurrence and is reinsured up to the statutory limit through excess insurance.

REPORT ON INTERNAL CONTROL OVER FINANCIAL REPORTING AND ON COMPLIANCE AND OTHER MATTERS BASED ON AN AUDIT OF
FINANCIAL STATEMENTS PERFORMED IN ACCORDANCE WITH GOVERNMENT AUDITING STANDARDS

Independent Auditor's Report

To the County Commission
The County of Clark, Missouri

We have audited, in accordance with the auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards issued by the Comptroller General of the United States, the financial statements of the County of Clark ("County") as of and for the year ended December 31, 2019, and the related notes to the financial statements, which collectively comprise the County's basic financial statements, and have issued our report thereon dated August 25, 2020.

Internal Control Over Financial Reporting

In planning and performing our audit of the financial statements, we considered the County's internal control over financial reporting (internal control) to determine the audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances for the purpose of expressing our opinions on the financial statements, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the County's internal control. Accordingly, we do not express an opinion on the effectiveness of the County's internal control.

A deficiency in internal control exists when the design or operation of a control does not allow management or employees, in the normal course of performing their assigned functions, to prevent, or detect and correct, misstatements on a timely basis. A material weakness is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control such that there is a reasonable possibility that a material misstatement of the entity's financial statements will not be prevented, or detected and corrected on a timely basis. A significant deficiency is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control that is less severe than a material weakness, yet important enough to merit attention by those charged with governance.

Our consideration of internal control was for the limited purpose described in the first paragraph of this section and was not designed to identify all deficiencies in internal control that might be material weaknesses or significant deficiencies and therefore, material weaknesses or significant deficiencies may exist that have not been identified. Given these limitations, during our audit we did not identify any deficiencies in internal control that we consider to be material weaknesses. We did identify certain deficiencies in internal control, described in the accompanying schedule of findings and responses that we consider to be significant deficiencies. (2019-001, 2019-002, 2019-003)

Compliance and Other Matters

As part of obtaining reasonable assurance about whether the County's financial statements are free from material misstatement, we performed tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grant agreements, noncompliance with which could have a direct and material effect on the determination of financial statement amounts. However, providing an opinion on compliance with those provisions was not an objective of our audit, and accordingly, we do not express such an opinion. The results of our tests disclosed no instances of noncompliance or other matters that are required to be reported under Government Auditing Standards.

County's Response to Findings

The County's responses to the findings identified in our audit are described in the accompanying schedule of findings and responses. The County's responses were not subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the financial statements and, accordingly, we express no opinion on the responses.

Purpose of this Report

The purpose of this report is solely to describe the scope of our testing of internal control and compliance and the results of that testing, and not to provide an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control or on compliance. This report is an integral part of an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards in considering the entity's internal control and compliance. Accordingly, this communication is not suitable for any other purpose.

SCHEDULE OF FINDINGS AND RESPONSES

I. FINANCIAL STATEMENT FINDINGS

2019-001 Criteria: Statement on Auditing Standards (SAS) No. 115, Communicating Internal Control Related Matters Identified in an Audit, which is effective for periods ending on or after December 15, 2009, as amended by SAS No. 122, Statements on Auditing Standards: Clarification and Recodification, considers inadequate documentation of the components of internal control to be at least a significant deficiency.

Condition: Documentation of the County's internal controls has not been prepared to the COSO framework standards for the County.

Context: During discussions with management, we noted that internal control documentation has not been prepared to COSO framework standards.

Effect: SAS 122 considers inadequate documentation of the components of internal control to be at least a significant deficiency. Without documented internal controls, the County may not be able to ensure that controls are in place, communicated and operating effectively.

Cause: The County did not prepare the required documentation.

Recommendation: We recommend that the County develop the required internal control documentation. In addition, we recommend studying the COSO internal control guidance and tools as a means to begin the process. Once this documentation is complete, those charged with governance have a responsibility to understand the controls and ensure they are operating effectively.

Views of responsible officials and planned corrective actions: The County Clerk's office is in the process of preparing the needed documentation to document their internal control structure in conformity with the COSO framework. The expected completion date is the next audit period. The County Clerk is Kelly Waples and her office phone number is 660-727-3283.

2019-002 Criteria: Antifraud programs and controls are the policies and procedures put in place by an organization to help ensure that management directives are carried out. They are part of the overall system of internal control established to achieve reliability of financial reporting, effectiveness and efficiency of operations, and compliance with applicable laws and regulations.

Condition: During our audit, we noted there is no formal fraud risk assessment in place.

Context: During discussions with management, we noted there were no formal fraud risk assessments implemented.

Effect: Lack of an appropriate risk assessment process may result in certain risks not being identified by County's management. Opportunities to commit and conceal a fraud or irregularity may go undetected by management without proper assessment procedures.

August 25, 2020

To the County Commissioners
The County of Clark, Missouri

In planning and performing our audit of the regulatory based financial statements of the County of Clark (the "County") as of and for the year ended December 31, 2019, in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, we considered the County's internal control over financial reporting (internal control) as a basis for designing audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances for the purpose of expressing our opinions on the financial statements, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the County's internal control. Accordingly, we do not express an opinion on the effectiveness of the County's internal control.

Our consideration of internal control was for the limited purpose described in the preceding paragraph and was not designed to identify all deficiencies in internal control that might be material weaknesses or significant deficiencies and therefore material weaknesses or significant deficiencies may exist that were not identified. However, as discussed below, we identified certain deficiencies in internal control that we consider to be significant deficiencies.

A deficiency in internal control exists when the design or operation of a control does not allow management or employees, in the normal course of performing their assigned functions, to prevent, or detect and correct, misstatements on a timely basis. A material weakness is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies in internal control, such that there is a reasonable possibility that a material misstatement of the entity's financial statements will not be prevented, or detected and corrected, on a timely basis. We did not identify any deficiencies in the County's internal control that we consider to be material weaknesses.

A significant deficiency is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control that is less severe than a material weakness, yet important enough to merit attention by those charged with governance. We consider the following deficiencies in internal control to be significant deficiencies as noted in section I.

Our comments concerning internal control and other significant matters are presented as follows:

- I. Deficiencies Considered to be Significant
- II. Information Required by Professional Standards

The County's management has provided written responses to the findings in this report that were identified in our audit. The responses have not been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the financial statements and, accordingly, we express no opinion on the responses.

This communication is intended solely for the information and use of the County Commission, County Office Holders, the Missouri State Auditor and federal agencies and is not intended to be, and should not be, used by anyone other than these specified parties.

Very truly yours,

II. INFORMATION REQUIRED BY PROFESSIONAL STANDARDS

Our Responsibilities under U.S. Generally Accepted Auditing Standards and Government Auditing Standards

Professional standards require that we provide you with information about our responsibilities under generally accepted auditing standards and Government Auditing Standards, as well as certain information related to the planned scope and timing of our audit. We have communicated such information in our letter to you dated April 1, 2020. Professional standards also require that we communicate to you the following information related to our audit.

II. INFORMATION REQUIRED BY PROFESSIONAL STANDARDS (continued)

Significant Audit Matters

Qualitative Aspects of Accounting Practices

Management is responsible for the selection and use of appropriate accounting policies. The significant accounting policies used by the County are described in Note I to the financial statements. No new accounting policies were adopted and the application of existing policies was not changed during the 2019 year. We noted no transactions entered into by the County during the years for which there is a lack of authoritative guidance or consensus. All significant transactions have been recognized in the financial statements in the proper period.

Accounting estimates are an integral part of the financial statements prepared by management and are based on management's knowledge and experience about past and current events and assumptions about future events. Certain accounting estimates are particularly sensitive because of their significance to the financial statements and because of the possibility that future events affecting them may differ significantly from those expected. Due to the County applying the regulatory basis of accounting, no estimates are made during the preparation of financial statements.

The financial statement disclosures are neutral, consistent, and clear.

Difficulties Encountered in Performing the Audit

We encountered no significant difficulties in dealing with management in performing and completing our audit.

Corrected and Uncorrected Misstatements

Professional standards require us to accumulate all known and likely misstatements identified during the audit, other than those that are clearly trivial, and communicate them to the appropriate level of management. Management has corrected all such misstatements. In addition, none of the misstatements detected as a result of audit procedures and corrected by management were material, either individually or in the aggregate, to each opinion unit's financial statements taken as a whole.

Disagreements with Management

For purposes of this letter, a disagreement with management is a financial accounting, reporting, or auditing matter, whether or not resolved to our satisfaction, that could be significant to the financial statements or the auditor's report. We are pleased to report that no such disagreements arose during the course of our audit.

Management Representations

We have requested certain representations from management that are included in the management representation letter dated August 25, 2020.

Management Consultations with Other Independent Accountants

In some cases, management may decide to consult with other accountants about auditing and accounting matters, similar to obtaining a "second opinion" on certain situations. If a consultation involves application of an accounting principle to the County's financial statements or a determination of the type of auditor's opinion that may be expressed on those statements, our professional standards require the consulting accountant to check with us to determine that the consultant has all the relevant facts. To our knowledge, there were no such consultations with other accountants.

II. INFORMATION REQUIRED BY PROFESSIONAL STANDARDS (concluded)

Other Audit Findings or Issues

We generally discuss a variety of matters, including the application of accounting principles and auditing standards, with management each year prior to retention as the County's auditors. However, these discussions occurred in the normal course of our professional relationship and our responses were not a condition to our retention.

Other Matters

We noted during our audit certain matters that were not considered to be significant deficiencies or material weaknesses. Several county offices have limited numbers of staff, which inherently increases the risk of misstatement. Office holders appear to have mitigating controls in place to lower these risks to an acceptable level but the commission does need to be aware of these risks and offices need to remain vigilant in deterring the potential for erroneous or fraudulent activity.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT

To the County Commission
The County of Cedar, Missouri

Report on the Financial Statements

We have audited the accompanying financial statements of the County of Cedar ("County"), Missouri, which comprise cash and unencumbered cash for each fund as of December 31, 2019, and 2018, and the related statements of cash receipts and disbursements and disbursements - budget and actual for the years then ended, and the related notes to the financial statements.

Management's Responsibility for the Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of these financial statements in accordance with the regulatory basis of accounting, a financial reporting framework prescribed or permitted by Missouri law as described in Note I of the accompanying financial statements. This includes determining that the regulatory basis of accounting is an acceptable basis for the preparation of the financial statements in the circumstances. Management is also responsible for the design, implementation, and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

Auditor's Responsibility

Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit. We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free from material misstatement.

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. The procedures selected depend on the auditor's judgment, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity's preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control. Accordingly, we express no such opinion. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements.

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinions.

Basis for Adverse Opinion on U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles

As described in Note I of the financial statements, the financial statements are prepared by the County on the basis of the financial reporting provisions prescribed or permitted by Missouri law, which is a basis of accounting other than accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, to meet the requirements of Missouri.

The effects on the financial statements of the variances between the regulatory basis of accounting described in Note I and accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, although not reasonably determinable, are presumed to be material.

Adverse Opinion on U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles

In our opinion, because of the significance of the matter discussed in the “Basis for Adverse Opinion on U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles” paragraph, the financial statements referred to above do not present fairly, in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, the financial position of each fund of the County as of December 31, 2019, and 2018, or changes in net position or cash flows thereof for the years then ended.

Unmodified Opinions on Regulatory Basis of Accounting

In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the cash and unencumbered cash of each fund of the County as of December 31, 2019, and 2018, and their respective cash receipts and disbursements, and budgetary results for the years then ended in accordance with the financial reporting provisions prescribed or permitted by Missouri law described in Note I.

Other Reporting Required by Government Auditing Standards

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we have also issued our report dated September 4, 2020, on our consideration of the County of Cedar’s internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grant agreements and other matters. The purpose of that report is solely to describe the scope of our testing of internal control over financial reporting and compliance and the results of that testing, and not to provide an opinion on the effectiveness of the County’s internal control over financial reporting or on compliance. That report is an integral part of an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards in considering County of Cedar’s internal control over financial reporting and compliance.

THE COUNTY OF CEDAR
STOCKTON, MISSOURI
NOTES TO THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
DECEMBER 31, 2019 AND 2018

I. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The County of Cedar, Missouri (“the County”), which is governed by a three-member board of commissioners, was established in 1845 by an Act of the Missouri Territory. In addition to the three Commissioners, there are 11 elected Constitutional Officers: County Clerk, Collector of Revenue, Treasurer, Circuit Clerk, Recorder of Deeds, Sheriff, Assessor, Coroner, Public Administrator, County Surveyor and Prosecuting Attorney.

As discussed further in Note I, these financial statements are presented on the regulatory basis of accounting. This basis of accounting differs from accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America (GAAP).

A. Reporting Entity

As required by generally accepted accounting principles, as applicable to the regulatory basis of accounting, these financial statements present financial accountability of the County.

The County’s operations include tax assessments and collections, state/county courts, county recorder, police protection, transportation, economic development, and social and recreation services.

The financial statements referred to above include only the primary government of the County of Cedar, Missouri, which consists of all funds, organizations, institutions, agencies, departments, and offices that comprise the County’s legal entity.

B. Basis of Presentation

The financial statements are presented using accounting practices prescribed or permitted by Missouri law, which include a Statement of Receipts, Disbursements and Changes in Cash Balances – All Governmental Funds, a Comparative Statement of Receipts, Disbursements and Changes in Cash Balances – Budget and Actual – All Governmental Funds, and a Statement of Assets and Liabilities Arising from Cash Transactions – Agency Funds.

Governmental resources are allocated to and accounted for in individual funds based upon the purposes for which they are to be spent and the means by which spending activities are controlled. A fund is considered a separate accounting entity with self-balancing accounts. The following fund types are used by the County:

Governmental Fund Types

Governmental funds are those through which most governmental functions are financed. The County’s expendable financial resources are accounted for through governmental funds. The measurement focus is upon determination of and changes in financial position rather than upon net income.

STOCKTON, MISSOURI
NOTES TO THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
DECEMBER 31, 2019 AND 2018

I. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES (continued)

B. Basis of Presentation (concluded)

Fiduciary Fund Types

Agency – Agency funds are used to account for assets held by the County in a trustee capacity as an agent of individuals, private organizations, other funds or other governmental units. Agency funds are accounted for and reported similar to the governmental funds. Agency funds are custodial in nature (assets equal liabilities) and do not involve the measurement of results of operations. These funds account for activities of collections for other taxing units by the Collector of Revenue and other officeholders.

C. Basis of Accounting

Basis of accounting determines when transactions are recorded in the financial records and reported on the financial statements.

The financial statements are prepared on the regulatory basis of accounting. This basis of accounting recognizes amounts when received or disbursed in cash and differs from accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. Those principles require revenues to be recognized when they become available and measurable or when they are earned, and expenditures or expenses to be recognized when the related liabilities are incurred.

As a result of using this regulatory basis of accounting, certain assets (such as accounts receivable and capital assets), certain revenues (such as revenue for billed or provided services not yet collected), certain liabilities (such as accounts payable, certificates of participation bonds and obligations under capital leases) and certain expenditures (such as expenditures for goods or services received but not yet paid) are not recorded in these financial statements.

If the County utilized the basis of accounting recognized as generally accepted, the fund financial statements for governmental funds would use the modified accrual basis of accounting, while the fund financial statements for proprietary fund types, if applicable, would use the accrual basis of accounting. All government-wide financials would be presented on the accrual basis of accounting.

D. Budget and Budgetary Accounting

The County follows these procedures in establishing the budgetary data reflected in the financial statements:

1. In accordance with Chapter 50 RSMo, the County adopts a budget for each governmental fund.
2. On or before January 15th, each elected officer and department director will transmit to the County Clerk, who serves as budget officer, the budget request and revenue estimates for their office or department for the budget year.
3. The County Clerk submits to the County Commission a proposed budget for the fiscal year beginning January 1. The proposed budget included estimated revenues and proposed expenditures for all budgeted funds. Budgeted expenditures cannot exceed beginning available monies plus estimated revenues for the year. Budgeting of appropriations is based upon an estimated unencumbered fund balance at the beginning of the year as well as estimated revenues to be received. The budget to actual comparisons in these financial statements, however, do not present encumbered fund balances, but only compare budgeted and actual revenues and expenditures.
4. A public hearing is conducted to obtain public comment. Prior to its approval by the County Commission, the budget document is available for public inspection.
5. Prior to February 1, the budget is legally enacted by a vote of the County Commission.
6. Subsequent to its formal approval of the budget, the County Commission has the authority to make necessary adjustments to the budget by formal vote of the Commission. Adjustments made during the year are reflected in the budget information in the financial statements.

Budgeted amounts are as originally adopted, or as amended by the County Commission throughout the year. Individual amendments were not material in relation to the original appropriations which were adopted.

7. Budgets are prepared and adopted on the cash basis of accounting.

State law requires that budgeted expenditures not exceed budgeted revenues plus anticipated beginning fund balance. Section 50.740 RSMo prohibits expenditures in excess of the approved budgets.

E. Property Taxes

Property taxes attach as an enforceable lien on property as of January 1. Taxes are levied on October 1 and tax bills are mailed to taxpayers in November, at which time they are payable. All unpaid property taxes become delinquent as of January 1, of the following year.

The assessed valuation of the tangible taxable property, included within the County's boundaries for the calendar year 2019 and 2018, for purposes of taxation, was:

	2019	2018

F. Cash Deposits and Investments

Deposits and investments are stated at cost, which approximates market. Cash balances for all the County Treasurer Funds are pooled and invested to the extent possible. Interest earned from such investments is allocated to each of the funds based on a weighted average of cash balance. Cash equivalents include any instruments with an original maturity of ninety days or less. State law authorizes the deposit of funds in banks and trust companies or the investment of funds in bonds or treasury certificates of the United States, other interest bearing obligations guaranteed as to both principal and interest by the United States, bonds of the State of Missouri or other government bonds, or time certificates of deposit, provided, however, that no such investment shall be purchased at a price in excess of par. Funds in the form of cash on deposit or time certificates of deposit are required to be insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) or collateralized by authorized investments held in the County's name at third-party banking institutions. Details of these cash balances are presented in Note II.

G. Interfund Transactions

During the course of operations, numerous transactions occur between individual funds for goods provided or services rendered. These receivables and payables, if applicable, are eliminated due to reporting the financial statements on the regulatory basis of accounting.

Legally required transfers are reported as “transfers in” by the recipient fund and as “transfers out” by the disbursing fund.

II. DEPOSITS

The County maintains a cash and temporary investment pool that is available for use by all funds. Deposits with maturities greater than three months are considered investments. Each fund type's portion of this pool is displayed as "Cash" under each fund's caption.

Deposits - Missouri statutes require that all deposits with financial institutions be collateralized in an amount at least equal to uninsured deposits. At December 31, 2019, and 2018, the carrying amount of the County's deposits was $2,081,040.59 and $1,571,068.82. The bank balance was $8,508,998.09 and $6,698,763.55, respectively. Custodial Credit Risk – Deposits

For a deposit, custodial credit risk is the risk that in the event of a bank failure, the government's deposits may not be returned to it. The County's investment policy does include custodial credit risk requirements. The County's deposits were not exposed to custodial credit risk for the year ending December 31, 2019, and 2018.

Custodial Credit Risk – Investments

Investment securities are exposed to custodial credit risk if the securities are uninsured, are not registered in the name of the government, and are held by the party who sold the security to the County or its agent but not in the government's name. The County does have a policy for custodial credit risk relating to investments. All investments, evidenced by individual securities, are registered in the name of the County or of a type that are not exposed to custodial credit risk.

Investment Interest Rate Risk

Investment interest rate risk is the risk that changes in interest rates will adversely affect the fair value of an investment. The County does have a formal investment policy that limits investment maturities as a means of managing its exposure to fair value losses arising from increasing interest rates.

Concentration of Investment Credit Risk

Concentration of credit risk is required to be disclosed by the County for any single investment that represents 5% or more of total investments (excluding investments issued by or explicitly guaranteed by the U.S. Government, investments in mutual funds, investments in external investment pools and investments in other pooled investments). The County has a policy in place to minimize the risk of loss resulting from over concentration of assets in specific maturity, specific issuer or specific class of securities. The County's deposits were not exposed to concentration of investment credit risk for the years ending December 31, 2019, and 2018.

VI. COUNTY EMPLOYEES' RETIREMENT FUND (CERF)

A. Plan Description

CERF was established by an act of the Missouri General Assembly effective August 28, 1994. Laws governing the retirement fund are found in Sections 50.1000-50.1300 of the Missouri Revised Statutes (RSMo). The Board of Directors consists of eleven members, nine of whom are county employee participants. Two members, who have no beneficiary interest in CERF, are appointed by the Governor of Missouri. The Board of Directors has the authority to adopt rules and regulations for administering the system.

CERF is a mandatory cost-sharing multiple employer retirement system for each county in the state of Missouri, except any city not within a county (which excludes the City of St. Louis) and counties of the first classification with a charter form of government. CERF covers county elective or appointive officers or employees whose position requires the actual performance of duties not less than 1,000 hours per year; including employees of circuit courts located in a first class, non-charter county which is not participating in the Local Government Employees Retirement System (LAGERS); and does not cover circuit clerks, deputy circuit clerks, county prosecuting attorneys, and county sheriffs. Until January 1, 2000, employees hired before January 1, 2000, could opt out of the system.

CERF is a defined benefit plan providing retirement and death benefits to its members. All benefits vest after 8 years of creditable service. Employees who retire on or after age 62 are entitled to an allowance for life based on the form of payment selected. The normal form of payment is a single life annuity. Optional joint and survivor annuity and 10-year certain and life annuity payments are also offered to members in order to provide benefits to a named survivor annuitant after their death. Employees who have a minimum of 8 years of creditable service and who terminated employment after December 31, 1999, may retire with an early retirement benefit and receive a reduced allowance after attaining age 55. Annual cost-of-living adjustments, not to exceed 1%, are provided for eligible retirees and survivor annuitants, up to a lifetime maximum of 50% of the initial benefit which the member received upon retirement. Benefit provisions are fixed by state statute and may be amended only by action of the Missouri Legislature. Administrative expenses for the operation of CERF are paid out of the funds of the system. The County Employees' Retirement Fund issues audited financial statements. Copies of these statements may be obtained from the Board of Directors of CERF by writing to CERF, 2121 Schotthill Woods Drive, Jefferson City, MO 65101, or by calling 1-573-632-9203.

B. Contributions

Prior to January 1, 2003, participating county employees, except for those who participated in LAGERS, were required to make contributions equal to 2% of gross compensation. Effective January 1, 2003, participating county employees hired on or after February 25, 2002, are required to make contributions of 4% if they are in a LAGERS county and contributions of 6% if they are in a non-LAGERS county. If an employee leaves covered employment before attaining 8 years of creditable service, accumulated employee contributions (other than those made by the County) are refunded to the employee. The contribution rate is set by state statute and may be amended only by action of the Missouri Legislature. Counties may elect to make all or a portion of the required 4% contribution on behalf of employees. Total contributions remitted to CERF for the years ended December 31, 2019, and 2018 were $144,495.87 and $135,470.27, respectively.

VII. PROSECUTING ATTORNEY RETIREMENT FUND

In accordance with state statute Section 56.807 RSMo, the County contributes monthly to the Missouri Office of Prosecution Services for deposit to the credit of the Missouri Prosecuting Attorneys and Circuit Attorney Retirement System Fund. Once remitted, the State of Missouri is responsible for administration of this plan. The County has contributed $11,628 and $11,628, respectively, for the years ended December 31, 2019, and 2018.

VIII. POST-EMPLOYMENT BENEFITS

The County does not provide post-employment benefits except as mandated by the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act (COBRA). The requirements established by COBRA are fully funded by employees who elect coverage under the Act, and no direct costs are incurred by the County. The County had no COBRA participants at December 31, 2019 or December 31, 2018.

IX. CLAIMS COMMITMENTS AND CONTINGENCIES

A. Litigation

The County is not involved in any pending litigation as of the audit report date.

B. Compensated Absences

The County provides full time employees with up to thirty days of sick time, to accrue at one-half day per calendar month of employment. Upon termination accumulated sick leave is payable at a rate of fifty percent of the total accumulated. Vacation time is accrued for every full time employee, and accrues at a rate of zero days per year up to fifteen days per year depending on the length of employment. Vacation time shall be used in its entirety within the year earned. Unused vacation will be forfeited at the end of the calendar year.

C. Federal and State Assisted Programs

The County has received proceeds from several federal and state grants. Periodic audits of these grants are required and certain costs may be questioned as not appropriate expenditures under the grant agreements. Such audits could result in the refund of grant monies to the grantor agencies. Management believes that any required refunds, if determined necessary, will be immaterial. No provision has been made in the accompanying financial statements for the potential refund of grant monies.

X. RISK MANAGEMENT

The County is exposed to various risks of losses related to torts; theft of, damage to and destruction of assets; errors and omissions; injuries to employees; and natural disasters, and has established a risk management strategy that attempts to minimize losses and the carrying costs of insurance. There have been no significant reductions in coverage from the prior year and settlements have not exceeded coverage in the past three years.

The County is a member participant in a public entity risk pool which is a corporate and political body created pursuant to state statute (Section 537.700 RSMo). The purpose of the risk pool is to provide liability protection to participating public entities, their officials, and employees. Annual contributions are collected based on actuarial projections to produce sufficient funds to pay losses and expenses. Should contributions not produce sufficient funds to meet its obligations, the risk pool is empowered with the ability to make special assessments. Members are jointly and severally liable for all claims against the risk pool.

The County is also a member of the Missouri Association of Counties Self-Insured Workers' Compensation and Insurance Fund. The County purchases workers' compensation insurance through this Fund, a non-profit corporation established for the purpose of providing insurance coverage for Missouri counties. The Fund is self-insured up to $2,000,000 per occurrence for 2019 and $2,000,000 per occurrence for 2018. It is then reinsured up to the statutory limit through excess insurance.

REPORT ON INTERNAL CONTROL OVER FINANCIAL REPORTING AND ON COMPLIANCE AND OTHER MATTERS BASED ON AN AUDIT OF
FINANCIAL STATEMENTS PERFORMED IN ACCORDANCE WITH GOVERNMENT AUDITING STANDARDS

Independent Auditor's Report

To the County Commission
The County of Cedar, Missouri

We have audited, in accordance with the auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards issued by the Comptroller General of the United States, the financial statements of the County of Cedar ("County") as of and for the years ended December 31, 2019, and 2018, and the related notes to the financial statements, which collectively comprise the County's basic financial statements, and have issued our report thereon dated September 4, 2020.

Internal Control Over Financial Reporting

In planning and performing our audit of the financial statements, we considered the County's internal control over financial reporting (internal control) to determine the audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances for the purpose of expressing our opinions on the financial statements, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the County's internal control. Accordingly, we do not express an opinion on the effectiveness of the County's internal control.

A deficiency in internal control exists when the design or operation of a control does not allow management or employees, in the normal course of performing their assigned functions, to prevent, or detect and correct, misstatements on a timely basis. A material weakness is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control such that there is a reasonable possibility that a material misstatement of the entity's financial statements will not be prevented, or detected and corrected on a timely basis. A significant deficiency is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control that is less severe than a material weakness, yet important enough to merit attention by those charged with governance.

Our consideration of internal control was for the limited purpose described in the first paragraph of this section and was not designed to identify all deficiencies in internal control that might be material weaknesses or significant deficiencies. Given these limitations, during our audit we did not identify any deficiencies in internal control that we consider to be material weaknesses. However, material weaknesses may exist that have not been identified.

Compliance and Other Matters

As part of obtaining reasonable assurance about whether the County's financial statements are free from material misstatement, we performed tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grant agreements, noncompliance with which could have a direct and material effect on the determination of financial statement amounts. However, providing an opinion on compliance with those provisions was not an objective of our audit, and accordingly, we do not express such an opinion. The results of our tests disclosed no instances of noncompliance or other matters that are required to be reported under Government Auditing Standards.

Purpose of this Report

The purpose of this report is solely to describe the scope of our testing of internal control and compliance and the results of that testing, and not to provide an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control or on compliance. This report is an integral part of an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards in considering the entity's internal control and compliance. Accordingly, this communication is not suitable for any other purpose.

To the Board of Commissioners County of Cedar

In planning and performing our audit of the regulatory based financial statements of the County of Cedar (the "County") as of and for the years ended December 31, 2019 and December 31, 2018, in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, we considered the County's internal control over financial reporting (internal control) as a basis for designing audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the financial statements, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the County's internal control. Accordingly, we do not express an opinion on the effectiveness of the County's internal control.

Our consideration of internal control was for the limited purpose described in the preceding paragraph and was not designed to identify all deficiencies in internal control that might be material weaknesses or significant deficiencies and, therefore, material weaknesses or significant deficiencies may exist that were not identified. However, material weaknesses may exist that have not been identified.

A deficiency in internal control exists when the design or operation of a control does not allow management or employees, in the normal course of performing their assigned functions, to prevent, or detect and correct misstatements on a timely basis. A material weakness is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies in internal control, such that there is a reasonable possibility that a material misstatement of the entity's financial statements will not be prevented, or detected and corrected, on a timely basis. We did not identify any deficiencies in County's internal control that we consider to be material weaknesses.

A significant deficiency is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control that is less severe than a material weakness, yet important enough to merit attention by those charged with governance.

Our comments concerning internal control and other significant matters are presented as follows:

I. INFORMATION REQUIRED BY PROFESSIONAL STANDARDS

Our Responsibilities under U.S. Generally Accepted Auditing Standards and Government Auditing Standards

Professional standards require that we provide you with information about our responsibilities under generally accepted auditing standards and Government Auditing Standards, as well as certain information related to the planned scope and timing of our audit. We have communicated such information in our letter to you dated April 1, 2020. Professional standards also require that we communicate to you the following information related to our audit.

Significant Audit Findings

Qualitative Aspects of Accounting Practices

Management is responsible for the selection and use of appropriate accounting policies. The significant accounting policies used by the County are described in Note I to the financial statements. No new accounting policies were adopted and the application of existing policies was not changed during the 2019 and 2018 fiscal years. We noted no transactions entered into by the county during the years for which there is a lack of authoritative guidance or consensus. All significant transactions have been recognized in the financial statements in the proper period.

Accounting estimates are an integral part of the financial statements prepared by management and are based on management's knowledge and experience about past and current events and assumptions about future events. Certain accounting estimates are particularly sensitive because of their significance to the financial statements and because of the possibility that future events affecting them may differ significantly from those expected. Due to the County applying the regulatory basis of accounting, no estimates are made during the preparation of financial statements.

The financial statement disclosures are neutral, consistent, and clear.

Difficulties Encountered in Performing the Audit

We encountered no significant difficulties in dealing with management in performing and completing our audit.

Corrected and Uncorrected Misstatements

Professional standards require us to accumulate all known and likely misstatements identified during the audit, other than those that are clearly trivial, and communicate them to the appropriate level of management. Management has corrected all such misstatements. In addition, none of the misstatements detected as a result of audit procedures and corrected by management were material, either individually or in the aggregate, to each opinion unit's financial statements taken as a whole.

Disagreements with Management

For purposes of this letter, a disagreement with management is a financial accounting, reporting, or auditing matter, whether or not resolved to our satisfaction, that could be significant to the financial statements or the auditor's report. We are pleased to report that no such disagreements arose during the course of our audit.

Management Representations

We have requested certain representations from management that are included in the management representation letter dated September 4, 2020.

II. INFORMATION REQUIRED BY PROFESSIONAL STANDARDS (Concluded)

Management Consultations with Other Independent Accountants

In some cases, management may decide to consult with other accountants about auditing and accounting matters, similar to obtaining a “second opinion” on certain situations. If a consultation involves application of an accounting principle to the County’s financial statements or a determination of the type of auditor’s opinion that may be expressed on those statements, our professional standards require the consulting accountant to check with us to determine that the consultant has all the relevant facts. To our knowledge, there were no such consultations with other accountants.

Other Audit Findings or Issues

We generally discuss a variety of matters, including the application of accounting principles and auditing standards, with management each year prior to retention as the County’s auditors. However, these discussions occurred in the normal course of our professional relationship and our responses were not a condition to our retention.

Other Matters

We made certain inquiries of management and evaluated the form, content, and methods of preparing the information to determine that the information complies with the regulatory basis of accounting, the method of preparing it has not changed from the prior period, and the information is appropriate and complete in relation to our audit of the financial statements. We compared and reconciled the supplementary information to the underlying accounting records used to prepare the financial statements or to the financial statements themselves.

We noted during our audit certain matters that were not considered to be significant deficiencies or material weaknesses. Several county offices have limited numbers of staff which inherently increases the risk of misstatement. Office holders appear to have mitigating controls in place to lower these risks to an acceptable level but the commission does need to be aware of these risks and offices need to remain vigilant in deterring the potential for erroneous or fraudulent activity. We noted that the County does not have accounting software that encompasses all of the County’s activity. The Clerk’s office maintains part of the County’s accounting records using QuickBooks while the Treasurer completes her accounting records by hand. They have to combine both sets of records to complete the general ledger of the County. We recommend all of the County’s accounting activity be completed using one accounting software to eliminate possible errors.

Report No. 2020-076

September 2020

CITIZENS SUMMARY

Findings in the audit of the City of St. Louis - Tax Increment Financing

Strategic Planning for Tax Increment Financing Incentives Needs Improvement	The City of St. Louis' strategic planning for tax increment financing (TIF) incentives is in need of improvement. While the city has documented policies related to TIF usage, the city's policy does not include specific program goals or strategic preferences, does not clearly define the evaluation process or criteria to be used in project selection, and does not include effective project cost limits or overall program cost controls. The city also does not maintain TIF data in a useful and transparent manner.
Cost Control and Project Financing Policies are Ineffective	Cost control policies in place for individual TIF projects have been ineffective in controlling costs. While these policies appear to provide specific project limits, in practice, they have been ineffective due to language in the policies allowing these requirements to be waived.
Project Evaluation Improvements Needed	The city policy does not define how the need for TIF incentives should be determined and documented. The city and the St. Louis Development Corporation (SLDC) were not able to provide documentation of all cost-benefit analyses requested, and projects were approved with flawed cost-benefit analyses, including overestimated revenue projections. While a new evaluation model has been put in place and improved these processes, additional improvement is needed. In addition, policies are needed to ensure allowable developer fees are reasonable and defined.
Developer Profits Not Monitored	The city has historically not compared actual developer profit to the projected profit by project. As a result, the city may be providing public incentives for private projects that did not need to be incentivized.
Fee Structure Creates the Appearance of a Conflict of Interest	The SLDC's fee structure creates the appearance of a conflict of interest for the agency. This agency evaluates project applications and makes recommendations related to incentive projects, and is also partially funded with fees generated from approved incentive projects. The amount of the fees received increases with the size of the award.
Governmental Accounting Standards Board Violation	The city did not include the amount of TIF project revenues redistributed for fiscal 2018 or 2017 in its Comprehensive Annual Financial Report as required by the Governmental Accounting Standards Board Statement No. 77.

NICOLE GALLOWAY, CPA

Missouri State Auditor

To the Honorable Mayor
and
Executive Director, St. Louis Development Corporation
City of St. Louis, Missouri

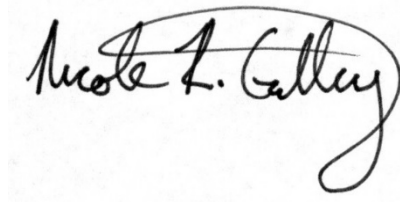

We have audited certain operations of the City of St. Louis regarding the administration of tax increment financing in fulfillment of our duties under Section 29.200.3, RSMo. The State Auditor initiated audits of the City of St. Louis in response to a formal request from the Board of Aldermen. The city engaged KPMG LLP, Certified Public Accountants (CPAs), to audit the city's financial statements for the year ended June 30, 2018. To minimize duplication of effort, we reviewed the CPA firm's audit report. The scope of our audit included, but was not necessarily limited to, the year ended June 30, 2018. The objectives of our audit were to:

1. Evaluate the city's internal controls over significant management and financial functions related to tax increment financing.
2. Evaluate the city's compliance with certain legal provisions related to tax increment financing.
3. Evaluate the economy and efficiency of certain management practices and procedures, including certain financial transactions related to tax increment financing.

We conducted our audit in accordance with the standards applicable to performance audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform our audit to obtain sufficient, appropriate evidence to provide a reasonable basis for our findings and conclusions based on our audit objectives. We believe that the evidence obtained provides such a basis.

For the areas audited, we identified (1) deficiencies in internal controls, (2) noncompliance with Governmental Accounting Standards Board requirements, and (3) the need for improvement in management practices and procedures. The accompanying Management Advisory Report presents our findings arising from our audit of the administration of tax increment financing by the City of St. Louis.

Additional audits of various officials and departments of the City of St. Louis are still in process, and any additional findings and recommendations will be included in subsequent reports.

City of St. Louis - Tax Increment Financing

Introduction

Background

The Real Property Tax Increment Allocation Redevelopment Act (Act) was established in 1982 under Section 99.800 to 99.865, RSMo. The Act permits the use of a portion of local property and economic activity taxes to assist funding the redevelopment of certain designated areas.¹ The City of St. Louis (city) uses tax increment financing (TIF) to help provide financing to encourage development of commercial, industrial, and residential sites; improvement of public infrastructure; and remediation of blighted properties. TIF incentives can be used to help develop or redevelop existing structures or new structures, such as buildings for retail establishments, and to help develop the public infrastructure supporting those developments such as construction of or improvements to streets, streetlights, public parking, and sidewalks.

Based on city and St. Louis Development Corporation (SLDC) records, there were 109 active TIF projects in the city as of June 30, 2018. Figure 1 shows the dollar amount in millions of the approved TIF by year from 1999 through 2018 for these 109 active projects. A total of approximately $657.8 million in TIF incentives was awarded for these 109 projects. Approximately $347.9 million in principal and interest has been paid, with approximately $515.5 million of unpaid TIF liabilities remaining as of June 30, 2018. TIF liabilities are generally only payable to the extent TIF revenues are generated, as described in the redevelopment plans and agreements associated with each TIF project.

¹ A redevelopment area is defined in Section 99.805(12), RSMo, as a blighted area, conservation area, or economic development area, an enterprise zone, or a combination thereof.

St. Louis Development Corporation

The SLDC is a non-profit corporation with the mission of fostering economic development and growth in the city. The SLDC's Board of Directors is composed of the chairmen of the city's Industrial Development Authority, Land Clearance for Redevelopment Authority, Land Reutilization Authority, Local Development Company, Planned Industrial Expansion Authority, and Port Authority; the chairmen of the Board of Aldermen's Ways and Means and Housing, Urban Development, and Zoning Committees; and one person appointed by the Mayor of the city. The SLDC operates with its own Board of Directors and staffing. SLDC staff perform initial reviews and some monitoring activities,² and provide guidance to the city regarding economic incentives, including TIF.

TIF Award process

The process of receiving a TIF award is initiated by the property owner/developer submitting an application to the SLDC proposing a project to be completed in a redevelopment area. The SLDC, in cooperation with representatives of other city departments and officials, will determine if the project is eligible based on the Act³ and the TIF Commission's Policy and ² City departments, including the offices of the Comptroller, Collector, and Assessor undertake certain TIF monitoring functions due to their respective offices' inherent responsibilities.

Application Procedure.⁴ If the application is complete and the project is eligible, the application is submitted to the TIF Commission. The SLDC staff also provide a recommendation regarding the merits of the application.

The TIF Commission consists of nine appointed members,⁵ consisting of the representatives of the city, the school district and other affected taxing districts. The TIF Commission reviews the projects and makes recommendations to the St. Louis Board of Aldermen (BoA). Following the TIF Commission review, an alderman may sponsor the necessary legislation to approve the TIF with the BoA. The President of the BoA typically assigns redevelopment plan bills to the Housing, Urban Development, and Zoning Committee. If approved by that committee, the ordinance will be considered by the BoA and needs a majority vote to pass.⁶ If the TIF Commission recommends against the proposed project, the BoA can still approve the project with a two-thirds majority vote.⁷ If the BoA approves the project, the BoA also considers legislation detailing the funding methods and description of the redevelopment area.⁸ Once a project has been approved by the BoA, it is presented to the Mayor for signature or veto.

TIF Revenues

Once approved, the Assessor will determine the base assessed value (BAV) of all property within a redevelopment area.⁹ The BAV within the redevelopment area is then frozen for the shorter of 23 years or until the approved project costs have been repaid. The property taxes generated from the assessed valuation (AV) above the BAV, or the incremental AV, are used to fund approved project costs. These incremental property tax revenues are referred to as Payments in Lieu of Taxes (PILOTs). Also, 50 percent of the total additional taxes generated by economic activity within the redevelopment area are used to fund approved project costs.¹⁰ These incremental taxes are referred to as Economic Activity Taxes (EATs) and are primarily sales taxes and earnings/payroll taxes. Both the PILOTs and the EATs are deposited by the city into a special allocation fund. The special allocation fund is then used to pay approved project costs.

TIF Financing

Typically, a developer must advance all costs of a TIF project because TIF revenues will not be generated until a project is completed and operational. State law allows, and the city primarily uses, two different financing methods to reimburse developers for TIF-eligible costs of projects. One method is to issue special obligation notes to the developer, which are backed solely by the future PILOTs and EATs generated in the redevelopment area¹¹ and not by the city's general credit. These notes bear interest at the rate outlined in the ordinance approved by the BoA and are issued upon substantial completion of the project. The notes are endorsed only to the extent the developer proves, to the city's satisfaction, that it has incurred eligible reimbursable costs under the Act, the redevelopment plan, and the redevelopment agreement, up to the maximum amount of TIF assistance permitted by the redevelopment plan and the redevelopment agreement. When the project begins to generate revenues into the special allocation fund, the Comptroller uses the proceeds from the special allocation fund to begin to reimburse the developer for the certified project costs (i.e., to pay off the notes outstanding). When the notes mature, they are retired and no longer an obligation to the city, regardless of whether the notes have been paid off in their entirety.

Alternatively, the city may utilize the "pay-as-you-go" (PAYG) method. This financing method may be structured to have financing costs built into the amount to be reimbursed, or may be structured to reimburse the developer's actual interest paid on not-yet-reimbursed project costs. The reimbursement process to the developer/note holder is similar in both methods because the city reimburses the developer/note holder incrementally over a period of no more than 23 years. The method and terms of the reimbursement, including, if applicable, the issuance of the notes are set forth in the ordinances approving the redevelopment plan and the redevelopment agreement.

TIF Reporting

The city reports information regarding the status, amount of revenue, expenditures, debt obligations, BAV, and other information of each project/plan by November 15 annually to the Department of Revenue (DOR).¹² The information is published on the Missouri Accountability Portal and a summary is submitted to the State Auditor's Office (SAO).¹³

Scope and Methodology

The scope of our audit included, but was not limited to, the year ended June 30, 2018.

Our methodology included gathering information regarding projects through discussions with various city officials and the SLDC and reviewing information maintained by these entities. We reviewed the applications and analyses of the economic impact of the project, and performed site visits for a select number of projects. We discussed the oversight of these projects with city officials and SLDC officials. We also reviewed annual reporting information submitted by the city to the DOR regarding tax collections and compliance with reporting requirements.

To gain an understanding of the legal requirements governing TIF, we reviewed applicable state laws and city policies, including TIF application guidelines, the SLDC policy and procedures manual, and the city's Comprehensive Economic Development Strategy. We also interviewed individuals from the city and the SLDC.

We selected 13 redevelopment projects to review in more detail. The projects selected and the calendar year the establishing ordinances were passed are noted in the table below:

Projects reviewed

We analyzed these redevelopment projects using city-provided financial information, including the Comptroller's debt listing and amortization schedules; the Assessor's assessed valuation and ward listing for TIF projects; SLDC tracking information that included revenues, debt, developer fees, and payments by year; and annual reports submitted to the SAO each year that included revenues, payments, and assessed valuations. We reviewed all of the information we received for each TIF to ensure completeness and accuracy between the reports.

We also obtained applications, cost benefit analyses, and amortization schedules for the 13 projects above to analyze further. These analyses included reviewing financial ratios for each project for profitability and feasibility; reviewing a debt obligation analysis regarding outstanding debt, accrued interest, and the payment structures; reviewing the projected and current assessed valuations of each redevelopment area; evaluating developer fees for each project; reviewing the amount of TIF award compared to owner-provided finances per project; comparing projected and actual revenues generated; reviewing the debt coverage of the project; and identifying any additional incentives that existed within the same boundaries of each project.

Since the approval of the 13 projects listed above, the SLDC has implemented new policies and procedures regarding the review and evaluation of proposed TIF projects, including a "scorecard" methodology that attempts to measure the economic benefit of the proposed project relative to city and neighborhood-level tax revenue targets. These new policies and procedures have evolved over the course of our fieldwork and have been used by the city to evaluate a relatively small number of projects. We reviewed "scorecard" files for two projects approved for incentives as part of our fieldwork.

State Auditor's Findings

1. Strategic Planning for Tax Increment Financing Incentives Needs Improvement

The City of St. Louis's (city) strategic planning for tax increment financing (TIF) incentives is in need of improvement. While the city has documented policies related to TIF usage, the city's policy does not include specific program goals or strategic preferences, does not clearly define the evaluation process or criteria to be used in project selection, and does not include effective project cost limits or overall program cost controls. A TIF policy that includes these elements would provide clarity, consistency, and transparency to the city's use of TIF incentives.

1.1 No specific program goals or strategic preferences

The city's existing TIF policy does not contain any specific goals or measurable objectives. It contains mention of various strategic preferences, but there is no clear indication of how those preferences are implemented in the current process.

The current city TIF policy broadly communicates the TIF Commission's desire for "judicious use of TIF" toward projects that show a "substantial and significant public benefit" and broadly supports projects that create new jobs and retain existing jobs by:

. . . eliminating blight, financing desirable public improvements, strengthening the employment and economic base, increasing property values, reducing poverty, creating economic stability, upgrading existing neighborhoods, facilitating economic self-sufficiency, and implementing the Strategic Land Use Plan and any other component of the City's Comprehensive Plan.

The city's TIF policy does not include any specific strategic outcome preferences and does not include any measureable objectives by which to evaluate the effectiveness of the program. For example, a more effective policy could require a certain percentage of incentives go towards affordable housing, or require that a certain percentage of incentive awards be used in certain parts of the city. The effectiveness of this hypothetical policy could be measured by tracking and reporting on the number of housing units, or on the change in assessed valuation in the targeted wards.

Rather than specific strategic preferences, the city policy makes generic references to certain preferences. For example, the policy states "priority will be given to projects that include downtown development, Brownfield development,¹⁴ rehabilitation of historic structures, and projects with high employment."¹⁵ Since the policy does not clearly define how projects will be evaluated, it is unclear how projects that fit those categories will be ¹⁴ Generally defined as any former industrial or commercial site where future use is affected by real or perceived environmental contamination.

¹⁵ The city updated sections of its TIF policy in October 2018 with Resolution 104. These updates did not address the preferences listed.

"preferred" and to what extent. SLDC staff have recently begun to evaluate TIF proposals with an internal evaluation tool that captures and documents the scoring of the projects. The development of this "scorecard" document is an improvement to the process, and is discussed further in MAR finding 3.1. However, more improvement is needed.

No strategic preferences regarding location of projects

The city has not established a clear strategic preference as it relates to development locations.

Out of the 28 wards in the city, 52 percent of the projects are located in the 4 wards with the largest AV.¹⁶ These 4 wards account for 42 percent of the assessed value (AV) of the city. By contrast, 6 percent of projects are located in the 14 wards with the smallest AV. These 14 wards account for 21 percent of the AV of the city.¹⁷ See Appendixes C and D for maps showing the dollar amount of TIF notes issued and total AV by ward; respectively. City officials stated certain wards that are primarily residential would have lower AV and generally would not be considered good candidates for TIF projects. However, establishing strategic preferences would aid the SLDC in how, and to what extent, a project's location should be considered during the project evaluation stage and would also provide clarity to the public.

Government Finance Officers Association (GFOA) guidance¹⁸ recommends an entity "create a policy on the appropriate parameters for use of economic development incentives," and that such policy should be specific enough to establish clear boundaries. Specifically, GFOA recommends the policy contain clear goals and measurable objectives in order to create accountability. Such a policy would provide policymakers with information with which to make informed decisions about the program going forward. In addition, GFOA guidance recommends that the evaluation process be clearly defined, including how each proposal measures up to the criteria established by the entity. The criteria established should align with the entity's stated goals and objectives. According to GFOA guidance, a policy and process of this nature would provide consistency and transparency to the process.

1.2 No overall TIF program limits have been established

The city has not established any overall program usage limits. Such overall program limits have been put in place in other states and cities to provide overall cost controls to incentive programs. For example, the states of Oregon and Wisconsin require a local entity to limit the amount of AV within TIF boundaries to a particular percentage of total AV. In addition, GFOA guidance states that an incentive policy should define the types of incentives the jurisdiction is permitted to use and any limitations on their use, such as maximum dollar amounts, time limits, and project types.

¹⁶ Wards 6, 7, 17, and 28.

¹⁷ This information is based on a listing of projects provided by the St. Louis Development Corporation and the assessed valuation of each ward provided by St. Louis City Assessor's office.

The establishment of an overall cost limit would likely result in the city ensuring the TIF projects approved provided the most benefit to the city. Such a limit would also require the city to more carefully vet each project before approving. In addition, with an overall program cost limit, once the city reached its overall program limit, no new TIF projects could be approved until an existing project was paid off. Such a limit would provide an incentive to structure TIF projects in such a way that TIF debts could be paid off in a more timely manner.

1.3 Data tracking and transparency

The city does not maintain TIF data in a useful and transparent manner. Currently, the SLDC maintains information on project applications, projections, and note amounts, the Comptroller maintains payment and note amortization data, and the Assessor maintains information regarding actual assessed valuation. This information is not compiled in a centralized source, reconciled to ensure accuracy, or presented in a format that would be accessible for policy makers or taxpayers.

State law requires the annual reporting of TIF data on a per project basis and the SLDC completes these reports as required. State law does not require the reporting of cumulative TIF data on a per-city basis. However, without complete and accessible data, informed strategic decisions and complete analyses are impossible, particularly for a program the size of the one maintained by the City of St. Louis. Accessible and transparent data would also help the Board of Aldermen and the public maintain some level of oversight of the TIF program.

Recommendations

The City of St. Louis:

- 1.1 Establish specific goals and measurable objectives for the TIF program, and identify specific strategic preferences of the TIF program and incorporate these preferences in the TIF policy and project evaluation process. Establishing such strategic preferences would include establishing appropriate performance measures to track the effectiveness of the policy.
- 1.2 Establish appropriate overall program cost limits of the TIF incentive program.
- 1.3 Establish procedures to ensure TIF incentive data is readily available to the Board and to the public.

Auditee's Response	The city provided a written response. See Appendix E.
Auditor's Comment	The city's response to MAR finding number 1 correctly states that state law does not require the establishment of a strategic plan regarding the use of TIF incentives. However, our report makes clear that adding specific targets and program usage limits to the existing strategic plan would provide clarity, consistency, and transparency to the city's use of TIF incentives, and is considered a best practice by the GFOA. Similarly, the tracking of cumulative TIF incentive data is not required by state law, but is necessary for the effective administration of a such a large TIF program. We encourage the city to continue its efforts to improve its data systems related to the TIF program in an effort make such information more readily available to the public.

2. Cost Control and Project Financing Policies Are Ineffective

Cost control policies in place for individual TIF projects have been ineffective in controlling costs. The city's current TIF policy includes a per-project incentive limit of 15 percent of total project costs, and further includes requirements that estimated project revenues be sufficient to cover at least 110 percent of the debt service payments (the amount required to cover principal and interest of the note). The policy further states a project that relies on EATs to cover debt service must show the project is expected to generate revenues of at least 125 percent of the projected debt service payments. These policies appear to provide specific project limits; however, in practice, neither policy has been effective due to language in the policies allowing these requirements to be waived.

2.1 Project cost limits are not defined, and are regularly exceeded

The city does not have defined project cost limitations that are followed. SLDC officials stated there are 4 factors that limit the amount of TIF awarded to each project:

- (1) The revenues the project is expected to generate,
- (2) The Internal Rate of Return (IRR) the developer will generate if the TIF is awarded,
- (3) The developer's need for gap financing,
- (4) City policy of the TIF incentives not to exceed 15 percent of total project costs.

The first 3 factors are not documented in a policy, but are instead general practices SLDC officials stated they follow. We identified significant flaws with the revenue projections (see Management Advisory Report (MAR) finding number 3.2) and with the IRR calculations (see MAR finding number 3.1). Additionally, the developer provides the projected revenues, IRR calculations, and the gap financing schedule but the city does not review the information with adequate scrutiny. These documents are submitted by the same entity that is trying to obtain TIF incentives.

City of St. Louis - Tax Increment Financing Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

The 15 percent limitation is included in the policy. However, the policy includes a provision that allows for the 15 percent cap to be waived, but no guidance is provided about the extent to which it can be waived, and no overall per-project cap is provided. For the 13 projects we reviewed in more detail (documented in the Scope and Methodology section), the 15 percent cap was exceeded 9 times. For these 9 projects, total development costs were $165 million, and a total of $35 million in incentives were approved, or an average of 21 percent. As a result, the city awarded $10.3 million in TIF awards over the stated 15 percent cap for these 9 projects alone.

GFOA guidance recommends incentive policies specify any limitations on their use, including maximum dollar amounts or limits on repayment time. Incentive caps on a per-project basis serve as a means to ensure cost controls are in place, provide some consistency in the implementation of the city's incentive policy, and help ensure a certain portion of the project is financed by the developer. Providing some flexibility to allow for additional incentives when certain conditions exist is reasonable, and is consistent with GFOA guidance, but in order to maintain consistency and transparency those exceptions need to be defined and consistent with stated policy objectives. Additional detail in the city's per-project incentive limit policy is needed to clarify to applicants, evaluators, and the public, what project limits apply to each project.

2.2 Policy on funding methods has not ensured project revenues are sufficient to cover debt service, has resulted in significant accrued interest, and has reduced transparency

City TIF policy regarding financing methods and requiring a minimum level of debt service coverage have been ineffective in ensuring project revenues are sufficient to cover financing costs. The city primarily uses interest bearing TIF notes to finance TIF projects. As a result, projects regularly accrue significant levels of interest, which can result in increased costs and reduce the likelihood TIF projects will be paid off in less than the statutory 23-year limit. The use of TIF notes also reduces the transparency of the amount that will ultimately be reimbursed on the project.

Per current policy, TIF assistance can be provided via (1) bonds or notes, (2) direct reimbursement to the applicant (pay-as-you-go, or PAYG), (3) pledging TIF revenue to private debt, or (4) a combination of all three. The city policy regarding TIF financing methods provides no specific guidance on which funding method is preferred, but states the "prevailing factor" in determining which method to use is "total costs." The city policy also states the financing method is at the city's discretion. According to city officials, no review has been performed to determine which financing method is in the best interest of the city.

City of St. Louis - Tax Increment Financing
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

TIF notes primarily used; debt coverage policy not effective

Our review of city TIF data shows 102 of the 109 active TIF projects as of June 30, 2018, and 12 of 12¹⁹ projects selected for additional review, have been financed using interest-bearing TIF notes. Approximately $263 million in total has been paid on these notes. Approximately $200 million of that amount was used to pay interest and an additional $49.5 million in accrued interest was still due as of June 30, 2018. In the event a TIF project is financed using a note, city policy requires the project to cover 110 percent of projected debt service payments (125 percent if project involves EATs). However, the city policy also includes significant exceptions to this requirement. For example, the policy states one exception is "if the project involves redevelopment of existing structures, includes a significant jobs component[,], or involves the assembly and clearance of land upon which existing structures are located." As a result of allowing numerous exceptions, the vast majority of projects do not adhere to the debt service coverage requirements, resulting in significant levels of accrued interest.

TIF notes result in significant levels of accrued interest

Our review of city information for the TIF notes issued for 12 of the 12²⁰ projects selected for additional review showed that the projects had significant levels of accrued interest. As of June 30, 2018, the city had issued approximately $50.2 million in TIF notes for these 12 projects, and paid $39.4 million toward these notes. However, the payments have not been sufficient to cover the interest liability due. An additional $10.4 million in accrued interest is due on them, and only $9.6 million of the $39.4 million paid has gone toward principal. In total, despite paying $39.4 million on these 12 notes, the city still owed approximately $51 million²¹ on them as of June 30, 2018; more than the principal value of the notes.

Some TIF notes include
compounding interest

In addition to issuing notes with interest, the city issued notes for 29 projects with compounding interest. For these notes, as unpaid interest accrues, even more interest is due on the following payment. This can result in a note for which revenues are insufficient to pay the current interest even after the project stabilizes and begins to generate revenue. Figure 2 shows the payments made, the interest due for the current period, and the total outstanding accrued interest for each semi-annual payment for the 920 Olive/1000 Locust TIF note:

Based on Figure 2, the city was able to pay the full current period interest due for only 4 of the 28 payments.²² However, for these 4 payments, no principal was paid because accumulated interest was paid after current interest, as required by the city ordinance,²³ and nothing was left to apply to the principal. This $2,667,732 note was issued in September 2004. From the period of March 2005 through September 2018, $1,979,236 had been paid, $1,818,166 in accrued interest was still owed, and $0 of principal had been paid. In the application for the 920 Olive/1000 Locust TIF, the developer stated it is "not requesting the city to issue any bonds or notes." However, the city issued a note with compounding interest. It is unclear why notes with compounding interest were approved even when it was not requested by the developer in the application.

There is currently no policy regarding when it is appropriate to issue TIF notes, what interest rate is appropriate for these notes, or the type of interest allowed (compound or simple). For the 13 projects selected for additional review, 12²⁴ were financed with TIF notes (8 with compounding interest). The average interest rate on these 12 notes was 6.5 percent, with the highest rate at 9 percent.²⁵ The interest rate is approved by the BoA. One project's financing had not been finalized at the time of our review, but a TIF note was subsequently issued. None of the projects selected involved the use of PAYG financing. According to city officials, only 2 of the 109 active projects as of June 30, 2018, have PAYG financing.²⁶

²⁴ We were able to review 12 of the projects selected for additional review, instead of the 13 selected, because the city had not yet issued a note for the Northeast Hampton/I-44 Ackerman Toyota project by the end of our audit period.

Interest on notes can result in increased costs and reduces the likelihood projects will be paid off in less than 23 years

The accrued interest on projects with TIF notes can result in additional costs to the taxpayers, and reduces the likelihood projects will be paid off prior to the 23-year maximum.

State law limits the life of TIF districts to 23 years and the city is not liable for any unpaid principal and interest at the end of this 23-year period; however, due to the significant levels of accrued interest on TIF projects financed with notes, those projects are significantly more likely to last the full 23 years allowable by law. For example, the Paul Brown/Arcade Building project received a TIF note of $3,264,200 in 2006. As of December 1, 2018, the city has paid $3,285,570 on the note; however, the outstanding principal and interest balance was $3,073,960. Due to the significant accrued interest on this project, the note still had an outstanding principal balance of almost $3 million and the local taxing districts will likely not receive the increased revenues until the end of the TIF's statutory life in December 2025. See Appendixes A and B for additional information regarding the financing of the individual projects. If TIF liabilities were paid off in a more timely manner, the affected local taxing districts would receive the additional tax revenues from the project sooner.

Additional transparency needed

When a TIF note is approved, the amount of the award and the interest rate is known, but the total amount of interest that will accrue and be paid is unknown and is dependent on the amount of revenue generated by the project. As a result, there is significant uncertainty in the amount that will ultimately be reimbursed to the developer. The use of PAYG financing method could reduce the uncertainty of costs to taxpayers. PAYG TIFs may include an interest component, but can be structured such that verified interest expense may be paid as an eligible reimbursable cost that has been incurred by the developer,²⁷ or an interest component can be built into the TIF award.²⁸ In both of these PAYG structures, the total amount of interest to be paid could be defined and transparent. In the event interest is reimbursed to the ²⁵ Two of the three notes issued for the Chouteau/Compton Industrial Center were for 9%, while the third note was issued for 7%. As a result, we used a weighted average to calculate a single interest rate for Appendix A.

²⁶ The Lafayette Square and the Old Post Office projects are PAYG.

²⁷ This is the primary method used by another large municipality in the state to finance TIF projects.

²⁸ In this method, the TIF award would be larger than the amount of the TIF incentive necessary to complete the project. The final value is based on an implied interest factor.

City of St. Louis - Tax Increment Financing Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings developer, such reimbursement would be based on actual interest expenses of the developer and can be limited or budgeted to certain levels.

According to an SLDC official, issuing TIF notes is preferred by developers because they are more marketable than other financing types to banks and investors. Additionally, this official stated if TIF notes with interest are issued, the city could potentially refinance the notes into a tax exempt bond at a cheaper interest rate. However, based on city records, only 6 of the 109 notes have been refinanced into tax exempt bonds. Also, the official stated if PAYG is used, the city would have to award a larger amount of TIF to the developer due to the time value of money. While this is accurate, using PAYG would cap the amount of city money paid on the award, since interest cannot accrue, and this would result in more transparency to the public since the maximum amount to be reimbursed would be known.

The current funding method policy provides no specific guidance on the preferred funding method of TIF projects, although it appears to give preference to whatever method results in lower "total costs." Based on our review, the use of TIF notes is the predominate funding method currently used. However, the use of TIF notes is not clearly consistent with the "total costs" portion of the policy. A more specific funding method policy would clarify what funding method is preferred and would also include a more consistent debt coverage policy to ensure project revenues are sufficient to keep the project on schedule and, in the event TIF notes are used, keep any accrued interest to a minimum. An improved funding method policy would also ensure additional transparency regarding the potential cost of the TIF project being considered.

Conclusion

Transparency and clarity are needed in the city's TIF program. Under the current policies there are no defined project cost limits, and TIF projects are primarily financed with interest bearing TIF notes. These notes accrue significant interest and essentially ensure most projects will last the full 23-year statutory maximum before being completed. More specific and defined per-project limits and project funding method policies would provide clarity to the process, potentially reduce costs, allow the local taxing districts to receive the additional revenue sooner, and be in the best interest of taxing districts and taxpayers.

Recommendations

The City of St. Louis:

- 2.1 More strictly define the cost limitation policy, and ensure any necessary waivers from this policy are well defined and documented.
- 2.2 More strictly define the debt coverage policy to ensure projects approved have sufficient revenues to cover projected liabilities and consider not allowing this requirement to be waived. Also, consider updating the policy to define what funding method is preferred.

Auditee's Response

Auditor's Comment

The city provided a written response. See Appendix E.

The city's response to MAR finding number 2.1 incorrectly suggests that the report recommends rigid cost limits that provide no flexibility. Our report clearly states that providing some flexibility to allow for additional incentives when certain conditions exist is reasonable, but in order to maintain consistency and transparency those exceptions need to be defined and consistent with stated policy objectives. This finding is also consistent with GFOA best practices.

In the response to MAR finding number 2.2, the city correctly states the financing method used is allowed by law. The report does not suggest otherwise. The response also suggests the city's almost exclusive use of TIF notes is due to this method being preferred by private investors. While the preferences of investors must be considered, our report provides information regarding the need for additional transparency that would be in the best interests of taxpayers. As our report also documents, another large municipality in the state utilizes an alternate funding method that provides transparency to the public while also taking the needs of the investors into account.

3. Project Evaluation Improvements Needed

Project evaluation procedures are in need of improvement. The city policy does not define how the need for TIF incentives should be determined and documented. The city and SLDC were not able to provide documentation of all cost-benefit analyses requested for our test items, and projects were approved with flawed cost-benefit analyses, including overestimated revenue projections. While a new evaluation model has been put in place and improved these processes, additional improvement is needed. In addition, policies are needed to ensure allowable developer fees are reasonable and defined. We reviewed 13 projects with a total of $55,421,629 in TIF awards in greater detail.²⁹

3.1 The policy does not define how the need for TIF should be evaluated and documented

A primary guideline of the city's TIF policy and state law³⁰ is that "each applicant must demonstrate that without the use of TIF, the project is not feasible and would not otherwise be completed." This is commonly referred to as the "but-for" test. While this process has been improved in recent years with the development of an evaluation model, the current policy contains no specific guidance on how this requirement is to be "demonstrated,"

²⁹ We used the amount of the TIF note issued by the city to determine the award. The city had not yet issued the note for the Northeast Hampton/I-44 project, so we used the amount the TIF award could be issued up to in Ordinance 71002 as the award amount.

³⁰ As required by Section 99.810.1(1), RSMo.

City of St. Louis - Tax Increment Financing Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

determined, or documented. As a result, it is not always clear how the amount of TIF incentives awarded was derived, or that the amount of incentives awarded was necessary for the project to go forward.

For example, for the 13 projects reviewed, 7 project files³¹ had no analysis of the project's expected return in the files. For these 7 project files, the only documentation to satisfy the but-for test is a statement in the application that the incentives were necessary. SLDC officials stated these analyses were maintained by an employee in the former Mayor's office and the analyses were not retained when that individual left employment. We identified concerns with the analyses for the remaining 6 projects. The concerns we identified are:

- The developer of the 920 Olive/1000 Locust project provided the developer's IRR without TIF at 5.2 percent and with TIF at 10.8 percent. We noted the developer fee was not included in either IRR calculation. This error artificially lowers the developer IRR giving the appearance the developer is making less of a profit. Additionally, we could not determine how the IRRs were calculated because the detailed calculations were not available for review. When the error was discussed with SLDC officials, they were unsure why the omission occurred and were unable to tell us how the IRRs were calculated, stating the files explaining the calculations were not maintained.
- The developer of the Maryland Plaza South project provided the developer's IRR without TIF at 1.7 percent and with TIF at 3.5 percent. We noted the with-TIF IRR calculation incorrectly excluded projected PILOTs, and only included projected EATs. This error artificially lowered the developer's IRR, giving the appearance the developer was making less of a profit with public assistance. Additionally, we could not determine how the IRRs were calculated because the detailed calculations were not available for review. When we discussed the error with SLDC officials, they were unsure why the omission occurred and were unable to tell us how the IRRs were calculated, stating the files explaining the calculations were not maintained.

The developer of the Printer's Lofts - 1601-27 Locust Street project provided the developer's IRR without TIF at negative 0.7 percent and with TIF at 8.2 percent. We could not determine how the IRRs were calculated because the data was not available for the financial calculation.

City of St. Louis - Tax Increment Financing
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

SLDC personnel were unable to tell us how the IRRs were calculated, stating the files explaining the calculations were not maintained.

- The developer of the Terra Cotta Annex and Garage project provided the developer's IRR without TIF at negative 0.8 percent and with TIF at 8.4 percent. We could not determine how the IRRs were calculated because the data was not available for the financial calculations. SLDC personnel were unable to tell us how the IRRs were calculated, stating the files explaining the calculations were not maintained.
- The developer of the Soulard Market Apartments - 1535 S. 8th Street project provided the developer's IRR without TIF at 5.5 percent and with TIF at 8.6 percent. We could not determine how the IRRs were calculated because the data was not available for the financial calculation. SLDC personnel were unable to tell us how the IRR was calculated, stating the files explaining the calculation were not maintained.
- The developer of the Northeast Hampton/I-44 Ackerman Toyota project provided the developer's operating return on equity (ROE) without TIF at negative 3.6 percent and with TIF at 3.5 percent. We could not determine how the ROEs were calculated due to a lack of financial equity information. SLDC officials were unable to tell us how the ROEs were calculated, stating the files explaining the calculations were not maintained.

These examples show the need for more defined policies related to estimated and allowable returns on TIF projects. For two of these projects, the IRR without TIF exceeded 5 percent, while the with-TIF IRR for another project was 3.5 percent. Another project showed a with-TIF IRR of over 10 percent without including the developer fee, which would erroneously show a lower level of return. In addition, for the 6 projects with some form of return analysis in the file, the calculations were not consistent. Without clear policies on acceptable levels of return, or established policies on how a return is to be calculated, it is unclear how the city determined the appropriate level of TIF award (see concerns identified with project cost limitations in MAR finding number 2.1).

State law³² requires the municipality to determine that it is not reasonably anticipated that the area would be developed without the adoption of tax increment financing. Requiring the same financial metrics to be used in all analyses to support the developers' need for TIF would allow city officials to compare the merits of each project against other projects to make a better informed decision on the use of public assistance. Defining how this ³² Section 99.810.1(1), RSMo.

City of St. Louis - Tax Increment Financing
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

determination would be made and documented is necessary to ensure transparency to the public.

New evaluation model process developed

In 2016, the city began implementing a new evaluation model that incorporates an analysis of the developer's IRR, as well an evaluation of projected revenues. Based on our review of project evaluation documentation from the new model, there is a comparison of the range of acceptable market return, the with-TIF rate of return, and the without-TIF rate of return. According to SLDC documentation, no incentives will be approved if the without-TIF rate of return is already within the acceptable market return range, and incentives will only be awarded that keep a project's rate of return within the acceptable range. This model is relatively new and has been used to evaluate a relatively small number of projects. In addition, the model has continued to evolve past our audit scope, so testing and verification of the model was minimal. We reviewed project evaluations for two projects that were approved for incentives, including the "scorecard" generated by the new model. According to SLDC documents, developer fees and other tax incentives are now included in the determination of the IRR in the new model. Based on our limited review of the new model, it appears to be an improvement over past procedures as it relates to determining the need for incentives.

3.2 Flawed cost-benefit analyses have led to significant overstatements of projected revenues, additional oversight is needed

Improvement is needed in the oversight of cost-benefit analysis documents during the project application process. Our review identified flaws in the cost-benefit analyses for our test cases, including unreasonable AV assumptions that understated the no-build option, unreasonable AV assumptions that overstated the build option, and overly aggressive AV and EAT assumptions that overestimated project revenues. In addition, cost-benefit analysis information was not maintained for 4 test items. The cost-benefit analysis is an important aspect of project evaluation, and flawed analyses can result in decisions that are not in the best interest of taxpayers. Improvements are needed to help ensure the accuracy and transparency of these estimates.

Cost-benefit documentation not maintained and assumptions flawed

The city could not provide cost-benefit analyses for several of the projects we selected for additional review. Also, for some of the cost-benefit analyses provided, we identified errors in these analyses. State law³³ requires the municipality to consider a cost-benefit analysis showing the impact of the project on each taxing district that is at least partially in the boundaries of the redevelopment area. Typically, the developer provides a revenue forecast that shows the projected amount of PILOTs and EATs the developer anticipates the project will generate. The cost-benefit analyses also compare projected revenues for each taxing district based on whether the TIF project occurs or ³³ Section 99.810.1(5), RSMo.

City of St. Louis - Tax Increment Financing
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

does not occur. These two scenarios are typically referred to as "build" and "no-build" scenarios.

Cost-benefit analyses were either missing or relied on flawed or unsupported assumptions for 8 of the 13 projects (62 percent) we selected for additional review. These 8 projects were awarded $36.7 million of public incentives. We identified the following concerns:

- A cost benefit analysis was not in the project file for 4 of the approved projects.³⁴ SLDC officials stated these analyses were performed and evaluated, but could not provide the analyses for review, documentation the analyses were reviewed, or an explanation as to why the analyses and documentation of the review were not retained.
- The 1111 Olive and 1225 Washington cost-benefit analyses assumed the TIF debt would be paid off in 19 years, with a large increase in revenue to the taxing districts occurring in the 20th year due to the abolishment of the district. However, there is no data to support this assumption. This assumption causes the total revenues to the taxing districts in the analysis to be overstated.
- The Edison Brothers Warehouse cost-benefit analysis assumed no increase in AV for 11 years under the no-build scenario. However, AVs typically increase marginally, especially considering the project's proximity to downtown and the Enterprise Center. This assumption artificially increases the benefit to the taxing districts if the project is built.
- The Paul Brown/Arcade Building cost-benefit analysis assumed a small decrease in the AV over a 10-year period and then sharply decreased to $0 AV for year 11 under the no-build scenario. It is unclear how the AV of a property located in the ward with the highest AV in the city could abruptly drop to $0. This assumption understates the revenue the taxing districts would receive if the project was not built.

Cost-benefit revenue projections are overstated, additional oversight needed

The flawed assumptions used in cost-benefit projections have historically led to the city approving projects with significantly overstated revenue projections. As a result, many projects have accrued significant interest and taken longer to complete than expected, and the benefits to the taxing districts at completion of the project have been significantly lower than anticipated. Additional oversight of cost-benefit assumptions is needed to help ensure projects produce the benefits to the public they are approved to provide.

City of St. Louis - Tax Increment Financing
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Based on the project application files and annual reports submitted by the SLDC, our analysis of 10 projects³⁵ selected for additional review were projected to generate approximately $59.2 million in revenues from the inception of the projects through December 31, 2017. However, these projects actually generated $35.9 million (61 percent of projected revenues) over the period of inception through June 30, 2018.³⁶

	Projected from inception through December 31, 2017	Actual from inception through June 30, 2018	Difference
PILOTs	$38,307,969	$27,284,826	$(11,023,143)
EATs	$20,885,587	$8,598,540	$(12,287,047)
Total	$59,193,556	$35,883,366	$(23,310,190)

Figure 5 below compares projected PILOTs and EATs to actual PILOTs and EATs from the inception of the project through 2018 for the 10 projects analyzed. Our analysis of these 10 projects noted the following trends:

- Only 1 of the 10 projects generated enough EAT revenues to meet projections, and 1 of the 10 projects generated enough PILOT revenue to meet projections.
- On average, the 10 projects generated 41 percent of their projected EAT revenue, and 71 percent of their projected PILOT revenue.
- 6 of the 10 projects generated less than 50 percent of projected EAT revenue, and 3 of the 10 projects generated less than 10 percent of projected EAT revenue.

³⁵ We attempted to analyze all 13 projects chosen for review. However, Chouteau/Compton Industrial Center and Delmar East Loop TIF projects were missing information regarding the projected revenues and Northeast Hampton/I-44 Ackerman Toyota TIF project had not reported actual revenues due to the timing of project completion. Due to missing information, we were not able to analyze these projects in our review.

³⁶ The City maintains projected TIF revenues on a calendar year basis and actual TIF revenues on a fiscal year ending June 30 basis. Projected revenues were obtained from the project application files. Actual revenues were obtained from the annual reports submitted to the Department of Revenue. Because these amounts are not available on the same yearly basis, we conservatively used the projected amounts through December 31, 2017, and actual amounts through June 30, 2018, which gave the projects an additional 6 months more of actual revenues compared to corresponding the projected revenues.

Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Figure 5: Projected PILOTs and EATs from inception through December 31, 2017, compared to Actual PILOTs and EATs, from inception through June 30, 2018, by Project, for 10 Projects Tested

Source: Prepared by the SAO using information from the individual project applications for revenue projections (on a calendar year basis) and the annual reports submitted to the Department of Revenue pursuant to Section 99.865.1, RSMo, (on a fiscal year ended June 30 basis).

Aggregate information for each of the 10 projects is located in Appendix A and detailed information for each project is located in Appendix B.

The shortages in PILOT revenue projections are directly correlated to overestimated AV projections. Based on information provided by the St. Louis Assessor and information in the project application files, through 2018, 11 of the 13³⁷ projects selected for additional review projected the total AV of the project areas to be approximately $59.4 million. However, the actual AV for these 11 projects was approximately $39.1 million (66 percent of the projected AV).

City officials stated that a portion of these revenue shortages may be due to delays in construction/completion, and also were the result of the 2008 recession that was unforeseen. However, even if projected revenues for the ³⁷ The projected AV by year was not provided for the Chouteau/Compton Industrial Center. The only AV provided was the AV at substantial completion, which was planned for the year 2000. The projected AV in 2000 was $2,363,850 while the actual 2018 AV was $905,800. Additionally, substantial completion had not yet occurred for the Northeast Hampton/I-44 Ackerman Toyota project. As a result, it was not included as it would not be a genuine comparison to projected AV.

City of St. Louis - Tax Increment Financing Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

years in which there were no actual revenues are excluded,³⁸ actual revenues were still $19.5 million (39 percent) less than projected for the 10 projects³⁹ selected for additional review. In this analysis, projected revenues were $50.4 million while actual revenues were $30.9 million (61 percent of projected revenues).

Overestimated revenue projections result in accrued interest, longer TIF district life, and reduced public benefit from the project

Overestimated project revenues result in significant accrued interest on projects because the actual revenue stream is insufficient to pay TIF note debts. The importance of these issues is discussed in more detail in MAR finding number 2.2. In addition to these issues, overestimating project revenues also has the effect of overstating the positive impacts the project will have on the relevant taxing districts when the TIF district is eventually dissolved. For example, the actual AV for the 11 projects described above was $19.4 million less than what was projected for 2018. Based on the 2019 property tax levy that was projected when the project was approved, this AV shortage results in the St. Louis Public Schools receiving $969,235 less funding annually than the projects were projected to generate for these 11 projects alone.

Providing additional critical oversight to revenue projections, including a review of projected-to-actual AV increases generated by the project, could help the city make a better determination of whether the proposed project is in the best interest of the city.

3.3 Inconsistent and potentially excessive developer fees allowed

The city does not have an established policy regarding how much of a developer fee is allowed on TIF projects. As a result, developer fees are inconsistent from project to project, and in some cases, appear excessive. The developer fee is the fee charged by the developer to complete the project. The developer sets its own developer fee and documents the fee in the TIF application. According to the SLDC, the developer fee covers overhead costs of the developer (such as office rent and salaries) and the developer's profit. This developer fee is in addition to any profit earned on the project as an investor. We noted 5 of the projects⁴⁰ selected for further review did not disclose a developer fee in the application. We reviewed the developer fees from the applications of the remaining 8 projects. Figure 6 shows the developer fee as a percentage of the total project cost for the 8 projects.

³⁸ Since the data provided by the SLDC on the annual reports shows the 2007 actual revenues as cumulative from inception through 2007, we used 2008 as the first year in our calculation for the projects that had actual revenues prior to 2008.

³⁹ We attempted to analyze all 13 projects chosen for review. However, Chouteau/Compton Industrial Center and Delmar East Loop TIF projects were missing information regarding the projected revenues and Northeast Hampton/I-44 Ackerman Toyota TIF project did not report actual revenues due to the timing of project completion. Due to missing information, we were not able to analyze these projects in our review.

Source: Prepared by the SAO using information from the individual project applications.

According to SLDC officials, part of the SLDC's review of the project is to determine if the developer fees are consistent with industry standards and with the portfolio of projects the SLDC has reviewed in the past. An SLDC official stated developer fees on large projects can typically range from 5 to 10 percent; however, 5 of the 8 projects in Figure 6 above exceeded the high end of this typical range.

Without guidelines on acceptable developer fees, the city and SLDC cannot ensure the fees are reasonable for the services the developers are providing.

Recommendations

The City of St. Louis:

- 3.1 Ensure the project evaluation model continues to develop and ensure the calculation of developer return is defined and consistently calculated, and the calculation is maintained.
- 3.2 Ensure the cost-benefit analysis required by state law is submitted for each project and retained, and perform a critical review of cost-benefit assumptions to improve the accuracy of project revenue projections used in the TIF decision-making process.
- 3.3 Establish a policy regarding acceptable levels of developer fees for TIF projects and ensure developer fees stay within allowable ranges.

Auditee's Response

The city provided a written response. See Appendix E.

Auditor's Comment

The city's response to MAR finding number 3.1 takes issue with the age of the projects in the audit sample. However, in order to evaluate the TIF program as a whole, and because the majority of TIF projects last the full 23 years allowed by law, such a sample was necessary. The response, as well as the audit report, discusses the existence and development of a new methodology for project evaluation. The audit report recommends the city continue to develop this model.

City of St. Louis - Tax Increment Financing
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

The city's response to MAR finding number 3.2 provides information regarding the difficulty in accurately projecting financial information over the 23-year life of a TIF project. The audit report acknowledges the difficulty of such an undertaking, but also provides information regarding the consistent and significant overestimating of project revenues for the projects reviewed, and recommends the cost-benefit projection process be improved. The response also suggests that the risk of overly optimistic financial projections are born by the developer and investor, and not the city. However, this ignores that if project revenues would have been more accurately projected, certain projects might not have been approved for incentives.

The city's response regarding MAR finding 3.3 argues that because the new evaluation methodology takes developer fees into account when evaluating the proposed return on investment, it is unnecessary to establish "subjective caps" on the amount of developer fees allowed. However, our report documents that prior to the development of the city's new evaluation model there was no process in place to ensure developer fees were reasonable. The city should continue to implement the new evaluation model to help ensure developer fees are reasonable and should establish allowable developer fee levels to provide additional transparency and clarity to the public.

4. Developer Profits Not Monitored

The city has historically not compared actual developer profit to the projected profit by project. As a result, the city may be providing public incentives for private projects that did not need to be incentivized.

As discussed in MAR finding number 2.1, a developer submits financial information showing the planned profit the developer anticipates generating by using the public monies for the project. No review is performed after the project is completed to ensure the actual profit generated is consistent with the developer's estimate during the application phase of the project. Additionally, a significant source of revenue for the developer occurs when the property is sold. A projected sales price was included in the application for several of the projects. However, no one in the city compares the projected sales price to the actual sales price to determine if the projected sales price in the application was understated. We were unable to compare the projected developer profit to actual developer profit because the city was unable to explain how the developer's profit was calculated in the application (see MAR finding number 3.1) and because the city did not document the actual sales price of the project when sold by the developer. SLDC officials could not explain why the actual IRR for the projects were not tracked for reasonableness when compared to the projected IRR.

City of St. Louis - Tax Increment Financing
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

The city added monitoring provisions to the TIF policy in October 2018 with the passage of Resolution 104. This policy revision requires developers to provide annual information on payrolls, income, cash flow, and tenant information, in part, to perform back-testing of the "but for" analysis. Because this policy change is relatively new and was passed outside of our scope, we did not perform testing on this requirement.

By implementing the requirements of Resolution 104, the city can monitor actual developer profits to ensure they are consistent with projected profits. This would provide additional assurance public monies were needed in order to complete the project and help with evaluating future projects.

Recommendation

The City of St. Louis ensure the requirements imposed by Resolution 104 are implemented and monitor the IRRs to ensure actual IRRs are similar to the projected IRRs.

Auditee's Response

The city provided a written response. See Appendix E.

Auditor's Comment

The city's response to MAR finding number 4 misrepresents the audit report's findings by suggesting the report is recommending the implementation of clawback provisions or an onerous monitoring process. However, the report simply recommends the city ensure the requirements imposed by Resolution 104 are implemented and that the city monitor project IRRs to ensure actual IRRs are similar to the projected IRRs. Doing so would help the city improve project projection processes going forward.

5. Fee Structure Creates the Appearance of a Conflict of Interest

The SLDC's fee structure creates the appearance of a conflict of interest for the agency. This agency evaluates project applications and makes recommendations related to incentive projects, and is also partially funded with fees generated from approved incentive projects. The amount of the fees received increases with the size of the award.

From November 2001 through October 2014, the SLDC fee structure was as follows:

- $5,000 application fee per project.
- 3/10 of a percent (0.3 percent) of the value of the TIF financing upon the adoption of the redevelopment plan per project.
- 2/10 of a percent (0.2 percent) annually of the outstanding TIF project financing for all projects.

City of St. Louis - Tax Increment Financing Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

In October 2014, the SLDC fee structure was changed to the following:

- $5,000 application fee per project.
- 1 7/10 of a percent (1.7 percent) of the maximum amount of the TIF notes allowed to be issued by the city pursuant to the redevelopment agreement.

Neither the city nor the SLDC was able to provide us a complete listing of the fees received by the SLDC or a breakdown of the fees paid to the SLDC by type. However, the city was able to provide information indicating the SLDC has received approximately $6 million in fees from TIF projects between 2003 and 2018.

The existing fee structure creates the appearance of a conflict of interest for the SLDC, and is not in the best interest of the city. While we saw no evidence to believe projects were approved for this reason, the fee structure provides the SLDC a financial incentive to support as many projects as possible, to promote larger incentive awards than necessary, and to recommend financing methods that do not benefit the public. For example, using overstated revenue projections to support an inflated TIF note amount, or recommending a waiver to the 15 percent cost limitation would result in higher fees to the SLDC than recommending a smaller TIF award. Prior to 2014, it was in SLDC's best interest to have TIF projects be financed using TIF notes because part of the fee was based on the outstanding balance of TIF notes. While the 2014 policy change removed the annual fee to the SLDC based on the amount of outstanding TIF project financing for new projects, this fee still applies to projects that were approved prior to the policy change.

Basing the compensation paid to the SLDC on actual costs needed to provide the service of evaluating projects, or requiring a flat fee per project evaluation would remove the conflict, and help provide the city with more assurance the advice given by the SLDC is in the best interest of the city.

Recommendation

The City of St. Louis evaluate and restructure the fees paid to the SLDC to remove the appearance that a conflict exists.

Auditee's Response

The city provided a written response. See Appendix E.

Auditor's Comment

The city's response to MAR finding number 5 misrepresents the audit report's finding. Our finding does not suggest that charging fees on TIF projects is inappropriate, rather it recommends the fee structure be reevaluated and restructured to remove the appearance of a conflict of interest.

6. Governmental Accounting Standards Board Violation

The city did not include the amount of TIF project revenues redistributed for fiscal years 2018 or 2017 in its Comprehensive Annual Financial Report (CAFR) as required by the Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB) Statement No. 77. According to the Comptroller, PILOTs totaled approximately $23.9 million and $20.9 million, respectively for fiscal years ended June 30, 2018, and June 30, 2017, and EATs totaled approximately $13.2 million and $13.5 million, respectively in those years.

GASB Statement No. 77 requires the city to disclose the "gross dollar amount tax abatements as well as other information pertaining to the tax abatements" in its notes to the financial statements. GASB Statement No. 77 defines a tax abatement as "a reduction in tax revenues that results from an agreement between one or more governments and an individual or entity in which (a) one or more governments promise to forgo tax revenues in which they are otherwise entitled and (b) the individual or entity promises to take a specific action after the agreement has been entered into that contributes to economic development or otherwise benefits the governments or the citizens of those governments." We contacted both the city's financial auditors and an official from the GASB and both agreed redistributed TIF project revenues are considered tax abatements under GASB Statement No. 77, and should be disclosed.

Recommendation

The City of St. Louis consult with its financial auditor to determine proper TIF reporting for the city's CAFR.

Auditee's Response

The city provided a written response. See Appendix E.

Auditor's Comment

As explained in the finding, the city's auditors, as well as an official from the GASB, confirmed that TIF incentives should be disclosed in the city's CAFR. The city's fiscal year 2019 CAFR subsequently included TIF data as part of its GASB 77 disclosure, as recommended.

Re: City of St. Louis Response to State Auditor's Findings Regarding Tax Increment Financing

Dear Auditor Galloway:

The City of St. Louis sincerely thanks you and your staff for the time invested in preparing your report relating to the consideration, approval and administration of tax increment financing (TIF) redevelopment projects, including correction of most of the factual errors contained in the initial draft audit that the City reviewed. The City's use of TIF has proven to be a very effective tool for redeveloping blighted property, leveraging private investment and creating jobs (based on an analysis of local earnings tax returns, we estimate over 35,000 jobs in the City are located within TIF redevelopment areas). The City, through its partnership with St. Louis Development Corporation (SLDC), expends considerable resources to evaluate and vet all applications for TIF assistance before they are considered by the City's TIF Commission and Board of Aldermen. Most of the projects reviewed by the State Auditor predate the City's current "Scorecard" evaluation methodology. The Scorecard evaluation methodology is a robust review process, which among other things, takes into account the developer's forecasted return and the tax revenues, net of TIF, that are projected to be available to the City and other taxing districts if a TIF project is successfully implemented.

The City has reviewed the State Auditor's findings and welcomes constructive criticism of its process. However, the City notes that several of the findings are policy proposals that are not required by state law or reflect a simple difference of opinion regarding best practices or policies. The City's responses to the State Auditor's findings are set forth below:

1. Strategic Planning for Tax Increment Financing Incentives Needs Improvement

1.1 No specific program goals or strategic preferences

Auditor Finding: The City's existing TIF policy does not contain any specific goals or measurable objectives.

City of St. Louis - Tax Increment Financing

City of St. Louis Response

City's Response:

While no state law requires such a TIF policy, the City, nonetheless, has established policies for TIF projects that express goals and preferences while also allowing the City's TIF Commission and Board of Aldermen to consider the individual merits of a project. These policies are included in the application packet available on the SLDC website for prospective developers. The City's policies intentionally allow for some flexibility when reviewing projects because rigid policies hinder policymakers' abilities to consider differences in locations, uses and extraordinary redevelopment costs when evaluating projects.

Moreover, TIF is one of many economic development tools employed by the City and SLDC and should be evaluated as part of a larger economic development strategy. Depending on the nature of the project, tax abatement, tax credits or other incentive programs may be more appropriate. A draft of the St. Louis Equitable Economic Development Strategy Framework (the "Framework") was recently published for public comment and should be finalized soon. The Framework represents the City's future vision for the use and implementation of economic development incentives to achieve more equitable outcomes.

The City further believes that other economic development tools, including tax abatement, certain tax credit programs, CDBG grants and tax-exempt bond financing, are more useful for residential and lower density projects common throughout much of the City. In practice, TIF tends to be most useful for larger commercial and mixed-use projects that increase density and generate significant economic activity taxes. Most of these projects, by their very nature, are located in or adjacent to the City's central corridor and may not be appropriate or viable in lower density areas of the City. The Framework represents the City's commitment to redevelop all portions of the City's equitably. TIF, by itself, is not the sole means to implement that goal.

1.2 No overall TIF program limits have been established

Auditor Finding: The City has not established any overall program usage limits.

City's Response: Overall program usage limits are not required by state law nor would such limits be in the best interests of the City or its residents.

The City has approximately 25,000 vacant or abandoned properties in need of redevelopment. Many occupied properties within the City are dilapidated or deteriorating, and the City and its residents would benefit immensely from the redevelopment of these properties. Creating an artificial cap on amount of TIF projects that could otherwise be undertaken would needlessly cripple the City's ability to pursue worthwhile redevelopment opportunities.

Moreover, the City only approves TIF projects that are projected to be financially beneficial to the City and other taxing districts. In accordance with the Missouri TIF Act, the City's Board of Aldermen, as a precondition to approving a TIF project, makes a finding that the TIF redevelopment area "would not reasonably be anticipated to be developed without the adoption of tax increment financing" (Section 99.810.1(1), RSMo.). Before this finding is made, evidence is presented by the developer and analyzed by SLDC to verify that, without TIF, there will not be sufficient funds to undertake the proposed redevelopment project and the estimated return on investment will be too low for a developer to undertake the proposed project without TIF assistance. As part of SLDC's Scorecard methodology, SLDC staff analyzes the revenues that will be generated, net of TIF assistance, if the proposed project is built and the revenues that will be generated if the proposed project is not built. Given that (1) vacant, dilapidated and deteriorated properties generate relatively little tax revenue and (2) a substantial amount of tax revenue from redeveloped properties continues to flow to taxing districts even after application of TIF (including 50% of most economic activity taxes, 100% of certain sales taxes, 100% of personal property taxes and 100% of the commercial surtax), the logical conclusion is that incentivizing redevelopment of properties with TIF that would otherwise not be redeveloped is financially beneficial to the City and other taxing districts and should not be artificially limited.

Appendix E
City of St. Louis - Tax Increment Financing
City of St. Louis Response

The City's most important responsibility is ensuring the well-being of its residents. To meet this responsibility, the City must be able to use all available incentive tools to generate tax revenues and attract development and job growth. The State Auditor seems to be suggesting that the City ignore this responsibility and impose an artificial cap on worthwhile projects, rather than reviewing the potential benefits to the City and its residents of each project. Accordingly, the City strenuously disagrees with the Auditor's policy proposal.

1.3 Data tracking and transparency

Auditor Finding: The City does not maintain TIF data in a useful and transparent manner.

City's Response: The City maintains TIF data in a useful and transparent manner that meets or exceeds every requirement of state law. The City also continuously seeks to improve the ability of the public to access TIF-related information in an easy and transparent manner.

Review, approval and administration of TIF projects impacts many City departments and affiliated entities, including, without limitation, SLDC, the Board of Aldermen, the City Register's office, the Comptroller's office, the Assessor's office, and the Collector of Revenue's office. As a result, creating the centralized source for all TIF-related documentation suggested by the State Auditor is a difficult and expensive undertaking. The City is not aware of any other city or county in Missouri that maintains a centralized source for all TIF-related documentation.

While there would certainly be benefits to having a centralized source for all TIF-related documentation, the City believes its record keeping is adequate and is reasonably available to assist policymakers and the public in a useful and transparent manner (with it being understood that certain TIF-related documents may be closed records pursuant to the Sunshine Law or otherwise subject to state confidentiality laws and cannot be publicly released). The City complies with all reporting requirements set forth in the TIF Act and regularly responds to Sunshine Law requests from the media and interested citizens. SLDC and City departments were responsive to the State Auditor's requests for information. SLDC's analysts are able to access data from various City sources to study, among other things, the number of jobs attributable to TIF projects; SLDC is confident it can obtain all data required for future studies and analysis.

Appendix E
City of St. Louis - Tax Increment Financing
City of St. Louis Response

Over the last year, SLDC has also been working on systematic improvements to increase the ease in which the public can access TIF-related information online.

2. Cost Control and Project Financing Policies are Ineffective

2.1 Project cost limits are not defined, and are regularly exceeded

Auditor Finding: The City does not have defined project cost limitations that are followed.

City's Response: State law does not require defined project limitations, nor is the City in favor of limitations that do not allow flexibility.

The City has policy guidelines that allow flexibility. Each project must be evaluated on its own merit and in light of the particular challenges the specific project faces. The City's policy guidelines provide that TIF awards should not exceed 15% of total project costs, but allow exceptions so that worthy projects may receive the amount of TIF necessary for the project to move forward.

Rigid limitations hinder policymakers' abilities to take into account differences in locations, uses and extraordinary redevelopment costs when evaluating projects. Rejecting otherwise worthwhile project because of rigid project cost limitations may cause negative external effects. Many TIF projects involve the clearance or rehabilitation of dangerous and derelict buildings. If an otherwise worthwhile project were rejected because it slightly exceeded a rigid limitation, the City could be subjecting its residents to the danger caused by those buildings for years to come until another viable redevelopment proposal is identified. Moreover, the City, its residents and other taxing jurisdictions (including the State of Missouri) would lose the benefit of job growth, greater economic vitality and increased tax revenues that the otherwise worthwhile TIF project would generate.

The City also notes that project cost limitations are only one of many considerations that should be taken into account when evaluating a proposed TIF project. The City's Scorecard methodology provides a more advanced, transparent and thorough analysis and is rightly used by policymakers when evaluating projects.

2.2. Policy on funding methods has not ensured project revenues are sufficient to cover debt service, has resulted in significant accrued interest, and has reduced transparency

Auditor Finding: The City's TIF policy regarding financing methods and requiring a minimum level of debt service coverage have been ineffective in ensuring project revenues are sufficient to cover financing costs.

City's Response: The City's TIF financing methods are permitted by state law.

The vast majority of the City's TIF projects are structured as TIF notes, which are payable only from TIF revenues to the extent those revenues are actually generated by the project and not from citywide general tax revenues. The City believes the TIF note or bond structure has been used judiciously and is preferred by private investors, which the City's TIF program must attract to successfully implement TIF projects. The City further believes that the State's Auditor's premise that project revenues have been insufficient to cover financing costs is not necessarily relevant to how TIF projects are actually financed and how the investor and lender communities analyze TIF notes and TIF revenues as a source of revenue to undertake a project. The City's approach is also completely consistent with the statutory requirements of the TIF Act.

Appendix E

City of St. Louis - Tax Increment Financing

Other cities in Missouri have issued TIF notes at higher interest rates than the City. The City's TIF note ordinances set interest rates based on a formula that relies on a published municipal bond market yield curve, resulting in lower interest rates than TIF notes issued by many other municipalities. Additionally, the City is aware of other cities that have issued TIF notes to developers upon the developer's acquisition of property, allowing interest on TIF notes to accrue for months or even years before a project is complete and able to generate TIF revenues to pay debt service on the TIF note. In contrast, the City's disciplined policy has been to issue TIF notes only after a project has been completed, thereby avoiding significant unpaid interest accrual.

Financing of a redevelopment project is often a complex endeavor. The availability of the TIF incentive must be leveraged to attract private investment. Without private investment, the redevelopment project will not be completed and the City's residents will continue to suffer the negative consequences associated with blighted, dangerous and derelict properties. While the City uses certain debt service coverage ratios as a guideline to evaluate projects, those guidelines purposefully provide flexibility for worthwhile projects. Moreover, the State Auditor's concern over early estimates of debt service coverage ratios ignores the limited risk to the City of TIF notes that remain unpaid and shows little faith in market debt and equity participants to make their own valuations and leverage their own structural preferences.

TIF incentives, regardless of whether structured as a note, bond or pay-as-you-go, are not secured by citywide general tax revenues and will go unpaid unless the TIF project generates enough TIF revenues to satisfy the incentive. Accordingly, the developer or third-party investor in a TIF note or bond bears the investment risk – not the City or its taxpayers. While TIF provides a valuable incentive, it typically requires a developer to obtain a bridge loan until the project is completed and TIF revenues are available as debt service on a TIF note or payments under a pay-as-you-go arrangement. The bridge lender must undertake its own analysis regarding the collateral value of the TIF incentive. Lenders have expressed a preference for the TIF note structure because it is a marketable municipal security instrument that, subject to certain limitations, may be sold to other accredited investors from time to time.

The City agrees that a pay-as-you-go structure, in theory, could be used to provide a similar collateral value to a willing lender. As the State Auditor describes, an interest expense would need to be included in the initial gross amount of the TIF incentive so that it would have the same present value as a TIF note (which would have a lower principal value but would accrue interest over time). However, the State Auditor's analysis of potential benefits of the pay-as-you-go structure is fundamentally flawed. Assuming a lender were willing to accept a pay-as-you-go structure as collateral, if the pay-as-you-go structure represented a lower level of payment to the developer or lender than a TIF note, the lender would logically determine that the pay-as-you-go structure has a lower collateral value than the TIF note. If the TIF note has a lower collateral value, then the developer may never obtain the necessary bridge financing to complete the project. If a lender determines that the pay-as-you-go structure and the TIF note have the same collateral value (and, accordingly, is willing to make the bridge loan in the amount needed to move the project forward), then the lender likely determined that a similar amount of TIF revenues would be available under either scenario. Moreover, the use of the TIF note structure, with interest that accrues over time, presents the opportunity for well-performing projects to pay off principal quickly and reduce interest accrual. However, an equivalent pay-as-you-go structure, with interest factored into the initial gross amount of the incentive, as described by the State Auditor, could actually be financially disadvantageous to the City because a fixed interest component would need to be paid from TIF revenues regardless of how quickly TIF revenues are generated. For projects that do not generate enough TIF revenues to repay the entire amount of the incentive, there is no difference in the amount of TIF revenues paid out under either the TIF note or pay-as-you-go structure (i.e., under both structures, all TIF revenues will be paid out until the expiration of the TIF).

City of St. Louis - Tax Increment Financing
City of St. Louis Response

3. Project Evaluation Improvements Needed

3.1 The policy does not define how the need for TIF should be evaluated and documented

Auditor Finding: Project evaluation procedures are in need of improvement.

City's Response: The State Auditor has largely ignored improvements to the City's project evaluation procedures. The City notes that the average age of the projects selected by the State Auditor for a more detailed review is approximately 15.5 years, including only two projects that were approved within the last 10 years. Accordingly, the Auditor's analysis largely predates the City's Scorecard methodology, which has been developed and implemented over the last four years.

The City's Scorecard methodology provides a level of analysis of proposed TIF projects that is unparalleled in Missouri and goes well beyond any state law requirements. The City and SLDC will continue to monitor best practices across the country for evaluation of TIF projects and look for ways in which the Scorecard methodology may be improved (the Scorecard methodology and presentation have already been improved several times since its first inception).

3.2 Flawed cost-benefit analyses have led to significant overstatements of projected revenues, additional oversight is needed

Auditor Finding: Improvement is needed in the oversight of cost-benefit analysis documents during the project application process.

Appendix E
City of St. Louis - Tax Increment Financing
City of St. Louis Response

City's Response: Cost-benefit analyses prepared for the City's TIF projects comply with the requirements of the TIF Act.

Accurately projecting tax revenues over a 23-year TIF period is made difficult by an almost infinite list of unpredictable variables. Over the course of the projects examined by the State Auditor, the country experienced the Great Recession of 2008 and a massive change in consumer preference toward online retail, among other events that have materially impacted or disrupted economic trends. Moreover, tenants anticipated to be part of projects at the onset may go bankrupt, close or relocate for reasons beyond the control of the developer or the City (and for reasons that may be impossible to predict years earlier). Projects are currently being affected by the COVID-19 pandemic and its related economic disruption, which is likely to have a substantial impact on future TIF revenues in a manner that could not have been anticipated less than a year ago.

Nonetheless, the City's intention is that each cost-benefit analysis is based on reasonable assumptions at the time it is prepared and provides a fair basis for the City's TIF Commission and Board of Aldermen to make the findings required by the TIF Act. Typically, planning consultants engaged by the developer prepare the cost-benefit analysis and submit it for a thorough review by SLDC staff and consultants, who review both the reasonableness of the assumptions and whether the document contains the information required by the TIF Act. Cost-benefit analyses often go through several drafts during this vetting before they are submitted to the City's TIF Commission.

The TIF incentive, whether structured as a TIF note, TIF bond or pay-as-you go, is only paid to the extent TIF revenues are actually generated. Accordingly, if the projections in the cost-benefit analysis prove to be overly optimistic, the developer and, if applicable, third-party investors in TIF notes or bonds, bear the investment risk – not the City's taxpayers.

3.3 Inconsistent and potentially excessive developer fees allowed

Auditor Finding: The City does not have an established policy regarding how much of a developer fee is allowed on TIF projects. As a result, developer fees are inconsistent from project to project, and in some cases, appear excessive.

City's Response: The City disputes this finding by the State Auditor. The developer fee is taken into account as part of the Scorecard methodology when projecting the developer's return on investment and a capped developer fee is imputed as part of the "clawback" mechanism described in the City's TIF redevelopment agreements, which can be used to reduce the amount of the TIF award upon completion of the project.

The City further notes that the magnitude of developer fees varies significantly from project to project. A developer fee for a very challenging project should be higher than a developer fee for a less challenging project. Imposing subjective caps on developer fees could hinder the ability to attract developers for more difficult redevelopment projects and for developers to attract the necessary equity investors and lenders needed to capitalize their projects. SLDC employs financial analysts that rely on current market and industry data when evaluating developer fees and is confident in its ability to assess whether a developer fee is appropriate for a specific project.

City of St. Louis - Tax Increment Financing
City of St. Louis Response

4. Developer profits not monitored

Auditor Finding: The City has historically not compared actual developer profit to the projected profit by project. As a result, the City may be providing public incentive for private projects that did not need to be incentivized.

City's Response: The TIF Act does not require that the City monitor developer profits. However, the City agrees that projects should not be over-incentivized. In furtherance of that goal, the City and SLDC have established a program that strenuously evaluates project proposals as part of the Scorecard methodology and the City includes clawback mechanisms in TIF redevelopment agreements. These clawback mechanisms create a process to review and, if triggered, reduce the amount of TIF assistance upon completion of a project if the original amount of TIF assistance approved is no longer appropriate.

The State Auditor's suggestion of more robust monitoring of developer profits throughout the life of a TIF project is both impractical and not required by state law. Moreover, it would impede the ability to actually implement TIF projects and use tax-exempt bond financing to reduce interest costs and pay off TIFs earlier.

TIF districts have a maximum life of 23 years. During this time, project ownership, tenants, economic conditions and market rates of return will vary significantly. These aspects make it impractical to track specific internal developer performance data for the life of a TIF and relatively meaningless to measure such performance against standards set at the beginning of a TIF project. For example, assume a $5 million TIF was approved in year 1 and that the project was completed and a TIF note issued to the developer in year 2. In years 3-5, the City's economy is mediocre and at the end of year 5, the developer sells the project for a small profit to a new buyer. In years 6-8, the City's economy worsens, the project loses its anchor tenant and the new buyer sells the project at a loss to another buyer at the end of year 8. In year 10, the City's economy improves and the then-current owner makes improvements to the project (not funded by TIF) and leases anchor space within the project to a stable tenant that produces substantial TIF revenues. Soon after, smaller tenants are paying higher rents to locate near the successful anchor tenant. The then-current owner soon realizes a substantial return on its investment in excess of what the original developer anticipated when the project was first proposed. In this example, obtaining rate of return data from the second and third project owners would be exceedingly difficult because they would likely view that data as confidential, were not involved in the creation of the TIF, and had purchased the project in market transactions years after the TIF had originally been approved (and thus have little incentive to voluntarily cooperate). Moreover, even if such data could be obtained, the second property owner's negative rate of return and the third property owner's high rate of return would not be relevant to the City's decision to initially approve the TIF or the level of TIF assistance needed to cause the project to be completed under Year 1 and Year 2 economic conditions.

Appendix E
City of St. Louis - Tax Increment Financing
City of St. Louis Response

TIFs are routinely used as “gap” financing when private debt and equity are not sufficient to fund the construction of a project. As discussed under Section 2 above, the developer must typically secure a bridge loan using the promise of TIF notes to be issued upon completion of the project as collateral. Projections of future TIF revenues are relevant to a bridge lender’s determination of the collateralized value of the future TIF notes. Potential clawbacks that extend for many years beyond the completion of the project would negatively impact that collateral value, making it harder to secure bridge financing. TIF incentives subject to clawbacks throughout the life of the TIF would also likely make it impossible to refinance TIF notes with low interest tax-exempt bonds because prospective TIF bond purchasers would be unlikely to assume the risk that their investment could be cancelled if the developer over-performs expectations.

5. Fee Structure Creates Appearance of a Conflict of Interest

Auditor Finding: SLDC’s fee structure creates the appearance of a conflict of interest for the agency.

City’s Response: Despite finding absolutely no evidence that any projects were supported or the amount of the TIF subsidy was increased because of SLDC’s fee structure, the State Auditor claims that the SLDC’s fee structure creates an appearance of a conflict of interest.

The City and SLDC believe that charging fees for TIF projects is appropriate because of the significant administrative expenses incurred in reviewing and administering projects (which should be borne by the developer and the project, rather than funded with City-wide general tax revenues). Similar to SLDC’s fee structure, several State of Missouri incentive programs base their administrative fees on the size of the incentive (see, for example, Section 620.809.7(2) and Section 620.1900.1, RSMo., which allows the Missouri Department of Economic Development to charge a fee equal to 2.5% of the value of certain state-issued tax credits). Kansas City and Springfield also charge similarly-structured fees in connection with their tax increment financing programs.

The City also notes that for very large TIF projects, such as the St. Louis Innovation District, the City has capped its fees to ensure that the amount of fees generated do not disproportionately exceed the costs of administering the incentive program.

6. Governmental Accounting Standards Board Violation

Auditor Finding: The City did not include the amount of TIF project revenues redistributed for fiscal years 2018 or 2017 in its Comprehensive Annual Financial Reports as required by Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB) Statement No. 77.

City’s Response: The State Auditor overstates the GASB No. 77 requirement. Appendix B, Note B5 of GASB No. 77 provides:

Other respondents to the Exposure Draft requested that the Board consider including specific types of programs—such as tax increment

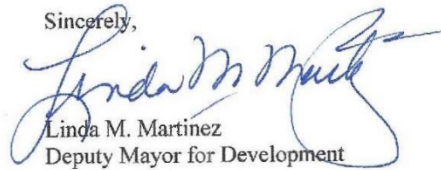

Appendix E
City of St. Louis - Tax Increment Financing
City of St. Louis Response

financings, payments in lieu of taxes, or as-of-right agreements—in the scope of the Statement. The Board believes that some of those transactions may meet the definition of a tax abatement and, therefore, should be disclosed according to this Statement. However, the determination of whether a transaction meets the definition of a tax abatement should be based on the substance of the transaction, rather than on its form or label. Consequently, this Statement's scope does not include or exclude any specifically titled transaction or program in order to avoid inappropriately including transactions that do not meet the definition of a tax abatement or excluding those that do. (emphasis added)

Nonetheless, the City will review GASB No. 77 compliance with its auditors as it relates to the disclosure of TIF project revenues in its future Comprehensive Annual Financial Reports. It is possible that the City's auditors could determine that some, but not all of, the City's TIF projects are subject to GASB No. 77 disclosure.

Linda M. Martinez

CITIZENS SUMMARY

Findings in the audit of Jackson County No-Bid Contracts and Other Expenditures

No-Bid and Other Professional Service Contracts	The county did not periodically solicit or reevaluate the services provided by a law firm relating to $1.3 million spent for federal lobbying services related to rail and mass transit. The contracts with this firm lacked detailed requirements for any specific type of services to be provided, and county management was not transparent in dealings with this law firm as questionable travel expenses of county employees and officials totaling $162,706 were paid by this firm. Contracts totaling approximately $2.7 million were not bid for state lobbying, various legal, and investigative services in compliance with county charter. The former County Counselor was responsible for soliciting proposals and signing these contracts, and most legal service contracts were not authorized by the County Legislature. The county also did not ensure compliance with contract terms, enter into contracts timely, or require submission of detailed invoices and supporting documentation prior to payment of these services. The former County Counselor did not solicit proposals for the consulting contract with the former County Executive or seek approval from the County Legislature. The Director of Finance and Purchasing has not prepared an annual purchasing report as required.
Other Expenditures	The county has not established adequate procedures to ensure expenditures were properly allocated or expended only for intended purposes, did not always timely enter into written contracts, and require invoices submitted to detail the services provided and expenses billed. The county lacks adequate controls and procedures to account for fuel use, and the Sheriff's office spent $9,069 for Christmas parties that was not a reasonable or necessary use of county funds. The county has not established adequate procedures to ensure the Prosecuting Attorney's office credit card bills are paid timely.
Travel Expenditures	An adequate review of travel expense forms and supporting documentation was not always performed, and some employees received reimbursement for travel expenses not in compliance with county policy or not actually incurred. Employees did not always submit travel expense forms timely and sometimes failed to submit them, and supervisors did not always approve submitted travel expense forms. Improvement is needed in the county's travel policies to ensure employee travel costs are obtained in the most economical manner.

NICOLE GALLOWAY, CPA

Missouri State Auditor

Honorable Chairman of the Jackson County Legislature
and
Members of the Jackson County Legislature
and
Frank White, Jr., Jackson County Executive
Jackson County, Missouri

We have audited certain operations of Jackson County - No-Bid Contracts and Other Expenditures in fulfillment of our duties under Section 29.200.3, RSMo. The State Auditor initiated audits of Jackson County in response to a formal request from the Jackson County Legislature. The county engaged BKD LLP, Certified Public Accountants (CPAs), to audit the county's financial statements for the years ended December 31, 2018, and 2017. To minimize duplication of effort, we reviewed the CPA firm's reports. The scope of our audit included, but was not necessarily limited to, the 2 years ended December 31, 2018. The objectives of our audit were to:

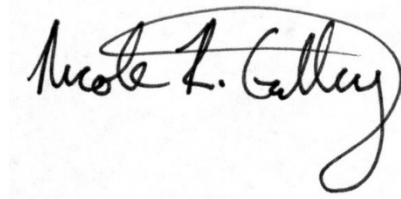

1. Evaluate the county's internal controls over certain management operations and financial functions related to no-bid contracts and other expenditures.
2. Evaluate the county's compliance with certain legal provisions related to no-bid contracts and other expenditures.
3. Evaluate the economy and efficiency of certain management practices and procedures related to no-bid contracts and other expenditures, including certain financial transactions.

We conducted our audit in accordance with the standards applicable to performance audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform our audit to obtain sufficient, appropriate evidence to provide a reasonable basis for our findings and conclusions based on our audit objectives. We believe that the evidence obtained provides such a basis.

The accompanying Organization and Statistical Information is presented for informational purposes. This information was obtained from the county's management and was not subjected to the procedures applied in our audit of no-bid contracts and other expenditures.

For the areas audited, we identified (1) deficiencies in internal controls, (2) noncompliance with legal provisions, and (3) the need for improvement in management practices and procedures. The accompanying Management Advisory Report presents our findings arising from our audit of Jackson County - No-Bid Contracts and Other Expenditures.

Additional audit reports of various officials and departments of Jackson County are still in process, and any additional findings and recommendations will be included in subsequent reports.

Jackson County

No-Bid Contracts and Other Expenditures

Introduction

Background

The State Auditor was requested on February 26, 2018, by the Jackson County Legislature under Section 29.200.3, RSMo, to conduct a performance audit of Jackson County.

One area of significant concern to the County Legislature was "awarding and administering legal and professional service contracts" that were not bid (i.e., no-bid contracts). We determined that contracts totaling approximately $2.7 million were not bid. In addition to written findings involving no-bid contracts, our work resulted in other written findings involving bid contracts. In total, the contracts discussed in the report's findings cost the county approximately $4 million. To support our findings we included invoices at Appendix A, requests for proposals at Appendix B, and contracts at Appendix C, obtained from the county for "federal legislative lobbying, particularly with regard to matters related to rail and mass transit" provided by Polsinelli PC¹ (referred throughout this report as the federal lobbying law firm). We also included the invoices for the consulting services provided by the former County Executive, Michael D. Sanders, at Appendix D and the related contract at Appendix E. Appendix A includes redactions of information considered personal, privileged, or of a sensitive nature.

The following provisions of state law, constitutional home rule charter, and county code are significant to our review and are discussed further in the findings reported in the accompanying Management Advisory Report section.

State Law

Section 67.2555, RSMo, requires competitive bidding for any expenditure made by the County Executive that exceeds $25,000.

Section 137.555, RSMo, restricts the use of the Special Road and Bridge Fund to disbursements "... to be used for road and bridge purposes and for no other purpose whatever ..."

Section 432.070, RSMo, provides that no county shall enter into a contract unless the contract is "... in writing and dated when made ..."

Constitutional Home Rule Charter

Article II, Section 16.20, authorizes the County Legislature to "Employ such financial, research, legal, or other technical advisors as are necessary."

Article III, Section 6.2, authorizes the County Executive to "Employ experts and consultants in connection with any of the functions of the county, and ensure that all professional services contracts over $5,000, except in emergency situations, follow a competitive process to determine award of the contract."

No-Bid Contracts and Other Expenditures
Introduction

County Code

Chapter 10, Section 1000, purchasing code indicates "All contracts for the purchase or lease of supplies, materials, equipment, or services, except as to personal and professional services and as otherwise provided by law, shall be accomplished through the office of the Director of Finance and Purchasing. It shall be the intent of this chapter that, whenever practicable, contracts and purchases shall be let to the lowest and best bidder after due opportunity for competition."

- Section 1030 indicates competitive bidding is not required when (1) the item can only be purchased from a sole source; (2) the purchase can be obtained from an acquisition from another government; (3) it is an emergency purchase; (4) the item is the subject of an existing and current federal, state, or local government fixed price contract; (5) the purchase is less than $5,000; (6) the item is a proprietary good for resale; or (7) funds are appropriated and a contract is or will be awarded by the County Legislature to a tax exempt organization. However, purchases that exceed $25,000 of sole source items, items from other governments, fixed price items, or proprietary goods for resale must receive prior approval by the County Legislature, and emergency purchases over $25,000 must be reported to the County Legislature at the next meeting.
- Section 1040 indicates informal competitive bidding may be used for purchases between $5,000 and $25,000. Informal competitive bidding includes soliciting at least 3 bids from vendors through informal means (e.g., telephone, media, bulletin board posting, etc.).
- Section 1050 indicates formal competitive bidding is required for purchases exceeding $25,000. Formal competitive bidding includes soliciting bids from vendors through more formal means (e.g., direct mail, electronic mail, online listing services, newspaper advertisements, etc.) and for at least 5 days prior to bid closing.
- Section 1054 indicates bids received through formal competitive bidding are to be sealed until opened (if applicable), recorded, evaluated, and a recommendation of award of the contract to the lowest and best bidder made to the County Legislature. Factors to be considered when determining the lowest and best bid include (1) cost and future maintenance, (2) ability to perform, (3) timely performance, (4) character and reputation, (5) quality of prior performance, (6) compliance with laws, (7) quality and availability, (8) conditions on bid, (9) compliance with bid specifications, (10) environmental preference, (11) social responsibility, and (12) local preference.

Chapter 10, Section 1001.6, indicates "In February of each year the Director of Finance and Purchasing shall provide a performance-based annual report regarding formal competitive bids to the County Executive and the County Legislature. The report will describe procedures in place to ensure compliance with section 1054."

Travel and training policies

Administrative policy 12-01, Travel and Training Policy, effective February 2012, includes rules for reimbursement of allowable expenditures in the most economical manner to ensure prudent use of taxpayer dollars including:

- "The County will pay the lowest of air or ground transportation. Authorization will be given for the most economically available flight to and from the event."
- "Lodging generally includes the single-occupancy cost of the room and any applicable taxes and charges at the meeting and/or conference event location. In the case that the event is not being held at a conference center hotel, employees should use discretion in choosing an economical lodging option."
- "Meals and incidental expenses are paid based on the Federal per diem rates, which are based on destination and can be found on the US General Services Administration (GSA) website:. . ."
- "The county will not reimburse per diem for meals included in the registration fee, and the appropriate allotment for the meal will be deducted from the per diem."
- "Unless specifically permitted in this policy no other expenses will be reimbursed by the County. Examples include, but are not limited to the following: Expenses for personal entertainment, including those that are charged or billed as additional registration fees (golf, theater, sporting events, site-seeing tours, etc.); . . . Valet parking;. . ."

On January 3, 2018, the County Executive made a recommendation to the County Legislature to request a comprehensive audit of the county's fiscal and procurement process by the State Auditor's Office (SAO). The County Legislature agreed with this recommendation and passed Resolution 19745 on February 26, 2018, requesting the State Auditor perform an audit of the county. This request was accepted by the SAO and audit fieldwork started in December 2018. This is the second of several audit reports that will be issued as part of the audit of Jackson County.

Scope and Methodology

The scope of this audit included evaluating (1) internal controls, (2) policies and procedures, and (3) other management functions and compliance requirements in place during the 2 years ended December 31, 2018.

Our methodology included reviewing minutes of meetings, written policies and procedures, financial records, and other pertinent documents; gathering information regarding various contract awards and expenditures through discussions with various current and past county personnel and reviewing the information obtained; and testing selected transactions. To gain an understanding of legal requirements governing contract awards and expenditures, we reviewed applicable state laws; the county charter, county code, and written policies and procedures; and interviewed various individuals.

Introduction

We obtained an understanding of the applicable controls that are significant within the context of the audit objectives and assessed whether such controls have been properly designed and placed in operation. We also obtained an understanding of legal provisions that are significant within the context of the audit objectives, and we assessed the risk that illegal acts, including fraud, and violation of contract or other legal provisions could occur. Based on that risk assessment, we designed and performed procedures to provide reasonable assurance of detecting instances of noncompliance significant to these provisions.

Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

1. No-Bid and Other Professional Service Contracts

Significant improvements are needed in Jackson County's processes for selecting professional services, entering into and monitoring contracts, and reviewing and approving documentation to support requests for payment. As noted in the background section, one area of significant concern to the County Legislature was the awarding and administering of legal and professional services contracts that were not bid (i.e., no-bid contracts). Our audit confirmed that contracts totaling at least $2.7 million were not bid.

The county also did not periodically solicit or reevaluate the services provided by a federal lobbying law firm. The contracts with the firm lacked detailed requirements for any specific type of services to be provided and county officials did not monitor the contracts for compliance or obtain sufficient supporting documentation for more than $1.3 million in payments to this firm. County management was not transparent in the county's dealings with this law firm for federal lobbying services related to the Rock Island Rail Corridor² because contracts terms did not detail how travel expenses of county management were to be handled or any requirements for compliance with county travel policies and supporting documentation to be submitted. Travel expenses for county management were paid by the law firm and billed to the county as part of the firm's monthly retainer.

The county did not always solicit proposals; ensure compliance with contract terms; enter into contracts timely; or require submission of adequate supporting documentation for various other legal, investigative, and consulting services. The Director of Finance and Purchasing has not prepared an annual purchasing report as required to ensure compliance with county bidding requirements.

1.1 Lobbying, legal, and investigative services

The county's charter does not address the frequency of the selection process for professional services, and the county did not periodically solicit proposals for lobbying services. In addition, the county did not solicit proposals for various legal and investigative services in compliance with the county charter. The former County Counselor, who was appointed by the former County Executive, was responsible for soliciting proposals for legal services and signed these contracts, and most of these legal service contracts were not authorized by the County Legislature. The county also did not ensure compliance with contract terms, enter into contracts timely, or require submission of detailed invoices and adequate supporting documentation prior to payment of these services. In addition, some of the contracts reviewed did not require submission of detailed supporting documentation for payment.

² A federal lobbyist was procured to assist the county in implementing a multimodal transportation plan; including the possibility of commuter rail, light rail, bus enhancements, trails, and streetcars; and to remain apprised of actions and deliberations at the national level regarding transportation funding.

Federal lobbying services

The county paid the federal lobbying law firm $1,334,982 for federal lobbying services relating to the Rock Island Rail Corridor from 2011 to 2017. A request for proposals (RFP) was issued for these services in March 2010, and provided for a 12-month contract, with two 12-month renewal options. Another RFP was issued for these services in December 2013, and provided for a 12-month contract, with four 12-month renewal options. See Appendix B for the federal lobbying RFPs. The county entered into contracts with this firm each year from 2011 to 2017, that provided for the firm to bill the county a set monthly rate for its services. The county did not renew the contract in 2018. The following table lists the payments to this firm for federal lobbying services:

Year	Amount Paid
2011	$ 160,000
2012	205,000
2013	209,994
2014	209,992
2015	210,000
2016	189,996
2017	150,000
Total	$ 1,334,982

Concerns related to these contracts and services include:

Procurement

The county's charter does not address the frequency of the professional service selection process, and as a result, the county entered into contracts with this firm that provided for renewals over several years without periodic reevaluation of the services provided and amounts paid.

While Article III, Section 6.2 of the county charter provides for professional service contracts over $5,000, to follow a competitive process, it does not address the frequency of the professional service selection process. Given the magnitude of the amount spent for federal lobbying services in the contract renewal periods, consideration should be given to requiring the professional service selection process to be repeated more frequently. The county also paid this firm an additional $1,034,816 for other legal services provided from 2011 and 2017 without soliciting proposals (see the Legal services section).

Contract timeliness

The county did not timely enter into a written contract with this firm for services provided for the first 4 months of 2017. The contract was entered into on April 27, 2017. The contract indicated "This agreement shall be effective as of January 1, 2017, and continue until December 31, 2017," and provided for the firm to bill the county at a rate of $12,500 monthly for its services. The county was billed $50,000 on April 27, 2017, the date the contract was signed, for services provided for the first 4 months of 2017.

Jackson County
No-Bid Contracts and Other Expenditures
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Contract compliance

The contracts with the federal lobbying law firm lacked detailed requirements for any specific type of services to be provided in return for the payments made by Jackson County that ranged from $12,500 per month to $17,500 per month during 2011 through 2017. The services were generally defined as "federal legislative lobbying, particularly with regard to matters related to rail and mass transit."

In addition, the county did not require the firm to provide weekly reports of proposed legislation of county interest and the activities the lobbyist had engaged in to further the legislative priorities of the county in compliance with the contracts. County personnel could not provide any weekly reports from 2011 to 2017, and at our request, they provided us county email messages related to lobbying services. The messages only showed the firm provided monthly or periodic updates. The contracts and the original RFPs required weekly reports be provided.

Supporting documentation

The county did not require invoices submitted to the county by the firm to provide sufficient documentation of the details of the services provided and expenses billed to the county. See Appendix A for federal lobbying invoices paid by the county.

For 19 (totaling $327,086) of the 20 federal lobbying services invoices submitted for payment during 2016 and 2017, the invoice only indicated a total dollar amount for "current professional services." The invoices did not provide dates of hours worked, cost per hour, services performed, or expenses incurred. Only one invoice submitted included more than just "current professional services." The invoice for July 2016 included travel expenses of $12,910, and summarized airfare, lodging, meals, and out-of-pocket expenses for county officials and employees of the firm for trips taken. Concerns about the appropriateness and transparency of these employee travel expenses and similar ones are discussed in the next section.

In addition, while the contract for the year ended December 31, 2016, indicated the firm "shall be responsible for all of the expenses of its work under this agreement and costs relating to educational and fact-finding activities engaged in by County officials pursuant to the goals of the scope of work;" it did not require the firm to submit any documentation of the costs relating to the activities engaged in by county officials or require their travel expenses to comply with county policy. It is not clear why only the 2016 contract included this wording. See Appendix C for the federal lobbying contracts and amendments from 2011 to 2017.

Transparency of travel expenses

Besides the $12,910 discussed previously, additional travel expenses of county employees and officials totaling $149,796 are questionable and were not transparent. All of these travel expenses were (1) not paid directly by the county and were instead paid by the federal lobbying law firm, (2) paid through the monthly invoices as "current professional services," and not listed

Jackson County
No-Bid Contracts and Other Expenditures
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

as expenses, (3) improperly recorded in the county's financial system as professional services, instead of travel, and (4) not provided to the audit staff when requested. The purpose or necessity of these travel expenses was also not always documented, and most of these travel costs for county management and officials were excessive and not obtained in compliance with county policy.

The engagement letter issued by the firm to the county on April 30, 2010, indicated "The firm prefers that you pay directly any significant outside expense items related to your work and, when possible, we will direct such expenses to you for payment. Therefore, we often ask our vendors to bill our clients directly rather than having us incur the expense and then including the amount on our statement."

Audit staff requested the county to provide supporting documentation for all payments made to the federal lobbying law firm from 2011 to 2017 on February 6, 2019, and July 18, 2019. They also asked for specific information pertaining to travel expenses of the former Chief Economic Development Officer on August 26, 2019. However, the county did not provide this information until August 20, 21, and 24, 2020, when we received a summary of travel expenses. The summary listed professional services expenses totaling $149,796 paid by the firm during the period of June 2010 through April 2016.

The summary showed airfare, lodging, meals, seminar registration fees, and out-of-pocket expenses for various county management employees and officials were paid by the firm and billed to the county as "current professional services." Travel expenses were incurred for the following individuals: the former County Executive, the current County Executive, the former Chief Economic Development Officer, the Director of Economic Development, the Director of Public Works, the Director of Communications, the former Director of Assessment, a former Development Manager, a Program Manager of the Rock Island Rail Corridor, a former Development Incentive Administrator, 2 former Incentive Specialists of the Economic Development department, a Senior Advisor of the Engineering department, a Director of Transportation Planning for the Mid-America Regional Council, and employees of the firm for trips to Washington D.C., Denver, Omaha, Portland, Los Angeles, Seattle, Salt Lake City, Austin/Dallas, Oklahoma City, Columbia, Independence, and St. Louis.

The Chief of Staff told us on August 19, 2020, that sometime in 2016, the county became aware of the travel costs of county employees and requested the firm to discontinue paying these travel costs and provide supporting documentation of past travel costs incurred. It is unclear why this documentation was not provided to audit staff sooner.

Jackson County
No-Bid Contracts and Other Expenditures
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

In addition, the purpose or necessity of these travel expenses was not always documented, and some of these travel costs for county management and officials was likely excessive and not obtained in compliance with county policy (see MAR finding number 3.2). For example:

- The former Chief Economic Development Officer, the Director of Economic Development, and a former Tax Incentive Specialist of the Economic Development department attended conferences in August 2015 in St. Louis and incurred hotel costs ($329 per night) exceeding federal per diem rates by $1,284 or ($214 per night per person).
- The former County Executive, the former Chief Economic Development Officer, and Director of Economic Development traveled to Washington D.C. in May 2015, and incurred hotel costs ($512, $554, and $499, respectively per night) exceeding federal per diem rates by $878 or (an average of $292.66 per night per person).
- The former Chief Economic Development Officer and another former Tax Incentive Specialist of the Economic Development department traveled to Dallas in March 2016, and incurred hotel costs ($565 per night) exceeding federal per diem rates by $854 or ($427 per night per person).
- At a conference in Dallas in October 2015, the former Chief Economic Development Officer, Director of Economic Development, and former Development Incentive Administrator of the Economic Development department, incurred hotel costs (an average of $294.50 per night) that exceeded the federal per diem rate by $1,436 or $159.50 per night.
- Additional travel costs were also incurred for pool service, room service meals, valet parking, and hotel gift shop charges that may not have been in compliance with county policy.

As a result, the county has no assurance these travel costs were obtained in compliance with county policy or were reasonable. The lack of transparency surrounding these contracts and the related payments is concerning.

State lobbying services

The county has contracted with the same state lobbyist for 12 years, and paid this lobbyist $620,800 from 2007 to 2018.

Procurement

These services were solicited in 2007, and while the contract has been renewed annually and approved by the County Legislature, it has never been

Jackson County
No-Bid Contracts and Other Expenditures
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

resolicited and formally evaluated. The county paid this lobbyist for state lobbying services during 2007 through 2018 as follows:

Year	Amount Paid
2007	$ 20,000
2008	28,300
2009	25,000
2010	25,000
2011	35,000
2012	35,000
2013	35,000
2014	45,000
2015	50,000
2016	107,500 (1)
2017	107,500 (1)
2018	107,500 (1)
Total	$ 620,800

(1) Contracts provided for the lobbyist to pay subcontractors $47,500.

Given the significant increase of the annual contracted amounts, consideration should be given to requiring the professional service selection process to be repeated more frequently.

Contract timeliness

The county did not timely enter into a written contract with this lobbyist for services provided for the first 2 months of 2018. The contract was entered into on February 23, 2018. The contract indicated "The term of this Agreement shall be effective as of January 1, 2018, and extend until December 31, 2018." The contract provided for the lobbyist to bill the county at a rate of $8,958 monthly for its services. The county was billed $17,916 on February 27, 2018, for services provided the first 2 months of 2018.

Legal services

Improvements are needed over legal fees paid by the county.

As previously discussed, between 2011 and 2017 the county did not solicit proposals for various legal services. The county had 25 contracts with the federal lobbying law firm and paid the firm $1,031,864 for legal services during this period. Eighteen of these contracts were amendments to previous contracts at significant additional costs to the county. These legal services related to various asbestos litigation cases, the formation of a railway company, the right-of-way maintenance and management of the Rock Island Rail Corridor, labor matters, county facility issues, and a health and welfare plan. In addition, the county entered into some of these contracts after services had already been provided and billed by the law firm. For example:

Jackson County
No-Bid Contracts and Other Expenditures
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

- The county entered into a contract for the right-of-way maintenance and management of the Rock Island Rail Corridor after almost half the services had already been provided. The contract indicated the firm would "bill a fee not to exceed $30,000, together with reasonable expenses not to exceed $2,500. This fee shall include costs of $14,001 for work on ROW [Right-of-Way] Agreements previously charged to another matter, but not submitted to 'the County'."
- The county was invoiced $6,930 on September 10, 2016, and $10,929 on October 10, 2016, for asbestos litigation services prior to the related contract being signed on October 28, 2016.

Procurement of other legal services

The county also did not solicit proposals for some other legal services provided by other law firms totaling $970,190 during the years ended December 31, 2017, and 2018, as follows:

Service Provided	Amount
Litigation of employment discrimination case	$ 301,870
Litigation of employment discrimination case	235,749
Litigation of cases regarding the condition of the detention center	178,662
Legal advisor to the County Legislature	156,146
Negotiations for the acquisition of real estate for commuter corridor project	97,763
Total	$ 970,190

While the county solicited requests for statements of qualifications and interest (RFQ) from law firms in December 2016, some of the contracts for legal services were for existing engagements that had been amended several times at significant additional costs to the county. In addition, 3 of the law firms provided no response to the RFQ.

One of the contracts involving litigation of employment discrimination services costing $301,870 had been amended 7 times since February 2016 increasing the contract value from $19,995 to approximately $393,000. The other contract involving litigation of employment discrimination services costing $235,749 had been amended 9 times since September 2015 increasing the contract value from $50,000 to approximately $352,000. Also, the contract involving the negotiations for the acquisition of real estate for the commuter corridor project had been amended 9 times since March 2013 increasing the contract value from $20,000 to approximately $544,000.

Contract/contract amendment timeliness

The county did not timely enter into or amend some of these contracts for legal services with other law firms.

- The county was billed $40,086 on May 31, 2018, for legal services (relating to county officeholders' exercise of power) provided by a law firm prior to the related contract being signed on August 20, 2018. The county subsequently paid for these services on August 30, 2018.

- The county was billed $5,621 on November 30, 2017, and $1,202 on December 22, 2017, totaling $6,823 for legal services (relating to county officeholders' exercise of power) provided by another law firm from November 9, 2017, through December 13, 2017, prior to the related contract being signed on December 14, 2017. The county subsequently paid for these services on December 28, 2017.
- The county was billed $101,911 on July 31, 2017, for legal services (relating to an employment discrimination case) provided from April 4, 2017, through June 30, 2017, prior to the related contract amendment being signed on October 3, 2017. The county subsequently paid for these services on October 5, 2017.
- The county was billed $61,304 on April 30, 2018, for legal services (relating to another employment discrimination case) provided prior to the related contract amendment being signed on May 22, 2018. The county subsequently paid for these services on May 31, 2018.
- The county was billed $78,608 for legal services (related to providing a legal advisor to the County Legislature) provided prior to the related contract amendment being signed. The county was billed $20,557 on June 19, 2018, $38,480 on September 17, 2018, $11,929 on September 19, 2018, and $7,642 on October 11, 2018, for services provided from March 2018 to September 2018. A contract amendment was signed by the County Legislature on October 24, 2018, at the time it was provided by the former County Counselor, to increase the contract amount from $75,000 to $171,000; however, $153,608 in services had already been provided. The county paid this firm $78,608 on October 25, 2018.

Supporting documentation

An invoice (totaling $40,086) submitted by a law firm providing legal services related to Community Backed Anti-Crime Tax (COMBAT) Administration only indicated "Total Incurred to Date" and a total dollar amount; providing no description of services performed, date of hours worked, the hours worked, an hourly rate, or an itemized list of expenses incurred. The county paid this law firm $57,427 during 2018.

Employment complaint investigative services

The county also has not solicited proposals for employment complaint investigative services. The county paid one vendor $49,533 and another vendor $52,887 for these services in 2017 and 2018.

In addition, the county did not timely enter into written contracts with those vendors for these services. The county was billed $29,488 for services provided by one vendor from January 1, 2018, to January 31, 2018, prior to

Jackson County
No-Bid Contracts and Other Expenditures

the contract being signed on March 1, 2018. The county subsequently paid for these services on March 15, 2018. The county was billed $6,504 for services provided by another vendor from May 12, 2018, through May 25, 2018, prior to the contract being signed on June 7, 2018. The county subsequently paid for these services on June 14, 2018.

Conclusion

Article III, Section 6.2 of the county charter requires all professional services contracts over $5,000, except in emergency situations, be selected through a competitive process, and Section 67.2555, RSMo, also requires competitive bidding for any expenditure greater than $25,000. Further, soliciting proposals for professional services is a good business practice, and county officials should periodically evaluate the services provided to ensure they are acceptable to justify continuation. Clear, detailed and timely written contracts are necessary to ensure all parties are aware of their duties and responsibilities, prevent misunderstandings, and ensure county money is used appropriately and effectively. Also, closely monitoring compliance with contract terms is important to ensure county resources and assets are used wisely. Section 432.070, RSMo, provides that no county shall enter into a contract unless the contract is ". . . in writing and dated when made . . ." To ensure prudent and proper use of county funds, payments should only be approved when adequate supporting documentation is submitted. Only by receiving detailed supporting documentation can the county ensure invoices for payment of professional services are legitimate and accurate, and comply with county disbursement policies.

1.2 Former County Executive consulting contract

The former County Counselor did not solicit proposals for the consulting contract with the former County Executive (see Appendix E) or seek approval from the County Legislature (if the contract was considered sole source) in compliance with the county code.

The former County Counselor entered into a contract with the former County Executive in January 2016 to "make himself available to consult with the County, . . . on an as-needed basis regarding matters within the usual scope of his employment as of December 31, 2015, including transition of his responsibilities. However, the parties agree that nothing in this Agreement shall obligate the County to utilize Sander's services." The contract required compensation to be "payable regardless of whether the County utilizes Sanders services" and provided for payments of $10,000 per month to be made for 6 months.

On January 25, 2016, the former County Counselor sent a letter to the former County Executive clarifying the contract, indicating the former County Executive would "be an important part of the legal team and the negotiating team as we move toward closing the transaction [Rock Island Rail Corridor (RIRC) project] and finalizing the relationship with the KCATA [Kansas City Area Transportation Authority]." The letter further indicated "There is also

Jackson County
No-Bid Contracts and Other Expenditures
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

litigation that developed while you served as County Executive. You are a witness with regard to some of that litigation. I look forward to working with you and the counsel assigned to handle those cases as those cases move toward resolution."

The Chief Deputy County Counselor indicated this contract was executed and enforced by former county employees, but he had "no reason to believe that Mr. Sanders [former County Executive] did not fulfill the role described in the letter . . ."

Procurement and/or Legislative approval

The former County Counselor did not solicit proposals for these services or seek approval from the County Legislature (if the contract was considered sole source) in compliance with the county code.

Article III, Section 6.2 of the county charter provides for professional service contracts over $5,000, except in emergency situations, be selected through a competitive process, and Section 67.2555, RSMo, also requires competitive bidding for any expenditure greater than $25,000. Section 1030.1 of the county code states "Competitive bidding shall not be required when the items to be purchased can be obtained from only one source. Before a purchase is made pursuant to this subsection which has a purchase price of over twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000), the Director of Finance and Purchasing shall submit said purchase to the County Legislature for approval and the purchase shall only be effective upon legislative approval. In the recommendation to the Legislature, the director shall set out the reason for the decision not to seek competitive bids."

Supporting documentation

The former County Executive did not submit an invoice to the county for the first $10,000 monthly payment made on January 21, 2016. In addition, 5 invoices submitted by a law firm for the former County Executive (see Appendix D) during February 2016 through June 2016, only listed the amount due ($10,000) and indicated "For professional services rendered." The invoices did not provide dates of hours worked or the services performed. Four of these invoices (February 2016 through May 2016) directed the county to make the check payable to the former County Executive, and the last invoice (June 2016) directed the county to make the check payable to the law firm.

It is unclear what if any value the county received from this contractual agreement or why it was necessary. Clear and detailed written contracts are necessary to ensure all parties are aware of their duties and responsibilities, prevent misunderstandings, and ensure county money is spent appropriately and effectively.

1.3 Annual purchasing report

The Director of Finance and Purchasing has not prepared an annual purchasing report required by the county code to ensure compliance with

Jackson County
No-Bid Contracts and Other Expenditures
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

bidding requirements. When we asked the Director of Finance and Purchasing when this report had been prepared, he indicated, "We are not aware of a specific singular Annual Purchase Report having been requested or generated." If this report had been prepared, the concerns discussed in this finding may have been brought to the attention of the County Executive and County Legislature earlier and corrective action possibly taken.

Chapter 10, Section 1001.6, of county code indicates "In February of each year the Director of Finance and Purchasing shall provide a performance-based annual report regarding formal competitive bids to the County Executive and the County Legislature. This report will describe procedures in place to ensure compliance with section 1054." Section 1054 of county code describes procedures for formal bid opening, recording, evaluation, analysis, recommendation, and award.

Recommendations

The County Legislature and County Executive:

- 1.1 Ensure professional services are properly solicited and periodically formally evaluated; enter into clear, detailed, and timely written contracts; establish procedures to properly monitor contract requirements; and ensure invoices received are adequately detailed to support the county's review.
- 1.2 Ensure professional services are properly solicited or if sole source, are approved by the County Legislature. In addition, county officials should enter into clear and detailed written contracts that ensure county money is spent appropriately and effectively.
- 1.3 Ensure the Director of Finance and Purchasing prepares an annual purchasing report in compliance with county code.

Auditee's Response

The County Legislature provided a written response. See Appendix F.

The County Executive provided a written response. See Appendix G.

2. Other Expenditures

County expenditure, procurement, and contracting procedures and practices need improvement. In addition to the expenditures tested in MAR finding number 1, we tested 62 expenditures totaling approximately $2.1 million for the 3 years ended December 31, 2018.

2.1 Allocation

The county has not established adequate procedures to ensure expenditures were properly allocated or expended only for intended purposes.

Federal lobbying services

The county did not document the reason some of the costs of federal lobbying services for the Rock Island Rail Corridor were allocated from the Health Fund.

Jackson County
No-Bid Contracts and Other Expenditures
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

During 2017, county management allocated $24,750 of the $150,000 paid for federal lobbying services for the Rock Island Rail Corridor to the Health Fund. The remaining $125,250 came from the Special Road and Bridge Fund ($100,500) and the Park Fund ($24,750). County management maintained no documentation explaining why the Health Fund was responsible for any of the costs or how they determined the costs allocated to each fund. According to notations made on each contract by the Finance and Purchasing department, lobbying services were paid from the General Fund and/or the Special Road and Bridge Fund during 2011 through 2016.

State lobbying services

The allocation of costs of state lobbying services was not adequately supported and not reasonable, and county management maintained no documentation explaining why the costs were allocated to these funds.

- During 2017 and 2018, state lobbying services (noted in MAR finding number 1) costing $107,500 annually were allocated to 5 county funds, including $47,849 (General Fund), $34,815 (Health Fund), $10,798 (Special Road and Bridge Fund), $9,908 (Park Fund), and $4,130 (Assessment Fund).
- During 2016 and 2017, lobbying contracts signed by the current County Executive, for services totaling $80,500, were allocated to 5 county funds, including $40,320 (General Fund), $8,375 (Health Fund), $16,775 (Special Road and Bridge Fund), $10,060 (Park Fund), and $4,970 (Assessment Fund). County management maintained no documentation explaining why the amount allocated differed from year to year. The county allocated 24 percent of these costs to the Special Road and Bridge Fund in 2016 and 17 percent in 2017.
- During 2016 and 2017, additional lobbying services contracts signed by the former or current County Executive, totaling $282,000, were allocated to 5 county funds, including $141,000 (General Fund), $28,200 (Health Fund), $81,780 (Special Road and Bridge Fund), $22,560 (Park Fund), and $8,460 (Assessment Fund).

Other professional services

The allocation of costs of other professional services was not adequately supported and not reasonable, and county management maintained no documentation explaining why the costs were allocated to these funds.

- Legal services costing $34,310, related to county officeholders' exercise of power, were allocated to the Health Fund in 2018.
- During 2016 and 2017, consulting services totaling $56,695 related to human resources and organizational development were allocated to 4 funds, including $34,023 (General Fund), $5,669 (Health Fund), $8,501 (Special Road and Bridge Fund), and $8,502 (Park Fund).

Jackson County
No-Bid Contracts and Other Expenditures
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

- During 2018, consulting services totaling $285,000 related to the criminal justice system feasibility study and master plan were allocated to 3 funds, including $210,900 (General Fund), $37,050 (Health Fund), and $37,050 (COMBAT Fund).
- Audit costs totaling $4,950 incurred each year for "the Schedule of Employer Allocations related to the Jackson County Revised Pension Plan," were inconsistently allocated to various county funds. County management maintained no documentation explaining why the amounts allocated differed from year to year.

Sheriff's office expenses

The county and the Sheriff's office inappropriately paid $16,013 of Sheriff's office expenses from the Special Road and Bridge Fund during the 3 years ended December 31, 2018. These expenses did not relate to highway patrol functions and included $8,052 for employee travel and expenses, $6,547 for Christmas parties (see section 2.5), and $1,414 for tuition reimbursements to a former Sheriff's office employee for a health and wellness course and various tuition-related fees.

Applicable county officials maintained no documentation explaining why the county charged these expenditures to the Special Road and Bridge Fund. Personnel in the County Counselor's office indicated the office has periodically provided guidance regarding the use of the Special Road and Bridge Fund. The guidance has advised county officials that a proposed expenditure of the Sheriff's office "must have a reasonable nexus to the 'highway patrol' functions of the office."

Prior to 2019, the county annually budgeted a significant portion of the Sheriff's office expenditures, including payroll, to be paid from the Special Road and Bridge Fund. For example, of the $10.2 million in Sheriff's office expenditures in 2018, $9.1 million were paid from the Special Road and Bridge Fund. In 2019, all of these expenses were moved to the General Fund. Findings and recommendations regarding county budgets and allocation of payroll will be included in subsequent audit reports.

Section 137.555, RSMo, restricts the use of the Special Road and Bridge Fund to disbursements for road and bridge purposes only.

Conclusion

To ensure restricted money is used for its intended purpose, the allocation of expenditures to county funds should occur only for allowable and specific purposes and reasons for the allocation should be adequately documented. The proper allocation of expenses is necessary to accurately determine the results of operations of specific activities, thus enabling the county to establish the level of taxation necessary to meet all operating costs.

No-Bid Contracts and Other Expenditures
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

2.2 Contract timeliness

As similarly noted in MAR finding number 1, the county did not always timely enter into written contracts. The county was billed $35,625 for services provided (related to the MyARTS program) for the first 3 months of 2016, prior to the contract being signed on March 14, 2016. The county subsequently paid for these services on March 16, 2016.

On March 14, 2016, the county signed a cooperative agreement with a company for the "MyARTS program which provides youth with apprenticeship training followed by a part-time paid entrepreneurial position in which the youth produce a marketable arts product." The term of the contract was from January through December 2016, at $11,875 monthly for a total cost of $142,500.

Section 432.070, RSMo, provides that no county shall enter into a contract unless the contract is "dated when made." Clear, detailed, and timely written contracts are necessary to ensure all parties are aware of the services to be performed and the compensation to be paid for the services.

2.3 Supporting documentation

As similarly noted in MAR finding number 1, the county did not require invoices submitted to provide sufficient documentation of the details of the services provided and expenses billed to the county, limiting the county's ability to review them for reasonableness, compliance with bids/contracts, and accuracy.

- The county could not provide an invoice to support payment for consulting work related to the criminal justice system feasibility study and master plan. As a result, it is unclear what services were performed or expenses incurred. While we reviewed only one payment totaling $34,654, the county paid this consultant $285,000 during 2018.
- Invoices for doors and restroom partitions did not include an itemized cost of the items purchased and work completed. The 3 invoices totaling $167,602 we reviewed only listed a total dollar amount for "furnish and install." While there was a description of items purchased included on the invoice, prices of "$0.00" and discounts of "$0.00" were listed for each item. Because of the lack of detail included on the invoice, we could not verify the costs complied with the applicable bid and contract. As a result, the Finance and Purchasing department also would not have been able to ensure contract compliance. While we only reviewed these 3 invoices, the county paid this vendor $418,655 during 2017 and 2018.
- The Finance and Purchasing department did not retain documentation indicating how the bulk unit price listed on a fuel invoice dated February 6, 2017, totaling $14,236 was in compliance with the related fuel contract. While we only reviewed one invoice, the county paid this vendor $1,415,197 during 2017 and 2018.

Jackson County
No-Bid Contracts and Other Expenditures
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

- Fuel card statements for purchases of fuel for the Sheriff's office are not itemized. The November 2017 fuel card statement only indicated $1,969 for current fuel card purchases and $3,238 for prior period fuel card purchases. There was no documentation the summary fuel card statement was reconciled to itemized fuel receipts or an itemized fuel card statement or mileage logs. While we only reviewed one invoice, the county paid this vendor $261,001 during 2017 and 2018 for fuel card purchases made by various county offices/departments.
- Invoices for Sheriff's prisoner transportation services were not adequately detailed to ensure contract compliance. Our review of a $6,586 payment to the prisoner transportation service provider in September 2017 included separate invoices for transportation of each prisoner; however, the invoices only showed a total dollar amount due, the name of the prisoner, the pickup and drop off location. The invoices do not provide any documentation of the number of miles driven or the rate per mile. While we only reviewed one payment, the county paid this vendor $203,345 during 2017 and 2018 for Sheriff prisoner transportation services.
- An invoice submitted by a consultant performing human resources and organizational development services only indicated "payment for contract services RFP NO. 32-14 - Human Resources Services." The invoice provided no description of services performed, dates of hours worked, or an itemized list of expenses incurred. While we reviewed only one invoice totaling $3,335, the county paid this consultant $56,695 during 2016 and 2017.
- An invoice submitted by another consultant performing county lobbying services, related to a contract signed by the current County Executive, only indicated "Services." The invoice provided no description of services performed, dates of hours worked, or an itemized list of expenses incurred. While we reviewed only one invoice totaling $3,500, the county paid this consultant $80,500 during 2016 and 2017.
- An invoice submitted by a different consultant providing county lobbying services, related to a contract signed by the current County Executive, only indicated $9,250 was due for "professional fees - legislative consulting agreement" and $2,500 was due "for additional consultant." The invoice provided no description of services performed, dates of hours worked, or an itemized list of expenses incurred. While we reviewed only one invoice totaling $11,750, the county paid this consultant $282,000 during 2016 and 2017.

To ensure prudent and proper use of county funds, requests for payments should only be approved when adequate supporting documentation is

Jackson County
No-Bid Contracts and Other Expenditures
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

submitted with the requests. Only by receiving detailed supporting documentation for payments can the county ensure the amounts claimed for payment are legitimate, accurate, and comply with county disbursement policies and contract provisions.

2.4 Fuel use

The county lacks adequate controls and procedures to account for fuel used compared to bulk fuel purchased. During the 2 years ended December 31, 2018, the county purchased approximately $843,000 in fuel for the use/sale by the Parks and Recreation department and the Sheriff's office. Two bulk tanks are maintained at each of the 6 fueling locations. A diesel tank and an unleaded tank are maintained at 3 locations for use by the Parks and Recreation department and the Sheriff's office, and 2 unleaded tanks are maintained at 3 other locations for the resale of marina fuel.

At one of the 3 locations used by the Parks and Recreation department and the Sheriff's office, a personal identification number (PIN), the vehicle license number, the date, amount of fuel pumped, and mileage of the vehicle is recorded in an electronic fueling system. At the other 2 locations, this same information is manually recorded and then manually entered into the electronic fueling system after fuel reports are reconciled to fuel tickets. According to Parks and Recreation supervisors, reports of fuel pumped are reviewed for unusual fuel usage and investigated, however, the Parks and Recreation Superintendent indicated a formal reconciliation of fuel use to bulk fuel purchases is not prepared.

Procedures for reconciling fuel usage to bulk fuel purchased are necessary to prevent paying vendors for improper amounts and decrease the risk of loss, theft, or misuse of fuel occurring and going undetected.

2.5 Christmas parties

The Sheriff's office spent $9,069 for Christmas parties held in 2017 and 2018, that was not a prudent, reasonable, or a necessary use of county funds. In addition, a list of attendees was not maintained for these parties, the business purpose/benefit to the county was not documented, and the related invoices were not approved by the Sheriff or another official prior to payment.

The cost of the 2017 Christmas party, held by the former Sheriff, was $5,487. One vendor handled all of the party costs and no bids were obtained as required by the county code for purchases exceeding $5,000. Also, $2,965 of the 2017 party and $3,582 of the 2018 party was inappropriately paid from the Special Road and Bridge Fund (see section 2.1). The 2017 Christmas party included 125 meals at $32 each (prime rib $22, lobster $6, and fried shrimp $4); a $800 service charge on the food, $300 for a DJ, $195 for servers, a $75 bartender fee, and $117 for napkins and tablecloths. The 2018 Christmas party, held by the current Sheriff, included 130 meals at $19 each, a $494 service charge on the food, $300 for a DJ, $210 for servers, and $108 for napkins and tablecloths.

Jackson County
No-Bid Contracts and Other Expenditures
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Taxpayers have placed a fiduciary trust in the county to spend public funds only on items necessary and beneficial to the county. These expenditures are not a necessary use of county resources. In addition, Chapter 10, Section 1040, of county code indicates informal competitive bidding is required for purchases between $5,000 and $25,000. Informal competitive bidding includes soliciting at least 3 bids from vendors through informal means (e.g., telephone, media, bulletin board posting, etc.).

2.6 Late fees and finance charges

The county has not established adequate procedures to ensure the Prosecuting Attorney's office credit card bills are paid timely. Our review of the office's credit card disbursements for 2017 and 2018 showed assessment of late fees of $273 and finance charges of $508. To prevent unnecessary late fees and finance charges, procedures should be in place to ensure office credit card bills are paid timely.

Recommendations

The County Legislature and County Executive:

- 2.1 Ensure costs are allocated from the appropriate funds, and supported by adequate documentation, which is retained. The County Legislature and County Executive should also reimburse the Special Road and Bridge Fund for costs inappropriately paid from that fund, determine if additional reimbursement is necessary, and ensure all future expenditures from the Special Road and Bridge Fund comply with state law.
- 2.2 Enter into timely written contracts with vendors.
- 2.3 Ensure adequate supporting documentation is submitted and maintained to support payment of all expenditures.
- 2.4 Document reconciliations of fuel usage to fuel purchases. Any significant discrepancies should be promptly investigated.
- 2.5 Discontinue paying for Christmas parties, and ensure all disbursements are necessary and prudent use of public funds.
- 2.6 Ensure credit card bills are paid timely to avoid late fees and finance charges.

Auditee's Response

The County Legislature provided a written response. See Appendix F.

The County Executive provided a written response. See Appendix G.

3. Travel Expenditures

Our review of travel expenditures identified several concerns. Travel expenditures total approximately $840,000 for the 3 years ended December 31, 2018.

Administrative Policy 12-01, Section IV, indicates "A travel advance is not required; however, if the employee desires an advance prior to travel, a Travel Advance Request (TAR) form must be completed and approved by the appropriate supervisor and Department Director prior to the travel occurring. The TAR should be submitted along with documentation explaining the purpose of the trip, including detailed conference advertisements, seminar schedules or letters pertaining to the meeting." TAR forms require the employee, the employee's department head, the county's Chief Operating Officer, the Director of Finance and Purchasing, and the Budget Administrator to sign the form to indicate their review and approval of the travel advance.

This policy also indicates, "The employee may upfront the costs of the trip; however, the same documentation is required for reimbursement. For reimbursement, a Travel Expense Form (TEF) should be completed by the employee. Employees should submit a reconciliation of their actual travel expenses with appropriate documentation within two weeks of returning from business travel." The TEF requires the employee, the employee's department head, the Division Chief/Manager, the Director of Finance and Purchasing, and the Budget Administrator to sign the form to indicate their review and approval of the travel expense reimbursement.

3.1 Travel advances and expenses

An adequate review of TEFs and supporting documentation was not always performed. As a result, some employees received reimbursement for travel expenses not in compliance with county policy or not actually incurred. In addition, management did not attempt to recover lodging costs charged to the county's credit card by the former Sheriff, when he failed to cancel his hotel reservation. Employees did not always submit TEFs timely and sometimes failed to submit them. Supervisors did not always approve submitted TEFs.

- The former Sheriff improperly claimed and received reimbursement of $376 of travel expenses, including $330 of travel expenses for a trip taken in April 2017 to Jefferson City, where adequate documentation (detailed conference advertisements and seminar schedules) was not provided, and $46 in per diems claimed when meals were provided at a conference in August 2016. In addition, the former Sheriff reserved a hotel room costing $126 in February 2017, using the county's credit card and did not show up or cancel the reservation, and the county subsequently paid these costs.
- A former employee was improperly reimbursed $285 for a 6 night stay in New Orleans. The costs included improper reimbursement of $208

Jackson County
No-Bid Contracts and Other Expenditures
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

(approximately $35 a night) for a room upgrade without documenting the reason for the upgrade, a $28 per diem claimed when a meal was provided at the conference, $39 of taxes and fees charged on days when a rental car³ was only used for personal travel (the base rental car rate for days of personal travel was not claimed for reimbursement), and $10 for rental car fuel (no supporting documentation submitted for the expense).

- Another employee improperly claimed and received reimbursement of $228 of travel expenses related to a trip taken to Las Vegas in September 2016, including $200 of lodging costs refunded to the employee's personal credit card on his last day of stay according to the hotel invoice, and a $28 per diem claimed when a meal was provided at the conference. The employee did not submit the portion of his personal credit card statement reflecting the $200 refund of lodging costs, and he also did not submit his TEF and supporting documentation within 2 weeks of returning from the trip.
- Four other employees were reimbursed meal per diems for different trips totaling $77 in excess of county policy. In these instances, the county reimbursed the employee the full meal per diem rate on the first or last day of the trip, when rates are reduced on these days.
- The former Chief of Staff failed to submit TEFs for 4 of 6 expense reimbursements, from September 2015 through December 2016, reviewed, totaling $318. In addition, he submitted no documentation for part ($47) of one reimbursement without a TEF submitted. In addition, one of the 2 TEFs submitted did not have approval signatures.

We also noted several other concerns with travel expenses charged to the county credit card by the former Chief of Staff, including unsupported, non-allowed, and questionable travel expenses.

For example, our review of 5 trips made by the former Chief of Staff in 2016 noted missing invoices for hotel charges ($1,198) for a February 2016 trip to Washington D.C., and rental car charges ($179) for an April 2016 trip to Portland. In addition, we noted excessive room service meal charges during the trip to Portland ($130 for 4 meals), as well as trips to Phoenix ($88) and Dallas ($75). Also, we noted valet parking charges, which are specifically prohibited by Administrative Policy 12-01, Section VIII, for trips to Portland ($123), Phoenix ($116), and San Francisco ($198). In addition, in-room movie rental charges ($19) during the San Francisco trip appear questionable.

³ The rental car was used some days for business travel and other days for personal travel during the trip.

Jackson County
No-Bid Contracts and Other Expenditures
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

- The Director of Finance and Purchasing did not submit a TEF and supporting documentation within 2 weeks of returning from business travel for a trip taken in September 16, 2018.

Administrative Policy 12-01, Section VII, indicates meal and incidental expenses are paid based on federal per diems, and "The County will not reimburse per diem for meals included in the registration fee, and the appropriate allotment for the meal will be deducted from the per diem." Administrative Policy 12-01, Section VI, indicates "The County will pay for lodging accommodations for the nights the employee is on County business, based on travel days. Lodging generally includes the single-occupancy cost of the room and any applicable taxes and charges at the meeting and/or conference event location." Administrative Policy 12-01, Section V, indicates "In the event that a rental car is approved, the County . . . will reimburse the employee for gasoline purchases with receipts." Administrative Policy 12-01, Section VIII, specifically prohibits expenses for valet parking and personal entertainment.

3.2 Travel policies

Improvement is needed in the county's travel policies to ensure employee travel costs are obtained in the most economical manner in accordance with the purpose of Administrative Policy 12-01.

Administrative Policy 12-01, Section I, states "As a general rule, employees should take advantage of training, professional development opportunities, or off-site business meetings in the most economical manner for the County." Section VI, indicates "In the case that the event is not being held at a conference center hotel, employees should use discretion in choosing an economical lodging option."

- During our review of travel expenditures, we noted instances where price comparisons or other procedures performed were not documented when an event was not at a conference hotel to ensure the most economical lodging option was chosen. As a result, the county paid excessive lodging costs.

For example, the former Sheriff attended a conference in Philadelphia in October 2017, obtained lodging at a location separate from the conference, and incurred hotel costs exceeding federal per diem rates by $930 or $310 per night. The cost of the former Sheriff's hotel room was $524 per night.

The former Chief of Staff similarly attended conferences in 2016 and incurred hotel costs exceeding federal per diem rates. At a conference in Portland in April 2016, hotel costs ($329 per night) exceeded the federal per diem rate by $534 or $178 per night. At a conference in Phoenix in

Jackson County
No-Bid Contracts and Other Expenditures
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

June 2016, hotel costs ($149 per night) exceeded the federal per diem rate by $240 or $60 per night.

No explanation was documented for the higher lodging costs.

In addition, current travel policies do not require employees to use federal per diem rates to limit lodging costs when the event is not at a conference hotel. In cities where multiple hotels or motels are located, lodging can often be procured at rates less than federal per diem rates.

In comparison to county policies, the state of Missouri Office of Administration's policy SP-6 III (C) requires that "In areas where comparable accommodations are available at significantly different prices you should seek prior approval before selecting higher priced lodging and document the reason(s) for selecting the higher priced lodging. Key issues that determine hotel acceptability to the State include accountability, transparency, price, safety, convenience, ease of booking and payment, oversight and issue resolution." The state's travel portal lists the federal per diem for lodging to be used as a benchmark when evaluating lodging costs in specific areas. Procedures requiring performing price comparisons and ensuring rates do not exceed federal per diems for lodging are necessary to demonstrate compliance with county policies to ensure the most economical lodging option when an event was not at a conference hotel is chosen. Documentation should also be maintained to support any lodging expenses exceeding federal per diem rates.

- Current county travel policies do not require employees to purchase airline tickets well in advance of the expected travel to obtain better rates. For example, a County Assessor's office employee purchased airline tickets costing $974 only 6 days prior to travel for non-stop flights between Kansas City and Las Vegas departing on Sunday, September 18, 2016, and returning Thursday, September 22, 2016. In addition, the former Chief of Staff purchased airline tickets costing $1,148 only 7 days prior to travel for non-stop flights between Kansas City and Portland departing on Wednesday, April 13, 2016, and returning Saturday, April 16, 2016. According to the Bureau of Transportation Statistics domestic airfares averaged $345 from Kansas City, $223 from Las Vegas, and $313 from Portland during the third quarter of 2016.⁴

⁴ <https://www.transtats.bts.gov/AIRFARES/>

Average fares are based on the total ticket value, which consists of the price charged by the airlines plus any additional taxes and fees levied by an outside entity at the time of purchase. Fares include only the price paid at the time of the ticket purchase and do not include fees for optional services, such as baggage fees. Averages do not include frequent-flyer or "zero fares."

Jackson County
No-Bid Contracts and Other Expenditures
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

In comparison to county policy, the state of Missouri Office of Administration policy SP-6 III (B) requires the lowest reasonable logical airfare should be obtained at least 21 days in advance of travel, and the reason documented when this is not possible.

Recommendations

The County Legislature and County Executive:

- 3.1 Ensure an adequate review of travel advances and expenses is performed; and seek reimbursement from employees for (1) expenses claimed and reimbursed in violation of county policy, (2) expenses not incurred, and (3) lodging costs charged to the county's credit card, for canceled reservations. The County Legislature and County Executive should also ensure all employees comply with established travel policies.
- 3.2 Consider revisions to current travel policies to include documentation of price comparisons of lodging costs when an event was not at a conference hotel and requirements for the timely purchase of airline tickets to obtain better rates.

Organization and Statistical Information

Jackson County voters adopted a Constitutional Home Rule Charter in 1970. Prior to the new charter, Jackson County government was governed by a three-seat legislative body called the "Jackson County Court." From January 1973 through December 1986 the County Legislature consisted of 15 members elected by the voters from 11 districts and 4 districts-at-large. Beginning January 1987, the County Legislature has consisted of 9 members, elected by the voters from 6 districts and 3 districts-at-large. County Legislators are elected to 4-year terms. The Charter also established positions of the County Executive, Prosecuting Attorney, and Sheriff who are also elected by the voters to 4-year terms.

The Charter provides for a separation of the legislative and executive functions. The County Legislature is given broad legislative power, introducing and enacting all county resolutions and ordinances. The County Executive oversees the day-to-day operations of the county government and has the power to appoint administrative officers and directors to head up various departments.

In addition, county operations include more than 20 boards and commissions, including the Board of Equalization, Ethics, Human Relations, Citizen Complaints Commission, Housing Resources Commission, and Merit System Commission.

Charter revisions

The charter form of government provides the opportunity for the citizens of Jackson County to make changes to the Charter. On August 3, 2010, county voters approved a revised Charter that focused on ethical reforms and called for an automatic Charter review every 10 years. The revised Charter took effect August 23, 2010.

On November 6, 2018, county voters again approved a variety of amendments to the Charter effective January 1, 2019, including:

- Providing term limits for the Prosecuting Attorney and Sheriff.
- Granting the County Legislature the power to (1) remove the County Counselor, and (2) restrict the County Counselor's authority to (a) enter into contracts for legal services without legislative approval and (b) file lawsuits involving the County Legislature.
- Granting the (1) Sheriff the duty and authority to operate the county detention center and other detention facilities and (2) Prosecuting Attorney authority over the county anti-crime sales tax.

GENERAL CONDITIONS

The General Conditions which follow apply to and are a part of this Request for Proposal unless otherwise specified herein. Subject to State and County laws and all rules, regulations and limitations imposed by legislation of the Federal Government, responses on all advertisements, and invitations issued by the Jackson County Purchasing Department will bind Respondents to applicable conditions and requirements herein set forth unless otherwise specified in the Request for Proposal. Respondents or their authorized representatives are expected to fully inform themselves as to the General Conditions, Requirements, and any other provisions before submitting proposals; failure to do so will be at the Respondent's own risk and he cannot secure relief on the plea of error.

1. Withdrawal of Proposals: A written request for the withdrawal of a proposal or any part thereof may be granted if the request is received in the Office of the Director of Finance and Purchasing prior to the specified time of opening.

2. Completeness: All information required by the Request for Proposal must be supplied to constitute a proper proposal. Respondents shall not alter the Request for Proposal documents except upon instruction by receipt of addendum. Respondents shall furnish information required by the Proposal in the form requested. The County reserves the right to reject proposals with incomplete information or which are presented in a form other than that requested in this Request for Proposals. Proposals must be submitted in "hard copy" form. Proposals submitted electronically, on computer diskettes, or by FAX will not be considered by the County.

3. Proposals Binding For 90 Days: Unless otherwise specified all proposals submitted shall be binding for ninety (90) calendar days following the proposal opening date, unless the Respondent(s), upon request of the Director of Finance and Purchasing, agrees to an extension.

4. Exceptions: Conditional or qualified proposals are subject to rejection in whole or in part. All exceptions to the requirements of this Request for Proposal must be made in writing and attached as Exhibit F to the proposal when it is submitted by the Respondent. The County will consider minor exceptions to its requirements. A minor exception is one which is a matter of form, not substance. The minor exception is considered immaterial and inconsequential when its significance to price, quantity, quality, or delivery is trivial or negligible when contrasted with total scope of the Request for Proposal (ex: comparable manufacturer or alternate proposals where allowed by the Request for Proposal). The County will not consider exceptions to its General Conditions, Forms or Insurance Requirements. The County reserves the right in its sole discretion to accept or reject any exceptions included in Exhibit F. Exceptions made in any other manner or form whether by omission or by inclusion in any other manner other than as specifically entered and described in full on Exhibit F shall not be made a part of the resulting contract. Exceptions which are made by the Respondent and entered on Exhibit F and determined to be acceptable to the County shall be made a part of the resulting contract by inclusion as a provision of a mutually executed Amendment to the contract. Exceptions which are not made a part of said Amendment shall not be included in the contract nor be binding upon the County and the specifications of the Request for Proposal shall prevail.

5. Questions Regarding General Conditions, Requirements or any other provision of this Request for Proposal: Any information relative to interpretation of General Conditions, Requirements or any other provision of this Request for Proposal shall be requested of the Purchasing Supervisor, in writing, in ample time before the opening of proposals. All questions must be received by the Purchasing Supervisor by December 23, 2013. Any interpretation made to prospective respondents will be expressed in the form of an addendum to the Request for Proposal which, if issued, will be sent no later than three (3) business days before the date set for opening of proposals. Addendums to this Request for Proposal will be posted on the County's website @ www.jacksongov.org. Oral answers will not be binding on the County. Each respondent shall ascertain prior to submitting his proposal that he has received all Addenda issued, and shall acknowledge the receipt of such on the form provided herein. Failure to adhere to this policy may cause your proposal to be REJECTED.

6. Applicable Law: The contract shall be construed according to the laws of the State of Missouri. The Contractor must be registered and maintain good standing with the Secretary of State, of the State of Missouri and other regulatory agencies as may be required by law.

7. Communications and Notices: Any written notice to the Contractor shall be deemed sufficient when deposited in the United States Mail postage prepaid; faxed; e-mailed; delivered to a telegraph office fee prepaid; or hand-carried and presented to an authorized employee of the Contractor at the Contractor's address, or at such address as the contractor may have requested. Any exception to the provision of the Request for Proposals must be in writing and not by omission.

18. No lowest/highest Respondent shall receive a business expectancy merely because his proposal is the lowest/highest one received; until the contract has been awarded, no business expectancy exists.

22. Fund Allocation: Continuance of any resulting contract or issuance of purchase orders after December 31 of the current calendar year is contingent upon the allocation of County funds for the next proceeding calendar year.

23. As a condition for the award of any contract or grant in excess of five thousand dollars by the County to a business entity, the business entity shall, by sworn affidavit and provision of documentation, affirm its enrollment and participation in a federal work authorization program with respect to the employees working in connection with the contracted services. PERSONAL AND CONFIDENTIAL
ATTORNEY-CLIENT PRIVILEGED COMMUNICATION

Mr. Michael Sanders

Re: Engagement Letter

Dear Mr. Sanders:

We are pleased and honored that you have chosen Polsinelli Shughart PC to represent Jackson County, Missouri (the "County") in connection with the matter described below. We thank you for your expression of confidence in us.

This letter is intended to describe the scope of the services our firm has been retained to provide during this engagement as well as the terms and conditions of the engagement. To that end, we have attached our standard Terms of Representation which sets forth our firm's established general policies and practices regarding representation of clients and the payment of our fees.

1. Client. We understand that the County will be our client. In that regard, while we will report to the County Executive from time to time and while we will work with you and other members of your team on a frequent basis, we understand that no officer, director or employee of the County will be our client.

2. Scope of Representation. Regarding the scope of our representation, we understand that we are being retained to represent the County and to perform the following legal services:

Provide legal advice and representation relating to the federal legislative lobbying in accordance with Request for Proposal No. 14-10 and the response submitted by Polsinelli Shughart on April 6, 2010.

3. Responsibilities. We will provide legal counsel and assistance in accordance with this letter and will rely upon information and guidance you provide to us. We will keep you reasonably informed of progress and developments, and respond to your inquiries.

In order to enable us to provide the services set forth in this letter, you will disclose fully and accurately all facts and keep us apprised of all developments relating to this matter. You will also cooperate fully with us and be available to attend meetings, conferences, hearings and other proceedings on reasonable notice, and stay reasonably informed on all developments relating to this matter.

4. Fees and Expenses. We will provide these services on a retainer basis at a cost of Ninety Three Thousand Three Hundred Thirty Three and 28/100 Dollars ($93,333.28), including expenses, for the period commencing May 1, 2010 and ending December 31, 2010. Anita Estell, a Shareholder in our Public Policy Group, will be your lead counsel in our Washington, D.C. office and I will be your lead counsel in Kansas City. In accordance with the terms of Request for Proposal No. 14-10, this engagement shall be for eight months, a four month and two twelve month renewal options.

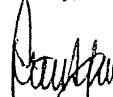

We look forward to representing the County in this matter. When you advise us otherwise, we will give you a new file or files and issue a new engagement letter for assignments which are different from this assignment.

Because this engagement is solely limited to our efforts for the County in Washington, D.C. and our representation of the County before the United States Congress, we hereby request that any potential conflict of interest between any client of our law firm and the County that would arise because of this engagement be waived by the County. By your signature below, you confirm that we can continue to represent any current clients who may now be adverse to the County and any future clients who may be adverse to the County. As a method to confirm this waiver, your counter-signature on this letter will also extend the conflict waiver contained in the earlier correspondence dated March 1, 2010, signed by William Snyder as Acting County Counselor, through the term of the engagement described herein and expand its coverage to match the "Scope of Representation" outlined herein. A copy of the March 1 letter signed by Mr. Snyder is attached as a reference.

We hope this letter and the attached Terms of Representation adequately explain the scope of our services as well as the payment terms of our fees. If they do and you are in agreement with them, please indicate your affirmation by signing the enclosed copy of this letter and returning it to me for our file.

We appreciate the opportunity to work with you and the County and look forward to a mutually beneficial relationship.

Sincerely,

Peter S. Levi

TERMS OF REPRESENTATION

Confirmation of Services. Polsinelli Shughart PC is pleased to have this opportunity to serve you. The letter accompanying these Terms of Representation sets forth the scope of our representation. If what is set forth in the accompanying letter or in these Terms of Representation does not accurately describe your understanding of the services we are to perform or the terms for billing fees and expenses, please advise the attorney sending you the letter. Unless the attorney is notified promptly, we will assume that these Terms of Representation and the accompanying letter are acceptable to you.

Scope of Representation. The scope of our representation at this time is limited to providing only those services that are described in the accompanying letter. Unless otherwise noted, we will render those legal services that are necessary to the representation. No other services are intended to be provided without our mutual agreement. Later, if you determine to change materially the scope of our representation, we will need to document that in additional correspondence. Our representation is also limited to working on behalf of the client identified in the accompanying letter. The firm does not represent any other entity or individuals unless specifically stated in the accompanying letter.

Fees Not Contingent and Due Within 30 Days. Our fees are not contingent, and payment is due within 30 days of the receipt of the statement. If the firm has not received any comment about the statement within 30 days of its receipt, we will assume that you found it acceptable. As a means of encouraging timely payment of our statements, we reserve the right to add a late charge of 1.5% per month to bills that are past due, i.e., statements that remain unpaid for more than 30 days. Payment is to be made by check or draft payable to "Polsinelli Shughart PC."

If any of our statements remain unpaid for more than 90 days, we may, consistent with our ethical and court-imposed obligations, cease to perform services until satisfactory arrangements have been made for the payment of the unpaid statements and future fees. In fairness to our many clients who promptly pay their statements each month, we reserve the right to take appropriate action with respect to such delinquent accounts.

Methods of Communication. We are mindful of our obligation to preserve the client's confidential information. To that end, it is important that we agree from the outset what kinds of communications technology we will employ in the course of this engagement. The exchange of documents using the Internet, or even direct computer-to-computer data transfer, may involve some risk that information will be retrieved by third parties. Even the use of fax machines can cause problems if documents are sent to numbers where the documents sit in open view. As part of these general issues, please be aware that (1) e-mail communication is not a secure method of communication in all circumstances, (2) any e-mail that is sent to the client or by the client may be copied and held by various computers that it passes through as it goes from the sender to the recipient, (3) persons not participating in our communication may intercept such messages by improperly accessing the client's computer or the lawyer's computer, or even some computer not related to either the client or the law firm which the e-mail passes through. However, it has been our experience that most current business communications are accomplished by electronic means. The Polsinelli Shughart Law Firm will assume that you have no objections to such communications and consent to receive communications via electronic means unless you notify us in writing to the contrary.

Attorney-Client Communication. Our statements generally contain information protected by the attorney-client privilege. As the privilege could be deemed to have been waived if someone other than the client sees the privileged material, we recommend that you keep all of our statements in a separate file marked "Attorney-Client Privileged Materials," and keep the file in a secure place.

Payment of Third-Party Expenses. The firm prefers that you pay directly any significant outside expense items related to your work and, when possible, we will direct such expenses to you for payment. Therefore, we often ask our vendors to bill our clients directly rather than having us incur the expense and then including the amount on our statement.

Termination of Services and Representation. You may terminate our services at any time. Termination of our representation does not, however, relieve you from the responsibility of paying those fees and expenses incurred through the date we were notified of such termination. Similarly, we may withdraw from this representation for a number of reasons, including failure to promptly pay the amounts indicated in our statements; failure to disclose all facts material to our representation; failure to act in accordance with our advice; or development of one or more circumstances which, in our judgment, impair our ability to maintain an effective attorney-client relationship. Upon termination of our services and representation by the client or our withdrawal from representation of the client, we will be entitled to be paid for all services rendered and costs and expenses paid or incurred on behalf of the client to the date of termination or withdrawal. We also will be entitled to payment at our standard billing rates for any work required of us in connection with the turnover of files to the client or new counsel and the orderly transition of pending matters to new counsel, and we also will be entitled to reimbursement of all expenses incurred by us in connection with such work. We will return to the client all papers and property belonging to the client, upon payment of all amounts owed by the client to the firm. Papers and communications that are part of the firm's administrative process although they may concern do not belong to the client. We reserve the right to make, at the client's expense, and retain copies of all documents generated or received by us in the course of our representation of a client. If a client requests documents from us, either during the course of our representation of the client or in connection with or following termination of or withdrawal from such representation, such documents will be provided at the client's expense, including both reproduction costs and professional fees for time expended in reviewing files to locate requested documents.

Estimates of the Cost of Services to be Performed. From time to time, you may ask us to make an estimate of the cost of completing all or part of your matter. Because it is often difficult to estimate at the beginning of a project how much time it will take to complete it, we treat any estimate as an "educated guess" and not as an assurance that we will be able to do the work for the estimated price. When an estimate is given, we will advise you when we are nearing the estimated price, and we will also advise you if we become aware that the estimate may be exceeded. At that time, you can decide whether to terminate our work on the project, modify the project, or proceed to completion with a different cost estimate.

Completion of Matter. After a particular matter is completed, we do not (unless you specifically request in writing that we do so) undertake to continue to review that matter and update you concerning legal developments, such as changes in applicable laws or regulations. If you do ask us to review a specific matter on which we have previously worked, we will consider that to be a new representation. Thus, while we may, from time to time, call to your attention issues or legal developments that might be relevant to your operations, we are not undertaking to do so as a part of this representation.

Unless previously terminated, our representation will end upon our sending you our final statement for services rendered with respect to this matter. If, upon any termination or completion of a matter, you wish to have your documents in our possession delivered to you, please advise us.

Client Confidences/Description of Client/Representation in Other Matters/Future Conflicts.

Our clients are engaged in a wide variety of businesses throughout the world. From time to time, we represent clients who are industry competitors. In order to ensure confidentiality, we will not (unless you specifically grant us the authority to do so) discuss or otherwise make available to anyone, including other clients, any confidential information about you, your business or our work on your behalf and will not discuss or otherwise make available to you any confidential information about any of our other clients (if any), their business, or any work on their behalf.

Polsinelli Shughart is a large law firm and represents many other companies and individuals. For example, our firm has a national debtor-creditor, workout, and bankruptcy practice. To avoid any misunderstanding in connection with our current (and any future) engagement with the client, we confirm that we have not been asked to act as counsel for anyone other than the client described in the Engagement Letter or, if the client is a corporation, any subsidiary, parent, affiliate, or other member of the client's corporate group by acting as counsel to the client.

It is possible that during the time that we are representing the client, some of our other present or future clients will have disputes or transactions with the client referenced in the accompanying Engagement Letter. Therefore, as a condition to the firm undertaking this engagement, the client agrees that we may continue to represent or may undertake in the future to represent existing or new clients in any matter that is not substantially related to our work for you even if the interests of such other clients in those other matters are directly adverse to you.

Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, we will have the right to represent debtors, creditors' committees, creditors, shareholders, or other parties in interest in other matters, including in bankruptcy, workout, and other debtor-creditor matters, even when the client is a creditor or is otherwise interested in or potentially interested in such other matter. This would include, but not be limited to: matters, negotiations, and disputes that may arise under loan and security agreements and related documents; negotiation and disputes regarding claims, liens, debtor-in-possession financing, lift of stay issues, plan of reorganization issues; and other issues in which the client may have an interest. The client's signature on the enclosed copy of this letter will constitute its consent to any and all such conflicting representations. We agree, however, that the client's prospective consent to conflicting representation contained in the preceding sentence shall not apply in any instance where, as a result of our representation of the client, we have obtained proprietary or other confidential information of a non-public nature, that, if known to such other client, could be used in any such other matter by such client to the client's material disadvantage.

No Guarantee. We will perform our professional services on your behalf to the best of our ability, but we cannot make and have not made any guarantees regarding the outcome of our work on this project. Any expressions by us about the outcome of this project are our best professional views only and are limited by our factual knowledge at the time they are expressed.

Binding Agreement. The accompanying Engagement Letter and these Terms Of Representation represent the entire agreement between the client and the Polsinelli Shughart Law Firm with respect to this Engagement. By signing the Engagement Letter, the client acknowledges that the Engagement Letter and these Terms Of Representation have been carefully reviewed and its content understood and that the client agrees to be bound by all of its terms and conditions. Furthermore, the client acknowledges that the Polsinelli Shughart Law Firm has made no representations or guarantees to you regarding the outcome of your representation or the time necessary to resolve this matter. No change or waiver of any of the provisions of the Engagement Letter or these Terms Of Representation shall be binding on either you or the law firm unless the change is in writing and signed by both.

Re: Engagement Letter

Dear Mr. Sanders:

We are pleased and honored that you have chosen Polsinelli Shughart PC to represent Jackson County, Missouri (the "County") in connection with the matter described below. We thank you for your expression of confidence in us.

This letter is intended to describe the scope of the services our firm has been retained to provide during this engagement as well as the terms and conditions of the engagement. To that end, we have attached our standard Terms of Representation which sets forth our firm's established general policies and practices regarding representation of clients and the payment of our fees.

1. Client. We understand that the County will be our client. In that regard, while we will report to the County Executive from time to time and while we will work with you and other members of your team on a frequent basis, we understand that no officer, director or employee of the County will be our client.

2. Scope of Representation. Regarding the scope of our representation, we understand that we are being retained to represent the County and to perform the following legal services:

3. Responsibilities. We will provide legal counsel and assistance in accordance with this letter and will rely upon information and guidance you provide to us. We will keep you reasonably informed of progress and developments, and respond to your inquiries.

In order to enable us to provide the services set forth in this letter, you will disclose fully and accurately all facts and keep us apprised of all developments relating to this matter. You will also cooperate fully with us and be available to attend meetings, conferences, hearings and other proceedings on reasonable notice, and stay reasonably informed on all developments relating to this matter.

4. Fees and Expenses. We will provide these services on a retainer basis at a cost of Ninety Three Thousand Three Hundred Thirty Three and 28/100 Dollars ($93,333.28), including expenses, for the period commencing May 1, 2010 and ending December 31, 2010. Anita Estell, a Shareholder in our Public Policy Group, will be your lead counsel in our Washington, D.C. office and I will be your lead counsel in Kansas City. In accordance with the terms of Request for Proposal No. 14-10, this engagement shall be for eight months, a four month and two twelve month renewal options.

We look forward to representing the County in this matter. When you advise us otherwise, we will give you a new file or files and issue a new engagement letter for assignments which are different from this assignment.

Because this engagement is solely limited to our efforts for the County in Washington, D.C. and our representation of the County before the United States Congress, we hereby request that any potential conflict of interest between any client of our law firm and the County that would arise because of this engagement be waived by the County. By your signature below, you confirm that we can continue to represent any current clients who may now be adverse to the County and any future clients who may be adverse to the County. As a method to confirm this waiver, your counter-signature on this letter will also extend the conflict waiver contained in the earlier correspondence dated March 1, 2010, signed by William Snyder as Acting County Counselor, through the term of the engagement described herein and expand its coverage to match the "Scope of Representation" outlined herein. A copy of the March 1 letter signed by Mr. Snyder is attached as a reference.

We hope this letter and the attached Terms of Representation adequately explain the scope of our services as well as the payment terms of our fees. If they do and you are in agreement with them, please indicate your affirmation by signing the enclosed copy of this letter and returning it to me for our file:

We appreciate the opportunity to work with you and the County and look forward to a mutually beneficial relationship.

TERMS OF REPRESENTATION

Confirmation of Services. Polsinelli Shughart PC is pleased to have this opportunity to serve you. The letter accompanying these Terms of Representation sets forth the scope of our representation. If what is set forth in the accompanying letter or in these Terms of Representation does not accurately describe your understanding of the services we are to perform or the terms for billing fees and expenses, please advise the attorney sending you the letter. Unless the attorney is notified promptly, we will assume that these Terms of Representation and the accompanying letter are acceptable to you.

Scope of Representation. The scope of our representation at this time is limited to providing only those services that are described in the accompanying letter. Unless otherwise noted, we will render those legal services that are necessary to the representation. No other services are intended to be provided without our mutual agreement. Later, if you determine to change materially the scope of our representation, we will need to document that in additional correspondence. Our representation is also limited to working on behalf of the client identified in the accompanying letter. The firm does not represent any other entity or individuals unless specifically stated in the accompanying letter.

Fees Not Contingent and Due Within 30 Days. Our fees are not contingent, and payment is due within 30 days of the receipt of the statement. If the firm has not received any comment about the statement within 30 days of its receipt, we will assume that you found it acceptable. As a means of encouraging timely payment of our statements, we reserve the right to add a late charge of 1.5% per month to bills that are past due, i.e., statements that remain unpaid for more than 30 days. Payment is to be made by check or draft payable to "Polsinelli Shughart PC."

If any of our statements remain unpaid for more than 90 days, we may, consistent with our ethical and court-imposed obligations, cease to perform services until satisfactory arrangements have been made for the payment of the unpaid statements and future fees. In fairness to our many clients who promptly pay their statements each month, we reserve the right to take appropriate action with respect to such delinquent accounts.

Methods of Communication. We are mindful of our obligation to preserve the client's confidential information. To that end, it is important that we agree from the outset what kinds of communications technology we will employ in the course of this engagement. The exchange of documents using the Internet, or even direct computer-to-computer data transfer, may involve some risk that information will be retrieved by third parties. Even the use of fax machines can cause problems if documents are sent to numbers where the documents sit in open view. As part of these general issues, please be aware that (1) e-mail communication is not a secure method of communication in all circumstances, (2) any e-mail that is sent to the client or by the client may be copied and held by various computers that it passes through as it goes from the sender to the recipient, (3) persons not participating in our communication may intercept such messages by improperly accessing the client's computer or the lawyer's computer, or even some computer not related to either the client or the law firm which the e-mail passes through. However, it has been our experience that most current business communications are accomplished by electronic means. The Polsinelli Shughart Law Firm will assume that you have no objections to such communications and consent to receive communications via electronic means unless you notify us in writing to the contrary.

Attorney-Client Communication. Our statements generally contain information protected by the attorney-client privilege. As the privilege could be deemed to have been waived if someone other than the client sees the privileged material, we recommend that you keep all of our statements in a separate file marked "Attorney-Client Privileged Materials," and keep the file in a secure place.

Payment of Third-Party Expenses. The firm prefers that you pay directly any significant outside expense items related to your work and, when possible, we will direct such expenses to you for payment. Therefore, we often ask our vendors to bill our clients directly rather than having us incur the expense and then including the amount on our statement.

Termination of Services and Representation. You may terminate our services at any time. Termination of our representation does not, however, relieve you from the responsibility of paying those fees and expenses incurred through the date we were notified of such termination. Similarly, we may withdraw from this representation for a number of reasons, including failure to promptly pay the amounts indicated in our statements; failure to disclose all facts material to our representation; failure to act in accordance with our advice; or development of one or more circumstances which, in our judgment, impair our ability to maintain an effective attorney-client relationship. Upon termination of our services and representation by the client or our withdrawal from representation of the client, we will be entitled to be paid for all services rendered and costs and expenses paid or incurred on behalf of the client to the date of termination or withdrawal. We also will be entitled to payment at our standard billing rates for any work required of us in connection with the turnover of files to the client or new counsel and the orderly transition of pending matters to new counsel, and we also will be entitled to reimbursement of all expenses incurred by us in connection with such work. We will return to the client all papers and property belonging to the client, upon payment of all amounts owed by the client to the firm. Papers and communications that are part of the firm's administrative process although they may concern do not belong to the client. We reserve the right to make, at the client's expense, and retain copies of all documents generated or received by us in the course of our representation of a client. If a client requests documents from us, either during the course of our representation of the client or in connection with or following termination of or withdrawal from such representation, such documents will be provided at the client's expense, including both reproduction costs and professional fees for time expended in reviewing files to locate requested documents.

Estimates of the Cost of Services to be Performed. From time to time, you may ask us to make an estimate of the cost of completing all or part of your matter. Because it is often difficult to estimate at the beginning of a project how much time it will take to complete it, we treat any estimate as an "educated guess" and not as an assurance that we will be able to do the work for the estimated price. When an estimate is given, we will advise you when we are nearing the estimated price, and we will also advise you if we become aware that the estimate may be exceeded. At that time, you can decide whether to terminate our work on the project, modify the project, or proceed to completion with a different cost estimate.

Completion of Matter. After a particular matter is completed, we do not (unless you specifically request in writing that we do so) undertake to continue to review that matter and update you concerning legal developments, such as changes in applicable laws or regulations. If you do ask us to review a specific matter on which we have previously worked, we will consider that to be a new representation. Thus, while we may, from time to time, call to your attention issues or legal developments that might be relevant to your operations, we are not undertaking to do so as a part of this representation.

Unless previously terminated, our representation will end upon our sending you our final statement for services rendered with respect to this matter. If, upon any termination or completion of a matter, you wish to have your documents in our possession delivered to you, please advise us.

Client Confidences/Description of Client/Representation in Other Matters/Future Conflicts.

Our clients are engaged in a wide variety of businesses throughout the world. From time to time, we represent clients who are industry competitors. In order to ensure confidentiality, we will not (unless you specifically grant us the authority to do so) discuss or otherwise make available to anyone, including other clients, any confidential information about you, your business or our work on your behalf and will not discuss or otherwise make available to you any confidential information about any of our other clients (if any), their business, or any work on their behalf.

Polsinelli Shughart is a large law firm and represents many other companies and individuals. For example, our firm has a national debtor-creditor, workout, and bankruptcy practice. To avoid any misunderstanding in connection with our current (and any future) engagement with the client, we confirm that we have not been asked to act as counsel for anyone other than the client described in the Engagement Letter or, if the client is a corporation, any subsidiary, parent, affiliate, or other member of the client's corporate group by acting as counsel to the client.

It is possible that during the time that we are representing the client, some of our other present or future clients will have disputes or transactions with the client referenced in the accompanying Engagement Letter. Therefore, as a condition to the firm undertaking this engagement, the client agrees that we may continue to represent or may undertake in the future to represent existing or new clients in any matter that is not substantially related to our work for you even if the interests of such other clients in those other matters are directly adverse to you.

Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, we will have the right to represent debtors, creditors' committees, creditors, shareholders, or other parties in interest in other matters, including in bankruptcy, workout, and other debtor-creditor matters, even when the client is a creditor or is otherwise interested in or potentially interested in such other matter. This would include, but not be limited to: matters, negotiations, and disputes that may arise under loan and security agreements and related documents; negotiation and disputes regarding claims, liens, debtor-in-possession financing, lift of stay issues, plan of reorganization issues; and other issues in which the client may have an interest. The client's signature on the enclosed copy of this letter will constitute its consent to any and all such conflicting representations. We agree, however, that the client's prospective consent to conflicting representation contained in the preceding sentence shall not apply in any instance where, as a result of our representation of the client, we have obtained proprietary or other confidential information of a non-public nature, that, if known to such other client, could be used in any such other matter by such client to the client's material disadvantage.

No Guarantee. We will perform our professional services on your behalf to the best of our ability, but we cannot make and have not made any guarantees regarding the outcome of our work on this project. Any expressions by us about the outcome of this project are our best professional views only and are limited by our factual knowledge at the time they are expressed.

Binding Agreement. The accompanying Engagement Letter and these Terms Of Representation represent the entire agreement between the client and the Polsinelli Shughart Law Firm with respect to this Engagement. By signing the Engagement Letter, the client acknowledges that the Engagement Letter and these Terms Of Representation have been carefully reviewed and its content understood and that the client agrees to be bound by all of its terms and conditions. Furthermore, the client acknowledges that the Polsinelli Shughart Law Firm has made no representations or guarantees to you regarding the outcome of your representation or the time necessary to resolve this matter. No change or waiver of any of the provisions of the Engagement Letter or these Terms Of Representation shall be binding on either you or the law firm unless the change is in writing and signed by both.

3. Responsibilities. We will provide legal counsel and assistance in accordance with this letter and will rely upon information and guidance you provide to us. We will keep you reasonably informed of progress and developments, and respond to your inquiries.

In order to enable us to provide the services set forth in this letter, you will disclose fully and accurately all facts and keep us apprised of all developments relating to this matter. You will also cooperate fully with us and be available to attend meetings, conferences, hearings and other proceedings on reasonable notice, and stay reasonably informed on all developments relating to this matter.

4. Fees and Expenses. We will provide these services on a retainer basis at a cost of Ninety Three Thousand Three Hundred Thirty Three and 28/100 Dollars ($93,333.28), including expenses, for the period commencing May 1, 2010 and ending December 31, 2010. Anita Estell, a Shareholder in our Public Policy Group, will be your lead counsel in our Washington, D.C. office and I will be your lead counsel in Kansas City. In accordance with the terms of Request for Proposal No. 14-10, this engagement shall be for eight months, a four month and two twelve month renewal options.

We look forward to representing the County in this matter. When you advise us otherwise, we will give you a new file or files and issue a new engagement letter for assignments which are different from this assignment.

Because this engagement is solely limited to our efforts for the County in Washington, D.C. and our representation of the County before the United States Congress, we hereby request that any potential conflict of interest between any client of our law firm and the County that would arise because of this engagement be waived by the County. By your signature below, you confirm that we can continue to represent any current clients who may now be adverse to the County and any future clients who may be adverse to the County. As a method to confirm this waiver, your counter-signature on this letter will also extend the conflict waiver contained in the earlier correspondence dated March 1, 2010, signed by William Snyder as Acting County Counselor, through the term of the engagement described herein and expand its coverage to match the "Scope of Representation" outlined herein. A copy of the March 1 letter signed by Mr. Snyder is attached as a reference.

We hope this letter and the attached Terms of Representation adequately explain the scope of our services as well as the payment terms of our fees. If they do and you are in agreement with them, please indicate your affirmation by signing the enclosed copy of this letter and returning it to me for our file:

We appreciate the opportunity to work with you and the County and look forward to a mutually beneficial relationship.

Sincerely,

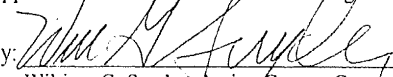

Peter S. Levi

TERMS OF REPRESENTATION

Confirmation of Services. Polsinelli Shughart PC is pleased to have this opportunity to serve you. The letter accompanying these Terms of Representation sets forth the scope of our representation. If what is set forth in the accompanying letter or in these Terms of Representation does not accurately describe your understanding of the services we are to perform or the terms for billing fees and expenses, please advise the attorney sending you the letter. Unless the attorney is notified promptly, we will assume that these Terms of Representation and the accompanying letter are acceptable to you.

Scope of Representation. The scope of our representation at this time is limited to providing only those services that are described in the accompanying letter. Unless otherwise noted, we will render those legal services that are necessary to the representation. No other services are intended to be provided without our mutual agreement. Later, if you determine to change materially the scope of our representation, we will need to document that in additional correspondence. Our representation is also limited to working on behalf of the client identified in the accompanying letter. The firm does not represent any other entity or individuals unless specifically stated in the accompanying letter.

Fees Not Contingent and Due Within 30 Days. Our fees are not contingent, and payment is due within 30 days of the receipt of the statement. If the firm has not received any comment about the statement within 30 days of its receipt, we will assume that you found it acceptable. As a means of encouraging timely payment of our statements, we reserve the right to add a late charge of 1.5% per month to bills that are past due, i.e., statements that remain unpaid for more than 30 days. Payment is to be made by check or draft payable to "Polsinelli Shughart PC."

If any of our statements remain unpaid for more than 90 days, we may, consistent with our ethical and court-imposed obligations, cease to perform services until satisfactory arrangements have been made for the payment of the unpaid statements and future fees. In fairness to our many clients who promptly pay their statements each month, we reserve the right to take appropriate action with respect to such delinquent accounts.

Methods of Communication. We are mindful of our obligation to preserve the client's confidential information. To that end, it is important that we agree from the outset what kinds of communications technology we will employ in the course of this engagement. The exchange of documents using the Internet, or even direct computer-to-computer data transfer, may involve some risk that information will be retrieved by third parties. Even the use of fax machines can cause problems if documents are sent to numbers where the documents sit in open view. As part of these general issues, please be aware that (1) e-mail communication is not a secure method of communication in all circumstances, (2) any e-mail that is sent to the client or by the client may be copied and held by various computers that it passes through as it goes from the sender to the recipient, (3) persons not participating in our communication may intercept such messages by improperly accessing the client's computer or the lawyer's computer, or even some computer not related to either the client or the law firm which the e-mail passes through. However, it has been our experience that most current business communications are accomplished by electronic means. The Polsinelli Shughart Law Firm will assume that you have no objections to such communications and consent to receive communications via electronic means unless you notify us in writing to the contrary.

Attorney-Client Communication. Our statements generally contain information protected by the attorney-client privilege. As the privilege could be deemed to have been waived if someone other than the client sees the privileged material, we recommend that you keep all of our statements in a separate file marked "Attorney-Client Privileged Materials," and keep the file in a secure place.

Payment of Third-Party Expenses. The firm prefers that you pay directly any significant outside expense items related to your work and, when possible, we will direct such expenses to you for payment. Therefore, we often ask our vendors to bill our clients directly rather than having us incur the expense and then including the amount on our statement.

Termination of Services and Representation. You may terminate our services at any time. Termination of our representation does not, however, relieve you from the responsibility of paying those fees and expenses incurred through the date we were notified of such termination. Similarly, we may withdraw from this representation for a number of reasons, including failure to promptly pay the amounts indicated in our statements; failure to disclose all facts material to our representation; failure to act in accordance with our advice; or development of one or more circumstances which, in our judgment, impair our ability to maintain an effective attorney-client relationship. Upon termination of our services and representation by the client or our withdrawal from representation of the client, we will be entitled to be paid for all services rendered and costs and expenses paid or incurred on behalf of the client to the date of termination or withdrawal. We also will be entitled to payment at our standard billing rates for any work required of us in connection with the turnover of files to the client or new counsel and the orderly transition of pending matters to new counsel, and we also will be entitled to reimbursement of all expenses incurred by us in connection with such work. We will return to the client all papers and property belonging to the client, upon payment of all amounts owed by the client to the firm. Papers and communications that are part of the firm's administrative process although they may concern do not belong to the client. We reserve the right to make, at the client's expense, and retain copies of all documents generated or received by us in the course of our representation of a client. If a client requests documents from us, either during the course of our representation of the client or in connection with or following termination of or withdrawal from such representation, such documents will be provided at the client's expense, including both reproduction costs and professional fees for time expended in reviewing files to locate requested documents.

Estimates of the Cost of Services to be Performed. From time to time, you may ask us to make an estimate of the cost of completing all or part of your matter. Because it is often difficult to estimate at the beginning of a project how much time it will take to complete it, we treat any estimate as an "educated guess" and not as an assurance that we will be able to do the work for the estimated price. When an estimate is given, we will advise you when we are nearing the estimated price, and we will also advise you if we become aware that the estimate may be exceeded. At that time, you can decide whether to terminate our work on the project, modify the project, or proceed to completion with a different cost estimate.

Completion of Matter. After a particular matter is completed, we do not (unless you specifically request in writing that we do so) undertake to continue to review that matter and update you concerning legal developments, such as changes in applicable laws or regulations. If you do ask us to review a specific matter on which we have previously worked, we will consider that to be a new representation. Thus, while we may, from time to time, call to your attention issues or legal developments that might be relevant to your operations, we are not undertaking to do so as a part of this representation.

Unless previously terminated, our representation will end upon our sending you our final statement for services rendered with respect to this matter. If, upon any termination or completion of a matter, you wish to have your documents in our possession delivered to you, please advise us.

Client Confidences/Description of Client/Representation in Other Matters/Future Conflicts.

Our clients are engaged in a wide variety of businesses throughout the world. From time to time, we represent clients who are industry competitors. In order to ensure confidentiality, we will not (unless you specifically grant us the authority to do so) discuss or otherwise make available to anyone, including other clients, any confidential information about you, your business or our work on your behalf and will not discuss or otherwise make available to you any confidential information about any of our other clients (if any), their business, or any work on their behalf.

Polsinelli Shughart is a large law firm and represents many other companies and individuals. For example, our firm has a national debtor-creditor, workout, and bankruptcy practice. To avoid any misunderstanding in connection with our current (and any future) engagement with the client, we confirm that we have not been asked to act as counsel for anyone other than the client described in the Engagement Letter or, if the client is a corporation, any subsidiary, parent, affiliate, or other member of the client's corporate group by acting as counsel to the client.

It is possible that during the time that we are representing the client, some of our other present or future clients will have disputes or transactions with the client referenced in the accompanying Engagement Letter. Therefore, as a condition to the firm undertaking this engagement, the client agrees that we may continue to represent or may undertake in the future to represent existing or new clients in any matter that is not substantially related to our work for you even if the interests of such other clients in those other matters are directly adverse to you.

Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, we will have the right to represent debtors, creditors' committees, creditors, shareholders, or other parties in interest in other matters, including in bankruptcy, workout, and other debtor-creditor matters, even when the client is a creditor or is otherwise interested in or potentially interested in such other matter. This would include, but not be limited to: matters, negotiations, and disputes that may arise under loan and security agreements and related documents; negotiation and disputes regarding claims, liens, debtor-in-possession financing, lift of stay issues, plan of reorganization issues; and other issues in which the client may have an interest. The client's signature on the enclosed copy of this letter will constitute its consent to any and all such conflicting representations. We agree, however, that the client's prospective consent to conflicting representation contained in the preceding sentence shall not apply in any instance where, as a result of our representation of the client, we have obtained proprietary or other confidential information of a non-public nature, that, if known to such other client, could be used in any such other matter by such client to the client's material disadvantage.

No Guarantee. We will perform our professional services on your behalf to the best of our ability, but we cannot make and have not made any guarantees regarding the outcome of our work on this project. Any expressions by us about the outcome of this project are our best professional views only and are limited by our factual knowledge at the time they are expressed.

Binding Agreement. The accompanying Engagement Letter and these Terms Of Representation represent the entire agreement between the client and the Polsinelli Shughart Law Firm with respect to this Engagement. By signing the Engagement Letter, the client acknowledges that the Engagement Letter and these Terms Of Representation have been carefully reviewed and its content understood and that the client agrees to be bound by all of its terms and conditions. Furthermore, the client acknowledges that the Polsinelli Shughart Law Firm has made no representations or guarantees to you regarding the outcome of your representation or the time necessary to resolve this matter. No change or waiver of any of the provisions of the Engagement Letter or these Terms Of Representation shall be binding on either you or the law firm unless the change is in writing and signed by both.

Re: Engagement Letter

Dear Mr. Sanders:

We are pleased and honored that you have chosen Polsinelli Shughart PC to represent Jackson County, Missouri (the "County") in connection with the matter described below. We thank you for your expression of confidence in us.

This letter is intended to describe the scope of the services our firm has been retained to provide during this engagement as well as the terms and conditions of the engagement. To that end, we have attached our standard Terms of Representation which sets forth our firm's established general policies and practices regarding representation of clients and the payment of our fees.

1. Client. We understand that the County will be our client. In that regard, while we will report to the County Executive from time to time and while we will work with you and other members of your team on a frequent basis, we understand that no officer, director or employee of the County will be our client.

2. Scope of Representation. Regarding the scope of our representation, we understand that we are being retained to represent the County and to perform the following legal services:

Provide legal advice and representation relating to the federal legislative lobbying in accordance with Request for Proposal No. 14-10 and the response submitted by Polsinelli Shughart on April 6, 2010.

In order to enable us to provide the services set forth in this letter, you will disclose fully and accurately all facts and keep us apprised of all developments relating to this matter. You will also cooperate fully with us and be available to attend meetings, conferences, hearings and other

4. Fees and Expenses. We will provide these services on a retainer basis at a cost of Ninety Three Thousand Three Hundred Thirty Three and 28/100 Dollars ($93,333.28), including expenses, for the period commencing May 1, 2010 and ending December 31, 2010. In accordance with the terms of Request for Proposal No. 14-10, this engagement shall be for eight months, a four month and two twelve month renewal options.

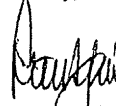

We look forward to representing the County in this matter. When you advise us otherwise, we will give you a new file or files and issue a new engagement letter for assignments which are different from this assignment.

Because this engagement is solely limited to our efforts for the County in Washington, D.C. and our representation of the County before the United States Congress, we hereby request that any potential conflict of interest between any client of our law firm and the County that would arise because of this engagement be waived by the County. By your signature below, you confirm that we can continue to represent any current clients who may now be adverse to the County and any future clients who may be adverse to the County. As a method to confirm this waiver, your counter-signature on this letter will also extend the conflict waiver contained in the earlier correspondence dated March 1, 2010, signed by William Snyder as Acting County Counselor, through the term of the engagement described herein and expand its coverage to match the "Scope of Representation" outlined herein. A copy of the March 1 letter signed by Mr. Snyder is attached as a reference.

We hope this letter and the attached Terms of Representation adequately explain the scope of our services as well as the payment terms of our fees. If they do and you are in agreement with them, please indicate your affirmation by signing the enclosed copy of this letter and returning it to me for our file.

TERMS OF REPRESENTATION

Confirmation of Services. Polsinelli Shughart PC is pleased to have this opportunity to serve you. The letter accompanying these Terms of Representation sets forth the scope of our representation. If what is set forth in the accompanying letter or in these Terms of Representation does not accurately describe your understanding of the services we are to perform or the terms for billing fees and expenses, please advise the attorney sending you the letter. Unless the attorney is notified promptly, we will assume that these Terms of Representation and the accompanying letter are acceptable to you.

Polsinelli Shughart is a large law firm and represents many other companies and individuals. For example, our firm has a national debtor-creditor, workout, and bankruptcy practice. To avoid any misunderstanding in connection with our current (and any future) engagement with the client, we confirm that we have not been asked to act as counsel for anyone other than the client described in the Engagement Letter or, if the client is a corporation, any subsidiary, parent, affiliate, or other member of the client's corporate group by acting as counsel to the client.

It is possible that during the time that we are representing the client, some of our other present or future clients will have disputes or transactions with the client referenced in the accompanying Engagement Letter. Therefore, as a condition to the firm undertaking this engagement, the client agrees that we may continue to represent or may undertake in the future to represent existing or new clients in any matter that is not substantially related to our work for you even if the interests of such other clients in those other matters are directly adverse to you.

Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, we will have the right to represent debtors, creditors' committees, creditors, shareholders, or other parties in interest in other matters, including in bankruptcy, workout, and other debtor-creditor matters, even when the client is a creditor or is otherwise interested in or potentially interested in such other matter. This would include, but not be limited to: matters, negotiations, and disputes that may arise under loan and security agreements and related documents; negotiation and disputes regarding claims, liens, debtor-in-possession financing, lift of stay issues, plan of reorganization issues; and other issues in which the client may have an interest. The client's signature on the enclosed copy of this letter will constitute its consent to any and all such conflicting representations. We agree, however, that the client's prospective consent to conflicting representation contained in the preceding sentence shall not apply in any instance where, as a result of our representation of the client, we have obtained proprietary or other confidential information of a non-public nature, that, if known to such other client, could be used in any such other matter by such client to the client's material disadvantage.

No Guarantee. We will perform our professional services on your behalf to the best of our ability, but we cannot make and have not made any guarantees regarding the outcome of our work on this project. Any expressions by us about the outcome of this project are our best professional views only and are limited by our factual knowledge at the time they are expressed.

Binding Agreement. THIS AGREEMENT, made and entered into on this 6th day of January, 2014, by and between JACKSON COUNTY, MISSOURI, hereinafter called "the County" and POLSINELLI, 1401 Eye Street, Northwest, Suite 800, Washington, DC 20005, hereinafter called "Polsinelli."

WITNESSETH:

WHEREAS, Polsinelli has agreed to provide specialized legal advice and representation to the County in accordance with the terms, conditions, and covenants as set forth in this Agreement; and,

WHEREAS, Polsinelli and the County have agreed to be bound by the provisions hereof,

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of the foregoing and the terms and provisions herein contained, County and Polsinelli respectively promise, covenant, and agree with each other as follows:

1. Polsinelli shall provide specialized legal advice and representation to the County through lead co-counsels Anita Estell and Peter Levi specifically relating to federal legislative lobbying, particularly with regard to matters related to rail and mass transit, in accordance with Polsinelli's Response to the County's Request for Proposals No. 78-13, and as more specifically described in the Scope of Services from page 21 of RFP 78-13, attached hereto as Exhibit A and incorporated herein by reference. Other members of the firm may be called upon from time to time to lend their assistance, subject to the provisions of Sections 3 and 4 below. Polsinelli shall work at the direction of the County Executive.

2. Polsinelli shall work as an independent contractor and not as an employee of the County. Polsinelli shall be subject to the direction of the County only as to the result to be accomplished and not as to the means and methods for accomplishing the result. Polsinelli shall report all earnings received hereunder as gross income, and be responsible for its own Federal, State, and City withholding taxes and all other taxes, and operate its business independent of the business of the County except as required by this Agreement.

3. The County shall pay Polsinelli for services rendered under this Agreement, a fee of $200,000.00. Polsinelli shall bill County at the rate of $16,666.66 monthly for its services, and County shall pay Polsinelli promptly upon receipt of Polsinelli's statement.

4. Polsinelli shall be responsible for all of the expenses of its work under this Agreement.

5. This Agreement shall be effective as of January 6, 2014, and continue until January 5, 2015, ("Initial Term") unless earlier terminated as hereinafter provided. Following the Initial Term, and at the agreement of both parties, this Agreement may be renewed for up to four additional twelve-month periods ("Renewal Terms"), pursuant to the terms and conditions of RFP 78-13. Termination of this Agreement shall not constitute a waiver of the rights or obligations which County or Polsinelli may be entitled to receive or be obligated to perform under this Agreement. Should this Agreement terminate, all books, brochures, fliers, lists, and all other County materials must be delivered and returned by the Polsinelli to the County within three (3) days of the demand of the County.

6. Polsinelli promises, covenants, and agrees, in addition to all other provisions contained herein that during the term of this Agreement, and for a period of six (6) months thereafter, Polsinelli shall not do either of the following:

- (a) assign any portion or the whole of this contract without the prior written consent of the County;

- (b) utilize the form or substance of any Agreement or documents of every description used in any and all business operations of the County.

In the event Polsinelli breaches this provision the County shall be entitled to collect any and all profits, gains, benefits and properties of every description received by Polsinelli as a result of said breach. Further, the County shall be entitled to collect any and all profits, gains, benefits, and properties of every description received by Polsinelli as a result of said breach.

7. Polsinelli promises, covenants, and agrees to faithfully observe and perform all of the terms, provisions and requirements of this Agreement and Polsinelli's failure to so observe and perform in accordance with said terms, provisions, and requirements of this Agreement shall represent and constitute a breach of this Agreement and in such event, Polsinelli consents and agrees as follows:

- (a) The County may without prior notice to Polsinelli immediately terminate this Agreement; and,
- (b) In addition to the foregoing, the County shall be entitled to petition and receive from any Court a temporary and/or permanent injunction against Polsinelli; and,
- (c) In addition to all of the foregoing, the County shall be entitled to collect from Polsinelli all costs incurred by the County as a result of said breach including reasonable attorney's fees, reasonable accountant's fees, investigation expenses, court costs and sheriff's mileage and service fees without limitation by enumeration.

8. If any covenant or other provision of this Agreement is invalid, or incapable of being enforced, by reasons of any rule of law or public policy, all other conditions and provisions of this Agreement shall nevertheless remain in full force and effect and no covenant or provision shall be deemed dependent upon any other covenant or provision unless so expressed herein.

9. Pursuant to §285.530.1, RSMo, Polsinelli assures that it does not knowingly employ, hire for employment, or continue to employ an unauthorized alien to perform work within the State of Missouri and/or Jackson County, and shall affirm, by sworn affidavit and provision of documentation, its enrollment and participation in a federal work authorization program with respect to the employees working in connection with the contracted services. Further, Polsinelli shall sign an affidavit, attached hereto and incorporated herein as Exhibit B, affirming that it does not knowingly employ any person who is an unauthorized alien in connection with the contracted services.

10. This Agreement, together with the County's RFP and Polsinelli 's Response, incorporates the entire understanding and agreement of the parties.

3.4.3: Ability to Perform

Moving Forward: How We Plan to Achieve County Objectives in the Future

- Acting as advocates for and representing the County before Congress and other federally elected and appointed officials
- Assisting the County in finalizing its federal program to include pursuing the passage and/or defeat of federal legislation, policies, programs or directives that may directly impact Jackson County

- Confer with the County Executive and County Legislature at least twice during the contract year and more often as the County sees fit for such briefings and dialogue as are necessary
- Monitoring and analyzing legislation filed in the General Assembly that affects the County's interests

Providing Additional Administrative Support

Missouri Offices (including Kansas City, MO)

Polsinelli is proud to have a strong presence in Missouri. As a national law firm with headquarters in Kansas City, Missouri, Polsinelli is committed to seeing the region and state thrive. We have seven offices in the bi-state region. Our Kansas City office houses experienced attorneys and professionals with expertise in transportation, labor and employment, and state and local public policy among other areas. The Kansas City office will remain available to County officials for meetings, briefings, and other state-centered events and activities. Project co-lead Pete Levi and Shareholder Mary Jane Judy are located in the Kansas City office, providing the County with experienced and attentive Polsinelli liaisons on the ground in Missouri.

Washington, DC Office

In our downtown Washington, DC office, we have meeting space that is available to the County. Our venue often accommodates policy briefings, luncheons, receptions and fundraisers. As the County is already aware, we also assist in preparing hand-outs, legislative language, letters of request, and other materials.

Preparing for What's on the Federal Horizon

As the County continues to refine its ambitious multimodal transportation plan, it is critical to remain apprised of actions and deliberations at the national level regarding transportation funding. There are many moving parts to the County's plan including the possibility of commuter rail, light rail, bus enhancements, trails, and streetcars. Federal funding and programs for these varying modes of transportation engage several different agencies and could be affected by several pieces of federal legislation. Below is a brief discussion of a few measures likely to receive congressional consideration in the coming year:

MAP-21	The federal surface transportation law will expire at the end of September 2014. There is a possibility that draft reauthorization legislation will be made available by early spring to provide sufficient time for debate. Sen. Barbara Boxer and Rep. Bill Shuster (chairs of the relevant authorizing committees) will look to build on their success with bipartisan water resources legislation to reauthorize MAP-21 on time.
Building and Renewing Infrastructure for Development and Growth in Employment (BRIDGE) Act of 2013	This piece of legislation would establish an independent Infrastructure Financing Authority (IFA) to complement existing infrastructure funding mechanisms. The IFA would receive an initial $10 billion investment to help localities and states fund road, bridge, rail, and port projects. Both Missouri senators (Claire McCaskill and Roy Blunt) are co-sponsors of the legislation.
Transportation and Regional Infrastructure Project (TRIP) Bonds Act of 2013	The legislation, introduced by Sen. Ron Wyden (D-OR), would provide $50 billion in new transportation infrastructure funding through bonds to aid state and local governments in financing projects related to all modes of transportation, including transit systems and roads.

3.4.4: Additional Services

The County already is aware of the unique suite of services that Polsinelli provides. With our strong presence in Missouri, the Polsinelli representation takes on a collaborative character that is not easily duplicated. While serving as the County's federal representative, we are able to easily monitor state and local issues and aid the County in working with the Missouri Governor's office, state legislature as well as the local government in Kansas City. Our professionals have developed excellent working relationships with state legislators, agency officials, and their staffs.

We also have worked closely with Jackson County officials and staff for several years on strategies for the commuter rail project, and are in a unique position to collaborate with key stakeholders regarding the interplay between the Kansas City streetcar and the County's multimodal transportation plan. Polsinelli has a sophisticated substantive and procedural understanding, as well as a unique institutional memory that can inform future plans for County transportation expansion.

As Jackson County residents, we remain committed to the common goals of modernized and vibrant public transportation, robust economic and community development, enhanced public safety and general regional revitalization because we are in and of the local community. We seek the opportunity to continue serving the County, not only as advocacy professionals, but as concerned residents with a vested interest in the County's success.

EXHIBIT B

WORK AUTHORIZATION AFFIDAVIT

As a condition for any service provided to the County, a business entity shall, by sworn affidavit and provision of documentation, affirm its enrollment and participation in a federal work authorization program with respect to the employees working in connection with the contracted services.

Business entity, as defined in section 285.525, RSMo pertaining to section 285.530, RSMo, is any person or group of persons performing or engaging in any activity, enterprise, profession, or occupation for gain, benefit, advantage, or livelihood. The term "business entity" shall include but not be limited to self-employed individuals, partnerships, corporations, contractors, and subcontractors. The term "business entity" shall include any business entity that possesses a business permit, license, or tax certificate issued by the state, any business entity that is exempt by law from obtaining such a business permit, and any business entity that is operating unlawfully without such a business permit.

Every such business entity shall complete the following affidavit affirming that it does not knowingly employ any person who is an unauthorized alien in connection with the contracted services. The completed affidavit must be returned as a part of the contract documentation.

This affidavit affirms that Polsinelli, is enrolled in, and is currently participating in, E-verify or any other equivalent electronic verification of work authorization operated by the United States Department of Homeland Security under the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986 (IRCA); and, Polsinelli, does not knowingly employ any person who is an unauthorized alien in conjunction with the contracted services.

In Affirmation thereof, the facts stated above are true and correct. (The undersigned understands that false statements made in this filing are subject to the penalties provided under section 575.040, RSMo.)

WHEREAS, the County has a need for specialized advice and consulting related to federal legislative lobbying particularly with regard to matters related to rail and mass transit; and,

WHEREAS, the County awarded a contract on Request for Proposals No. 78-13 for these services to Polsinelli and entered into an Agreement dated January 6, 2014, ("Initial Term") for the period of January 6, 2014, to January 5, 2015, with the option to renew for four additional twelve-months periods ("Renewal Terms" beginning January 1, 2016); and,

WHEREAS, County and Polsinelli now desire to exercise its second option to renew this Agreement for an additional twelve-month period ("Second Renewal Term"); and,

WHEREAS, Polsinelli and the County have agreed to be bound by the provisions hereof,

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of the foregoing and the terms and provisions herein contained, County and Polsinelli respectively promise, covenant, and agree with each other as follows:

1. SCOPE OF SERVICES. Polsinelli shall provide specialized legal advice and representation to the County through lead co-counsels Alan Wheat and Peter Levi specifically relating to general federal legislative lobbying, particularly with regard to matters related to rail and mass transit, in accordance with Polsinelli's Response to the County's Request for Proposals No. 78-13, and as more specifically described in the Scope of Services from page 21 of RFP 78-13, attached hereto as Exhibit A and Engagement Letter attached hereto as Exhibit C, and incorporated herein by reference. Other members of the firm may be called upon from time to time to lend their assistance, subject to the provisions of Sections 3 and 4 below. Polsinelli shall work at the direction of the County Executive.

2. Polsinelli shall work as an independent contractor and not as an employee of the County. Polsinelli shall be subject to the direction of the County only as to the result to be accomplished and not as to the means and methods for accomplishing the result. Polsinelli shall report all earnings received hereunder as gross income, and be responsible for its own Federal, State, and City withholding taxes and all other taxes, and operate its business independent of the business of the County except as required by this Agreement.

3. The County shall pay Polsinelli for services rendered under this Agreement, a fee of $190,000.00. Polsinelli shall bill County at the rate of $15,833.33 monthly for its services. Payment shall be made upon receipt of Consultant's invoice, except that payment for the month of January cannot be made until after adoption of County's 2016 annual budget.

4. Polsinelli shall be responsible for all of the expenses of its work under this Agreement and costs relating to educational and fact-finding activities engaged in by County officials pursuant to the goals of the scope of work.

5. This Agreement shall be effective as of January 1, 2016, and continue until December 31, 2016, unless earlier terminated as hereinafter provided. Following the this renewal, and at the agreement of both parties, this Agreement may be renewed for up to two additional twelve-month periods ("Renewal Terms"), pursuant to the terms and conditions of RFP 78-13. Termination of this Agreement shall not constitute a waiver of the rights or obligations which County or Polsinelli may be entitled to receive or be obligated to perform under this Agreement. Should this Agreement terminate, all books, brochures, fliers, lists, and all other County materials must be delivered and returned by the Polsinelli to the County within three (3) days of the demand of the County.

6. Polsinelli promises, covenants, and agrees, in addition to all other provisions contained herein that during the term of this Agreement, and for a period of six (6) months thereafter, Polsinelli shall not do either of the following:

- (a) assign any portion or the whole of this contract without the prior written consent of the County;
- (b) utilize the form or substance of any Agreement or documents of every description used in any and all business operations of the County.

In the event Polsinelli breaches this provision the County shall be entitled to collect any and all profits, gains, benefits and properties of every description received by Polsinelli as a result of said breach. Further, the County shall be entitled to collect any and all profits, gains, benefits, and properties of every description received by Polsinelli as a result of said breach.

7. Polsinelli promises, covenants, and agrees to faithfully observe and perform all of the terms, provisions and requirements of this Agreement and Polsinelli's failure to so observe and perform in accordance with said terms, provisions, and requirements of this Agreement shall represent and constitute a breach of this Agreement and in such event, Polsinelli consents and agrees as follows:

- (a) The County may without prior notice to Polsinelli immediately terminate this Agreement; and,
- (b) In addition to the foregoing, the County shall be entitled to petition and receive from any Court a temporary and/or permanent injunction against Polsinelli; and,
- (c) In addition to all of the foregoing, the County shall be entitled to collect from Polsinelli all costs incurred by the County as a result of said breach including reasonable attorney's fees, reasonable accountant's fees, investigation expenses, court costs and sheriff's mileage and service fees without limitation by enumeration.

8. If any covenant or other provision of this Agreement is invalid, or incapable of being enforced, by reasons of any rule of law or public policy, all other conditions and provisions of this Agreement shall nevertheless remain in full force and effect and no covenant or provision shall be deemed dependent upon any other covenant or provision unless so expressed herein.

9. Pursuant to §285.530.1, RSMo, Polsinelli assures that it does not knowingly employ, hire for employment, or continue to employ an unauthorized alien to perform work within the State of Missouri and/or Jackson County, and shall affirm, by sworn affidavit and provision of documentation, its enrollment and participation in a federal work authorization program with respect to the employees working in connection with the contracted services. Further, Polsinelli shall sign an affidavit, attached hereto and incorporated herein as Exhibit B, affirming that it does not knowingly employ any person who is an unauthorized alien in connection with the contracted services.

10. This Agreement, together with the County's RFP and Polsinelli's Response, including Exhibit A incorporates the entire understanding and agreement of the parties.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties hereto have signed and executed this Agreement on the date first above written.

3.4.3: Ability to Perform

Moving Forward: How We Plan to Achieve County Objectives in the Future

Satisfying the Scope of Services

Polsinelli brings a vigorous and results-oriented work ethic to all of its public policy representations. We will satisfy all of the requirements listed in the Scope of Services as described below:

- Acting as advocates for and representing the County before Congress and other federally elected and appointed officials
- Assisting the County in finalizing its federal program to include pursuing the passage and/or defeat of federal legislation, policies, programs or directives that may directly impact Jackson County
- Providing weekly reports of bills of County interest in formats acceptable to the County prioritized beginning with bills of general County interest
- Providing weekly reports of the activities that the Lobbyist has engaged in to further the Legislative priorities of Jackson County
- Providing advice and assistance on special projects that may arise during the year that entails Lobbying or access to Federal Officials
- Confer with the County Executive and County Legislature at least twice during the contract year and more often as the County sees fit for such briefings and dialogue as are necessary
- Monitoring and analyzing legislation filed in the General Assembly that affects the County's interests

Providing Additional Administrative Support

Missouri Offices (including Kansas City, MO)

Polsinelli is proud to have a strong presence in Missouri. As a national law firm with headquarters in Kansas City, Missouri, Polsinelli is committed to seeing the region and state thrive. We have seven offices in the bi-state region. Our Kansas City office houses experienced attorneys and professionals with expertise in transportation, labor and employment, and state and local public policy among other areas. The Kansas City office will remain available to County officials for meetings, briefings, and other state-centered events and activities. Project co-lead Pete Levi and Shareholder Mary Jane Judy are located in the Kansas City office, providing the County with experienced and attentive Polsinelli liaisons on the ground in Missouri.

Washington, DC Office

In our downtown Washington, DC office, we have meeting space that is available to the County. Our venue often accommodates policy briefings, luncheons, receptions and fundraisers. As the County is already aware, we also assist in preparing hand-outs, legislative language, letters of request, and other materials.

Preparing for What's on the Federal Horizon

As the County continues to refine its ambitious multimodal transportation plan, it is critical to remain apprised of actions and deliberations at the national level regarding transportation funding. There are many moving parts to the County's plan including the possibility of commuter rail, light rail, bus enhancements, trails, and streetcars. Federal funding and programs for these varying modes of transportation engage several different agencies and could be affected by several pieces of federal legislation. Below is a brief discussion of a few measures likely to receive congressional consideration in the coming year:

MAP-21	The federal surface transportation law will expire at the end of September 2014. There is a possibility that draft reauthorization legislation will be made available by early spring to provide sufficient time for debate. Sen. Barbara Boxer and Rep. Bill Shuster (chairs of the relevant authorizing committees) will look to build on their success with bipartisan water resources legislation to reauthorize MAP-21 on time.
Building and Renewing Infrastructure for Development and Growth in Employment (BRIDGE) Act of 2013	This piece of legislation would establish an independent Infrastructure Financing Authority (IFA) to complement existing infrastructure funding mechanisms. The IFA would receive an initial $10 billion investment to help localities and states fund road, bridge, rail, and port projects. Both Missouri senators (Claire McCaskill and Roy Blunt) are co-sponsors of the legislation.
Transportation and Regional Infrastructure Project (TRIP) Bonds Act of 2013	The legislation, introduced by Sen. Ron Wyden (D-OR), would provide $50 billion in new transportation infrastructure funding through bonds to aid state and local governments in financing projects related to all modes of transportation, including transit systems and roads.

3.4.4: Additional Services

The County already is aware of the unique suite of services that Polsinelli provides. With our strong presence in Missouri, the Polsinelli representation takes on a collaborative character that is not easily duplicated. While serving as the County's federal representative, we are able to easily monitor state and local issues and aid the County in working with the Missouri Governor's office, state legislature as well as the local government in Kansas City. Our professionals have developed excellent working relationships with state legislators, agency officials, and their staffs.

We also have worked closely with Jackson County officials and staff for several years on strategies for the commuter rail project, and are in a unique position to collaborate with key stakeholders regarding the interplay between the Kansas City streetcar and the County's multimodal transportation plan. Polsinelli has a sophisticated substantive and procedural understanding, as well as a unique institutional memory that can inform future plans for County transportation expansion.

As Jackson County residents, we remain committed to the common goals of modernized and vibrant public transportation, robust economic and community development, enhanced public safety and general regional revitalization because we are in and of the local community. We seek the opportunity to continue serving the County, not only as advocacy professionals, but as concerned residents with a vested interest in the County's success.

EXHIBIT B

WORK AUTHORIZATION AFFIDAVIT

As a condition for any service provided to the County, a business entity shall, by sworn affidavit and provision of documentation, affirm its enrollment and participation in a federal work authorization program with respect to the employees working in connection with the contracted services.

Business entity, as defined in section 285.525, RSMo pertaining to section 285.530, RSMo, is any person or group of persons performing or engaging in any activity, enterprise, profession, or occupation for gain, benefit, advantage, or livelihood. The term "business entity" shall include but not be limited to self-employed individuals, partnerships, corporations, contractors, and subcontractors. The term "business entity" shall include any business entity that possesses a business permit, license, or tax certificate issued by the state, any business entity that is exempt by law from obtaining such a business permit, and any business entity that is operating unlawfully without such a business permit.

Re: Engagement Letter

Dear Mr. Sanders:

We are pleased and honored that you have chosen Polsinelli Shughart PC to represent Jackson County, Missouri (the "County") in connection with the matter described below. We thank you for your expression of confidence in us.

This letter is intended to describe the scope of the services our firm has been retained to provide during this engagement as well as the terms and conditions of the engagement. To that end, we have attached our standard Terms of Representation which sets forth our firm's established general policies and practices regarding representation of clients and the payment of our fees.

1. Client. We understand that the County will be our client. In that regard, while we will report to the County Executive from time to time and while we will work with you and other members of your team on a frequent basis, we understand that no officer, director or employee of the County will be our client.

2. Scope of Representation. Regarding the scope of our representation, we understand that we are being retained to represent the County and to perform the following legal services:

Provide legal advice and representation relating to the federal legislative lobbying in accordance with Request for Proposal No. 14-10 and the response submitted by Polsinelli Shughart on April 6, 2010.

3. Responsibilities. We will provide legal counsel and assistance in accordance with this letter and will rely upon information and guidance you provide to us. We will keep you reasonably informed of progress and developments, and respond to your inquiries.

In order to enable us to provide the services set forth in this letter, you will disclose fully and accurately all facts and keep us apprised of all developments relating to this matter. You will also cooperate fully with us and be available to attend meetings, conferences, hearings and other proceedings on reasonable notice, and stay reasonably informed on all developments relating to this matter.

4. Fees and Expenses. We will provide these services on a retainer basis at a cost of Ninety Three Thousand Three Hundred Thirty Three and 28/100 Dollars ($93,333.28), including expenses, for the period commencing May 1, 2010 and ending December 31, 2010. Anita Estell, a Shareholder in our Public Policy Group, will be your lead counsel in our Washington, D.C. office and I will be your lead counsel in Kansas City. In accordance with the terms of Request for Proposal No. 14-10, this engagement shall be for eight months, a four month and two twelve month renewal options.

We look forward to representing the County in this matter. When you advise us otherwise, we will give you a new file or files and issue a new engagement letter for assignments which are different from this assignment.

Because this engagement is solely limited to our efforts for the County in Washington, D.C. and our representation of the County before the United States Congress, we hereby request that any potential conflict of interest between any client of our law firm and the County that would arise because of this engagement be waived by the County. By your signature below, you confirm that we can continue to represent any current clients who may now be adverse to the County and any future clients who may be adverse to the County. As a method to confirm this waiver, your counter-signature on this letter will also extend the conflict waiver contained in the earlier correspondence dated March 1, 2010, signed by William Snyder as Acting County Counselor, through the term of the engagement described herein and expand its coverage to match the "Scope of Representation" outlined herein. A copy of the March 1 letter signed by Mr. Snyder is attached as a reference.

We hope this letter and the attached Terms of Representation adequately explain the scope of our services as well as the payment terms of our fees. If they do and you are in agreement with them, please indicate your affirmation by signing the enclosed copy of this letter and returning it to me for our files.

We appreciate the opportunity to work with you and the County and look forward to a mutually beneficial relationship.

Sincerely,

Peter S. Gey

TERMS OF REPRESENTATION

Confirmation of Services. Polsinelli Shughart PC is pleased to have this opportunity to serve you. The letter accompanying these Terms of Representation sets forth the scope of our representation. If what is set forth in the accompanying letter or in these Terms of Representation does not accurately describe your understanding of the services we are to perform or the terms for billing fees and expenses, please advise the attorney sending you the letter. Unless the attorney is notified promptly, we will assume that these Terms of Representation and the accompanying letter are acceptable to you.

Scope of Representation. The scope of our representation at this time is limited to providing only those services that are described in the accompanying letter. Unless otherwise noted, we will render those legal services that are necessary to the representation. No other services are intended to be provided without our mutual agreement. Later, if you determine to change materially the scope of our representation, we will need to document that in additional correspondence. Our representation is also limited to working on behalf of the client identified in the accompanying letter. The firm does not represent any other entity or individuals unless specifically stated in the accompanying letter.

Fees Not Contingent and Due Within 30 Days. Our fees are not contingent, and payment is due within 30 days of the receipt of the statement. If the firm has not received any comment about the statement within 30 days of its receipt, we will assume that you found it acceptable. As a means of encouraging timely payment of our statements, we reserve the right to add a late charge of 1.5% per month to bills that are past due, i.e., statements that remain unpaid for more than 30 days. Payment is to be made by check or draft payable to "Polsinelli Shughart PC."

If any of our statements remain unpaid for more than 90 days, we may, consistent with our ethical and court-imposed obligations, cease to perform services until satisfactory arrangements have been made for the payment of the unpaid statements and future fees. In fairness to our many clients who promptly pay their statements each month, we reserve the right to take appropriate action with respect to such delinquent accounts.

Methods of Communication. We are mindful of our obligation to preserve the client's confidential information. To that end, it is important that we agree from the outset what kinds of communications technology we will employ in the course of this engagement. The exchange of documents using the Internet, or even direct computer-to-computer data transfer, may involve some risk that information will be retrieved by third parties. Even the use of fax machines can cause problems if documents are sent to numbers where the documents sit in open view. As part of these general issues, please be aware that (1) e-mail communication is not a secure method of communication in all circumstances, (2) any e-mail that is sent to the client or by the client may be copied and held by various computers that it passes through as it goes from the sender to the recipient, (3) persons not participating in our communication may intercept such messages by improperly accessing the client's computer or the lawyer's computer, or even some computer not related to either the client or the law firm which the e-mail passes through. However, it has been our experience that most current business communications are accomplished by electronic means. The Polsinelli Shughart Law Firm will assume that you have no objections to such communications and consent to receive communications via electronic means unless you notify us in writing to the contrary.

Attorney-Client Communication. Our statements generally contain information protected by the attorney-client privilege. As the privilege could be deemed to have been waived if someone other than the client sees the privileged material, we recommend that you keep all of our statements in a separate file marked "Attorney-Client Privileged Materials," and keep the file in a secure place.

Payment of Third-Party Expenses. The firm prefers that you pay directly any significant outside expense items related to your work and, when possible, we will direct such expenses to you for payment. Therefore, we often ask our vendors to bill our clients directly rather than having us incur the expense and then including the amount on our statement.

Termination of Services and Representation. You may terminate our services at any time. Termination of our representation does not, however, relieve you from the responsibility of paying those fees and expenses incurred through the date we were notified of such termination. Similarly, we may withdraw from this representation for a number of reasons, including failure to promptly pay the amounts indicated in our statements; failure to disclose all facts material to our representation; failure to act in accordance with our advice; or development of one or more circumstances which, in our judgment, impair our ability to maintain an effective attorney-client relationship. Upon termination of our services and representation by the client or our withdrawal from representation of the client, we will be entitled to be paid for all services rendered and costs and expenses paid or incurred on behalf of the client to the date of termination or withdrawal. We also will be entitled to payment at our standard billing rates for any work required of us in connection with the turnover of files to the client or new counsel and the orderly transition of pending matters to new counsel, and we also will be entitled to reimbursement of all expenses incurred by us in connection with such work. We will return to the client all papers and property belonging to the client, upon payment of all amounts owed by the client to the firm. Papers and communications that are part of the firm's administrative process although they may concern do not belong to the client. We reserve the right to make, at the client's expense, and retain copies of all documents generated or received by us in the course of our representation of a client. If a client requests documents from us, either during the course of our representation of the client or in connection with or following termination of or withdrawal from such representation, such documents will be provided at the client's expense, including both reproduction costs and professional fees for time expended in reviewing files to locate requested documents.

Estimates of the Cost of Services to be Performed. From time to time, you may ask us to make an estimate of the cost of completing all or part of your matter. Because it is often difficult to estimate at the beginning of a project how much time it will take to complete it, we treat any estimate as an "educated guess" and not as an assurance that we will be able to do the work for the estimated price. When an estimate is given, we will advise you when we are nearing the estimated price, and we will also advise you if we become aware that the estimate may be exceeded. At that time, you can decide whether to terminate our work on the project, modify the project, or proceed to completion with a different cost estimate.

Completion of Matter. After a particular matter is completed, we do not (unless you specifically request in writing that we do so) undertake to continue to review that matter and update you concerning legal developments, such as changes in applicable laws or regulations. If you do ask us to review a specific matter on which we have previously worked, we will consider that to be a new representation. Thus, while we may, from time to time, call to your attention issues or legal developments that might be relevant to your operations, we are not undertaking to do so as a part of this representation.

Unless previously terminated, our representation will end upon our sending you our final statement for services rendered with respect to this matter. If, upon any termination or completion of a matter, you wish to have your documents in our possession delivered to you, please advise us.

Client Confidences/Description of Client/Representation in Other Matters/Future Conflicts. Our clients are engaged in a wide variety of businesses throughout the world. From time to time, we represent clients who are industry competitors. In order to ensure confidentiality, we will not (unless you specifically grant us the authority to do so) discuss or otherwise make available to anyone, including other clients, any confidential information about you, your business or our work on your behalf and will not discuss or otherwise make available to you any confidential information about any of our other clients (if any), their business, or any work on their behalf.

Polsinelli Shughart is a large law firm and represents many other companies and individuals. For example, our firm has a national debtor-creditor, workout, and bankruptcy practice. To avoid any misunderstanding in connection with our current (and any future) engagement with the client, we confirm that we have not been asked to act as counsel for anyone other than the client described in the Engagement Letter or, if the client is a corporation, any subsidiary, parent, affiliate, or other member of the client's corporate group by acting as counsel to the client.

It is possible that during the time that we are representing the client, some of our other present or future clients will have disputes or transactions with the client referenced in the accompanying Engagement Letter. Therefore, as a condition to the firm undertaking this engagement, the client agrees that we may continue to represent or may undertake in the future to represent existing or new clients in any matter that is not substantially related to our work for you even if the interests of such other clients in those other matters are directly adverse to you.

Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, we will have the right to represent debtors, creditors' committees, creditors, shareholders, or other parties in interest in other matters, including in bankruptcy, workout, and other debtor-creditor matters, even when the client is a creditor or is otherwise interested in or potentially interested in such other matter. This would include, but not be limited to: matters, negotiations, and disputes that may arise under loan and security agreements and related documents; negotiation and disputes regarding claims, liens, debtor-in-possession financing, lift of stay issues, plan of reorganization issues; and other issues in which the client may have an interest. The client's signature on the enclosed copy of this letter will constitute its consent to and all such conflicting representations. We agree, however, that the client's prospective consent to conflicting representation contained in the preceding sentence shall not apply in any instance where, as a result of our representation of the client, we have obtained proprietary or other confidential information of a non-public nature, that, if known to such other client, could be used in any such other matter by such client to the client's material disadvantage.

No Guarantee. We will perform our professional services on your behalf to the best of our ability, but we cannot make and have not made any guarantees regarding the outcome of our work on this project. Any expressions by us about the outcome of this project are our best professional views only and are limited by our factual knowledge at the time they are expressed.

Binding Agreement. The accompanying Engagement Letter and these Terms Of Representation represent the entire agreement between the client and the Polsinelli Shughart Law Firm with respect to this Engagement. By signing the Engagement Letter, the client acknowledges that the Engagement Letter and these Terms Of Representation have been carefully reviewed and its content understood and that the client agrees to be bound by all of its terms and conditions. Furthermore, the client acknowledges that the Polsinelli Shughart Law Firm has made no representations or guarantees to you regarding the outcome of your representation or the time necessary to resolve this matter. No change or waiver of any of the provisions of the Engagement Letter or these Terms Of Representation shall be binding on either you or the law firm unless the change is in writing and signed by both.

THIS AGREEMENT, made and entered into on this 27th day of April, 2017, by and between JACKSON COUNTY, MISSOURI, hereinafter called "the County" and POLSINELLI, 900 West 48th Place, Suite 900, Kansas City, MO 64112, hereinafter called "Polsinelli."

W I T N E S S E T H:

WHEREAS, the County has a need for specialized advice and consulting related to federal legislative lobbying particularly with regard to matters related to rail and mass transit; and,

WHEREAS, the County awarded a contract on Request for Proposals No. 78-13 for these services to Polsinelli and entered into an Agreement dated January 6, 2014, ("Initial Term") for the period of January 6, 2014, to January 5, 2015, with the option to renew for four additional twelve-months periods ("Renewal Terms" beginning January 1, 2016); and,

Following the this renewal, and at the agreement of both parties, this Agreement may be renewed for up to one additional twelve-month periods ("Renewal Terms"), pursuant to the terms and conditions of RFP 78-13. Termination of this Agreement shall not constitute a waiver of the rights or obligations which County or Polsinelli may be entitled to receive or be obligated to perform under this Agreement. Should this Agreement terminate, all books, brochures, fliers, lists, and all other County materials must be delivered and returned by the Polsinelli to the County within three (3) days of the demand of the County.

Further, the County shall be entitled to collect any and all profits, gains, benefits, and properties of every description received by Polsinelli as a result of said breach.

7. Polsinelli promises, covenants, and agrees to faithfully observe and perform all of the terms, provisions and requirements of this Agreement and Polsinelli's failure to so observe and perform in accordance with said terms, provisions, and requirements of this Agreement shall represent and constitute a breach of this Agreement and in such event, Polsinelli consents and agrees as follows:

- (a) The County may without prior notice to Polsinelli immediately terminate this Agreement; and,
- (b) In addition to the foregoing, the County shall be entitled to petition and receive from any Court a temporary and/or permanent injunction against Polsinelli; and,

- (c) In addition to all of the foregoing, the County shall be entitled to collect from Polsinelli all costs incurred by the County as a result of said breach including reasonable attorney's fees, reasonable accountant's fees, investigation expenses, court costs and sheriff's mileage and service fees without limitation by enumeration.

8. If any covenant or other provision of this Agreement is invalid, or incapable of being enforced, by reasons of any rule of law or public policy, all other conditions and provisions of this Agreement shall nevertheless remain in full force and effect and no covenant or provision shall be deemed dependent upon any other covenant or provision unless so expressed herein.

Pursuant to §285.530.1, RSMo, Polsinelli assures that it does not knowingly employ, hire for employment, or continue to employ an unauthorized alien to perform work within the State of Missouri and/or Jackson County, and shall affirm, by sworn affidavit and provision of documentation, its enrollment and participation in a federal work authorization program with respect to the employees working in connection with the contracted services. Further, Polsinelli shall sign an affidavit, attached hereto and incorporated herein as Exhibit B, affirming that it does not knowingly employ any person who is an unauthorized alien in connection with the contracted services.

3.4.3: Ability to Perform

Moving Forward: How We Plan to Achieve County Objectives in the Future

Satisfying the Scope of Services

Polsinelli brings a vigorous and results-oriented work ethic to all of its public policy representations. We will satisfy all of the requirements listed in the Scope of Services as described below:

- Acting as advocates for and representing the County before Congress and other federally elected and appointed officials
- Assisting the County in finalizing its federal program to include pursuing the passage and/or defeat of federal legislation, policies, programs or directives that may directly impact Jackson County
- Providing weekly reports of bills of County interest in formats acceptable to the County prioritized beginning with bills of general County interest
- Providing weekly reports of the activities that the Lobbyist has engaged in to further the Legislative priorities of Jackson County
- Providing advice and assistance on special projects that may arise during the year that entails Lobbying or access to Federal Officials
- Confer with the County Executive and County Legislature at least twice during the contract year and more often as the County sees fit for such briefings and dialogue as are necessary
- Monitoring and analyzing legislation filed in the General Assembly that affects the County's interests

Providing Additional Administrative Support

Missouri Offices (including Kansas City, MO)

Polsinelli is proud to have a strong presence in Missouri. As a national law firm with headquarters in Kansas City, Missouri, Polsinelli is committed to seeing the region and state thrive. We have seven offices in the bi-state region. Our Kansas City office houses experienced attorneys and professionals with expertise in transportation, labor and employment, and state and local public policy among other areas. The Kansas City office will remain available to County officials for meetings, briefings, and other state-centered events and activities. Project co-lead Pete Levi and Shareholder Mary Jane Judy are located in the Kansas City office, providing the County with experienced and attentive Polsinelli liaisons on the ground in Missouri.

Washington, DC Office

In our downtown Washington, DC office, we have meeting space that is available to the County. Our venue often accommodates policy briefings, luncheons, receptions and fundraisers. As the County is already aware, we also assist in preparing hand-outs, legislative language, letters of request, and other materials.

Preparing for What's on the Federal Horizon

As the County continues to refine its ambitious multimodal transportation plan, it is critical to remain apprised of actions and deliberations at the national level regarding transportation funding. There are many moving parts to the County's plan including the possibility of commuter rail, light rail, bus enhancements, trails, and streetcars. Federal funding and programs for these varying modes of transportation engage several different agencies and could be affected by several pieces of federal legislation. Below is a brief discussion of a few measures likely to receive congressional consideration in the coming year:

MAP-21	The federal surface transportation law will expire at the end of September 2014. There is a possibility that draft reauthorization legislation will be made available by early spring to provide sufficient time for debate. Sen. Barbara Boxer and Rep. Bill Shuster (chairs of the relevant authorizing committees) will look to build on their success with bipartisan water resources legislation to reauthorize MAP-21 on time.
Building and Renewing Infrastructure for Development and Growth in Employment (BRIDGE) Act of 2013	This piece of legislation would establish an independent Infrastructure Financing Authority (IFA) to complement existing infrastructure funding mechanisms. The IFA would receive an initial $10 billion investment to help localities and states fund road, bridge, rail, and port projects. Both Missouri senators (Claire McCaskill and Roy Blunt) are co-sponsors of the legislation.
Transportation and Regional Infrastructure Project (TRIP) Bonds Act of 2013	The legislation, introduced by Sen. Ron Wyden (D-OR), would provide $50 billion in new transportation infrastructure funding through bonds to aid state and local governments in financing projects related to all modes of transportation, including transit systems and roads.

3.4.4: Additional Services

The County already is aware of the unique suite of services that Polsinelli provides. With our strong presence in Missouri, the Polsinelli representation takes on a collaborative character that is not easily duplicated. While serving as the County's federal representative, we are able to easily monitor state and local issues and aid the County in working with the Missouri Governor's office, state legislature as well as the local government in Kansas City. Our professionals have developed excellent working relationships with state legislators, agency officials, and their staffs.

We also have worked closely with Jackson County officials and staff for several years on strategies for the commuter rail project, and are in a unique position to collaborate with key stakeholders regarding the interplay between the Kansas City streetcar and the County's multimodal transportation plan. Polsinelli has a sophisticated substantive and procedural understanding, as well as a unique institutional memory that can inform future plans for County transportation expansion.

As Jackson County residents, we remain committed to the common goals of modernized and vibrant public transportation, robust economic and community development, enhanced public safety and general regional revitalization because we are in and of the local community. We seek the opportunity to continue serving the County, not only as advocacy professionals, but as concerned residents with a vested interest in the County's success.

EXHIBIT B

WORK AUTHORIZATION AFFIDAVIT

As a condition for any service provided to the County, a business entity shall, by sworn affidavit and provision of documentation, affirm its enrollment and participation in a federal work authorization program with respect to the employees working in connection with the contracted services.

Business entity, as defined in section 285.525, RSMo pertaining to section 285.530, RSMo, is any person or group of persons performing or engaging in any activity, enterprise, profession, or occupation for gain, benefit, advantage, or livelihood. The term "business entity" shall include but not be limited to self-employed individuals, partnerships, corporations, contractors, and subcontractors. The term "business entity" shall include any business entity that possesses a business permit, license, or tax certificate issued by the state, any business entity that is exempt by law from obtaining such a business permit, and any business entity that is operating unlawfully without such a business permit.

Every such business entity shall complete the following affidavit affirming that it does not knowingly employ any person who is an unauthorized alien in connection with the contracted services. The completed affidavit must be returned as a part of the contract documentation.

This affidavit affirms that Polsinelli, is enrolled in, and is currently participating in, E-verify or any other equivalent electronic verification of work authorization operated by the United States Department of Homeland Security under the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986 (IRCA); and, Polsinelli, does not knowingly employ any person who is an unauthorized alien in conjunction with the contracted services.

In Affirmation thereof, the facts stated above are true and correct. (The undersigned understands that false statements made in this filing are subject to the penalties provided under section 575.040, RSMo.)

PERSONAL AND CONFIDENTIAL
ATTORNEY-CLIENT PRIVILEGED COMMUNICATION

Mr. Michael Sanders
County Executive
Jackson County, Missouri
415 E. 12th Street, 2nd Floor
Kansas City, MO 64106

Re: Engagement Letter

Dear Mr. Sanders:

We are pleased and honored that you have chosen Polsinelli Shughart PC to represent Jackson County, Missouri (the "County") in connection with the matter described below. We thank you for your expression of confidence in us.

This letter is intended to describe the scope of the services our firm has been retained to provide during this engagement as well as the terms and conditions of the engagement. To that end, we have attached our standard Terms of Representation which sets forth our firm's established general policies and practices regarding representation of clients and the payment of our fees.

1. Client. We understand that the County will be our client. In that regard, while we will report to the County Executive from time to time and while we will work with you and other members of your team on a frequent basis, we understand that no officer, director or employee of the County will be our client.

2. Scope of Representation. Regarding the scope of our representation, we understand that we are being retained to represent the County and to perform the following legal services:

Provide legal advice and representation relating to the federal legislative lobbying in accordance with Request for Proposal No. 14-10 and the response submitted by Polsinelli Shughart on April 6, 2010.

3. Responsibilities. We will provide legal counsel and assistance in accordance with this letter and will rely upon information and guidance you provide to us. We will keep you reasonably informed of progress and developments, and respond to your inquiries.

In order to enable us to provide the services set forth in this letter, you will disclose fully and accurately all facts and keep us apprised of all developments relating to this matter. You will also cooperate fully with us and be available to attend meetings, conferences, hearings and other proceedings on reasonable notice, and stay reasonably informed on all developments relating to this matter.

4. Fees and Expenses. We will provide these services on a retainer basis at a cost of Ninety Three Thousand Three Hundred Thirty Three and 28/100 Dollars ($93,333.28), including expenses, for the period commencing May 1, 2010 and ending December 31, 2010. Anita Estell, a Shareholder in our Public Policy Group, will be your lead counsel in our Washington, D.C. office and I will be your lead counsel in Kansas City. In accordance with the terms of Request for Proposal No. 14-10, this engagement shall be for eight months, a four month and two twelve month renewal options.

We look forward to representing the County in this matter. When you advise us otherwise, we will give you a new file or files and issue a new engagement letter for assignments which are different from this assignment.

Because this engagement is solely limited to our efforts for the County in Washington, D.C. and our representation of the County before the United States Congress, we hereby request that any potential conflict of interest between any client of our law firm and the County that would arise because of this engagement be waived by the County. By your signature below, you confirm that we can continue to represent any current clients who may now be adverse to the County and any future clients who may be adverse to the County. As a method to confirm this waiver, your counter-signature on this letter will also extend the conflict waiver contained in the earlier correspondence dated March 1, 2010, signed by William Snyder as Acting County Counselor, through the term of the engagement described herein and expand its coverage to match the "Scope of Representation" outlined herein. A copy of the March 1 letter signed by Mr. Snyder is attached as a reference.

We hope this letter and the attached Terms of Representation adequately explain the scope of our services as well as the payment terms of our fees. If they do and you are in agreement with them, please indicate your affirmation by signing the enclosed copy of this letter and returning it to me for our files.

We appreciate the opportunity to work with you and the County and look forward to a mutually beneficial relationship.

Sincerely,

Peter S. Gey

TERMS OF REPRESENTATION

Confirmation of Services. Polsinelli Shughart PC is pleased to have this opportunity to serve you. The letter accompanying these Terms of Representation sets forth the scope of our representation. If what is set forth in the accompanying letter or in these Terms of Representation does not accurately describe your understanding of the services we are to perform or the terms for billing fees and expenses, please advise the attorney sending you the letter. Unless the attorney is notified promptly, we will assume that these Terms of Representation and the accompanying letter are acceptable to you.

Scope of Representation. The scope of our representation at this time is limited to providing only those services that are described in the accompanying letter. Unless otherwise noted, we will render those legal services that are necessary to the representation. No other services are intended to be provided without our mutual agreement. Later, if you determine to change materially the scope of our representation, we will need to document that in additional correspondence. Our representation is also limited to working on behalf of the client identified in the accompanying letter. The firm does not represent any other entity or individuals unless specifically stated in the accompanying letter.

Fees Not Contingent and Due Within 30 Days. Our fees are not contingent, and payment is due within 30 days of the receipt of the statement. If the firm has not received any comment about the statement within 30 days of its receipt, we will assume that you found it acceptable. As a means of encouraging timely payment of our statements, we reserve the right to add a late charge of 1.5% per month to bills that are past due, i.e., statements that remain unpaid for more than 30 days. Payment is to be made by check or draft payable to "Polsinelli Shughart PC."

If any of our statements remain unpaid for more than 90 days, we may, consistent with our ethical and court-imposed obligations, cease to perform services until satisfactory arrangements have been made for the payment of the unpaid statements and future fees. In fairness to our many clients who promptly pay their statements each month, we reserve the right to take appropriate action with respect to such delinquent accounts.

Methods of Communication. We are mindful of our obligation to preserve the client's confidential information. To that end, it is important that we agree from the outset what kinds of communications technology we will employ in the course of this engagement. The exchange of documents using the Internet, or even direct computer-to-computer data transfer, may involve some risk that information will be retrieved by third parties. Even the use of fax machines can cause problems if documents are sent to numbers where the documents sit in open view. As part of these general issues, please be aware that (1) e-mail communication is not a secure method of communication in all circumstances, (2) any e-mail that is sent to the client or by the client may be copied and held by various computers that it passes through as it goes from the sender to the recipient, (3) persons not participating in our communication may intercept such messages by improperly accessing the client's computer or the lawyer's computer, or even some computer not related to either the client or the law firm which the e-mail passes through. However, it has been our experience that most current business communications are accomplished by electronic means. The Polsinelli Shughart Law Firm will assume that you have no objections to such communications and consent to receive communications via electronic means unless you notify us in writing to the contrary.

Attorney-Client Communication. Our statements generally contain information protected by the attorney-client privilege. As the privilege could be deemed to have been waived if someone other than the client sees the privileged material, we recommend that you keep all of our statements in a separate file marked "Attorney-Client Privileged Materials," and keep the file in a secure place.

Payment of Third-Party Expenses. The firm prefers that you pay directly any significant outside expense items related to your work and, when possible, we will direct such expenses to you for payment. Therefore, we often ask our vendors to bill our clients directly rather than having us incur the expense and then including the amount on our statement.

Termination of Services and Representation. You may terminate our services at any time. Termination of our representation does not, however, relieve you from the responsibility of paying those fees and expenses incurred through the date we were notified of such termination. Similarly, we may withdraw from this representation for a number of reasons, including failure to promptly pay the amounts indicated in our statements; failure to disclose all facts material to our representation; failure to act in accordance with our advice; or development of one or more circumstances which, in our judgment, impair our ability to maintain an effective attorney-client relationship. Upon termination of our services and representation by the client or our withdrawal from representation of the client, we will be entitled to be paid for all services rendered and costs and expenses paid or incurred on behalf of the client to the date of termination or withdrawal. We also will be entitled to payment at our standard billing rates for any work required of us in connection with the turnover of files to the client or new counsel and the orderly transition of pending matters to new counsel, and we also will be entitled to reimbursement of all expenses incurred by us in connection with such work. We will return to the client all papers and property belonging to the client, upon payment of all amounts owed by the client to the firm. Papers and communications that are part of the firm's administrative process although they may concern do not belong to the client. We reserve the right to make, at the client's expense, and retain copies of all documents generated or received by us in the course of our representation of a client. If a client requests documents from us, either during the course of our representation of the client or in connection with or following termination of or withdrawal from such representation, such documents will be provided at the client's expense, including both reproduction costs and professional fees for time expended in reviewing files to locate requested documents.

Estimates of the Cost of Services to be Performed. From time to time, you may ask us to make an estimate of the cost of completing all or part of your matter. Because it is often difficult to estimate at the beginning of a project how much time it will take to complete it, we treat any estimate as an "educated guess" and not as an assurance that we will be able to do the work for the estimated price. When an estimate is given, we will advise you when we are nearing the estimated price, and we will also advise you if we become aware that the estimate may be exceeded. At that time, you can decide whether to terminate our work on the project, modify the project, or proceed to completion with a different cost estimate.

Completion of Matter. After a particular matter is completed, we do not (unless you specifically request in writing that we do so) undertake to continue to review that matter and update you concerning legal developments, such as changes in applicable laws or regulations. If you do ask us to review a specific matter on which we have previously worked, we will consider that to be a new representation. Thus, while we may, from time to time, call to your attention issues or legal developments that might be relevant to your operations, we are not undertaking to do so as a part of this representation.

Unless previously terminated, our representation will end upon our sending you our final statement for services rendered with respect to this matter. If, upon any termination or completion of a matter, you wish to have your documents in our possession delivered to you, please advise us.

Client Confidences/Description of Client/Representation in Other Matters/Future Conflicts. Our clients are engaged in a wide variety of businesses throughout the world. From time to time, we represent clients who are industry competitors. In order to ensure confidentiality, we will not (unless you specifically grant us the authority to do so) discuss or otherwise make available to anyone, including other clients, any confidential information about you, your business or our work on your behalf and will not discuss or otherwise make available to you any confidential information about any of our other clients (if any), their business, or any work on their behalf.

Polsinelli Shughart is a large law firm and represents many other companies and individuals. For example, our firm has a national debtor-creditor, workout, and bankruptcy practice. To avoid any misunderstanding in connection with our current (and any future) engagement with the client, we confirm that we have not been asked to act as counsel for anyone other than the client described in the Engagement Letter or, if the client is a corporation, any subsidiary, parent, affiliate, or other member of the client's corporate group by acting as counsel to the client.

It is possible that during the time that we are representing the client, some of our other present or future clients will have disputes or transactions with the client referenced in the accompanying Engagement Letter. Therefore, as a condition to the firm undertaking this engagement, the client agrees that we may continue to represent or may undertake in the future to represent existing or new clients in any matter that is not substantially related to our work for you even if the interests of such other clients in those other matters are directly adverse to you.

Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, we will have the right to represent debtors, creditors' committees, creditors, shareholders, or other parties in interest in other matters, including in bankruptcy, workout, and other debtor-creditor matters, even when the client is a creditor or is otherwise interested in or potentially interested in such other matter. This would include, but not be limited to: matters, negotiations, and disputes that may arise under loan and security agreements and related documents; negotiation and disputes regarding claims, liens, debtor-in-possession financing, lift of stay issues, plan of reorganization issues; and other issues in which the client may have an interest. The client's signature on the enclosed copy of this letter will constitute its consent to and all such conflicting representations. We agree, however, that the client's prospective consent to conflicting representation contained in the preceding sentence shall not apply in any instance where, as a result of our representation of the client, we have obtained proprietary or other confidential information of a non-public nature, that, if known to such other client, could be used in any such other matter by such client to the client's material disadvantage.

No Guarantee. We will perform our professional services on your behalf to the best of our ability, but we cannot make and have not made any guarantees regarding the outcome of our work on this project. Any expressions by us about the outcome of this project are our best professional views only and are limited by our factual knowledge at the time they are expressed.

Binding Agreement. The accompanying Engagement Letter and these Terms Of Representation represent the entire agreement between the client and the Polsinelli Shughart Law Firm with respect to this Engagement. By signing the Engagement Letter, the client acknowledges that the Engagement Letter and these Terms Of Representation have been carefully reviewed and its content understood and that the client agrees to be bound by all of its terms and conditions. Furthermore, the client acknowledges that the Polsinelli Shughart Law Firm has made no representations or guarantees to you regarding the outcome of your representation or the time necessary to resolve this matter. No change or waiver of any of the provisions of the Engagement Letter or these Terms Of Representation shall be binding on either you or the law firm unless the change is in writing and signed by both.

CONSULTING AGREEMENT

This Consulting Agreement ("Consulting Agreement") is made this 24th day of January, 2016, by and between Jackson County, Missouri, ("the County") and Michael D. Sanders ("Sanders") (collectively "the Parties").

WHEREAS, Sanders has resigned his position with the County; and

WHEREAS, Sanders is uniquely qualified by his legal training and his experience in the best practices for the management of governmental entities to provide the services described in this Agreement; and

Missouri State Auditor
Truman State Office Building
301 West High Street, Rm 880, P.O. Box 869
Jefferson City, MO 65102

Honorable Auditor Galloway,

In February 2018 the Jackson County Legislature formally requested an independent audit by the Missouri State Auditor to provide assurance to all County elected officials and the citizens of Jackson County that the assets of the County are safeguarded through proper internal controls that fully comply with applicable State and County laws. In April of 2020 the COMBAT audit report was issued as the first of multiple areas of review.

Again, the County Legislature greatly appreciates the State Auditor's time and efforts in conducting an audit and issuing a report of the Jackson County No-Bid Contracts and Other Expenditures as the second report of multiple areas of review.

As the Jackson County Charter authorizes specific delegation of duties, powers and limitations, the County Legislature agrees that the fiduciary trust from taxpayers is of utmost importance and assurance that funds entrusted to Jackson County should be monitored and spent in the most prudent manner. The County Legislature supports the report's recommendations surrounding deficiencies in internal controls, non-compliance with legal provisions and the need for improvement in management practices and procedures. The County Legislature will continue to strengthen oversight efforts of county operations and internal controls through policymaking measures to establish best practice standards that fall within said separation of powers of the existing Jackson County Charter.

Missouri State Auditor

Honorable Michael L. Parson, Governor
and
Members of the General Assembly
Jefferson City, Missouri

The primary objective of this report is to show Missouri's spending of federal assistance in the month of July 2020 for the Coronavirus Disease 2019 (COVID-19) emergency and the cumulative financial activity since the state began receiving funding in April 2020.

In March and April 2020, Congress passed several legislative measures signed into law to provide assistance to citizens, businesses, healthcare facilities, and government entities during the COVID-19 emergency. The funding received by or made available to Missouri state government agencies will help pay for the state's emergency response to COVID-19 and provides (1) additional federal matching funds for the state's Medicaid program, MO HealthNet, and (2) funding for various other assistance and benefit programs. The state is passing through some of the funding to local governments. Some funding authorized in the legislation also went directly to local government entities, healthcare facilities, and colleges and universities. The majority of the funding has specific restrictions on its use or state actions and must be spent in defined limited time periods.

In July, the state spent $16.2 million from federal COVID-19 assistance (Appendix A). Through the end of July, the state has received $2.64 billion and spent $1.11 billion from this assistance. Details of the cumulative financial activity by fund are presented in Appendix B and the expenditures by appropriation in Appendix C. The majority of the state's disbursements have been for MO HealthNet services ($324 million) and funding passed through to counties and the City of St. Louis ($521 million). In addition, the state is currently using $250 million of COVID-19 relief funding for cash management needs.

Federal Funding for COVID-19 Response

July 2020

Executive Summary

Executive Summary

Missouri has been awarded federal funding under the following federal laws enacted in March and April 2020:

- Coronavirus Preparedness and Response Supplemental Appropriations Act, 2020 (Public Law 116-123; H.R. 6074)
- Families First Coronavirus Response Act (Public Law 116-127; H.R. 6201)
- Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security (CARES) Act (Public Law 116-136; H.R. 748, as amended)
- Paycheck Protection Program and Health Care Enhancement Act (Public Law 116-139; H.R. 266)

The Coronavirus Preparedness and Response Supplemental Appropriations Act provides for grants to or cooperative agreements with states to carry out surveillance, epidemiology, laboratory capacity, infection control, mitigation, communications, and other preparedness and response activities. The state has been awarded as of July 31, 2020, approximately $17.6 million under this act for additional or new funding under various federal grant programs. Part of this funding went directly to community health centers from the federal government. Each grant program has a separate time limit on use of the funding.

The Families First Coronavirus Response Act provides Missouri a 6.2 percent Federal Medical Assistance Percentage (FMAP) increase beginning January 1, 2020, for the state's Medicaid program, MO HealthNet. The state's FMAP percentage was approximately 66 percent prior to this act.¹ The increased FMAP is available for qualifying expenditures incurred on or after that date and through the end of the quarter in which the COVID-19 public health emergency, including any extensions, ends. To qualify for the temporary FMAP increase, Missouri must:

- Maintain eligibility standards, methodologies, or procedures that are no more restrictive than what the state had in place as of January 1, 2020, (maintenance of effort requirement).
- Not charge premiums that exceed those that were in place as of January 1, 2020.

¹ The FMAP is used as a base for the Enhanced FMAP (EFMAP) for the state's Children's Health Insurance Program (CHIP). Therefore, the increase in FMAP will also result in an increase in EFMAP, but not necessarily by 6.2 percent. The state's EFMAP rate was approximately 87 percent prior to this act.

Federal Funding for COVID-19 Response
July 2020
Executive Summary

- Cover, without impositions of any cost sharing, testing, services, and treatments including vaccines, specialized equipment, and therapies related to COVID-19.
- Not terminate individuals from Medicaid if such individuals were enrolled in the program as of the date of the beginning of the emergency period, or become enrolled during the emergency period, unless the individual voluntarily terminates eligibility or is no longer a resident of the state (continuous coverage requirement).

Under the Families First Coronavirus Response Act, the state has also been awarded as of July 31, 2020, approximately $36.2 million of additional or new funding under various federal grant programs for meal assistance, food subsidies, and administrative costs. Each grant program has a separate time limit on use of the funding.

The CARES Act specifies that payments provided to the state from the Coronavirus Relief Fund² may only be used to cover costs that (1) are necessary expenditures incurred due to the public health emergency with respect to COVID-19; (2) were not accounted for in the budget most recently approved as of March 27, 2020, (the date of enactment of the CARES Act) for the state; and (3) were incurred during the period that begins on March 1, 2020, and ends on December 30, 2020. The state has received approximately $2.38 billion in Coronavirus Relief Fund assistance including nearly $173.5 million for St. Louis County and $122.7 million for Jackson County.³ Twenty-five percent of the remaining state share (approximately $521 million) was distributed to other counties in the state and the City of St. Louis based on population. In early July, the Department of the Treasury Office of Inspector General (OIG) issued interim and quarterly reporting requirements for Coronavirus Relief Fund payments. The OIG is responsible for monitoring and oversight of the receipt, disbursement, and use of these payments.

Eligible expenditures for Coronavirus Relief Fund assistance include, but are not limited to, payment for:⁴

1. Medical expenses such as:
 - COVID-19-related expenses of public hospitals, clinics, and similar facilities.

² From the U.S. Department of the Treasury, CFDA number 21.019.

³ The funding for Jackson County and St. Louis County went directly to those local governments from the federal government.

 - Expenses of providing paid sick and paid family and medical leave to public employees to enable compliance with COVID-19 public health precautions.

5. Expenses associated with the provision of economic support in connection with the COVID-19 public health emergency, such as:

6. Any other COVID-19-related expenses reasonably necessary to the function of government that satisfy CARES Act eligibility criteria.

The state may also use Coronavirus Relief Fund assistance to meet immediate cash management needs provided that the full amount of the payment is used to cover necessary expenditures.⁵ If the state has not used the Coronavirus Relief Fund assistance it has received to cover costs that were incurred by December 30, 2020, as required by federal law, those funds must be returned to the federal government.

The General Assembly has authorized the Office of Administration (OA) to transfer up to $750 million in Coronavirus Relief Fund assistance from the State Emergency Management Federal Stimulus Fund to the General Revenue Fund for cash management needs. Any transferred funds must be repaid to the State Emergency Management Federal Stimulus Fund prior to June 30, 2021. In May, the OA transferred $250 million from the stimulus fund to the General Revenue Fund. No cash management transfers occurred in July.

Under the CARES Act, the state has also been awarded as of July 31, 2020, approximately $2.79 billion of additional or new funding under other various federal grant programs for assistance for public schools, institutions of higher education, and healthcare facilities; child care and family services; health care worker training programs; public health education; expanded telehealth services; and numerous other assistance services or benefits. A significant part of this funding went directly to local governments or the awarded entity. Each grant program has a separate time limit on use of the funding.

The Paycheck Protection Program and Health Care Enhancement Act provides funding to states for expanded COVID-19 testing. Under the act, the state has been awarded approximately $165 million with some of this funding going directly to rural health departments from the federal government.

In July, the state spent $16.2 million from federal COVID-19 assistance (Appendix A). Through the end of July, the state has received $2.64 billion and spent $1.11 billion from this assistance. The majority of the state's disbursements have been for MO HealthNet services ($324 million) and funding passed through to counties and the City of St. Louis ($521 million). ¹ During the fiscal year ending June 30, 2020, the Secretary of State used this fund to account for COVID-19 receipts and disbursements and other pre-existing but unrelated activity. The receipts, disbursements, and beginning and ending fund balances listed represent only the COVID-19 activity within this fund. This fund is excluded from Appendix C because its appropriation authority was established prior to the public health emergency, and thus does not reflect COVID-19 efforts. The Secretary of State receives many federal grants and uses the state accounting system, as it was intended, to account for all grant activity. The fund's negative $3,795,762 receipts total in July 2020 reflects movement of its remaining balance to the Secretary of State Federal Stimulus Fund. Beginning with the fiscal year ending June 30, 2021, the Secretary of State Federal Stimulus Fund is used to account for all COVID-19 receipts and related disbursements.

² For the fiscal year ended June 30, 2021, the FMAP (Federal Medical Assistance Percentage) Enhancement Fund was only authorized an appropriation to transfer receipts to the Federal Budget Stabilization Fund and/or the General Revenue Fund. No receipts occurred in July.

³ The General Assembly has authorized the Office of Administration to transfer up to $750 million in federal funds from the State Emergency Management Federal Stimulus Fund to the General Revenue Fund for cash management needs. These transferred funds must be repaid to the State Emergency Management Federal Stimulus Fund. As of the end of July, $250 million has been transferred to the General Revenue Fund.

⁴ This fund's negative $20,064,116 disbursement total in July 2020 is the net result of disbursements for the month, less a one-time transfer of $27,210,453 in previous disbursements from that fund to the state's General Revenue Fund, to reclassify these disbursements from a state source. Office of Administration officials indicated the transfer represents 75 percent of certain costs, such as protective personal equipment and disaster medical assistance teams, that if spent from state funds can be eligible for federal reimbursement under the Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act of 1988. The State Emergency Management Agency is in the process of seeking such federal reimbursement. The state made the adjustment because recent federal guidance allows the state's 25 percentage match for the Stafford disaster relief assistance to come from Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security Act funds.

¹ During the fiscal year ending June 30, 2020, the Secretary of State used this fund to account for COVID-19 receipts and disbursements and other pre-existing but unrelated activity. The receipts, disbursements, and beginning and ending fund balances listed represent only the COVID-19 activity within this fund. This fund is excluded from Appendix C because its appropriation authority was established prior to the public health emergency, and thus does not reflect COVID-19 efforts. The Secretary of State receives many federal grants and uses the state accounting system, as it was intended, to account for all grant activity. Beginning with the fiscal year ending June 30, 2021, the Secretary of State Federal Stimulus Fund is used to account for all COVID-19 receipts and related disbursements.

² The General Assembly has authorized the Office of Administration to transfer up to $750 million in federal funds from the State Emergency Management Federal Stimulus Fund to the General Revenue Fund for cash management needs. These transferred funds must be repaid to the State Emergency Management Federal Stimulus Fund. As of the end of July, $250 million has been transferred to the General Revenue Fund.

¹ The appropriation authority is the maximum amount that may be expended for the purpose as documented and approved through appropriations bills.

² For the fiscal year ended June 30, 2021, the FMAP (Federal Medical Assistance Percentage) Enhancement Fund was only authorized an appropriation to transfer receipts to the Federal Budget Stabilization Fund and/or the General Revenue Fund. Therefore, the Department of Social Services cannot directly expend any receipted monies from the fund, as it could during the fiscal year ended June 30, 2020.

³ Coronavirus Relief Fund assistance must be returned to the federal government if it is not spent to cover allowable costs incurred by December 30, 2020. State officials did not know whether or to what extent the state may have to repay any funding received at the time the appropriation was established. To acknowledge the existence of the obligation, the state established appropriations authorizing the return of up to $750 million across 19 funds. For 18 of these funds, the appropriation was initially authorized for $1 each. In August 2020, the Office of Administration (OA) transferred (centralized) these 18 appropriations into the State Emergency Management Federal Stimulus Fund appropriation.

⁵ Statewide Accounting System (SAM II) adjustments between July 1, 2020, and July 31, 2020, have retroactively changed these appropriations' total expenditures for the fiscal year ended June 30, 2020, since the previous report. In the future, it is possible that additional retroactive adjustments impacting that fiscal year could occur for these appropriations and other ones.

Source: Statewide Accounting System (SAM II). The appendix is presented on the state's legal budgetary basis of accounting that records expenditures when the liabilities are recorded, rather than when cash is disbursed.

Missouri State Auditor

Honorable Michael L. Parson, Governor
and
Members of the General Assembly
and
Board of Directors of Fire Protection
Districts in St. Louis County

Certain fire protection districts are required by Section 321.690, RSMo, to be audited and to submit their audit reports to the State Auditor's Office (SAO). To address our responsibilities of Section 321.690.3, RSMo, and 15 CSR 40-4.010 to 15 CSR 40-4.020, we have reviewed the independent audit reports of the fire protection districts in St. Louis County for audit periods ending December 31, 2019. The purpose of this review was to evaluate the districts' compliance with statutory audit requirements and SAO regulations. Because our review is limited to statutory and regulatory compliance, we do not express an opinion or any other form of assurance on the audit reports.

There are 23 fire protection districts in St. Louis County. Each district has a fiscal year end of December 31. All the districts, except for the Kinloch and Metro North Fire Protection Districts, submitted audit reports for the year ended December 31, 2019. Section 321.690.2, RSMo, requires certain fire protection districts to have an audit performed biennially, and Section 321.690.3, RSMo, requires the districts to forward the audit report to our office within 6 months of fiscal year end. As noted in our prior report, No. 2019-088, St. Louis County Fire Protection District, issued in September 2019, the Kinloch Fire Protection District did not timely obtain the required independent audit for the 2 years ended December 31, 2018. The SAO received the audit report on June 25, 2020, subsequent to that review. After that audit, district officials indicated they intended to obtain annual audits for future audit periods. The Kinloch and Metro North Fire Protection Districts did not timely obtain the required independent audit for the year ended December 31, 2019. However, the districts have engaged independent auditors to perform an audit for that period. Upon completion of the audits, the districts are expected to submit the reports to the SAO.

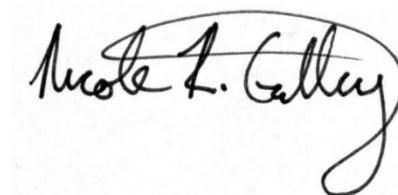

The SAO posts the individual audit reports to the office's website. A searchable link is available at <https://auditor.mo.gov>. A table summarizing our review of the St. Louis County fire protection districts' audit reports follows.

¹ The audit report was filed after the statutory deadline of 6 months after the close of the fiscal year end.

² Due to noncompliance in a previous period, the SAO reviewed the audit report for the 2 years ended December 31, 2018, submitted June 25, 2020. The audit report had audit findings and was in compliance with Section 321.690.3, RSMo, except the audit report was filed after the statutory deadline of 6 months after the close of the fiscal year end.

Except for the Kinloch and Metro North Fire Protection Districts failing to obtain and submit an audit report, we identified no other concerns from our review of the audit reports submitted by the St. Louis County fire protection districts.

CITIZENS SUMMARY

Findings in the audit of the City of Bel-Ridge

Financial Condition	The Board of Aldermen is not adequately monitoring the city's financial condition, is not receiving detailed information showing financial data for each fund, and has poor budgeting procedures. These practices have allowed the fund balance of the General Fund to decline in recent years.
Budgets and Financial Reporting	The Board does not have adequate procedures to prepare or monitor budgets. The city has not published financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2018. The city did not timely file an annual financial reports with the State Auditor's Office as required by state law.
Tax Increment Financing	The city has taken no action on the Tax Increment Financing (TIF) project redevelopment plan since its approval and has not assessed the status of the project or distributed any surplus TIF revenues collected. The city has not repaid amounts due to the TIF Fund, Park Fund, and Storm Water Fund from TIF revenues commingled among the General, TIF, Park, and Storm Water Funds, and the city has not established separate accounts for payments in lieu of taxes and economic activity taxes. City officials did not file annual reports for the TIF project for the year ended December 31, 2010, 2012, or 2016, with the Missouri Department of Revenue, and the annual reports filed were not always accurate. The city has not held public hearings every 5 years for the project as required by state law.
Restricted Revenues	The city is not properly tracking the balance of some restricted monies. As a result, the city could not determine at a point in time what portion of the General Fund represented restricted monies.
Disbursements	City disbursements were not properly supported or approved, some disbursements were questionable, and some bills were not paid timely resulting in late fees and finance charges. In addition, the city did not properly bid several purchases and did not always obtain written contracts.
Officials' Compensation	The city did not annually fix salaries for officers and employees of the city by ordinance as required. Additionally, the city executed a multi-year contract with the Chief of Police that conflicts with city ordinances, and approved compensation to a former Alderman that was not allowable.
Receipting Controls and Payroll Procedures	The Board has not adequately segregated accounting duties or ensured a documented supervisory or independent review over receiving and depositing monies is performed. Receipt slips are not always issued for monies received, the numerical sequence of receipt slips is not accounted for, receipts are not reconciled to deposits, and checks/money orders are not restrictively endorsed immediately upon receipt. Employment records for employees are not complete. Payroll duties are not properly segregated and payroll records are not properly reviewed.
Management Practices and Procedures	The city has not properly monitored the status of a promissory note due the city. The Board has not documented an evaluation of the license fees for businesses/occupations and merchants, and has no support for the basis for changes made to license fees for businesses/occupations.

Sunshine Law and Ordinances	Minutes for several open and closed Board meetings could not be located, the City Clerk had not signed some minutes as the preparer, and the Board had not timely approved some minutes. The Board did not always comply with the Sunshine Law regarding closed meetings. Meeting notices and agendas were not provided for some meetings. The city does not properly account for all ordinance numbers and could not locate ordinances for 7 ordinance numbers skipped during 2018, or provide any documentation indicating these ordinances had been presented to or approved by the Board.
Capital Assets and Insurance Procedures	The city does not maintain records of its capital assets and has not developed procedures to identify capital asset purchases and dispositions throughout the year. In addition, the city does not tag, number, or otherwise identify most property items as belonging to the city, or perform annual physical inventories. Also, the city's property insurance policy did not include loss coverage for 4 residential properties owned by the city or for improvements at a city park.

NICOLE GALLOWAY, CPA

Missouri State Auditor

To the Honorable Mayor
and
Members of the Board of Aldermen
City of Bel-Ridge, Missouri

The State Auditor was petitioned under Section 29.230, RSMo, to audit the City of Bel-Ridge. We have audited certain operations of the city in fulfillment of our duties. The scope of our audit included, but was not necessarily limited to, the year ended December 31, 2018. The objectives of our audit were to:

1. Evaluate the city's internal controls over significant management and financial functions.
2. Evaluate the city's compliance with certain legal provisions.
3. Evaluate the economy and efficiency of certain management practices and procedures, including certain financial transactions.

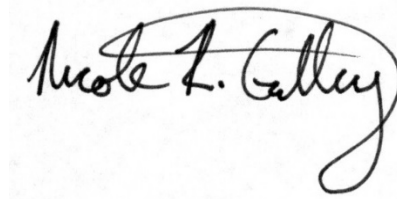

Our methodology included reviewing minutes of meetings, written policies and procedures, financial records, and other pertinent documents; interviewing various personnel of the city, as well as certain external parties; and testing selected transactions. We obtained an understanding of internal controls that are significant within the context of the audit objectives and assessed whether such controls have been properly designed and placed in operation. We also obtained an understanding of legal provisions that are significant within the context of the audit objectives, and we assessed the risk that illegal acts, including fraud, and violations of applicable contract, grant agreement, or other legal provisions could occur. Based on that risk assessment, we designed and performed procedures to provide reasonable assurance of detecting instances of noncompliance significant to those provisions.

We conducted our audit in accordance with the standards applicable to performance audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform our audit to obtain sufficient, appropriate evidence to provide a reasonable basis for our findings and conclusions based on our audit objectives. We believe that the evidence obtained provides such a basis.

The accompanying Organization and Statistical Information is presented for informational purposes. This information was obtained from the city's management and court records and was not subjected to the procedures applied in our audit of the city.

For the areas audited, we identified (1) deficiencies in internal controls, (2) noncompliance with legal provisions, and (3) the need for improvement in management practices and procedures. The accompanying Management Advisory Report presents our findings arising from our audit of the City of Bel-Ridge.

An additional report, Report No. 2019-109, Twenty-First Judicial Circuit, City of Bel-Ridge Municipal Division, was issued in November 2019.

Management Advisory Report

State Auditor's Findings

1. Financial Condition

The Board of Aldermen is not adequately monitoring the city's financial condition, is not receiving detailed information showing financial data for each fund, and has poor budgeting procedures. These practices have allowed the fund balance of the General Fund to decline in recent years.

The General Fund is used for most of the city's financial activity and various recent events have contributed to a lower fund balance. By commingling revenues of the Tax Increment Financing (TIF) Fund with the General Fund, the city is using restricted funds to help finance the general operations of the city (see Management Advisory Report (MAR) finding number 3). In addition, the Board is not adequately monitoring the city's financial condition.

The following table presents the changes in the General Fund balance for the 4 years ended December 31, 2018:

	Year Ended December 31,
	2018	2017	2016	2015
Beginning Fund Balance	$ (222,220)	(179,654)	514,737	482,495
Revenues	1,783,677	1,722,356	1,537,701	1,782,227
Other financing sources	1,100	1,560	10,692	425,188
Total Funds Available	1,562,557	1,544,262	2,063,130	2,689,910
Less: Expenditures	2,164,942	1,766,482	2,242,784	2,175,173
Ending Fund Balance	(602,385)	(222,220)	(179,654)	514,737
Fund Balance Increase/(Decrease)	$ (380,165)	(42,566)	(694,391)	32,242

Source: Amounts for 2015-2017 were obtained from the city's audited financial statements. Amounts for 2018 were obtained from the city's unaudited profit and loss statement that excludes any year-end adjusting journal entries. Also, for comparability, the amounts in 2015 and 2016 include the Public Works Fund that was combined with the General Fund beginning in 2017.

Expenditures increased in 2016 because the city paid off the remaining principal and interest, totaling approximately $334,000, on general obligation bonds that more than offset decreases in expenditures for capital outlays and other items. Expenditures decreased in 2017 primarily due to the elimination of debt service payments. In 2018, total expenditures increased primarily due to increases of about $200,000 for premiums for workers compensation and employee health insurance, $100,000 for police staffing and salaries, $65,000 for police vehicles and equipment, and $40,000 for building inspections. In 2015, other financing sources was higher than in subsequent years due to capital asset acquisitions and transfers from the TIF Fund. Total revenues decreased in 2016 and increased for both 2017 and 2018 due to Proposition P sales tax revenues the city began receiving in 2017. Those revenues totaled approximately $145,000 and $15,000 for the years ended December 31, 2018, and 2017, respectively.

City of Bel-Ridge
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

The amounts due the TIF Fund from the General Fund totaled approximately $698,000, $546,000, and $478,000 at December 31, 2017, 2016, and 2015, respectively, because TIF revenues (restricted monies) were combined with General Fund revenues as noted in MAR finding number 3. The fund balance of the General Fund was not sufficient to offset the liability to the TIF Fund, resulting in a negative fund balance for the General Fund at year end from 2016 through 2018. Additionally, as noted in MAR finding number 4, the General Fund balance includes additional restricted monies, and the city does not track the unrestricted portion of the fund's balance. Furthermore, based on the summarized 2019 revenues and expenditures and 2020 projections in the city's 2020 budget, General Fund expenditures exceeded revenues during 2019 by approximately $191,000 resulting in a further decline in the fund balance, but revenues are expected to exceed expenditures by approximately $3,000 during 2020.

The city's poor budgetary preparation and monitoring procedures (see MAR finding number 2.1) have contributed to the financial condition problem. Additionally, the lack of sufficient financial information has not allowed the Board to fully comprehend all funding available when making spending decisions. Financial reports, such as budget-to-actual reports, have not been presented to the Board to allow it to properly monitor the financial position of the city. The Board cannot adequately monitor the financial position of the city without periodic financial reports. Additionally, budget-to-actual reports would help ensure budgets are not overspent and funds are available for expenditure.

It is essential the Board address the financial condition of the city's General Fund in both the immediate and long-term future. The failure to prepare complete budgets and a lack of appropriate financial data make it apparent the Board is not adequately monitoring the city's financial condition on a regular basis. Accounting control weaknesses and lax controls over expenditures have been identified and discussed in more detail throughout the report. The Board should reduce spending where possible, evaluate controls and management practices to ensure efficient use of resources, monitor detailed financial data that includes fund balances for each fund, and closely monitor budgets.

Recommendation

The Board of Aldermen ensure detailed financial data is received monthly, perform immediate and long-term planning, and closely monitor and take necessary steps to improve the city's financial condition.

Auditee's Response

The City of Bel-Ridge appreciates the efforts made by the Auditor's office to uncover and assess the financial circumstances of the city during the audit period 2 years ago in 2018 when the city was under different leadership. Indeed, many of the city's current officials were active in the petition effort to have the Auditor come in and examine the practices of the city at that time.

City of Bel-Ridge
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

We are grateful that the Auditor and her team have been so diligent and professional in exposing that administration's shortcomings.

This administration agrees with the Auditor's recommendation that the Board should ensure it has accurate and timely financial information and has begun the process of restoring fiscal integrity and effective oversight by the Board. As part of that effort the city is now seeking to engage experienced accountants to enact better and more accurate, timely, and informative accounting practices to allow the city to better monitor and plan its finances.

2. Budgets and Financial Reporting

2.1 Budgets

Preparation

City officials did not prepare complete and accurate annual budgets or monitor budgets. They also did not publish accurate semiannual financial statements or file annual financial reports.

The Board does not have adequate procedures to prepare or monitor budgets.

The city's budgets did not contain all statutorily required elements, were not prepared under the direction of a budget officer, and beginning fund balances were not accurate. The 2018 and 2019 budgets did not include a budget message or a budget summary and the city did not designate a budget officer to develop the budget as required by statute and ordinance. In addition, because the city does not maintain a fund balance of the various funds, the city used ending fund balances from its 2016 audited financial statements as the beginning fund balances for the 2018 budgets. For the 2019 budgets, the city used the budgeted ending fund balances from the 2018 budgets as the beginning fund balances.

Section 67.010, RSMo, requires the budget to present a complete financial plan for the ensuing budget year and outlines the various information to be included in the budget. A complete budget should include the beginning available resources and a reasonable estimate of the ending available resources. A complete and well-planned budget, in addition to meeting statutory requirements, serves as a useful management tool by establishing specific financial expectations for each area of city operations. It also assists in providing information to the public about city operations and current finances and in setting the tax levy. In addition, Section 67.020, RSMo, and City Ordinance 130.030 require the city's budget to be prepared under the direction of the Budget Officer.

Budget deficits

The Board budgeted deficit ending fund balances for the General Fund and Police Training Fund for the years ending December 31, 2018, and 2019. The General Fund budget projected an ending fund balance of negative $175,546 for 2018 and negative $172,693 for 2019, while the Police Training Fund budget projected an ending fund balance of negative $37,395 for 2018 and negative $43,895 for 2019.

City of Bel-Ridge
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Missouri Constitution, Article VI, Section 26(a), and Section 67.010.2, RSMo, require political subdivisions ensure that expenditures do not exceed revenue plus any unencumbered fund balance.

Monitoring

The Board does not adequately monitor budget-to-actual revenues or expenditures. Detailed year-to-date budget-to-actual reports of financial activity are not presented to the Board. As a result, actual expenditures exceeded budgeted amounts for the General Fund and TIF Fund by approximately $400,000 and $79,000, respectively, for the year ended December 31, 2018.

Without appropriate financial data, it is apparent the Board is not adequately monitoring the city's financial condition on a regular basis. In addition, Section 67.040, RSMo, requires political subdivisions to keep expenditures within amounts budgeted, but allows for budget increases if the governing body officially adopts a resolution setting forth the facts and reasons. In addition, Section 67.080, RSMo, provides that no expenditure of public monies should be made unless it is authorized in the budget. Proper monitoring and amending prior to expending funds is necessary for the budget to be an effective management tool and to comply with state law.

Park Fund

The Park Fund has accumulated a significant fund balance with no documented plans for its use. The fund balance of the Park Fund at December 31, 2018, of approximately $519,000 is more than 7 times the disbursement total of approximately $68,000 for the year ended December 31, 2018. Based on the city's 2019 budget, the fund balance was projected to increase to approximately $593,000. Neither the city's budget document nor the Board minutes mention the master park plan indicated in the minutes of a Public Works Board meeting.

Accumulating an excessive cash balance in the Park Fund with no specific long-term plans for the use of the monies puts an unnecessary burden on taxpayers. The Board should determine its future needs, and consider reducing future taxes if a specific use for the cash reserves is not determined.

2.2 Published financial statements

The city has not published financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2018. As a result, information regarding the city's financial activity and condition is not available to citizens.

Section 79.160, RSMo, requires the Board to prepare and publish semiannual financial statements that include a full and detailed account of the receipts, disbursements, and indebtedness of the city. In addition, City Code Section 110.100 requires the Board to publish semiannual financial statements.

2.3 Filing of financial reports

The city did not timely file annual financial reports with the State Auditor's Office as required by state law. The city's financial report for the year ended

City of Bel-Ridge
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

December 31, 2018, due by June 30, 2019, was filed on September 12, 2019, and the city's financial report for the year ended December 31, 2019, due by June 30, 2020, had not been filed as of August 24, 2020.

Section 105.145, RSMo, requires each political subdivision to file annual reports of its financial transactions with the State Auditor's Office. In addition, 15 CSR 40-3.030, requires each political subdivision to file annual financial reports within 6 months of the end of its fiscal year.

Recommendations

The Board of Aldermen:

- 2.1 Prepare accurate annual budgets that contain all information required by state law, designate a budget officer, discontinue deficit budgeting, and ensure the budgets are adequately monitored and properly amended. Additionally, the Board should evaluate funding needs of the city parks and consider reducing future taxes, and if plans have been made for expending the accumulated cash balance, such plans should be set forth publicly in the budget document.
- 2.2 Ensure the city's semiannual financial statements are published as required by state law and city ordinance.
- 2.3 Timely submit annual financial reports to the State Auditor's Office as required by state law.

Auditee's Response

- 2.1 The new city administration will ensure its annual budgets are prepared and adopted as required and properly monitored, and will reassess funding needs and only levy taxes to generate revenue actually needed to meet those funding needs.
- 2.2 The city accepts the Auditor's recommendation and will see to it that semiannual financial statements are published as required by law.
- 2.3 The city accepts the Auditor's recommendation and will timely submit annual financial reports to the State Auditor's Office as required by state law.

3. Tax Increment Financing

We noted concerns with the city's handling of a Tax Increment Financing (TIF) project. The city has not assessed the project status, repaid amounts from commingled TIF revenues, or properly accounted for TIF revenues. Additionally, the city has not filed annual reports or held public hearings as required.

TIF is an economic development tool that redirects local tax revenues to the redevelopment of eligible properties that are otherwise economically unfeasible. Sections 99.800 to 99.865, RSMo, known as the Real Property

City of Bel-Ridge
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Tax Increment Allocation Redevelopment Act, enables cities to finance certain redevelopment costs with the incremental tax revenue generated by the net increase in assessed valuation, along with a portion (50 percent in this case) of the incremental increases to sales taxes, resulting from the redevelopment. When a TIF plan is adopted, real estate taxes and economic activity taxes in the redevelopment area are frozen at the current level, or base valuation. By applying the real estate tax rate of all taxing districts having taxing power within the redevelopment area to any increased assessed valuation above the base value and by applying 50 percent of any increases to sales taxes over the base year, a tax "increment" is created. The real estate tax increments are referred to as payments in lieu of taxes (PILOTS) and the sales taxes increases are referred to as economic activity taxes (EATS). The PILOTS and EATS collected from the redevelopment areas are required to be deposited by the city into a special allocation fund for each project.

In May 2006, the city enacted ordinance 2006-11 approving the Bel-Ridge North TIF Redevelopment Plan that established the redevelopment area along and north of Natural Bridge Road and described the redevelopment project. The ordinance also adopted tax increment financing for the redevelopment area and redevelopment project.

3.1 Project status

The city has taken no action on the redevelopment plan since its approval and has not assessed the status of the project or distributed any surplus TIF revenues collected.

Since approval of the redevelopment plan in 2006, the project has been inactive. During 2012, at the request of the city, the developer relinquished his rights to the project. According to the former developer and current city officials, no work was performed on the project and there are no plans to complete the project. However, as noted in section 3.2, expenses for street work on northern Bel-Ridge streets was charged to the TIF Fund in 2018.

According to a St. Louis County official, the county began distributing PILOTS to the city¹ in 2007, and the city's TIF reports indicate EATS on-hand as of September 30, 2010. Based on the last TIF report filed for the project (year ended December 31, 2018), TIF revenues held by the city totaled approximately $1,028,000. In 2018 the city expended approximately $79,000 from the TIF Fund resulting in the TIF Fund balance at December 31, 2018, totaling approximately $949,000 ($1,028,000 less $79,000). Taxing districts contributing PILOTS and EATS to the project include the Normandy School District, City of St. Louis, City of Bel-Ridge, and other taxing authorities.

¹ Assessed valuations and sales taxes may increase in a TIF area resulting in PILOTS and EATS without action on a TIF redevelopment plan due to other developments occurring within the area or in nearby areas, or due to improvements in general economic conditions.

City of Bel-Ridge
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Section 99.810.1(3), RSMo, requires redevelopment projects be completed within 23 years of the ordinance approving the redevelopment plan. Since the redevelopment plan for the project was approved in 2006, the statute requires the project end no later than 2029. In addition, Section 99.835, RSMo, requires any TIF moneys not required for payment of redevelopment costs shall be deemed to be surplus funds and all surplus funds shall be distributed to the taxing districts in the redevelopment area. As the city has no current plans for the development of the project, the net TIF revenues on hand represent surplus revenues.

By collecting PILOTS and EATS with no plans for the money, the city has deprived the taxing districts of amounts that could be available for other purposes. Also the taxpayers who paid the PILOTS and EATS have not received benefits from the project.

3.2 Commingling TIF revenues

The city has not repaid amounts due to the TIF Fund, Park Fund, and Storm Water Fund from TIF revenues commingled among the General, TIF, Park, and Storm Water Funds in previous years.

The following table lists the amounts due to or (due from) the TIF Fund as of December 31, 2017:

Fund	Amount due to/(from) the TIF Fund
General Fund	$ 698,499
Park Fund	(170,676)
Storm Water Fund	(49,966)
Net total due to the TIF Fund	$ 477,857

Source: City of Bel-Ridge audited financial statements for the year ending December 31, 2017.

No repayments of these amounts were made during 2018, and these amounts continue to remain due as of December 31, 2018. Additionally, during 2018, the city incurred approximately $79,000 for street repairs and improvements and also tree removal and pruning that was charged to the TIF Fund. Since city officials could not locate the redevelopment plan for the project, it is not clear if the work performed was within the project area or in accordance with the redevelopment plan. Some of the work performed was on a street that was ceded to the city from the City of Berkeley in 2018, about 12 years after the redevelopment plan was adopted. City officials could not locate the redevelopment plan or explain why these costs were charged to the TIF Fund.

Additionally, the city has not established separate accounts for PILOTS and EATS. Therefore, the amount of PILOTS on hand and the amount of EATS on hand cannot be determined.

City of Bel-Ridge Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Section 99.845.5, RSMo, states, "The treasurer or other designated financial officer of the municipality with approved plans or projects shall deposit such funds in a separate segregated account within the special allocation fund established pursuant to section 99.805." Further, Section 99.805(16), RSMo, defines "Special allocation fund" as "the fund of a municipality or its commission which contains at least two separate segregated accounts for each redevelopment plan, maintained by the treasurer of the municipality or the treasurer of the commission into which payments in lieu of taxes are deposited in one account, and economic activity taxes and other revenues are deposited in the other account."

To ensure that TIF revenues have been used for allowable purposes and properly accounted for, PILOTS and EATS should be separately accounted for and amounts due to/from the TIF Fund should be repaid. The 2018 TIF Fund expenditures should be evaluated to determine if the expenses were in accordance with the redevelopment plan.

3.3 Reporting

City officials did not file annual reports for the TIF project for the year ended December 31, 2010, 2012, or 2016, with the Missouri Department of Revenue (DOR), and the annual reports filed were not always accurate. For example, the annual reports for 2017 and 2018 indicated the amounts collected since inception and the amounts on hand for PILOTS and EATS were zero and the project status was fully operational. Also, the developer, who relinquished his rights to develop the project in 2012, was still listed as the developer.

Section 99.865.1, RSMo, requires each municipality to file an annual report with the DOR by November 15 of each year regarding the status of each redevelopment plan and redevelopment project existing as of December 31 of the preceding year.

3.4 Public hearings

The city has not held public hearings every 5 years for the project as required by state law. The city could not provide documentation of any public hearings occurring since the redevelopment plan was approved in May 2006.

Section 99.865.3, RSMo, states, "Five years after the establishment of a redevelopment plan and every five years thereafter the governing body shall hold a public hearing regarding those redevelopment plans and projects created pursuant to sections 99.800 to 99.865. The purpose of the hearing shall be to determine if the redevelopment project is making satisfactory progress under the proposed time schedule contained within the approved plans for completion of such projects. Notice of such public hearing shall be given in a newspaper of general circulation in the area served by the commission once each week for four weeks immediately prior to the hearing."

City of Bel-Ridge
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Recommendations

The Board of Aldermen:

- 3.1 Review the current status of the TIF project and assess the city's position whether to proceed with the redevelopment plan or dissolve the TIF district and return all surplus funds to the proper taxing authorities.
- 3.2 Ensure PILOTS and EATS are separately accounted for, determine whether 2018 expenses charged to the TIF Fund should be repaid to the TIF Fund, and develop plans to repay the amounts due to the TIF Fund, Park Fund, and Storm Water Fund.
- 3.3 Ensure accurate annual reports are filed with the state for each TIF.
- 3.4 Ensure public hearings are held on TIF redevelopment plans as required by state law and city ordinance.

Auditee's Response

- 3.1 The city agrees with the Auditor's finding that the city's prior administration did not properly manage its TIF responsibilities and accepts the Auditor's recommendation to review the status of the TIF project and assess whether to proceed with the redevelopment plan or dissolve the TIF district.
- 3.2 The city accepts and has already begun implementing this recommendation of the Auditor. The city has met with its auditors and accountant(s) and is in the process of investigating the possible amounts due to the TIF Fund, Park Fund and Storm Water Fund.
- 3.3 The city accepts the Auditor's recommendation and will ensure accurate annual reports are filed with the state for each TIF.
- 3.4 The city accepts the Auditor's recommendation and will ensure public hearings are held on TIF redevelopment plans.

4. Restricted Revenues

The city is not properly tracking the balance of some restricted monies. During the year ended December 31, 2018, approximately $85,000 in state motor vehicle-related monies, $146,000 in public safety sales tax monies, $181,000 in capital improvement sales tax monies, and $17,000 in sewer lateral fees received were deposited into the General Fund. State motor vehicle-related monies were combined with other general monies and the related disbursements and balance was not tracked. The balances of the other restricted monies also were not tracked, although receipt and disbursement transactions were separately identified within the General Fund. As a result, the city could not determine at a point in time what portion of the General Fund represented restricted monies.

City of Bel-Ridge
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Article IV, Sections 30(a) and 30(b), Missouri Constitution require motor vehicle-related receipts apportioned by the state of Missouri be disbursed for street-related purposes only. The city's share of St. Louis County sales tax revenues for public safety (Proposition P) were approved by county voters to be used only for public safety purposes. Section 94.890.6, RSMo, requires that capital improvements sales taxes be deposited in a special trust fund, and city ordinances require sewer lateral fees be restricted for repairs to sewer service lines. Separate accounting of restricted monies is necessary to ensure compliance with the Missouri Constitution, state laws, and city ordinances.

Recommendation

The Board of Aldermen determine the amount of restricted monies in the General Fund and establish separate funds or a separate accounting of the restricted monies, including the balances.

Auditee's Response

The city accepts and has already begun implementing this recommendation of the Auditor. The city has met with its auditors and accountant(s) and is in the process of determining the amount of restricted monies in the General Fund and establishing separate funds or a separate accounting of the restricted monies, including the balance, from time to time.

5. Disbursements

City disbursements were not properly supported or approved, some disbursements were questionable, and some bills were not paid timely resulting in late fees and finance charges. In addition, the city did not properly bid several purchases and did not always obtain written contracts.

During the year ended December 31, 2018, the city made non-payroll disbursements totaling approximately $1.4 million including approximately $20,000 in purchases with credit cards and $49,000 with fuel cards.

5.1 Disbursement documentation and review

Significant improvement is needed in the city's disbursement documentation and review procedures.

Credit card receipt slips

The city does not always retain receipt slips for credit card purchases and does not reconcile the receipt slips to the credit card statements. For the transactions, totaling $3,445, from the credit card statements reviewed for December 2017, June 2018, and July 2018, the city could only locate 6 receipt slips totaling $245.

Review of invoices

The city does not always properly review invoices prior to payment. Invoices are provided to the Board President for review prior to payment and a list of disbursements is provided to the entire Board for review at the subsequent Board meeting. We noted the following concerns:

- For 12 of 40 disbursements tested, totaling $39,392, the supporting invoices contained no initials or signature of the former Board President indicating review and approval. Additionally, one item tested containing the former Board President's initials was an employee expense reimbursement in which the employee inappropriately received reimbursement for both $49 in gasoline and $129 in personal vehicle mileage reimbursement for the same trip.

City of Bel-Ridge Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

- For 1 of 2 credit card statements reviewed, totaling $7,270, for fuel purchases, the statement had no indication of being reviewed by a Board member.
- The city did not timely remove the former Mayor from the city's health insurance plan after her departure from the city in April 2018. The city paid the $420 monthly health insurance premiums for the former Mayor through November 2018. When city personnel discovered the oversight, they contacted the health insurer and received a credit for all but $1,464 (or approximately 4 months) of the premiums for the health insurance coverage.

To ensure obligations were actually incurred and amounts paid were proper, all disbursements should be thoroughly reviewed, approved, and supported by paid receipt slips, itemized vendor invoices, or other detailed documentation. Additionally, authorization for payment should be clearly indicated.

5.2 Questionable expenditures

The city incurred costs for food, entertainment, supplies, gifts, and alcoholic beverages for Christmas events in December 2017 and 2018 for employees and families totaling approximately $1,200 that were not reasonable and/or did not provide a benefit to the city.

Public funds should be spent only on items necessary and beneficial to the city. Citizens have placed a fiduciary trust in their public officials to spend city monies in a prudent and necessary manner.

5.3 Procurement procedures and contracts

Procurement

The city does not have a formal bidding policy and does not always obtain written contracts.

The city has not established policies for the selection of vendors providing professional services, and does not have a formal bidding policy. The city did not solicit bids or proposals for legal services ($88,158), building inspection services ($63,999), engineering services ($42,303), accounting services ($31,308), tree removal and pruning services ($23,063), or equipment for police vehicles ($11,385). In addition, bids were not obtained on 6 police vehicles costing $183,852 acquired in January 2018 and February 2018 by a lease purchase from a Kansas dealership when comparable vehicles could have been obtained for approximately $48,000 less from a Missouri dealer from the statewide contract.

City of Bel-Ridge Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Soliciting proposals for professional services is a good business practice, helps provide a range of possible choices, and allows the city to make better-informed decisions to ensure necessary services are obtained from the best qualified provider after taking expertise, experience, and cost into consideration.

Formal bidding procedures for major purchases or services provide a framework for economic management of city resources and help ensure the city receives fair value by contracting with the lowest or best bidders. Competitive bidding also helps ensure all parties are given an equal opportunity to participate in city business. Formal bidding procedures should be sufficiently detailed and include requirements for documenting the process of awarding a bid.

Written contracts

The city did not have written contracts with 5 attorneys providing legal services, totaling $88,158, for general counsel and consultation on special matters.

Written contracts are necessary to ensure all parties are aware of their duties and responsibilities, prevent misunderstandings, and ensure city monies are used appropriately and effectively. Section 432.070, RSMo, requires contracts for political subdivisions to be in writing.

5.4 Late fees and finance charges

The city does not ensure bills are paid timely, resulting in late fees and finance charges totaling $565 during the year ended December 31, 2018. The city paid late fees and finance charges totaling $436 for late payments on credit card statements and $129 for late payments on vehicle leases.

To prevent unnecessary fees and finance charges, procedures should be developed to ensure bills are paid timely.

Recommendations

The Board of Aldermen:

- 5.1 Maintain adequate supporting documentation for all disbursements and ensure invoices are adequately reviewed and approved.
- 5.2 Ensure all disbursements are necessary and prudent uses of public funds.
- 5.3 Periodically solicit proposals for professional services, establish formal bidding policies and procedures, and ensure bids are obtained when applicable. Also, the Board should enter into written contracts defining services provided and benefits received.
- 5.4 Implement procedures to ensure bills are paid timely.

City of Bel-Ridge
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Auditee's Response

- 5.1 The city agrees with the Auditor's findings that the financial management and oversight practices of former city officials were inadequate. The city accepts the recommendation of the Auditor and will maintain adequate supporting documentation for all disbursements and ensure invoices are adequately reviewed and approved.
- 5.2 As reflected in the Auditor's report, based upon the expenses incurred for food, entertainment, supplies, gifts, and alcoholic beverages for Christmas events, the current Board did not hold a similar party in 2019 and does not intend to do so in the future. In that same vein, the city accepts the recommendation of the Auditor and will ensure all disbursements are necessary and prudent uses of public funds.
- 5.3 The city accepts the recommendation of the Auditor and will develop policies and procedures with respect to the soliciting and approving of bids and will require accountability from any personnel whose stewardship of public funds has been inadequate. The city will ensure that documentation relative to the soliciting and approval of bids is maintained at city hall. The city will ensure all written contracts are executed in accordance with Section 432.070, RSMo.
- 5.4 The city accepts the recommendation of the Auditor and has started the process of implementing procedures to ensure bills are paid timely.

6. Officials' Compensation

Salaries ordinance

The city did not annually fix salaries for officers and employees of the city by ordinance as required. Additionally, the city executed a multi-year contract with the Chief of Police that conflicts with city ordinances, and approved compensation to a former Alderman that was not allowable.

The city did not annually fix salaries for officers and employees of the city by ordinance. Section 79.270, RSMo, authorizes the Board to fix the compensation of city officials and employees by ordinance. City Code Section 115.060 requires the Board to fix the compensation of all the officers and employees of the city by ordinance.

Chief of Police's contract

In January 2019, the city approved a multi-year employment contract with the Chief of Police that restricts the ability of future Boards to annually appoint the Chief of Police and fix the salary as required by city ordinances. The current Chief of Police was appointed in April 2018. In January 2019, the Board approved a contract drafted by the Chief of Police and one of the city's contracted attorneys that extended the Chief of Police's employment for 5 years through December 31, 2023, and included an annual salary rate increase of 3 percent.

City of Bel-Ridge
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

City Code Section 200.020 requires the Chief of Police be subject to annual appointment by the Board, and City Code Section 115.060 requires the Board to fix the compensation of all the officers and employees of the city by ordinance.

Additional compensation to Alderman

The city was not in compliance with its conflict of interest ordinance when it paid a Board member $194 for street work performed in November 2018, in addition to his salary as Alderman.

City Code Section 117.040 prohibits any Board member from performing "... any service for the city for any consideration other than the compensation provided for the performance of one's official duties."

Recommendation

The Board of Aldermen ensure salaries and compensation for city officers and employees are in accordance with city ordinances and state law.

Auditee's Response

The city agrees with the Auditor's finding that former city officials improperly structured employee and official compensation. The city agrees with the Auditor's recommendation and will develop policies and procedures and pass appropriate ordinance(s) with respect to the compensation of city officers and employees.

7. Receipting Controls and Payroll Procedures

Weaknesses exist with the city's controls and procedures over receipts and payroll.

During 2018, the city received monies for various taxes, fees, and licenses totaling approximately $2.4 million and the city made payroll disbursements totaling approximately $947,000.

7.1 Segregation of duties

The Board has not adequately segregated accounting duties or ensured a documented supervisory or independent review over receiving and depositing monies is performed. The City Clerk, 2 deputy clerks, and the Police Clerk each receipt monies and prepare their own deposits. No reviews of the detailed receipt slips and deposits are performed by other city personnel or Board members.

Proper segregation of duties helps ensure all transactions are accounted for properly and assets are adequately safeguarded. If proper segregation of duties cannot be achieved, documented independent or supervisory reviews of receipts and bank deposits should be performed.

7.2 Receipts, deposits, and reconciliations

Receipt slips are not always issued for monies received, the numerical sequence of receipt slips is not accounted for, receipts are not reconciled to deposits, and checks/money orders are not restrictively endorsed immediately upon receipt.

City of Bel-Ridge Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

For 14 deposits tested from October 1, 2018, through October 23, 2018, totaling approximately $35,000, receipts slips were not issued for 10 receipts totaling $19,881. In addition, the city did not account for the numerical sequence of receipt slips issued or reconcile the receipts to the deposits. Also, when conducting cash counts in April 2019, we noted none of the 3 checks on hand, totaling $305, had been restrictively endorsed.

Failure to implement adequate receipting, depositing, and reconciling procedures increases the risk that loss, theft, or misuse of monies could occur and go undetected.

7.3 Personnel records

Employment records for employees are not complete. For 10 employee personnel files reviewed, we noted the following documentation was lacking from the files:

- approved pay rates for 6 employees,
- employment application forms for 3 employees, and
- the I-9 form for 1 employee.

Complete personnel records should be maintained for all employees to provide documentation for personnel actions. In addition, according to the federal Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986, an individual may not begin employment unless an I-9 form is completed.

7.4 Payroll segregation

Payroll duties are not properly segregated and payroll records are not properly reviewed. The Chief of Police enters authorized pay rates, deductions, and leave hours used into the payroll system for payroll preparation by the contracted payroll processor. Although an accounting firm prepares the city's bank reconciliations and posts journal entries into the accounting system related to payroll, it does not perform a review for the propriety of payroll amounts paid.

Proper segregation of duties helps ensure all transactions are accounted for properly and assets are adequately safeguarded. If proper segregation of duties cannot be achieved, documented independent or supervisory reviews of payroll records should be performed to ensure that payroll amounts are proper.

Recommendations

The Board of Aldermen:

- 7.1 Segregate the accounting duties. If proper segregation cannot be achieved, ensure documented independent or supervisory reviews are performed.
- 7.2 Ensure receipt slips are issued for all monies received, ensure the numerical sequence of all receipts slips is accounted for, and

City of Bel-Ridge
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

reconcile receipts to deposits. In addition, the Board should ensure checks are restrictively endorsed upon receipt.

7.3 Ensure employment records are maintained and complete for all employees.

7.4 Segregate the payroll duties. If proper segregation cannot be achieved, ensure documented independent or supervisory reviews are performed.

Auditee's Response

7.1 The city accepts the recommendation of the Auditor and will develop and implement policies and procedures to either segregate accounting duties, or if proper segregation cannot be achieved due to limited staffing, ensure that documented independent or supervisory reviews are performed.

7.2 The city accepts the recommendation of the Auditor and has already taken steps to ensure that receipt slips are issued for all monies received, properly accounted for, and reconciled to the deposit. Further, the Board will pass appropriate legislation setting forth what city officers and/or employees are authorized to endorse checks.

7.3 The city accepts the recommendation of the Auditor and will develop and implement policies and procedures to ensure employment record management functions are centralized and uniform to the extent possible and that they are regularly maintained and complete for all employees.

7.4 The city accepts the recommendation of the Auditor and will develop policies and procedures to ensure that payroll management is centralized and uniform to the extent possible and that documented independent or supervisory reviews are performed.

8. Management Practices and Procedures

Management practices and procedures are in need of improvement.

8.1 Monitoring promissory note

The city has not properly monitored the status of a promissory note due the city. In 2010, the city sold land that included several homes to a buyer for $180,000. The sale terms required the buyer to pay the city $80,000 upon sale closing, and the buyer issued an unsecured promissory note to the city for the remaining $100,000. The promissory note requires the buyer to make quarterly payments of an amount equal to 25 percent of the buyer's net cash flow from the property from the previous quarter and requires the loan be paid in full by December 31, 2030. City officials indicated the buyer has not made any payment to the city or provided financial records, and the city has not requested the buyer's financial records to ensure the buyer is honoring the terms of the note. According to the buyer, there have not yet been any profits from the property.

The Board has a fiduciary responsibility to taxpayers to ensure procedures are developed to review the buyer's financial records periodically, and require payment, if appropriate, to provide assurance monies owed to the city are collected.

8.2 Business licenses

The Board has not documented an evaluation of the license fees for businesses/occupations and merchants, and has no support for the basis for changes made to license fees for businesses/occupations. As a result there is less assurance the license fees are set at fair, equitable, and appropriate levels. The city requires businesses/occupations pay an annual license fee based on type of business/occupation and requires merchants pay an annual license fee based on the merchant's gross sales. City receipts from license fees for businesses/occupations and merchants totaled approximately $274,000 for the year ended December 31, 2018.

The rates for businesses/occupations annual license fees vary significantly among business types and the city has no documentation supporting the basis for the decision establishing the rates. For example, fees for building contractors, cement contractors, and electrical contractors are each $100 per year, while fees for cleaning agencies, auto repair shops, and plumbers are $1,000 per year, and hotels and motels are $2,000 per year. The current fee structure was set in 2017 and reflected significant increases in fees for some businesses/occupations. In 2018, in response to concerns raised by some businesses/occupations, the Board lowered the $2,000 and $1,000 fees to $500 for 2018 with those fees increasing to $750 for 2019 and then increasing again in 2020 to $2,000 and $1,000. City officials could not explain the basis for the amounts and the reasons for the differences among businesses/occupations types, and the city did not maintain a record of the annual fees in place before the 2017 rate increases.

To ensure businesses/occupations license fees are established fairly and equitably, the Board should consider factors such as the business size, extent of required city services, revenues to be raised, and the type, nature, and number of businesses/occupations to be licensed in determining appropriate license fees. Additionally, complete documentation should be maintained of the rates, increases, and considerations and basis for the rates.

Recommendations

The Board of Aldermen:

- 8.1 Determine the status of the promissory note and take steps to collect any amounts currently due.

City of Bel-Ridge
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Auditee's Response

8.2 Review the fairness of the business/occupation license fees and maintain documentation of the basis for the various rates.

8.1 The city accepts the recommendation of the Auditor and will determine the status of the promissory note and take steps to collect any amounts currently due.

8.2 The city agrees with the Auditor's finding that former city officials set license fees unfairly. The city has already begun implementing this recommendation of the Auditor to restore a lawful business license fee structure. An ordinance was passed in March 2020 adjusting the fees charged for various business/occupation licenses including, but not limited to, auto repair shops, hotels and motels, and plumbers.

9. Sunshine Law and Ordinances

City officials did not always ensure compliance with the Sunshine Law and city ordinances need improvement.

9.1 Meeting minutes

Minutes for several open and closed Board meetings could not be located. In addition, the City Clerk had not signed some minutes as the preparer, and the Board had not timely approved some minutes. We noted the following concerns with minutes for meetings held between January 9, 2018, and June 4, 2019.

- No minutes were provided for open meetings on May 1, 2018, February 26, 2019, March 13, 2019, and April 6, 2019, though subsequent minutes indicate the Board approved the May 1, 2018, meeting minutes on August 18, 2018. Also, the city had prepared notices and agendas for these meetings.
- No minutes were provided for closed meetings on January 9, 2018, January 18, 2018, March 14, 2018, and April 22, 2019.
- Minutes for 13 meetings were not signed by the preparer.
- Minutes were not always approved timely by the Board and minutes from 10 meetings had not been approved as of June 4, 2019. The oldest unapproved minutes were from April 24, 2018.

Section 610.020, RSMo, requires meeting minutes be maintained as a record of business conducted and to provide an official record of Board actions and decisions. The meeting minutes should be signed by the City Clerk as preparer and subsequently approved by the Board to provide an independent attestation that the minutes are a correct record of the matters discussed and actions taken during the meetings.

City of Bel-Ridge
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

9.2 Closed meetings

The Board did not always comply with the Sunshine Law regarding closed meetings. Additionally, in November 2019, the city and the Attorney General's Office agreed to a consent judgment requiring training of city officials and other corrective measures in settlement of a lawsuit filed in June 2018 over the city's handling of closed meetings from June 15, 2017, through February 15, 2018.

Reasons for closed meetings

Open meeting minutes available from January 9, 2018, through June 4, 2019, did not document the specific reasons or section of law allowing the meeting to be closed for 8 of the 16 closed meetings held.

Section 610.022, RSMo, requires public bodies announce the specific reasons allowed by law for going into a closed meeting and to enter the vote and reason into the minutes.

Allowable topics

Some topics discussed and voted on in the closed meetings held on February 6, 2018, and August 29, 2018, were not allowable under the Sunshine Law. During the February 6, 2018, closed meeting the Board discussed city code related to business license fees and acquiring new police vehicles. During the August 29, 2018, closed meeting the Board discussed whether a former police officer could wear a retired captain's badge.

Section 610.021, RSMo, provides that the discussion topics and actions in closed meetings should be limited to only those specifically allowed by law.

9.3 Meeting notices and agendas

Meeting notices and agendas were not provided for some meetings. No notices and agendas could be provided for meetings held on January 18, 2018, February 15, 2018, and April 10, 2018.

Section 610.020.1, RSMo, requires public entities to give notice of the time, date, and place of each meeting, and its tentative agenda, to advise the public of matters to be considered.

9.4 Ordinances

The city does not properly account for all ordinance numbers and could not locate ordinances for 7 ordinance numbers skipped during 2018, or provide any documentation indicating these ordinances had been presented to or approved by the Board.

Once approved by the Board, bills are assigned a sequential ordinance number and codified. The city maintains codified ordinances in a binder and online for the public to view including a disposition listing of city ordinances in sequential order. The disposition listing is a sequential listing indicating the ordinance number, adoption date, and subject, and provides reference to the applicable city code section, or indicates the ordinance does not affect city code. For 2018, the disposition listing skipped 7 ordinance numbers.

City of Bel-Ridge
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Because ordinances passed by the Board to govern the city and its residents have the force and effect of law, it is important ordinances be complete and organized.

Recommendations

The Board of Aldermen:

- 9.1 Maintain complete and accurate minutes for all meetings and ensure meeting minutes are signed by the preparer and approved by the Board timely.
- 9.2 Ensure specific reasons for closing a meeting are documented in the open minutes, and ensure only topics allowed by state law are discussed in closed Board meetings.
- 9.3 Ensure notices and agendas are provided to advise the public of public meetings and are retained.
- 9.4 Properly account for all ordinances.

Auditee's Response

- 9.1 The city agrees with the Auditor's finding that former city officials often did not comply with the requirements of the Sunshine Law. This Board has entered into a consent judgment with the Attorney General's office to correct previous practices. The city accepts and has already begun implementing the recommendation to maintain complete and accurate minutes of meetings that are properly prepared and approved.
- 9.2 The current city administration has and will continue the practice of the new administration to abide by the open meetings and records law with regard to authorizing and conducting closed meetings.
- 9.3 The current city administration has and will continue to abide by the open meetings and records law with regard to meeting notices and agendas.
- 9.4 The city accepts the recommendation of the Auditor and will ensure that a complete and well-organized index of all ordinances passed and rescinded be maintained at city hall, as well as accessible online.

10. Capital Assets and Insurance Procedures

Controls and procedures over city property need improvement.

The city does not maintain records of its capital assets. As a result, assets are more susceptible to theft or misuse. The city's insurance carrier valued the city property, buildings, and contents at approximately $4.7 million at December 31, 2018.

City of Bel-Ridge
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

The city has not developed procedures to identify capital asset purchases and dispositions throughout the year. In addition, the city does not tag, number, or otherwise identify most property items as belonging to the city, or perform annual physical inventories. Also, the city's property insurance policy did not include loss coverage for 4 residential properties owned by the city or for improvements at a city park. Although, these properties are covered for general liability, the structures and improvements remained uninsured for damage or loss. City officials were unaware these properties and improvements were not insured.

Adequate capital asset records and procedures, including annual inventories, are necessary to provide controls over city property; safeguard city assets that are susceptible to loss, theft, or misuse; and provide a basis for proper financial reporting and insurance coverage. Capital asset records should be maintained on a perpetual basis. Records should include a detailed description of the assets such as acquisition cost, descriptions, make and model numbers, and asset identification numbers; the physical location of the assets; and, the date and method of disposition of the assets. In addition, property control tags should be affixed to all property items to help improve accountability and ensure assets are properly identified as belonging to the city. In addition, without adequate insurance, losses of or damages to city owned assets could prohibit the city from being able to replace necessary buildings or equipment creating further financial strain. Failure to obtain property insurance exposes the city, elected officials, employees, and taxpayers to losses incurred to city property.

Recommendation

The Board of Aldermen ensure complete and detailed capital asset records are maintained that include all pertinent information for each asset such as tag number, description, cost, acquisition date, location and subsequent disposition. The Board should also ensure city personnel properly tag, number, or otherwise identify all applicable city property and conduct and document an annual inventory, and ensure all city assets are properly insured.

Auditee's Response

The city started the process of compiling a complete inventory of capital assets that has the description, cost, acquisition date, and location of each asset. Moreover, the Board, in conjunction with city staff, is developing and implementing policies to ensure that city property is properly tagged and identified. As such, the city agrees with the Auditor's recommendation. The city intends to perform regular inventories hereafter.

City of Bel-Ridge

Organization and Statistical Information

The City of Bel-Ridge is located in St. Louis County. The city was incorporated in 1947 as a village, and in 2015 voters approved reclassification to a fourth-class city. The city employed 20 full-time employees and 6 part-time employees on December 31, 2018.

City operations include law enforcement services, maintenance of streets, and parks and recreation. Additionally, the city maintains storm water sewers, but does not provide water or sewer services to residences or businesses.

Mayor and Board of Aldermen

The city government consists of a mayor and 6-member board of aldermen. The members are elected for 2-year terms. The mayor is elected for a 2-year term, presides over the board of aldermen, and votes only in the case of a tie. The Mayor and Board of Aldermen, at December 31, 2018, are identified below. The Mayor and Board of Aldermen members are paid $200 per month.

Michael Ruff, Alderman (2)
Robbin Russell, Alderwoman and Board President (1)
Glenn Tope, Alderman (3)
Wilma Abernathy, Alderwoman

(1) Clifford Whitaker, Jerome Robinson, and Henry Watts were all elected in April 2019, replacing Reginald Brown, Karen Nelson, and Robbin Russell.
(2) LaTwanya Davis was elected in June 2020 replacing Michael Ruff.
(3) Glenn Tope was elected Board President in April 2019.

Other Principal Officials

The Chief of Police is an appointed position. The City Attorney is a contracted position.

Mark Harris, Chief of Police
Stephen A. Martin, City Attorney (1)

(1) Kevin O'Keefe was appointed in April 2019, replacing Stephen A. Martin as the City Attorney.

Mayor's Transition

When Willie Fair was sworn into office as Mayor in April 2018, he sought a court order allowing him access to city hall and city records, alleging that the previous city Mayor along with other city officials were unlawfully restricting his access and prohibiting him from fully assuming his role as Mayor. The city spent approximately $14,000 in legal fees with regard to the dispute. The city and Mayor Fair entered into a consent agreement in June 2018 allowing the Mayor access to certain areas of city hall and city records while restricting his access to other areas and records.

NICOLE GALLOWAY, CPA

Missouri State Auditor

County Commission
and
Officeholders of Douglas County

We have audited certain operations of Douglas County in fulfillment of our duties under Section 29.230, RSMo. The scope of our audit included, but was not necessarily limited to, the year ended December 31, 2019. The objectives of our audit were to:

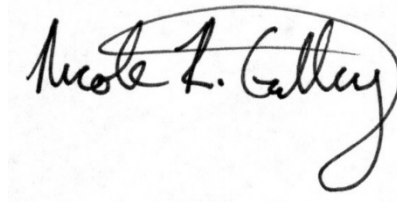

1. Evaluate the county's internal controls over significant management and financial functions.
2. Evaluate the county's compliance with certain legal provisions.
3. Evaluate the economy and efficiency of certain management practices and procedures, including certain financial transactions.

Our methodology included reviewing minutes of meetings, written policies and procedures, financial records, and other pertinent documents; interviewing various personnel of the county, as well as certain external parties; and testing selected transactions. We obtained an understanding of internal control that is significant to the audit objectives and assessed the design and implementation of such internal control to the extent necessary to address our audit objectives. We also obtained an understanding of legal provisions that are significant within the context of the audit objectives, and we assessed the risk that illegal acts, including fraud, and violations of applicable contract, grant agreement, or other legal provisions could occur. Based on that risk assessment, we designed and performed procedures to provide reasonable assurance of detecting instances of noncompliance significant to those provisions.

We conducted our audit in accordance with the standards applicable to performance audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform our audit to obtain sufficient, appropriate evidence to provide a reasonable basis for our findings and conclusions based on our audit objectives. We believe that the evidence obtained provides such a basis.

The accompanying Organization and Statistical Information is presented for informational purposes. This information was obtained from the county's management and was not subjected to the procedures applied in our audit of the county.

For the areas audited, we identified (1) deficiencies in internal controls, (2) noncompliance with legal provisions, and (3) the need for improvement in management practices and procedures. The accompanying Management Advisory Report presents our findings arising from our audit of Douglas County.

Management Advisory Report

State Auditor's Findings

1. Personnel Policies

The County Commission has not established clear policies regarding leave usage for county employees. In addition, the County Commission and Sheriff disagree on the required number of working hours for deputies within the Sheriff's office.

The county's personnel policy manual states the required work period for Sheriff's office employees is 171 hours in a 28-day period. Any hours worked beyond 171 hours in the 28-day period allow the employee to be eligible for compensatory time in accordance with the Fair Labor Standards Act. The county's policies do not address whether leave usage (sick leave, vacation leave, and compensatory time) can be used to satisfy the 171-hour requirement.

The county processes payroll for all county employees every 2 weeks. The county expects deputies in the Sheriff's office to work at least 80 hours every 2 weeks, although the county policy requires 171 hours over 28 days. The 2-week pay period reduces the scheduling flexibility allowed within the 171 hours over 28 days. This also results in deputies sometimes accumulating more than 171 total hours (work hours plus leave usage) in a 28-day schedule. For example, hours recorded by one deputy during a 28-day work period in 2019 are documented in the table below.

	First Pay Period	Second Pay Period	Total Work Period
Regular hours	49.5	97.0	146.5
Holiday hours	0.0	16.0	16.0
Sick leave hours	32.0	0.0	32.0
Total hours	81.5	113.0	194.5
Required hours			171.0
Over/(Under) required hours			23.5

As a result, the deputy used 23.5 more hours of sick leave than would have been required if the initial sick leave usage counted towards the 171-hour requirement. The county's practice is to not count the leave usage towards the 171-hour requirement. However, the county's personnel policies do not address this issue.

The County Commission and the Sheriff disagree regarding the required work hours of law enforcement employees. The county indicated that deputies are to work a minimum of 171 hours. On January 1, 2020, the Sheriff enacted a policy that establishes the work period for deputies at 160 hours in a 28-day period. According to this policy, deputies are to receive straight compensatory time for hours worked over 160 hours and up to 171 hours (commonly referred to as "gap hours"). In addition, deputies are to receive compensatory

Douglas County
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

time at a rate of one and a half times the hours worked for any hours over 171 in a 28-day period.

Written personnel policies that clearly document required working hours, leave usage, and compensation, if any, for "gap hours" and strict compliance with those policies is necessary to ensure equitable treatment of employees, prevent misunderstandings, and ensure employees are properly compensated.

Recommendation

The County Commission work with the Sheriff to establish policies that clearly document required working hours for deputies, including whether leave hours will count toward the required number of working hours and how compensatory time will be calculated.

Auditee's Response

We will review the personnel policy and make any necessary changes to the policy.

2. Sheriff's Controls and Procedures

Controls and procedures in the Sheriff's office need improvement. Office personnel collected monies for civil paper service, prisoner transportation reimbursement, commissary commissions, and other miscellaneous receipts totaling approximately $124,000 during the year ended December 31, 2019.

2.1 Civil account liabilities

Sheriff's office personnel do not reconcile the list of liabilities for the civil account to the available cash balance. The December 31, 2019, reconciled bank balance totaled $3,381. After subtracting the liabilities amount of $1,213 from the reconciled balance, the account contains an unidentified balance of $2,168.

Regular identification and comparison of liabilities to the available cash balance is necessary to ensure accounting records are in balance, all amounts received are disbursed, and monies are available to satisfy all liabilities. Differences must be adequately investigated and explained.

2.2 Seized property

The Sheriff's office has not established adequate controls and procedures over seized property. A physical inventory of seized property has not been performed. In addition, the Sheriff does not periodically review cases and dispose of related seized property items. Some seized property has been held for several years.

Considering the often sensitive nature of seized property, adequate internal controls are essential and would significantly reduce the risk of loss, theft, or misuse of the property. Complete and accurate inventory control records should be maintained, and periodic physical inventories performed with the results compared to inventory records to ensure seized property is accounted for properly. Section 542.301, RSMo, provides the requirements for the disposition of seized property that has not been forfeited or returned to the claimant.

Douglas County
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

2.3 Outstanding checks

The Sheriff's office has not established procedures to routinely follow up on outstanding checks in the civil account. As of December 31, 2019, 31 checks totaling $909 had been outstanding for over one year, with 4 checks dating back to 2012.

Procedures to routinely follow up on outstanding checks are necessary to prevent the accumulation of monies in the account and ensure monies are appropriately disbursed to the payee or as otherwise provided by state law.

Similar conditions previously reported

A similar condition to section 2.1 was noted in our prior 2 audit reports and a similar condition to section 2.2 was noted in our prior audit report. In addition, Report No. 2016-130, Follow-Up Report on Audit Findings - Douglas County, issued in November 2016, reported the statuses, at that time, as partially implemented and in progress, respectively.

Recommendations

The Sheriff:

- 2.1 Reconcile monthly lists of liabilities for the civil account to the available cash balance. Any differences between accounting records and reconciliations should be promptly investigated and resolved.
- 2.2 Ensure a periodic inventory is conducted and reconciled to the seized property evidence log, and investigate any differences. The Sheriff should also make timely and appropriate dispositions of seized property in accordance with state law.
- 2.3 Establish procedures to routinely investigate outstanding checks. Old outstanding checks should be voided and reissued to payees that can be readily located. If payees cannot be located, the monies should be disposed of in accordance with state law.

Auditee's Response

- 2.1 I am in the process of hiring an accountant, which will resolve this issue.
- 2.2 We will continue to work on this as time is available by the evidence officer and the court. I believe our new record management system will alleviate this issue. It is just a matter of getting everything caught up to date from the items we inherited from the prior administration.
- 2.3 This will be resolved with the hiring of an accountant.

3. Recorder of Deeds' Bank Reconciliations

The Recorder of Deeds does not maintain a check register balance or prepare adequate bank reconciliations. The Recorder of Deeds collected various fees totaling approximately $94,000 related to recording documents, such as marriage licenses and deeds, during the year ended December 31, 2019.

Douglas County
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

The Recorder of Deeds does not maintain a check register balance. At the end of each month the Recorder of Deeds subtracts the total amount of outstanding checks from the bank statement balance to obtain a book balance. However, since a balance in the check register is not maintained, the reconciled balance cannot be compared to the book balance. As a result, adequate bank reconciliations cannot be performed because deposits in transit and outstanding checks are not identified individually, and any differences between a check register balance and the reconciled bank balance cannot be investigated and resolved.

Maintaining a check register balance and performing adequate monthly bank reconciliations helps ensure receipts and disbursements have been properly handled and recorded.

A similar condition was noted in our prior audit report. In addition, Report No. 2016-130, Follow-Up Report on Audit Findings - Douglas County, issued in November 2016, reported the status, at that time, as partially implemented.

Recommendation

The Recorder of Deeds maintain a check register balance, ensure monthly bank reconciliations are adequately performed, and promptly investigate and resolve differences between the check register balance and the bank reconciliations.

Auditee's Response

I agree and plan to properly update the check register balance and to perform adequate bank reconciliations.

4. Public Administrator's Bank Reconciliations

The Public Administrator does not prepare bank reconciliations for all wards. The Public Administrator's office was responsible for the financial activity of 70 wards and estates as of December 31, 2019.

We reviewed 7 active cases and noted no bank reconciliations were documented for 3 wards. Performing monthly bank reconciliations helps ensure receipts and disbursements have been properly handled and recorded.

Recommendation

The Public Administrator perform monthly bank reconciliations.

Auditee's Response

I agree and will implement the recommendation.

NICOLE GALLOWAY, CPA

Missouri State Auditor

To the Honorable Mayor
and
Members of the Board of Aldermen
City of Center, Missouri

We have audited certain operations of the City of Center as they relate to the city's finances in fulfillment of our duties under Chapter 29, RSMo. Due to concerns regarding missing monies and improper disbursements, the State Auditor initiated the audit with the approval of the City of Center Board of Aldermen. The scope of our audit included, but was not necessarily limited to the period from January 1, 2015, through July 3, 2019. The objectives of our audit were to:

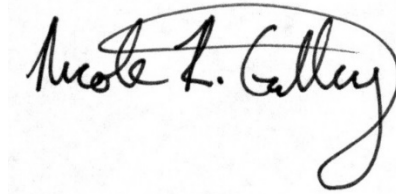

1. Evaluate the city's internal controls over significant management and financial functions.
2. Evaluate the city's compliance with certain legal provisions.
3. Evaluate the economy and efficiency of certain management practices and procedures, including certain financial transactions.
4. Determine the extent of monies misappropriated from the city.

Our methodology included reviewing minutes of meetings, written policies and procedures, financial records, and other pertinent documents; interviewing various personnel of the city, as well as certain external parties; and testing selected transactions. We obtained an understanding of internal control that is significant to the audit objectives and assessed the design and implementation of such internal control to the extent necessary to address our audit objectives. We also obtained an understanding of legal provisions that are significant within the context of the audit objectives, and we assessed the risk that illegal acts, including fraud, and violations of applicable contract, grant agreement, or other legal provisions could occur. Based on that risk assessment, we designed and performed procedures to provide reasonable assurance of detecting instances of noncompliance significant to those provisions.

We conducted our audit in accordance with the standards applicable to performance audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform our audit to obtain sufficient, appropriate evidence to provide a reasonable basis for our findings and conclusions based on our audit objectives. We believe that the evidence obtained provides such a basis.

The accompanying Organization and Statistical Information is presented for informational purposes. This information was obtained from the city's management and was not subjected to the procedures applied in our audit of the city.

For the areas audited, we identified (1) deficiencies in internal controls, (2) noncompliance with legal provisions, (3) the need for improvement in management practices and procedures, and (4) misappropriated monies and improper disbursements totaling at least $316,887. The accompanying Management Advisory Report presents our findings arising from our audit of the City of Center.

City of Center

Introduction

Background

The former City Clerk, Tracey Ray,¹ began employment with the city in May 2004. As City Clerk, Tracey Ray was responsible for the following financial accounting functions and records:

- Receipts - collecting and receipting all payments received by the city, posting transactions to the accounting system and customer sewer accounts, and preparing and making bank deposits. In October 2018, the city hired a part-time clerk to work with the former City Clerk. This clerk receipted some payments received, posted some sewer transactions into the accounting system, and prepared some deposits. The former City Clerk continued to be the only one making deposits.
- Disbursements - making purchases; preparing a list of bills to be paid each month and providing the list to the Board of Aldermen for approval; maintaining supporting documentation; preparing, signing, and distributing checks; posting disbursements to accounting records; and transferring money between city bank accounts. Only the Mayor and former City Clerk were authorized signors on the city bank accounts. Only one signature was required. The former City Clerk signed most checks.
- Payroll - calculating, preparing, and distributing payroll checks (including checks related to the payment of payroll taxes); posting disbursements to the accounting records; and preparing 941 and W-2 forms.
- City billings - preparing and mailing invoices for sewer services; and preparing and mailing tax statements for city personal and real estate property taxes.
- Bank accounts - receiving and reconciling monthly bank statements to accounting records.
- Reporting - preparing Board meeting minutes and financial reports.

In June 2019, the State Auditor's Office (SAO) Whistleblower Hotline received a citizen complaint regarding the city's lack of compliance with state law for publishing financial statements and concerns about the transparency of city officials about city operations. Subsequently, in early July, the Mayor contacted the SAO about how to initiate a state audit.

The Mayor indicated in subsequent discussions with the SAO that when the former City Clerk was on vacation in late June 2019, he was notified by the

City of Center Introduction

Ralls County Clerk that a large fine had been assessed by the state due to failure to file financial statements. He notified the former City Clerk of the fines and she stated she would address the situation upon her scheduled return to work on July 1, 2019. She failed to report for work that day. Investigation by the Mayor and other city officials revealed additional concerns and as a result of those concerns, the Board voted to terminate the former City Clerk's employment on July 3, 2019.

On July 3, 2019, the Board also passed an ordinance formally requesting and authorizing an audit by the SAO. On July 10, 2019, the SAO notified the Board in writing that we accepted the city's request. SAO staff visited the city to attempt to determine the type and extent of records maintained. Most financial data maintained in the city computer, including accounting system data, was not available and we determined financial records and supporting documentation, such as bank statements and reconciliations, invoices, receipt and deposit records, and payroll records were either not available or incomplete. We could not access the city accounting system data due to username and password protections and city officials could not provide access information for the system.

The SAO issued subpoenas to Capital One Bank, N.A., GM Card Services, Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., Family Heritage Life Insurance Company of America, CITI Bank NA and CITI Mortgage, Globe Life & Accident Insurance Company, Nationwide, Kohl's Department Store, and LaCrosse Lumber Company to produce records related to Tracey Ray's potential personal transactions paid using city funds. (See Appendixes A through I) These appendixes include redactions of information of a personal, privileged, or sensitive nature, and/or of information that is not directly related to the information requested in the subpoena.

The city's fiscal year is January 1 through December 31. The scope of our audit included, but was not necessarily limited to the period January 1, 2015, through July 3, 2019, based on the date the City Clerk left employment with the city. We applied procedures to city receipts and disbursements (including payroll), utility billings, and property tax transactions to determine the amount misappropriated, and the methods used to perpetrate and conceal the theft.

Criminal investigation

The Missouri State Highway Patrol and Ralls County Sheriff's Department also investigated criminal charges unrelated to the theft in July 2019. The Attorney General's Office (AGO) was appointed as special prosecutor in that case. The AGO filed charges related to that matter in November 2019 and Tracey Ray is currently awaiting trial on those charges. The FBI was contacted regarding the theft.

City of Center Management Advisory Report State Auditor's Findings

1. Misappropriated Money

Between January 1, 2015, and July 3, 2019, at least $316,887² was misappropriated from the city. During this period, the former City Clerk, Tracey Ray, used city money to pay personal credit card bills totaling $206,343 and obtained $1,997 in credit card rewards points related to transactions paid for from city funds. The former City Clerk made improper payments using city money for health insurance coverage totaling at least $62,013 and personal expenses totaling at least $35,547. The former City Clerk also made improper payroll disbursements to herself totaling $3,580 and did not deposit at least $7,407 in cash receipts.

The following table provides a summary of the amounts misappropriated.

Improper personal credit card disbursements

The former City Clerk made 30 improper disbursements totaling $206,343 from 3 city bank accounts to pay personal Capital One/GM³ credit card bills between February 2016 and July 2019. (see Appendix J) Credit card statements from January 1, 2016 through August 2, 2019 were obtained by subpoena and showed the former City Clerk as a card holder for this account from January 2016 until August 1, 2016, when she became the owner after her divorce. The former city Police Chief⁴ became a card holder in August 2017 after he married the former City Clerk. They divorced after the audit period.

² Amounts presented in the report findings are rounded to the nearest dollar. The amounts presented in the report appendices are not rounded.

³ Checks were issued to Capital One and ACH transactions were to Capital One or GM Card Services. Subpoenas were issued to both entities. Credit card records indicate there was only one credit card account for a GM credit card issued by Capital One Bank, N.A.

⁴ The former Police Chief was hired June 1, 2016.

City of Center Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Of the 30 improper disbursements, 22, totaling $180,472, were electronic payments from city accounts, while 8, totaling $25,871, were checks to Capital One Card Services, written from city bank accounts. Of the total disbursements made on the credit card account during the period of January 16, 2015 through July 2, 2019, only $15,722 (7.08 percent), came from non-city accounts. Board members indicated the city did not maintain a credit card and they were unaware of the credit card disbursements from city funds. The disbursements to the credit card vendor were not reported on the list of bills presented to the Board for approval. (See Appendixes A and J)

The following table shows the credit card charges by the former City Clerk and other authorized users, between January 1, 2016 through July 3, 2019.

		Year Ended, December 31, 2018			January 1 to July 3, 2019	Total
		2016	2017	2018
Tracey Ray	$	60,298	45,360	62,246	43,828	211,752
Other Authorized Users		1,184	4,063	1,199	800	7,246
Total	$	61,482	49,423	63,465	44,628	218,998 ¹

¹ Totals do not agree to the total improper disbursements because this information represents credit card charges rather than payments.

Our review of the personal credit card statements included scheduling the individual vendor disbursements and attempting to determine if any purchases related to city business that the former City Clerk could have requested reimbursement for. Invoices to support the purchases were not available, but we did not identify any reimbursable purchases or city-related vendors. We determined the former City Clerk spent $143,290 at various retail vendors, including $32,946 at Amazon and $24,893 at Walmart. In addition, credit card statements showed the former City Clerk spent $23,038 at construction and home improvement stores, including $15,069 at Lowe's. The statements also showed the former City Clerk spent $21,881 on entertainment, lodging, and travel, including vendors such as Explore America, HomeAway, Ticketmaster, and multiple hotels. The former City Clerk also spent $2,645 at a hair salon, $9,621 at various restaurants, and $1,788 at various grocery stores. (See Appendix K)

Credit card rewards

In addition to the $206,343 of improper city disbursements made for the former City Clerk's personal credit card charges, the former City Clerk earned $1,997⁵ in rewards from those charges and spent $1,911 of those rewards. The other $86 remained in the credit card reward balance as of July 3, 2019.

⁵ The amount earned with city monies is 92.92 percent (percent of credit card payments made from city accounts) of the total rewards, $2,149, earned during the audit period.

City of Center
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Anthem Blue Cross and Blue Shield

The former City Clerk made improper disbursements totaling $62,013 from December 2015 through June 2019 to Anthem Blue Cross and Blue Shield (Anthem). She made 39 improper payments, totaling $62,538, to Anthem and deposited 2 refund checks from Anthem, totaling $525, into the city General Fund bank account. (See Appendix L)

On May 7, 2014, the Board voted to discontinue health insurance coverage for city employees as of July 2014. In December 2015, the former City Clerk began making payments from city funds for a policy with Anthem, without Board approval. The former City Clerk renewed this policy through a local insurance agent with an effective date of August 1, 2016. The former City Clerk paid $2,058 for the coverage between December 2015 and July 2016 from city funds. Coverage information for this time period is unavailable. Beginning August 1, 2016, the policy with Anthem provided health insurance coverage for Tracey Ray, her husband, and 1 dependent child. The policy was renewed annually in August with coverage for the same individuals. Life and disability insurance was added for Tracey Ray and her husband, effective August 1, 2018.

Improper personal purchases

From January 1, 2015, to July 3, 2019, the former City Clerk made improper disbursements totaling $35,547. We reviewed bank records, available invoices and purchase receipt slips, and documentation provided upon subpoena to determine if purchases were personal in nature. Invoice and purchase receipt slip records were limited and often did not include the purpose of the purchase. We also discussed the purchases with the Mayor and Mayor Pro Tem and reviewed available accounting system reports and the lists of bills provided to the Board to determine if the purchases could be related to city business.

Improper disbursements determined through reviewing subpoenaed documentation and discussions with the Mayor and Mayor Pro Tem but are otherwise unsupported are included in Appendix M. Improper disbursements determined through reviewing available invoices and purchase receipt slips are included in Appendix N.

Improper tax disbursements

The former City Clerk made a $1,342 disbursement from the General Fund account to the Audrain County Collector for the 2014 and 2015 real estate property taxes of the former Police Chief in May 2016. She described this disbursement as a "refund" on the accounting system register report. In addition, the former City Clerk made a $198 disbursement from the General Fund account to the Marion County Collector for the 2014 personal property taxes of an individual in April 2015. We could not obtain contact information for this individual to get any additional information about the transaction. The Mayor and Mayor Pro Tem indicated they were unaware these disbursements occurred and saw no reason for the city to pay the real estate and/or personal property tax of any individual. It is unlikely these disbursements related to city business. (See Appendix M)

City of Center
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Mortgage payment

The former City Clerk made a disbursement, totaling $1,000, in May 2016 from the city's General Fund account to CitiMortgage. Documentation provided by CitiMortgage upon subpoena showed the payment was for the former City Clerk's monthly mortgage payment and an additional amount towards the principal of the loan. The former City Clerk described this disbursement as a "refund" on city accounting system reports. The Mayor and Mayor Pro Tem indicated they were unaware this disbursement occurred. (See Appendixes E and M)

Family Heritage Life Insurance Company of America

The former City Clerk made 4 disbursements totaling $2,208 to Family Heritage Life Insurance Company of America (Family Heritage). Of the disbursements, the former City Clerk made 3 from the city's General Fund account, totaling $1,656, and 1 for $552, from the city's Sewer Fund account. Documentation provided upon subpoena by Family Heritage showed these disbursements were premium payments for a life insurance policy for Tracey Ray. The Mayor and Mayor Pro Tem indicated they were unaware these disbursement occurred and the city did not offer life insurance as an employee benefit. (See Appendixes D and M)

Globe Life and Accident
Insurance Company

The former City Clerk made 4 disbursements totaling $996 from the city's General Fund account to Globe Life and Accident Insurance Company (Globe Life). Documentation provided upon subpoena by Globe Life showed these disbursements were premium payments for 2 life insurance policies: 1 for Tracey Ray and 1 for her dependent child. Documentation provided indicates the former City Clerk also made payments for the policies from her personal accounts. The Mayor and Mayor Pro Tem indicated they were unaware these disbursements occurred and the city did not offer life insurance as an employee benefit. An accounting system report could only be located for the November 2016 disbursement. The report listed the purpose of the disbursement as insurance. Board members indicated they were not always provided accounting system reports. (See Appendixes F and M)

Other employee benefits

The former City Clerk made 5 disbursements, totaling $2,311, including 4 disbursements, totaling $1,694, from the General Fund account and 1 disbursement, for $616, from the Sewer Fund account, to Aflac, Inc. (Aflac). The former City Clerk also made 4 disbursements, totaling $1,165, from the General Fund account to Prudential Financial, Inc. (Prudential). Accounting system reports could only be located for the 3 disbursements made to Aflac and 2 disbursements made to Prudential in 2016. The reports listed the purpose of the disbursements as insurance and employee benefit, respectively. The Mayor and Mayor Pro Tem indicated they were unaware these disbursements occurred. We did not issue a subpoena to Aflac or Prudential because city officials indicated the city did not offer any insurance

City of Center
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

or other employee benefits after the Board voted to discontinue health insurance coverage in May 2014. Because all checks were signed solely by the former City Clerk and do not represent a valid city disbursement, these disbursements are considered improper and personal in nature. (See Appendix M)

Wells Fargo Bank

The former City Clerk made 4 improper disbursements totaling $12,311 to Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. (Wells Fargo). The disbursements included 3, totaling $12,281, from the Sewer Fund in 2016 and 1 for $30, from the General Fund in 2017. The Mayor and Mayor Pro Tem indicated they were unaware these disbursements occurred and said the city maintained no accounts with Wells Fargo to justify these disbursements. The former City Clerk identified these disbursements as "refund" in available accounting system reports. If the city had no accounts with the financial institution, the likely only valid refunds to such an institution would relate to real estate property tax payments received. It is doubtful such refunds would be made from the Sewer Fund bank account because city personnel deposited tax receipts in the General Fund account. In addition, we reviewed deposit documentation and noted the city only received $1,588 from Wells Fargo for taxes in 2015, prior to the 2016 disbursements, further indicating the amounts paid were not valid refunds.

We issued a subpoena to Wells Fargo for information pertaining to these disbursements, but the vendor could not locate related account information. Since all four checks were signed solely by the former City Clerk and do not represent valid refunds, these disbursements are considered improper. (See Appendixes C and M)

Kohl's Department Store

The former City Clerk made 5 disbursements between May 2016 and December 2018, totaling $3,629, to Kohl's Department Store (Kohl's). The disbursements included 2 from the General Fund totaling $1,257, 2 from the Sewer Fund totaling $2,175, and 1 from the Park Fund for $197. The Mayor and Mayor Pro Tem indicated they were unaware these disbursements occurred and stated the city maintained no accounts with Kohl's to justify these disbursements.

Accounting system reports could only be located for the 3 disbursements made in 2016 and each was identified as being for Park Days, a city annual festival generally held the last Saturday of July. However, the disbursements were made in May, October, and December 2016 indicating they were likely for another purpose than the July event. In addition, the accounting system report listed the October 2016 disbursement going to Kohl Wholesale, a food company, instead of the department store as the check shows. We issued a subpoena to Kohl's for information pertaining to these disbursements, but the vendor could not locate the account associated with these payments. Vendor officials indicated the company did not offer business charge accounts. Since

City of Center
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

all five checks were signed solely by the former City Clerk and do not represent valid city disbursements, these disbursements are considered improper and personal in nature. (See Appendixes H and M)

Related party disbursements The former City Clerk wrote 8 checks, totaling $1,256, to her mother between May 2015 and March 2017. The Mayor and Mayor Pro Tem indicated they were unaware these disbursements occurred and did not know of any business the city had with this individual. Accounting system reports could only be located for the 3 disbursements made in 2016. The reports identified one disbursement from the Park Fund account was a Park Days expense for wristbands and the other two from the Sewer and Street Fund accounts were identified as park maintenance. Of the other 5 disbursements, 4 were from the General Fund account and 1 was from the Street Fund account. The city has no record of a W-2 or 1099 form issued to this individual for city work and there is no personnel file or other documentation to support she worked for the city. Since all 8 checks were signed solely by the former City Clerk and there is no supporting documentation to justify these disbursements, these disbursements are considered improper. (See Appendix M)

Other improper disbursements The former City Clerk made additional improper purchases totaling $9,131 at retail stores, restaurants, and other various vendors. Our review identified numerous gift card purchases for retail stores and restaurants. She made the restaurant gift cards purchases at Walmart, Lowe's, Sam's Club, and Shopko. Other improper purchases included 2 payments to Hobby Lobby, totaling $678, identified on accounting system reports as police department expenses. Also, the former City Clerk made a $675 payment to an actuarial firm for Local Government Employees' Retirement System (LAGERS) valuation services for 2 city employees in 2016. This disbursement was not authorized by the Board and city officials indicated the city does not offer LAGERS retirement benefits and this benefit has not been considered. City officials believe the former City Clerk may have been considering adding such benefits without Board approval. Some of the other items improperly purchased included: boys clothing; curtains and curtain rods; light fixtures; door handles; flooring; a shower curtain, rod, and liner; towels; rugs; flower delivery; candy; groceries including crab legs and shrimp; and party supplies. (See Appendixes M and N)

Improper payroll disbursements The former City Clerk improperly issued herself 5 additional payroll checks, totaling $3,080, between April 2016 and June 2016 and a $500 bonus in December 2015. The additional checks were dated the same date for the same amount as 5 other payroll checks issued to the former City Clerk and bank records indicate the former City Clerk signed and endorsed each check. The former City Clerk also improperly issued herself a check for $500 on December 3, 2015. This check was written on the same day as her weekly paycheck and was signed and endorsed by the former City Clerk. The memo line of the check indicated "bonus," but a review of the Board minutes in late

City of Center
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Undeposited cash
receipts

2015 do not document any discussion or approval of a bonus for the former City Clerk and the Mayor indicated bonuses are not given to employees. (See Appendix O)

At least $7,407 of recorded General and Sewer Fund account cash receipts, received between January 2016 and June 2019, were not deposited. Receipt slips issued prior to November 15, 2015, are missing and other receipts were included in deposits that were not recorded for this period. Due to the missing records and unrecorded receipts we could not determine the total amount of money received but not deposited; however, it is likely additional money is missing.

City receipts include annual property tax payments due in December, sewer payments due annually until 2018 when the city began billing monthly, merchant license fees, park fees, and other miscellaneous receipts. City personnel also collected cash for Park Days for in 2015, 2016, and 2017.⁶ We compared available receipt slips that indicated cash as the method of payment to deposit documentation. (See Appendix P for details of cash receipt slips, deposits, and the differences in receipts and deposits for the General and Sewer Fund accounts.)

Available receipt slips and other documentation for the period January 2016 through June 2019, indicate cash totaling $12,893 was received related to General and Sewer Fund activities, but only $5,486 in cash was deposited in the General and Sewer Fund accounts. No cash receipts were deposited in the General and Sewer Fund accounts in 2016 or 2017, although available receipt slip records and other documentation show the city received cash related to these accounts during that time. Receipt slips indicate the payments were for sewer billings, town hall rentals, building permits, and other miscellaneous city receipts. In addition, documentation provided by the local coffee club indicates the club made cash donations to the city during this period. A representative from the club indicated the club gave the cash directly to the former City Clerk, but the club did not receive a receipt slip.

City officials indicated the city accepted cash payments and receipt slips and other documentation indicate cash payments occurred for sewer payments, property taxes, city stickers, merchant licenses, coffee club donations, and other various items. In addition, some cash was deposited to the General and Sewer Fund bank accounts in 2018 and 2019 indicating at least some customers paid cash and these payments were deposited in the related bank account.

⁶ As of 2018, Park Days operations are handled by a not-for-profit organization that supports the park.

City of Center
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Unsupported questionable transactions

The former City Clerk primarily issued the receipts slips and made all the deposits. The current City Clerk, who was formerly the deputy City Clerk, indicated the former City Clerk did not allow her to make deposits.

In addition to the improper disbursements made by the former City Clerk, we also determined 247 disbursements, totaling $87,692, made by the former City Clerk had no supporting documentation and were considered questionable based on discussions with city officials. (See Appendix Q)

Questionable transactions

We identified questionable transactions, after discussing disbursements from all city bank accounts from January 1, 2015 through July 3, 2019 (approximately $1.4 million), with the Mayor and Mayor Pro Tem on January 9, 2020. The purpose of the meeting was to identify which vendors city officials believed to be valid and if the disbursements to any of these vendors were for city business. We also considered available transaction reports, the 2016 register report, and the list of bills prepared for the Board in determining the questionable disbursements presented.

These transactions include 76 disbursements, totaling $38,375, to an individual who was an employee and also performed contract labor for the city. Disbursements identified as payroll for this individual in available accounting records were not questioned. Questionable disbursements also include 4 disbursements to the former City Clerk's then husband, totaling $6,620; 21 disbursements to Lowe's, totaling $6,366; 23 disbursements to Walmart, totaling $6,302; and 9 cash withdrawals, totaling $2,010.

Questionable related party
disbursements

Supporting documentation was not available for 4 disbursements made to the former City Clerk's husband during the time period the disbursements occurred. The disbursements, made between May and October 2015, totaled $6,620. The former City Clerk made two of the disbursements, totaling $1,780 from the General Fund and 2, totaling $4,840, from the Sewer Fund. The memo line of one of the 2 checks from the Sewer Fund indicated "sewer main repair." When we discussed these disbursements with the Mayor and Mayor Pro Tem, both recalled work done by his construction company in 2015, but neither could determine a reason for the city to pay him personally and there was no documentation to support the disbursements. We located 3 invoices to support disbursements, totaling $3,835, to his construction company in 2015, and those disbursements were not questioned.

In addition to the direct payments to the former City Clerk's husband in 2015, documentation provided by LaCrosse Lumber Company upon subpoena indicates the former City Clerk made a disbursement, totaling $4,132, in August 2015, on the account of his construction company. Several of the invoices provided to support this payment made reference the Center Shelter House, which is a structure at the city park according to city officials.

City of Center
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

As previously discussed, the Mayor indicated he recalled the construction company performed some park and sewer repair work in 2015, but he could not provide any details or explain why the city would have paid the company's LaCrosse Lumber Company bill directly. The Mayor indicated the Board did not authorize the former City Clerk to pay a bill at the lumber company on her ex-husband's account and a review of the Board minutes identified no discussion or votes on any related topics. Since all checks to the former City Clerk's husband in 2015 were signed solely by the former City Clerk and there is no supporting documentation to justify these disbursements or explain why city funds were paid directly to the lumber company on the husband's company's account, we consider these disbursements to be questionable. (See Appendix Q)

Cash withdrawals

The former City Clerk made 9 unsupported, questionable cash withdrawals, totaling $2,010. She made the withdrawals by writing checks to cash or the City of Center or through direct withdrawal. It is unclear if the cash was used for city business or personal purposes.

Eight of the cash transactions, totaling $1,680, came from the Park Fund account. The Mayor indicated the Park Fund account cash transactions could have related to Park Days. One check written to cash for $500 was dated July 27, 2017 (2 days before the event), and the memo line indicated "Park Day Cash boxes." In addition, two other checks, totaling $275, written on July 21, 2016 (9 days before the event) had descriptions in the 2016 accounting system register report of "cash for change" and "cash for drink stand." For another check, written in February 2016, the 2016 accounting system register report listed the purpose as a park trivia night expense. No records of amounts brought in or spent on the annual Park Days or trivia night events were maintained to verify these notations. Three of the other 4 cash transactions are unlikely related to the annual Park Days event based on the dates of the transactions and the duties of the former City Clerk. The transactions were in May and June 2017, and July 2018 and the former City Clerk was not involved with Park Days after 2017.

The former City Clerk also wrote one check for $330 to the City of Center from the Sewer Fund account. The Mayor indicated he does not know why she wrote a check to the City of Center, other than to get cash for an event. The city had no documentation to support this disbursement. She wrote the check in June 2019. The city held no events that month. (See Appendix Q)

Falsified records

The former City Clerk falsified Board financial reports and lists of bills prepared for Board meetings. The Mayor and some Board members indicated the former City Clerk provided various financial records for review at Board meetings, but the information provided was not consistent. Board meeting minutes indicate the Board approved financial statements and a list of bills to be paid monthly. We reviewed the available information including 8 months of account balance reports,⁷ and 7 months of bills to be paid lists⁸ provided to the Board.

City of Center Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Financial reports

The City Clerk falsified the cash balances of some bank accounts on financial reports prepared for monthly Board meetings.

Of the financial information provided to the Board by the former City Clerk, only 8 months of account balance summary reports are available. The bank account balances reported to the Board on these reports did not agree to the corresponding bank statements for 46 of the 48 (96 percent) checking account balances reported. Some balances reported are significantly less than the bank statement balances and others are more than the bank statement balances. Some differences may be due to reconciling items between accounting system records and bank statements; however we found no documentation indicating the former City Clerk prepared bank reconciliations (see MAR finding number 3.2). For example, the City Clerk prepared a report for the Board showing cash balances for each fund account as of December 31, 2018, that reported inaccurate account balances as follows:

Bank account	Account Balances
	per Financial Report	Actual Bank Account Balances
CD - Sewer(1)	$ 25,000	25,000
Fire Checking	7,023	4,497
General Checking	32,340	18,842
Park Checking	3,306	3,306
Police Training Checking	384	2,583
Sewer Checking	467,920	296,196
Street Checking	46,378	45,220
Total	$ 582,351	395,644

(1) The Sewer CD is for 2 CDs; one for $10,000 and one for $15,000.

Actual bank statements were not presented at Board meetings according to city officials. The misreporting of these account balances concealed the depletion of the Sewer Fund account by the former City Clerk.

List of bills

The former City Clerk prepared inaccurate and incomplete lists of bills to be paid for monthly Board meetings. For example, the list for February 2019 (approved at the February 6, 2019 board meeting for bills due before the next ⁷ Account balance reports were available for 8 months (November 2016; November 2017; January, March, April, and December 2018; and January and February 2019).

⁸ Lists of bills to be paid were available for March, April, November, and December 2018 and January, February, and March 2019.

City of Center
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Board meeting on March 6, 2019) was missing disbursements including payroll, a February 28 disbursement to South Lake Designs for $200, a February 28 disbursement to the Postmaster for $330, and a March 1 disbursement to Capital One for $5,012. The February list also included items not paid until after the March Board meeting including a $1,662 disbursement for a taser for the Police Department (paid March 13, 2019) and a $66 utility bill listed (paid in April when a $132 disbursement occurred).

Our review of the 7 available lists showed they did not include all payroll disbursements and the expenditures listed as improper in the Appendixes.

Additional falsified financial reports and lists of bills to be paid may have been prepared for other months during the audit period; but no other records could be located by city officials.

Overall conclusion

The Board did not provide sufficient oversight of the former City Clerk and city finances as discussed in the remainder of this report, which resulted in improper disbursements, including personal credit card payments and missing cash receipts going undetected for many years. The unusual nature and excessive number of checks written and electronic payments and lack of cash deposits should have caused suspicion and alerted the Board to the misappropriation. It is apparent the Board did not review the limited financial documents provided for accuracy or compare this information to any supporting documents, such as invoices, checks written, or bank statements. Inaccurate financial records provided to the Board helped conceal the misappropriation.

Recommendation

The Board of Aldermen continue to work with law enforcement officials regarding criminal prosecution of the improper disbursements and missing money. The Board should also review the questionable, unsupported disbursements and work with law enforcement officials regarding criminal prosecution of any personal purchases. The Board should take necessary action to obtain restitution for all improper disbursements and missing money. The Board should also ensure all disbursements are necessary and prudent uses of public funds.

Auditee's Response

We will continue to work with our legal counsel and law enforcement officials to pursue criminal prosecution of the former City Clerk. All Board members and the City Clerk will review the questionable disbursements identified in the audit report and work with law enforcement officials to determine if any of those disbursements were, in fact, fraudulent. We plan to pursue obtaining restitution for all fraudulent transactions and missing money and have already collected restitution totaling $99,054 from the former City Clerk. We also plan to file a claim against her bond, which has coverage of $25,000. We will take all necessary actions to obtain full restitution to the extent available by law. We have begun changing procedures regarding oversight of the receipting and disbursement process to ensure all future receipts are deposited and disbursements are valid uses of city funds.

City of Center
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

2. Oversight and Annual Audits

2.1 Oversight and segregation of duties

The Board did not establish adequate oversight of the former City Clerk or obtain annual audits as required by state law.

The Board did not establish adequate segregation of duties or supervisory reviews over the various financial accounting functions performed by the former City Clerk, including various receipting, disbursement, and payroll handling functions, as identified in the background section. The Board also did not perform an adequate review of the documentation provided by the former City Clerk. The weaknesses identified throughout this report are significant and demonstrate a lack of segregation of duties and proper oversight by the Board that led to the misappropriation noted in MAR finding number 1.

The Mayor and Mayor Pro Tem indicated the financial statement documentation and lists of bills to be paid were only briefly reviewed before the Board approved the disbursements. The Board did not compare bank balances or individual transactions to a corresponding bank statement or invoice in order to ensure account balances were accurate, all transactions were accounted for, and expenditures were actually made to the indicated vendor. In addition, accounting system access was limited and checks only required one signature prior to August 2019. The former City Clerk was the primary signor of checks between January 2015 and July 3, 2019. If Board members had performed thorough reviews and required additional oversight of the disbursement process, it is likely they would have noted at least some the improper disbursements and inaccurate and incomplete reports provided.

Proper segregation of duties helps ensure transactions are accounted for properly and assets are adequately safeguarded. If proper segregation of duties is not possible, timely supervisory or independent reviews of work performed and investigation into unusual items or variances is necessary. Good management practices require extensive and detailed oversight by the Board.

2.2 Annual audits

The city does not obtain annual audits as required by state law and city officials do not know when the last audit of city finances occurred. Section 250.150, RSMo, requires the city to obtain annual audits of the sewerage system, and the cost of the audit is to be paid from the revenues received from the system.

City of Center
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Recommendations

The Board of Aldermen:

- 2.1 Segregate accounting duties to the extent possible and implement appropriate reviews and monitoring procedures over the city's financial activity.
- 2.2 Obtain annual audits of the sewerage system as required by state law.

Auditee's Response

- 2.1 We agree and plan to continue to improve oversight procedures to monitor financial activity of the city. We now require 2 signatures on all disbursements and the 2nd signer must review an original vendor invoice at the time of signing. We are working with our City Clerk to determine the reports that will be provided to the Board for review at meetings and a rotating Board member will be responsible for reviewing other financial records periodically in the future.
- 2.2 We plan to get an annual audit for the year ended December 31, 2020, in accordance with state law.

3. Accounting Controls and Procedures

Significant weaknesses exist in the city's accounting controls and procedures.

3.1 Receipting, reconciling, and depositing

The city's procedures for receipting, recording, and depositing payments received are not adequate. As a result, there is no assurance all money collected was properly receipted, recorded, and deposited.

- As noted in MAR finding number 1, receipt slips were not issued for all payments received. Bank records indicate the city deposited approximately $1,034,600 in cash, checks, and money orders during the period January 2015 - July 3, 2019; however, the city could only provide 201 receipt slips totaling $20,250 (2 percent of that amount). Receipt records provided indicate city personnel issued receipt slips for cash and check transactions. Deposit slips did not include the individual receipts composing deposits and other deposit records did not include the composition of the receipts. As a result, we could not determine if all payments received were properly accounted for and deposited into a city bank account. (See MAR finding number 1)
- No one independent of the receipting process accounts for the numerical sequence of receipt slips or reconciles the composition of receipts to the composition of deposits. As a result, there is no assurance all payments received are deposited.

City of Center
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

- Checks and money orders are not restrictively endorsed immediately upon receipt. The restrictive endorsement is applied when the deposit is prepared.

Failure to implement adequate receipting, reconciling, and depositing procedures along with accountability over city receipts increases the risk that loss, theft, or misuse of money received will go undetected.

3.2 Bank reconciliations

The former City Clerk did not perform monthly bank reconciliations for any city bank accounts. Prior to her termination in July 2019, there is no record of bank reconciliations being performed on any city bank account. In addition, the Mayor indicated the former City Clerk did not provide himself or the Board bank reconciliations to review and approve.

Monthly bank reconciliations help ensure receipts and disbursements have been properly handled and recorded, and increases the likelihood errors will be identified and corrected timely. Thorough independent and/or supervisory reviews of bank reconciliations help ensure all assets are adequately safeguarded.

3.3 Record retention

As noted throughout the report, many city financial records were not properly retained. Manual receipt books, deposit records, financial records provided to Board members, and supporting documentation for numerous disbursements could not be located by the city.

Retention of records is necessary to ensure the validity of transactions and provide an audit trail. Section 109.270, RSMo, provides that all records made or received by an official in the course of his/her public duties are public property and are not to be disposed of except as provided by law. Section 109.255, RSMo, provides that the Local Records Board issue directives for the destruction of records. Record retention schedules can be found on the Secretary of State's website.⁹

Recommendations

The Board of Aldermen:

- 3.1 Ensure all money collected is properly receipted. Ensure the numerical sequence of receipt slips are properly accounted for and reconcile the composition of receipts to the composition of deposits. Ensure checks and money orders are restrictively endorsed upon receipt. Ensure deposit slips or other records identify the individual receipts composing deposits.

⁹ <https://www.sos.mo.gov/archives/localrecs/schedules>

City of Center
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Auditee's Response

- 3.2 Perform monthly bank reconciliations of all bank accounts timely and ensure supervisory reviews of bank reconciliations are documented.
- 3.3 Retain all records in accordance with state law.
- 3.1 Manual receipts slips are issued for all monies received now and those payments are then posted to the computer system. Deposit summaries are prepared to document each receipt deposited and we will include the receipt number on that summary in the future to ensure the numerical sequence of receipt slips is accounted for properly. Checks and money orders are now restrictively endorsed upon receipt and deposit summaries identify the individual payers, which will allow a Board member to ensure deposits were made intact.
- 3.2 We have combined all funds into one bank account and while bank reconciliations are not yet being performed, we plan to establish procedures to ensure bank reconciliations are performed monthly and those will be reviewed by a Board member in the future.
- 3.3 We will ensure records are retained in accordance with state law in the future.

4. Payroll

Significant weaknesses exist in the city's payroll controls and procedures.

4.1 Compensation

The city does not maintain documentation of approved pay rates or changes to pay rates in employee personnel files and the compensation for city officials and employees is not set by ordinance as required. In addition, the city does not have adequate controls and procedures in place to ensure payroll disbursements for the Mayor and Aldermen are consistent and accurate.

No documentation is maintained to support the compensation of city officials and employees. Employees are paid weekly but the employee hourly pay rates have not been documented or set by ordinance. In addition, the annual pay for the Mayor and Aldermen is not documented or set by ordinance. The Mayor indicated he believed Mayor and Aldermen pay is based on the number of meetings attended during the year. However, we reviewed payroll disbursements made to the Mayor and Aldermen from April 2014 to March 2019¹⁰ and noted inconsistencies between the annual compensation paid to ¹⁰ This time period is different from our audit period (January 1, 2015 through July 3, 2019) because the Mayor and Aldermen are paid on an April - March year based on when municipal elections occur and the official's term begins (April).

City of Center
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

city officials and the number of monthly board meetings attended. See the table below for inconsistent pay from the period April 2018 to March 2019.

Mayor and Aldermen meetings attended and pay

Position	Meetings Held	Meetings Attended	Annual Compensation
Dennis McMillen, Mayor	10	10	$ 360
Jason Brown, Alderman	10	10	180
Cristy Browning, Alderwoman	10	10	200
Shawn Couch, Alderman	10	8	240
Aaron Jackson, Alderman	10	9	180

Without documentation of approved pay rates, there is less assurance payments to employees are properly authorized. In addition, documented approval by the Board of all employee pay and ordinances documenting approved pay rates helps ensure equitable treatment and prevent misunderstandings. Section 115.060 of the city code requires the Board to fix the compensation of all officers and employees of the city by ordinance. Section 79.270, RSMo, authorizes the Board to fix the compensation of all city officials and employees by ordinance.

4.2 Timesheets

No one could provide documentation that the former City Clerk prepared timesheets during the audit period and no one documented review and approval of the former Police Chief's timesheets. According to the Mayor, the former City Clerk was an hourly employee and he did not know if she prepared a weekly timesheet and he never approved a timesheet for her. City officials could not locate a timesheet to support any of the time she worked. In addition, the former Police Chief was the only signor on his timesheets and there is no indication of supervisory review or approval of them.

Without timesheets, the city does not have sufficient records to ensure the validity of payroll disbursements. To ensure the accuracy of the hours worked and leave taken, timesheets should be signed by the employees and reviewed and approved by a supervisor. In addition, the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) requires employers maintain accurate records of actual time worked by employees.

4.3 Questionable payroll differences

In addition to the improper payroll disbursements identified in MAR finding number 1, additional questionable payroll disbursements, totaling $6,348, were made to the former City Clerk and former Police Chief. A comparison of payroll disbursements to available accounting system reports identified payroll disbursements in excess of recorded payroll. As previously noted, the Board did not establish adequate oversight of the former City Clerk's payroll procedures, which may have allowed the difference in actual disbursements and amounts reported to go undetected. (See Appendix R)

City of Center
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

We compared payroll disbursements per bank statements to the amounts reported on available accounting system register and transaction reports. Our review determined the amount paid to the former City Clerk exceeded the amount recorded by $4,306 and the amount paid to the former Police Chief exceeded the amount recorded by $2,042. The Mayor could not explain the differences. As previously noted, timesheets could not be located for the former City Clerk and neither the former City Clerk or former Police Chief had documented approved pay rates. As a result, we could not determine their appropriate pay.

The former City Clerk was solely responsible for issuing and recording payroll disbursements. Accounting system access was limited and the Board did not review any documents not provided by the former City Clerk or original documentation such as bank statements. As a result, the Board did not identify the differences. Good management practices require extensive and detailed oversight by the Board.

Recommendations

The Board of Aldermen:

- 4.1 Ensure pay rates are documented, approved, and established by ordinance as required for all city employees and officials and are maintained.
- 4.2 Ensure timesheets are prepared, approved, and maintained for all city employees.
- 4.3 Ensure reviews of payroll records are performed to ensure the propriety of payroll payments, and review the questionable payroll disbursements and consider working with law enforcement officials regarding criminal prosecution of the questionable disbursements.

Auditee's Response

- 4.1 We have recently adopted an ordinance regarding Board members pay which establishes an annual payment amount of compensation for each Board member. We will ensure the ordinance is followed in the future. We will adopt ordinances establishing the rate of pay for all city employees and appointed officials.
- 4.2 We agree and have already implemented this recommendation.
- 4.3 The Mayor or another Board member has been reviewing payroll records and timesheets for employees at least monthly. We will review the questionable payroll transactions and discuss with law enforcement officials whether these payments constitute fraud. We will also attempt to determine if additional overpayments occurred.

Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

5. Financial Reporting, Published Financial Statements, and Budgets

The city did not comply with state law relating to submitting annual financial reports, publishing financial statements, and preparing complete annual budgets.

5.1 Financial reporting

Neither the Board nor the former City Clerk submitted a financial report to the SAO as required by state law for the years ended December 31, 2018, 2017, or 2016. As a result, the state imposed fines totaling $157,000 as of July 2019, as provided in Section 105.145, RSMo. The Missouri Department of Revenue (DOR) reduced the city's sales and use tax distributions by $12,238 to offset part of the fines leaving a balance of $144,762 as of June 30, 2019. The city incurred another $5,000 fine for 10 days in July 2019 that the DOR notified the city of in August 2019, and the DOR continued to reduce the city's sales and use tax distributions. The city owed $148,240 as of October 31, 2019.

DOR records indicate the department first notified the city of the noncompliance and resulting fines in July 2018 and sent letters monthly after that. The Mayor indicated he was unaware of the letters and city officials cannot locate any of the letters sent before July 2019. City officials believe the former City Clerk may have discarded them. In July 2019, the Mayor sent a letter to the DOR indicating the city's records were in the possession of the SAO as of July 10, 2019 and the city could not produce a financial statement. As a result the city stopped incurring fines as of July 11, 2019.

Section 105.145, RSMo, requires each political subdivision to file an annual report of its financial transactions with the SAO. Section 105.145.5, RSMo, prohibits elected officials from processing disbursements after the deadline to submit the financial statement and until the financial statement is submitted to the SAO. In addition, 15 Code of State Regulations (CSR) 40-3.030, requires each political subdivision to file annual financial reports within 6 months of the end of the subdivision's fiscal year. Effective August 28, 2017, under Section 105.145, RSMo, the SAO must notify the Missouri Department of Revenue if a political subdivision fails to file a timely financial statement. Failure to timely file a financial statement may subject the political subdivision to a fine of $500 per day.

5.2 Published financial statements

City officials did not publish semiannual financial statements as required by state law. The Mayor indicated he believed the former City Clerk was publishing the statements, but he contacted the local newspaper and determined they had not been published during the audit period. As a result, information regarding the city's financial activity and condition was not available to all citizens.

City of Center Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

Section 79.160, RSMo, requires the Board to prepare and publish financial statements semiannually that include a full and detailed account of the receipts, disbursements, and indebtedness of the city. To ensure compliance with state law, the Board should require timely preparation of financial statements and review the statements prior to publication.

5.3 Budgets

The city's budgets do not contain all statutorily required elements and the Board did not approve the annual budgets timely. The 2015, 2018, and 2019 budgets did not include a budget message or budget summary. The city could not locate the 2016 and 2017 budget documents for our review. In addition, the Board meeting minutes indicate the 2015-2019 budgets were approved in January, after the beginning of the fiscal year.

Section 67.010, RSMo, requires the budget present a complete financial plan for the ensuing budget year and sets specific guidelines for the information to be included in the budget. A complete and well-planned budget, in addition to meeting statutory requirements, can serve as a useful management tool by establishing specific financial expectations for each area of city operations. It also assists in providing information to the public about city operations and current finances. In addition, Section 67.030, RSMo, states the governing body shall approve and adopt the annual budget prior to the beginning of the fiscal year.

Recommendations

The Board of Aldermen:

- 5.1 Submit annual financial reports to the State Auditor's Office as required by state law.
- 5.2 Publish semiannual financial statements as required by state law.
- 5.3 Prepare annual budgets that contain all information required by state law and approve the budget prior to the beginning of the fiscal year.

Auditee's Response

- 5.1 We will ensure financial reports are filed with the State Auditor's Office as required in the future. We plan to contact the Department of Revenue to discuss the potential for having our fines waived or significantly reduced.
- 5.2 This recommendation has been implemented, The first semiannual financial statement covering the first half of 2020 has already been published.
- 5.3 We agree and have already implemented this recommendation.

*The table provides supporting documentation for undeposited recorded cash receipts totaling $7,407.45 for the General and Sewer Fund accounts.

(1) Cash received was classified by bank account based on the purpose on the receipt slip or other documentation. Receipts were classified as General Fund account receipts if the receipt slip purpose was not specific and/or no other documentation was available to indicate the purpose. All coffee club donations were classified as recorded to the General Fund.

(2) This receipt slip is included because it was included with other city receipt slips; however, it is unknown if this was a city transaction.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT

To the County Commission and
Officeholders of Vernon County, Missouri

Report on the Financial Statements

We have audited the accompanying financial statements of Vernon County, Missouri, which comprise the Statement of Receipts, Disbursements and Changes in Cash – All Governmental Funds – Regulatory Basis and the Statement of Fiduciary Receipts, Disbursements and Changes in Cash – Regulatory Basis as of December 31, 2018 and 2019, and the related Comparative Statements of Receipts, Disbursements and Changes in Cash – Budget and Actual – Regulatory Basis for the years then ended, and the related notes to the financial statements.

Management's Responsibility for the Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of these financial statements in accordance with accounting principles prescribed or permitted by Missouri law, as described in Note 1. Management is also responsible for the design, implementation, and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

Auditor's Responsibility

Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the financial statements based on our audit. We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free from material misstatement.

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. The procedures selected depend on the auditor's judgment, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity's preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control. Accordingly, we express no such opinion. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements.

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion.

Basis for Adverse Opinion on U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles

As described in Note 1, the financial statements are prepared by Vernon County, Missouri on the basis of the financial reporting provisions prescribed or permitted by Missouri Law, which is a basis of accounting other than accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

The effects on the financial statements of the variances between the regulatory basis of accounting described in Note 1 and accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, although not reasonably determinable, are presumed to be material.

Adverse Opinion on U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles

In our opinion, because of the significance of the matter discussed in the “Basis for Adverse Opinion on U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles” paragraph, the financial statements referred to above do not present fairly, in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, the financial position of Vernon County, Missouri, as of December 31, 2018 and 2019, or the changes in financial position thereof for the years then ended.

Unmodified Opinion on Regulatory Basis of Accounting

In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the cash balances of each fund of Vernon County, Missouri, as of December 31, 2018 and 2019, and their respective cash receipts and disbursements, and budgetary results for the years then ended, in accordance with the financial reporting provisions prescribed or permitted by Missouri Law as described in Note 1.

Other Reporting Required by Government Auditing Standards

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we also have issued our report dated August 6, 2020, on our consideration of Vernon County, Missouri’s internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grant agreements and other matters. The purpose of that report is solely to describe the scope of our testing of internal control over financial reporting and compliance and the results of that testing, and not to provide an opinion on the effectiveness of Vernon County, Missouri’s internal control over financial reporting or on compliance. That report is an integral part of an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards in considering the County’s internal control over financial reporting and compliance.

VERNON COUNTY, MISSOURI
NOTES TO THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
DECEMBER 31, 2018 and 2019

1. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Vernon County, Missouri ("County") is governed by a three-member board of commissioners. In addition to the three board members, there are nine elected Constitutional Officers: Assessor, Circuit Clerk, Collector/Treasurer, Coroner, County Clerk, Prosecuting Attorney, Public Administrator, Recorder and Sheriff.

As discussed further in Note 1, these financial statements are presented using accounting practices prescribed or permitted by Missouri Law, which differ from accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, which would include all relevant Government Accounting Standards Board (GASB) pronouncements. The differences include use of a prescribed definition of the reporting entity and the cash basis of accounting.

A. Reporting Entity

The County's operations include tax assessments and collections, state/county courts, county recorder, public safety, economic development, social and human services, and cultural and recreation services.

The financial statements referred to above include the primary government of Vernon County, Missouri, which consists of all funds, organizations, institutions, agencies, departments, and offices that are considered to comprise the County's legal entity.

In accordance with the regulatory basis of accounting, the financial statements of the County do not include the activity of the Circuit Court, which is part of the Missouri court system and is considered to be a state function, including the operations of the Circuit Clerk and all funds under their control.

B. Basis of Presentation

Governmental Funds – Governmental resources are allocated to and accounted for in individual funds based upon the purposes for which they are to be spent and the means by which spending activities are controlled. A fund is considered a separate accounting entity with self-balancing accounts that comprise its assets, liabilities, net assets, revenues/receipts and expenditures/disbursements. The County's funds are governmental funds. Governmental funds are those through which most governmental functions are financed. The County's expendable financial resources are accounted for through governmental funds.

Fiduciary Funds – Fiduciary funds consist of custodial funds. Custodial funds account for assets held by the County, particularly the Collector/Treasurer, as an agent of individuals, private organizations, taxing units, other governments and/or funds. Budgets are not adopted for the County's custodial funds.

C. Basis of Accounting

The financial statements are prepared on the cash basis of accounting; accordingly, amounts are recognized when received or disbursed in cash. This basis of accounting differs from accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. Those principles require revenues to be recognized when they become available and measurable or when they are earned, and expenditures or expenses to be recognized when the related liabilities are incurred.

D. Budgets and Budgetary Accounting

The County follows these procedures in establishing the budgetary data reflected in the financial statements:

1. In accordance with Chapter 50, RSMo, the County's policy is to adopt a budget for each governmental fund.
2. On or before the second Monday in January, each elected officer and department director will transmit to the County Commission and County Clerk, who serves as budget officer, the budget request and revenue estimates for their office or department for the budget year.
3. The County Clerk submits to the County Commission a proposed budget for the fiscal year beginning January 1. The proposed budget includes estimated revenues and proposed expenditures, on the cash basis of accounting, for all budgeted funds. Budgeting of appropriations is based upon an estimated fund balance at the beginning of the year as well as estimated revenues to be received.
4. State law requires that, at the individual fund level, budgeted expenditures not exceed budgeted revenues plus anticipated beginning fund balance.
5. A public hearing is conducted to obtain public comment on the budget. Prior to its approval by the County Commission, the budget document is available for public inspection, which usually takes place the third and fourth weeks of January.
6. Prior to February 1, the budget is legally enacted by a vote of the County Commission.
7. Subsequent to its formal approval of the budget, the County Commission has the authority to make necessary adjustments to the budget by a formal vote of the Commission. Budgeted amounts are as originally adopted, or as amended by the County Commission throughout the year.
8. Budgets are prepared and adopted on the cash basis of accounting.
9. Adoption of a formal budget is required by law.
10. Section 50.740, RSMo prohibits expenditures in excess of the approved budgets. Actual expenditures exceed budgeted amounts for the Bond Reserve Fund in 2018.

- E. Property taxes are based on the voter-approved tax levy applied to the real and personal assessed property values. Property taxes attach as an enforceable lien on property as of January 1. Taxes are levied on September 1 and tax bills are mailed to taxpayers in November, at which time they are payable. All unpaid property taxes become delinquent as of January 1 of the following year.

The assessed valuations of the tangible taxable property, included within the County's boundaries for the calendar year 2019 and 2018, for purposes of taxation were:

	2019	2018
Real Estate	$ 169,460,630	$ 168,294,370
Personal Property	69,198,054	66,589,029
Railroad and Utilities	27,806,714	27,197,957
Total	$ 266,465,398	$ 262,081,356

For calendar years 2019 and 2018, the County Commission approved a tax levy per $100 of assessed valuation of tangible taxable property as follows:

	2019	2018
General Revenue	0.1876	0.1749

In addition to the levy above, the County assesses a .50 levy on parcels of land that are part of the sewer district and receives 5% of Road & Bridge taxes levied and collected by each township in the County.

F. Cash Deposits and Cash Equivalents

Deposits and cash equivalents are stated at cost, which approximates market. Cash balances for all the County Treasurer funds are pooled and invested to the extent possible. Interest earned from these balances is allocated to each of the funds based on the funds' average daily cash balance. Cash equivalents may include repurchase agreements and any other instruments with an original maturity of ninety days or less. State law authorizes the deposit of funds in banks and trust companies or the investment of funds in bonds or treasury certificates of the United States, other interest bearing obligations guaranteed as to both principal and interest by the United States, bonds of the State of Missouri or other government bonds, or time certificates of deposit, purchased at a price at or below par. Funds in the form of cash on deposit or time certificates of deposit are required to be insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) or collateralized by authorized investments held in the County's name at third-party banking institutions. Details of these cash and cash equivalent balances are presented in Note 2.

G. Interfund Activity

During the course of operations, interfund activity occurs for purposes of providing supplemental funding, reimbursements for goods provided or services rendered, or short and long-term financing. Interfund activities are reported as "transfers in" by the recipient fund and as "transfers out" by the disbursing fund. However, interfund reimbursements have been eliminated from the financial statements in order that reimbursed expenditures are reported only in the funds incurring the costs.

2. CASH AND CASH EQUIVALENTS

The County maintains a cash and temporary investment pool that is available for use by all funds. Each fund's portion of this pool is displayed on the financial statements within the "Cash and Cash Equivalents" caption. Cash and cash equivalents includes deposits and short-term investments with maturities that are less than ninety days.

Custodial Credit Risk - Deposits – Custodial credit risk is the risk that in the event of a bank failure, a government's deposits may not be returned to it. Missouri statutes require that all deposits with financial institutions be collateralized in an amount at least equal to uninsured deposits. At December 31, 2019 and 2018, the carrying amounts of the County's deposits were $2,600,141 and $2,386,004, respectively, and the bank balances were $2,658,102 and $2,156,261, respectively. Of the bank balances, $250,000 and $250,000 were covered by federal depository insurance at December 31, 2019 and December 31, 2018, respectively. The remainder of the balances at December 31, 2019 and December 31, 2018 were covered by collateral held at the Federal Reserve Bank and the County's safekeeping bank agent in the County's name or by a line of credit held by the County or by its agent in the County's name.

At December 31, 2019 and 2018, County officeholders held, in addition to the cash and cash equivalents listed above, cash and cash equivalents held in a fiduciary capacity on behalf of individuals, private organizations, taxing units, other governments and/or funds. At December 31, 2019 and 2018, the carrying amounts of the County's custodial funds were $12,986,587 and $12,106,873, respectively, and the bank balances were $9,489,324 and $9,169,599, respectively. Of the bank balances, $856,902 and $756,347 were covered by federal depository insurance at December 31, 2019 and December 31, 2018, respectively. The remainder of the balances at December 31, 2019 and December 31, 2018 were covered by collateral held at the Federal Reserve Bank and the County's safekeeping bank agent in the County's name or by a line of credit held by the County or by its agent in the County's name.

3. COUNTY EMPLOYEES' RETIREMENT PLANS

A. Missouri Local Government Employees Retirement System (LAGERS)

1) Plan Description

Vernon County participates in the Missouri Local Government Employees Retirement System (LAGERS), an agent multiple-employer public employee retirement system that acts as a common investment and administrative agent for local government entities in Missouri. LAGERS is a defined benefit pension plan which provides retirement, disability, and death benefits to plan members and beneficiaries. LAGERS was created and is governed by statute, Section 70.600-70.755, RSMo. As such, it is the system's responsibility to administer the law in accordance with the expressed intent of the General Assembly. The plan is qualified under the Internal Revenue Code Section 401 (a) and is tax exempt.

The Missouri Local Government Employees Retirement System issues a publicly available financial report that includes financial statements and required supplementary information. That report may be obtained by writing to LAGERS, P.O. Box 1665, Jefferson City, Missouri 65102 or by calling 1-800-447-4334, or by the following website, www.molagers.org.

2) Pension Benefits

Benefits are available to all full-time employees working in a LAGERS covered department. Benefits vest when an employee earns five years (60 months) of service credit in the system. Normal retirement age is 60 (General) or 55 (Police), and early retirement is 55 (General) and 50 (Police). Benefits are paid out using a formula that is based on the employee's final average salary and amount of credited service time.

3) Funding Policy

Full-time employees of Vernon County do not contribute to the pension plan. The June 30th statutorily required contribution rates were 7.7% and 7.4% (General), and 12.5% and 12.8% (Police) of annual covered payroll for 2019 and 2018, respectively. The contribution requirements of plan members are determined by the governing body of the political subdivision. The contribution provisions of the political subdivision are established by state statute. For the years ended December 31, 2019 and 2018, the County contributed $192,192 and $190,764 to LAGERS.

B. County Employees' Retirement Fund (CERF)

The County Employees' Retirement Fund was established by the State of Missouri to provide pension benefits for County officials and employees.

1) Plan Description

The Retirement Fund is a cost-sharing multiple employer defined benefit pension plan covering any county elective or appointed officer or employee whose performance requires the actual performance of duties during not less than one thousand (1,000) hours per calendar year in each county of the state, except for any city not within a county and any county of the first classification having a charter form of government. It does not include county prosecuting attorneys covered under Sections 56.800 to 56.840, RSMo, circuit clerks and deputy circuit clerks covered under the Missouri State Retirement System, county sheriffs covered under Sections 57.949 to 57.997, RSMo and certain personnel not defined as an employee per Section 50.1000(8), RSMo. The Fund was created by an act of the legislature and was effective August 28, 1994.

The general administration and the responsibility for the proper operation of the Fund and the investment of the Fund are vested in a board of directors of eleven persons.

2) Pension Benefits

Beginning January 1, 1997, employees attaining the age of sixty-two years may retire with full benefits with eight or more years of creditable service. The monthly benefit for County Employees is determined by selecting the highest benefit calculated using three different prescribed formulas (flat-dollar formula, targeted replacement ratio formula, and prior plan's formula). A death benefit of $10,000 will be paid to the designated beneficiary of every active member upon his or her death.

Upon termination of employment, any member who is vested is entitled to a deferred annuity, payable at age sixty-two. Early retirement is at age fifty-five. Any member with less than eight years of creditable service forfeits all rights in the Fund but will be paid his or her accumulated contributions.

The County Employees' Retirement Fund issues audited financial statements. Copies of these statements may be obtained from the Board of Directors of CERF by writing to CERF, 2121 Schotthill Woods Drive, Jefferson City, MO 65101, by calling 1-877-632-2373, or by the following website, www.mocerf.org.

3) Funding Policy

In accordance with State Statutes, the Plan is partially funded through various fees collected by counties and remitted to the CERF. Further, all participants hired on or after February 24, 2002 are required to contribute an additional 4% of their gross compensation to CERF, starting January 1, 2003. An active LAGERS participant who was employed with the County prior to February 24, 2002, is not required to make contributions. The County has elected not to make contributions on behalf of employees. During 2019 and 2018, the County collected and remitted to CERF employee withholdings of $81,828 and $81,073, respectively, for the years then ended.

C. Deferred 457 Pension Plan

Participation in the plan is voluntary for all full-time employees. Part-time employees are not eligible to participate in the plan. Plan participants can elect to contribute any whole percentage or dollar amount of their earnings to the plan. Fifty cents on the dollar is matched by CERF on the first 6% of an employee's contribution. The County does not contribute to the plan. Employee contributions collected and remitted by the County for the years ended December 31, 2019 and 2018 were $51,107 and $47,709, respectively.

D. Prosecuting Attorney Retirement Fund

In accordance with state statute Section 56.807, RSMo, the County contributes monthly to the Missouri Office of Prosecution Services for deposit to the credit of the Missouri Prosecuting Attorneys and Circuit Attorney Retirement System Fund. Once remitted, the State of Missouri is responsible for administration of this plan. The County contributed $11,628 and $11,628, respectively, for the years ended December 31, 2019 and 2018.

4. POST EMPLOYMENT BENEFITS

The County does not provide post-employment benefits except as mandated by the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act (COBRA). The requirements established by COBRA are fully funded by employees who elect coverage under the Act, and no direct costs are incurred by the County.

5. CLAIMS, COMMITMENT AND CONTINGENCIES

A. Compensated Absences

The County provides employees with up to a maximum of six weeks of sick leave, to accrue at 5.5 hours per pay period for full-time employees and 4 hours per pay period for part-time employees. Upon termination, employees are not compensated for accrued sick time. Vacation time is accrued for every full-time employee, and accrues at the rate of 5 day per year up to twenty days per year depending on length of employment. Vacation time must be used in its entirety within one year of being earned unless approved by the supervisor and County Commission.

B. Federal and State Assisted Programs

The County has received proceeds from several federal and state grants. Periodic audits of these grants, when performed, could result in the disallowance of certain costs. Accordingly, such audits could result in the refund of grant monies to the grantor agencies. Management believes that any required refunds, if determined necessary, will be immaterial and, therefore, no provision has been made in the accompanying financial statements for the potential refund of grant monies.

6. RISK MANAGEMENT

The County is exposed to various risks of losses related to torts; theft of, damage to and destruction of assets; errors and omissions; injuries to employees; and natural disasters, and has established a risk management strategy that attempts to minimize losses and the carrying costs of insurance. There have been no significant reductions in coverage from the prior year and settlements have not exceeded coverage in the past three years.

The County is a member of the Missouri Association of Counties Self-Insured Workers' Compensation and Insurance Fund. The County purchases workers' compensation insurance through this Fund, a non-profit corporation established for the purpose of providing insurance coverage for Missouri counties. The Fund is self-insured up to $2,000,000 per occurrence and is reinsured up to the statutory limit through excess insurance.

7. LONG-TERM DEBT

The County had the following long-term debt outstanding as of December 31, 2019:

- A. The County issued $6,860,000 in Certificates of Participation, Series 2007, to provide funds for the construction of a new law enforcement facility and to repay the related bond anticipation notes. The County created a Law Enforcement Sales Tax Fund and a Bond Reserve Fund in which the activity for this project and the bond reserve are recorded. Sales tax revenue bonds are payable from a one-half cent sales tax plus the interest from the Bond Reserve Fund. In December 2016, the County paid down the debt using funds from the Bond Reserve Fund and refinanced the remaining balance. Principal payments are due on October 1 each year through 2027. Interest is due on April 1 and October 1 each year with rates increasing from 2% up to 3.1%. The schedule of remaining payments and interest is listed below:

Fiscal Year Ending December 31,	Principal	Interest	Total
2020	$ 515,000	$ 112,353	$ 627,353

8. SUBSEQUENT EVENTS

The County has evaluated events subsequent to December 31, 2019 to assess the need for potential recognition or disclosure in the financial statements. Such events were evaluated through August 6, 2020, the date the financial statements were available to be issued.

Subsequent to December 31, 2019, the County has been impacted by the coronavirus pandemic in the United States. This event has led to a decrease in business and consumer activity within the County and could have a negative impact on sales and other tax revenues in 2020, as well as potentially affecting the availability of grants and other assistance from the state and federal governments.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON INTERNAL CONTROL OVER FINANCIAL REPORTING AND ON COMPLIANCE AND OTHER MATTERS BASED ON AN AUDIT OF FINANCIAL STATEMENTS PERFORMED IN ACCORDANCE WITH GOVERNMENT AUDITING STANDARDS

To the County Commission and
Officeholders of Vernon County, Missouri

We have audited, in accordance with the auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards issued by the Comptroller General of the United States, the financial statements of Vernon County, Missouri which comprise the Statement of Receipts, Disbursements and Changes in Cash – All Governmental Funds – Regulatory Basis and the Statement of Fiduciary Receipts, Disbursements and Changes in Cash – Regulatory Basis as of December 31, 2018 and 2019, and the related Comparative Statements of Receipts, Disbursements and Changes in Cash – Budget and Actual – Regulatory Basis for the years then ended, and the related notes to the financial statements, which collectively comprise Vernon County, Missouri's basic financial statements and have issued our report thereon dated August 6, 2020.

Internal Control Over Financial Reporting

In planning and performing our audit of the financial statements, we considered Vernon County, Missouri's internal control over financial reporting (internal control) to determine the audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the financial statements, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of Vernon County, Missouri's internal control. Accordingly, we do not express an opinion on the effectiveness of Vernon County, Missouri's internal control.

A deficiency in internal control exists when the design or operation of a control does not allow management or employees, in the normal course of performing their assigned functions, to prevent, or detect and correct, misstatements on a timely basis. A material weakness is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control such that there is a reasonable possibility that a material misstatement of the County's financial statements will not be prevented, or detected and corrected on a timely basis. A significant deficiency is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control that is less severe than a material weakness, yet important enough to merit attention by those charged with governance.

Our consideration of internal control was for the limited purpose described in the first paragraph of this section and was not designed to identify all deficiencies in internal control that might be material weaknesses or significant deficiencies. Given these limitations, during our audit we did not identify any deficiencies in internal control that we consider to be material weaknesses. However, material weaknesses may exist that have not been identified.

Compliance and Other Matters

As part of obtaining reasonable assurance about whether Vernon County, Missouri's financial statements are free from material misstatement, we performed tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grant agreements, noncompliance with which could have a direct and material effect on the determination of financial statement amounts. However, providing an opinion on compliance with those provisions was not an objective of our audit, and accordingly, we do not express such an opinion. The results of our tests disclosed no instances of noncompliance or other matters that are required to be reported under Government Auditing Standards.

Purpose of this Report

The purpose of this report is solely to describe the scope of our testing of internal control and compliance and the results of that testing, and not to provide an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control or on compliance. This report is an integral part of an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards in considering the entity's internal control and compliance. Accordingly, this communication is not suitable for any other purpose.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT

To the County Commission
The County of Oregon, Missouri

Report on the Financial Statements

We have audited the accompanying financial statements of the County of Oregon ("County"), Missouri, which comprise cash and unencumbered cash for each fund as of December 31, 2019, and 2018, and the related statements of cash receipts and disbursements and disbursements-budget and actual for the years then ended, and the related notes to the financial statements.

Management's Responsibility for the Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of these financial statements in accordance with the regulatory basis of accounting, a financial reporting framework prescribed or permitted by Missouri law as described in Note I of the accompanying financial statements. This includes determining that the regulatory basis of accounting is an acceptable basis for the preparation of the financial statements in the circumstances. Management is also responsible for the design, implementation, and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

Auditor's Responsibility

Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit. We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free from material misstatement.

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. The procedures selected depend on the auditor's judgment, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity's preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control. Accordingly, we express no such opinion. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements.

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinions.

Basis for Adverse Opinion on U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles

As described in Note I of the financial statements, the financial statements are prepared by the county on the basis of the financial reporting provisions prescribed or permitted by Missouri law, which is a basis of accounting other than accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, to meet the requirements of Missouri.

The effects on the financial statements of the variances between the regulatory basis of accounting described in Note I and accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, although not reasonably determinable, are presumed to be material.

Adverse Opinion on U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles

In our opinion, because of the significance of the matter discussed in the “Basis for Adverse Opinion on U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles” paragraph, the financial statements referred to above do not present fairly, in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, the financial position of each fund of the County as of December 31, 2019, and 2018, or changes in net position or cash flows thereof for the years then ended.

Unmodified Opinion on Regulatory Basis of Accounting

In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the cash and unencumbered cash of each fund of the County as of December 31, 2019, and 2018, and their respective cash receipts and disbursements, and budgetary results for the years then ended in accordance with the financial reporting provisions prescribed or permitted by Missouri law described in Note I.

Other Matters

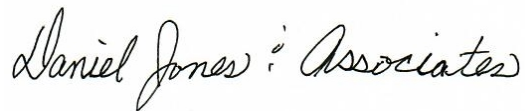

Other Information

Our audit was conducted for the purpose of forming an opinion on the financial statements that collectively comprise the County of Oregon’s basic financial statements. The schedule of expenditures of federal awards, as required by Title 2 U.S. Code of Federal Regulations Part 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards is presented for purposes of additional analysis and is not a required part of the basic financial statements.

The schedule of expenditures of federal awards is the responsibility of management and was derived from and relates directly to the underlying accounting and other records used to prepare the basic financial statements. Such information has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the basic financial statements and certain additional procedures, including comparing and reconciling such information directly to the underlying accounting and other records used to prepare the basic financial statements or to the basic financial statements themselves, and other additional procedures in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. In our opinion, the schedule of expenditures of federal awards is fairly stated, in all material respects, in relation to the basic financial statements as a whole.

Other Reporting Required by Government Auditing Standards

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we have also issued our report dated July 9, 2020, on our consideration of the County of Oregon's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grant agreements and other matters. The purpose of that report is solely to describe the scope of our testing of internal control over financial reporting and compliance and the results of that testing, and not to provide an opinion on the effectiveness of the County's internal control over financial reporting or on compliance. That report is an integral part of an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards in considering County of Oregon's internal control over financial reporting and compliance.

THE COUNTY OF OREGON
ALTON, MISSOURI
NOTES TO THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
DECEMBER 31, 2019 AND 2018

I. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The County of Oregon, Missouri (“County”), which is governed by a three-member board of commissioners, was established in 1845 by an Act of the Missouri Territory. In addition to the three Commissioners, there are 11 elected Constitutional Officers: Assessor, Circuit Clerk, Collector, Coroner, County Clerk, County Surveyor, Prosecuting Attorney, Public Administrator, Recorder of Deeds, Sheriff and Treasurer.

As discussed further in Note I, these financial statements are presented on the regulatory basis of accounting. This basis of accounting differs from accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America (GAAP).

A. Reporting Entity

As required by generally accepted accounting principles, as applicable to the regulatory basis of accounting, these financial statements present financial accountability of the County.

The County’s operations include tax assessments and collections, state/county courts, county recorder, public safety, transportation, economic development, and social and recreation services.

The financial statements referred to above include only the primary government of the County of Oregon, Missouri, which consists of all funds, organizations, institutions, agencies, departments, and offices that comprise the County’s legal entity.

B. Basis of Presentation

The financial statements are presented using accounting practices prescribed or permitted by Missouri law, which include a Statement of Receipts, Disbursements and Changes in Cash and Investment Balances – All Governmental Funds, a Comparative Statement of Receipts, Disbursements and Changes in Cash and Investment Balances – Budget and Actual – All Governmental Funds, and a Statement of Assets and Liabilities Arising from Cash Transactions – Agency Funds.

Governmental resources are allocated to and accounted for in individual funds based upon the purposes for which they are to be spent and the means by which spending activities are controlled. A fund is considered a separate accounting entity with self-balancing accounts. The following fund types are used by the County:

ALTON, MISSOURI
NOTES TO THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
DECEMBER 31, 2019 AND 2018

I. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES (continued)

B. Basis of Presentation (concluded)

Governmental Fund Types

Governmental funds are those through which most governmental functions are financed. The County's expendable financial resources are accounted for through governmental funds. The measurement focus is upon determination of and changes in financial position rather than upon net income.

Fiduciary Fund Types

Agency – Agency funds are used to account for assets held by the County in a trustee capacity as an agent of individuals, private organizations, other funds or other governmental units. Agency funds are accounted for and reported similarly to the governmental funds. Agency funds are custodial in nature (assets equal liabilities) and do not involve the measurement of results of operations. These funds account for activities of collections for other taxing units by the Collector of Revenue and other officeholders.

C. Basis of Accounting

Basis of accounting determines when transactions are recorded in the financial records and reported on the financial statements.

The financial statements are prepared on the regulatory basis of accounting. This basis of accounting recognizes amounts when received or disbursed in cash and differs from accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. Those principles require revenues to be recognized when they become available and measurable or when they are earned, and expenditures or expenses to be recognized when the related liabilities are incurred.

As a result of the use of this regulatory basis of accounting, certain assets (such as accounts receivable and capital assets), certain revenues (such as revenue for billed or provided services not yet collected), certain liabilities (such as accounts payable, certificates of participation bonds and obligations under capital leases) and certain expenditures (such as expenditures for goods or services received but not yet paid) are not recorded in these financial statements.

If the County utilized the basis of accounting recognized as generally accepted, the fund financial statements for governmental funds would use the modified accrual basis of accounting, while the fund financial statements for proprietary fund types, if applicable, would use the accrual basis of accounting. All government-wide financials would be presented on the accrual basis of accounting.

I. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES (continued)

D. Budget and Budgetary Accounting

The County follows these procedures in establishing the budgetary data reflected in the financial statements:

1. In accordance with Chapter 50 RSMo, the County adopts a budget for each governmental fund.
2. On or before January 15th, each elected officer and department director will transmit to the County Clerk, who serves as budget officer, the budget request and revenue estimates for their office or department for the budget year.
3. The County Clerk submits to the County Commission a proposed budget for the fiscal year beginning January 1. The proposed budget included estimated revenues and proposed expenditures for all budgeted funds. Budgeted expenditures cannot exceed beginning available monies plus estimated revenues for the year. Budgeting of appropriations is based upon an estimated unencumbered fund balance at the beginning of the year as well as estimated revenues to be received. The budget to actual comparisons in these financial statements, however, do not present encumbered fund balances, but only compare budgeted and actual revenues and expenditures.
4. A public hearing is conducted to obtain public comment. Prior to its approval by the County Commission, the budget document is available for public inspection.
5. Prior to February 1, the budget is legally enacted by a vote of the County Commission.
6. Subsequent to its formal approval of the budget, the County Commission has the authority to make necessary adjustments to the budget by formal vote of the Commission. Adjustments made during the year are reflected in the budget information in the financial statements.

Budgeted amounts are as originally adopted, or as amended by the County Commission throughout the year. Individual amendments were not material in relation to the original appropriations which were adopted.

7. Budgets are prepared and adopted on the cash basis of accounting.

State law requires that budgeted expenditures not exceed budgeted revenues plus anticipated beginning fund balance. Section 50.740 RSMo prohibits expenditures in excess of the approved budgets.

F. Cash Deposits and Investments

Deposits and investments are stated at cost, which approximates market. Cash balances for all the County Treasurer Funds are pooled and invested to the extent possible. Interest earned from such investments is allocated to each of the funds based on the funds' average daily cash balances. Cash equivalents include repurchase agreements and any other instruments with an original maturity of 90 days or less. State law authorizes the deposit of funds in banks and trust companies or the investment of funds in bonds or treasury certificates of the United States, other interest bearing obligations guaranteed as to both principal and interest by the United States, bonds of the State of Missouri or other government bonds, or time certificates of deposit, provided, however, that no such investment shall be purchased at a price in excess of par. Funds in the form of cash on deposit or time certificates of deposit are required to be insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) or collateralized by authorized investments held in the County's name at third-party banking institutions. Details of these cash balances are presented in Note II.

G. Interfund Transactions

During the course of operations, numerous transactions occur between individual funds for goods provided or services rendered. These receivables and payables, if applicable, are eliminated due to reporting the financial statements on the regulatory basis of accounting.

Legally required transfers are reported as “transfers in” by the recipient fund and as “transfers out” by the disbursing fund.

II. DEPOSITS AND INVESTMENTS

The County maintains a cash and temporary investment pool that is available for use by all funds. Each fund type's portion of this pool is displayed as "Cash and Investments" under each fund's caption. Deposits with maturities greater than three months are considered investments. In addition, cash and investments are separately held by several of the County's funds. Investments of the County consist of certificates of deposit with local banking institutions.

Deposits - Missouri statutes require that all deposits with financial institutions be collateralized in an amount at least equal to uninsured deposits. At December 31, 2019, and 2018, the carrying amount of the County's deposits and investments were $4,159,489.12 and $3,576,536.78, and the bank balance was $7,164,434.32 and $6,317,151.47, respectively. The total bank balances as of December 31, 2019, and 2018 were not fully insured through the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and securities set by the County's financial institutions.

Custodial Credit Risk – Deposits

For a deposit, custodial credit risk is the risk that in the event of a bank failure, the government's deposits may not be returned to it. The County's investment policy does not include custodial credit risk requirements. The County's deposits were not exposed to custodial credit risk for the years ended December 31, 2019, and 2018.

Custodial Credit Risk – Investments

Investment securities are exposed to custodial credit risk if the securities are uninsured, are not registered in the name of the government, and are held by the party who sold the security to the County or its agent but not in the government's name. The County does not have a policy for custodial credit risk relating to investments. All investments, evidenced by individual securities, are registered in the name of the County or of a type that are not exposed to custodial credit risk.

Investment Interest Rate Risk

Investment interest rate risk is the risk that changes in interest rates will adversely affect the fair value of an investment. The County does not have a formal investment policy that limits investment maturities as a means of managing its exposure to fair value losses arising from increasing interest rates.

Concentration of Investment Credit Risk

Concentration of investment credit risk is required to be disclosed by the County for any single investment that represents 5% or more of total investments (excluding investments issued by or explicitly guaranteed by the U.S. Government, investments in mutual funds, investments in external investment pools and investments in other pooled investments). The County has no policy in place to minimize the risk of loss resulting from over concentration of assets in specific maturity, specific issuer or specific class of securities. The County's investments were not exposed to concentration of investment credit risk for the years ended December 31, 2019, and 2018.

V. COUNTY EMPLOYEES' RETIREMENT FUND (CERF)

A. Plan Description

CERF was established by an act of the Missouri General Assembly effective August 28, 1994. Laws governing the retirement fund are found in Sections 50.1000-50.1300 of the Missouri Revised Statutes (RSMo). The Board of Directors consists of eleven members, nine of whom are county employee participants. Two members, who have no beneficiary interest in CERF, are appointed by the Governor of Missouri. The Board of Directors has the authority to adopt rules and regulations for administering the system.

CERF is a mandatory cost-sharing multiple employer retirement system for each county in the state of Missouri, except any city not within a county (which excludes the City of St. Louis) and counties of the first classification with a charter form of government. CERF covers county elective or appointive officers or employees whose position requires the actual performance of duties not less than 1,000 hours per year; including employees of circuit courts located in a first class, non-charter county which is not participating in the Local Government Employees Retirement System (LAGERS); and does not cover circuit clerks, deputy circuit clerks, county prosecuting attorneys, and county sheriffs. Until January 1, 2000, employees hired before January 1, 2000, could opt out of the system.

CERF is a defined benefit plan providing retirement and death benefits to its members. All benefits vest after 8 years of creditable service. Employees who retire on or after age 62 are entitled to an allowance for life based on the form of payment selected. The normal form of payment is a single life annuity. Optional joint and survivor annuity and 10-year certain and life annuity payments are also offered to members in order to provide benefits to a named survivor annuitant after their death. Employees who have a minimum of 8 years of creditable service and who terminated employment after December 31, 1999, may retire with an early retirement benefit and receive a reduced allowance after attaining age 55. Annual cost-of-living adjustments, not to exceed 1%, are provided for eligible retirees and survivor annuitants, up to a lifetime maximum of 50% of the initial benefit which the member received upon retirement. Benefit provisions are fixed by state statute and may be amended only by action of the Missouri Legislature. Administrative expenses for the operation of CERF are paid out of the funds of the system.

The County Employees' Retirement Fund issues audited financial statements. Copies of these statements may be obtained from the Board of Directors of CERF by writing to CERF, 2121 Schotthill Woods Drive, Jefferson City, MO 65101, or by calling 1-573-632-9203.

B. Contributions

Prior to January 1, 2003, participating county employees, except for those who participated in LAGERS, were required to make contributions equal to 2% of gross compensation. Effective January 1, 2003, participating county employees hired on or after February 25, 2002, are required to make contributions of 4% if they are in a LAGERS county and contributions of 6% if they are in a non-LAGERS county. If an employee leaves covered employment before attaining 8 years of creditable service, accumulated employee contributions (other than those made by the county) are refunded to the employee.

VI. PROSECUTING ATTORNEY RETIREMENT FUND

In accordance with state statute Section 56.807 RSMo, the County contributes monthly to the Missouri Office of Prosecution Services for deposit to the credit of the Missouri Prosecuting Attorneys and Circuit Attorney Retirement System Fund. Once remitted, the State of Missouri is responsible for administration of this plan. The County has contributed $3,366 and $3,366, respectively, for the years ended December 31, 2019, and 2018.

VII. POST-EMPLOYMENT BENEFITS

The County does not provide post-employment benefits except as mandated by the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act (COBRA). The requirements established by COBRA are fully funded by employees who elect coverage under the Act, and no direct costs are incurred by the County. The County had no COBRA participants at December 31, 2019, and December 31, 2018.

VIII. CLAIMS COMMITMENTS AND CONTINGENCIES

A. Litigation

The County is not involved in pending litigation as of the audit report date.

B. Compensated Absences

The County provides employees with up to 15 days of paid vacation based upon the number of years of continuous service. Upon termination from county employment, an employee is reimbursed for unused vacation and overtime, if applicable. Sick time is paid for at the rate of 50% for any unused sick pay up to 240 hours. These have not been subjected to auditing procedures.

C. Federal and State Assisted Programs

The County has received proceeds from several federal and state grants. Periodic audits of these grants are required and certain costs may be questioned as inappropriate expenditures under the grant agreements. Such audits could result in the refund of grant monies to the grantor agencies. Management believes that any required refunds, if determined necessary, will be immaterial. No provision has been made in the accompanying financial statements for the potential refund of grant monies.

IX. RISK MANAGEMENT

The County is exposed to various risks of losses related to torts; theft of, damage to and destruction of assets; errors and omissions; injuries to employees; and natural disasters, and has established a risk management strategy that attempts to minimize losses and the carrying costs of insurance. Insurance is obtained from commercial insurance companies. There have been no significant reductions in coverage from the prior year and settlements have not exceeded coverage in the past three years.

The County is a member participant in a public entity risk pool which is a corporate and political body created pursuant to state statute (Section 537.700 RSMo.). The purpose of the risk pool is to provide liability protection to participating public entities, their officials, and employees. Annual contributions are collected based on actuarial projections to produce sufficient funds to pay losses and expenses. Should contributions not produce sufficient funds to meet its obligations, the risk pool is empowered with the ability to make special assessments. Members are jointly and severally liable for all claims against the risk pool.

The County is also a member of the Missouri Association of Counties Self-Insured Workers' Compensation and Insurance Fund. The County purchases workers' compensation insurance through this Fund, a non-profit corporation established for the purpose of providing insurance coverage for Missouri counties. The Fund is self-insured up to $2,000,000 per occurrence and is reinsured up to the statutory limit through excess insurance.

REPORT ON INTERNAL CONTROL OVER FINANCIAL REPORTING AND ON COMPLIANCE AND OTHER MATTERS BASED ON AN AUDIT OF
FINANCIAL STATEMENTS PERFORMED IN ACCORDANCE WITH GOVERNMENT AUDITING STANDARDS

Independent Auditor's Report

To the County Commission
The County of Oregon, Missouri

We have audited, in accordance with the auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards issued by the Comptroller General of the United States, the financial statements of the County of Oregon ("County"), Missouri as of and for the years ended December 31, 2019, and 2018, and the related notes to the financial statements, which collectively comprise the County's basic financial statements, and have issued our report thereon dated July 9, 2020.

Internal Control Over Financial Reporting

In planning and performing our audit of the financial statements, we considered the County's internal control over financial reporting (internal control) to determine the audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the financial statements, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the County's internal control. Accordingly, we do not express an opinion on the effectiveness of the County's internal control.

A deficiency in internal control exists when the design or operation of a control does not allow management or employees, in the normal course of performing their assigned functions, to prevent, or detect and correct, misstatements on a timely basis. A material weakness is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control such that there is a reasonable possibility that a material misstatement of the entity's financial statements will not be prevented, or detected and corrected on a timely basis. A significant deficiency is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control that is less severe than a material weakness, yet important enough to merit attention by those charged with governance.

Our consideration of internal control was for the limited purpose described in the first paragraph of this section and was not designed to identify all deficiencies in internal control that might be material weaknesses or significant deficiencies and therefore, material weaknesses or significant deficiencies may exist that have not been identified. Given these limitations, during our audit we did not identify any deficiencies in internal control that we consider to be material weaknesses. We did identify certain deficiencies in internal control, described in the accompanying schedule of findings and questioned costs that we consider to be significant deficiencies. [2019-001, 2019-002, 2019-003]

Compliance and Other Matters

As part of obtaining reasonable assurance about whether the County's financial statements are free from material misstatement, we performed tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grant agreements, noncompliance with which could have a direct and material effect on the determination of financial statement amounts. However, providing an opinion on compliance with those provisions was not an objective of our audit, and accordingly, we do not express such an opinion. The results of our tests disclosed no instances of noncompliance or other matters that are required to be reported under Government Auditing Standards.

The County's Response to Findings

The County's responses to the findings identified in our audit are described in the accompanying schedule of findings and questioned costs. The County's responses were not subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the financial statements and, accordingly, we express no opinion on the responses.

Purpose of this Report

The purpose of this report is solely to describe the scope of our testing of internal control and compliance and the results of that testing, and not to provide an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control or on compliance. This report is an integral part of an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards in considering the entity's internal control and compliance. Accordingly, this communication is not suitable for any other purpose.

REPORT ON COMPLIANCE FOR EACH MAJOR FEDERAL PROGRAM AND REPORT ON INTERNAL CONTROL OVER COMPLIANCE
REQUIRED BY THE UNIFORM GUIDANCE

Independent Auditor's Report

To The County Commission
The County of Oregon, Missouri

Report on Compliance for Each Major Federal Program

We have audited the County of Oregon's ("County") compliance with the types of compliance requirements described in the OMB Compliance Supplement that could have a direct and material effect on each of the County's major federal programs for the years ended December 31, 2019, and 2018. The County's major federal programs are identified in the summary of auditor's results section of the accompanying schedule of findings and questioned costs.

Management's Responsibility

Management is responsible for compliance with federal statutes, regulations, and the terms and conditions of its federal awards applicable to its federal programs.

Auditor's Responsibility

Our responsibility is to express an opinion on compliance for each of the County's major federal programs based on our audit of the types of compliance requirements referred to above. We conducted our audit of compliance in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America; the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States; and the audit requirements of Title 2 U.S. Code of Federal Regulations Part 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards. Those standards and the Uniform Guidance require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether noncompliance with the types of compliance requirements referred to above that could have a direct and material effect on a major federal program occurred. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence about the County's compliance with those requirements and performing such other procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion on compliance for each major federal program. However, our audit does not provide a legal determination of the County's compliance.

Opinion on Each Major Federal Program

In our opinion, the County complied, in all material respects, with the types of compliance requirements referred to above that could have a direct and material effect on each of its major federal programs for the years ended December 31, 2019, and 2018.

Other Matters

The results of our auditing procedures disclosed an instance of noncompliance, which is required to be reported in accordance with the Uniform Guidance and which is described in the accompanying schedule of findings and questioned costs as items 2019-004 and 2019-005. Our opinion on each major federal program is not modified with respect to this matter.

The County's response to the noncompliance finding identified in our audit is described in the accompanying schedule of findings and questioned costs. The County's response was not subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of compliance and, accordingly, we express no opinion on the response.

Report on Internal Control Over Compliance

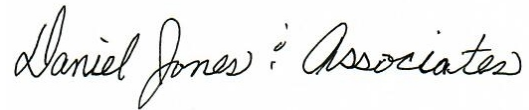

Management of the County is responsible for establishing and maintaining effective internal control over compliance with the types of compliance requirements referred to above. In planning and performing our audit of compliance, we considered the County's internal control over compliance with the types of requirements that could have a direct and material effect on each major federal program to determine the auditing procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances for the purpose of expressing an opinion on compliance for each major federal program and to test and report on internal control over compliance in accordance with the Uniform Guidance, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of internal control over compliance. Accordingly, we do not express an opinion on the effectiveness of the County's internal control over compliance.

A deficiency in internal control over compliance exists when the design or operation of a control over compliance does not allow management or employees, in the normal course of performing their assigned functions, to prevent, or detect and correct, noncompliance with a type of compliance requirement of a federal program on a timely basis. A material weakness in internal control over compliance is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control over compliance, such that there is a reasonable possibility that material noncompliance with a type of compliance requirement of a federal program will not be prevented, or detected and corrected, on a timely basis. A significant deficiency in internal control over compliance is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control over compliance with a type of compliance requirement of a federal program that is less severe than a material weakness in internal control over compliance, yet important enough to merit attention by those charged with governance.

Our consideration of internal control over compliance was for the limited purpose described in the first paragraph of this section and was not designed to identify all deficiencies in internal control over compliance that might be material weaknesses or significant deficiencies and therefore, material weaknesses or significant deficiencies may exist that have not been identified. We did not identify any deficiencies in internal control over compliance that we consider to be material weaknesses. However, we did identify certain deficiencies in internal control over compliance, described in the accompanying schedule of findings and questioned costs as item 2019-004 and 2019-005, that we consider to be significant deficiencies.

The County's response to the internal control over compliance finding identified in our audit is described in the accompanying schedule of findings and questioned costs. The County's response was not subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of compliance and, accordingly, we express no opinion on the response.

The purpose of this report on internal control over compliance is solely to describe the scope of our testing of internal control over compliance and the results of that testing based on the requirements of the Uniform Guidance. Accordingly, this report is not suitable for any other purpose.

II. FINANCIAL STATEMENT FINDINGS (continued)

2019-002 Criteria: Antifraud programs and controls are the policies and procedures put in place by an organization to help ensure that management directives are carried out. They are part of the overall system of internal control established to achieve reliability of financial reporting, effectiveness and efficiency of operations, and compliance with applicable laws and regulations.

Condition: During our audit, we noted there is no formal fraud risk assessment in place.

Context: During discussions with management, we noted there was no formal fraud risk assessments implemented.

Effect: Lack of an appropriate risk assessment process may result in certain risks not being identified by County's management. Opportunities to commit and conceal a fraud or irregularity may go undetected by management without proper assessment procedures.

Cause: Management has not prepared documentation of risk assessments, including identified risks and mitigating controls.

Identification: Repeat finding FS 2017-002.

Recommendation: We recommend that the County address various risks in the environment, including risk of fraud occurring by performing assessments to identify, analyze and manage these risks.

Views of responsible officials and planned corrective actions: The County Commission will work with each of the various officeholders on developing the required documentation of fraud risk management for each office. Many of the offices have practices of fraud risk management in place but not written policies; the County Clerk has a written policy. The County Clerk is Tracy Bridges, and her office phone number is (417)778-7475.

2019-003 Criteria: The County's deposits held by financial institutions must be fully collateralized through the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) or securities pledged by the financial institution.

Condition: During our review of the County's bank accounts, it was noted that the County's deposits were under-collateralized for the years ended December 31, 2018 and December 31, 2019.

Context: The County's bank accounts were under-collateralized for the years ended December 31, 2018 and December 31, 2019.

Effect: There is a risk that the County's under-collateralized bank balances may not be returned to the County because the balances were not fully collateralized with coverage under FDIC or other pledged securities.

Cause: Adequate oversight was not in place to ensure all bank account balances were secured through FDIC or other pledged securities.

To the County Commissioners
The County of Oregon, Missouri

In planning and performing our audit of the regulatory based financial statements of the County of Oregon (the "County") as of and for the years ended December 31, 2019, and 2018, in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, we considered the County's internal control over financial reporting (internal control) as a basis for designing audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances for the purpose of expressing our opinions on the financial statements, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the County's internal control. Accordingly, we do not express an opinion on the effectiveness of the County's internal control.

Our consideration of internal control was for the limited purpose described in the preceding paragraph and was not designed to identify all deficiencies in internal control that might be material weaknesses or significant deficiencies and therefore material weaknesses or significant deficiencies may exist that were not identified. However, as discussed below, we identified certain deficiencies in internal control that we consider to be significant deficiencies.

A deficiency in internal control exists when the design or operation of a control does not allow management or employees, in the normal course of performing their assigned functions, to prevent, or detect and correct, misstatements on a timely basis. A material weakness is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies in internal control, such that there is a reasonable possibility that a material misstatement of the entity's financial statements will not be prevented, or detected and corrected, on a timely basis. We did not identify any deficiencies in the County's internal control that we consider to be material weaknesses.

A significant deficiency is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control that is less severe than a material weakness, yet important enough to merit attention by those charged with governance. We consider the following deficiencies in internal control to be significant deficiencies as noted in section I.

Our comments concerning internal control and other significant matters are presented as follows:

- I. Deficiencies Considered to be Significant
- II. Information Required by Professional Standards

The County's management has provided written responses to the findings in this report that were identified in our audit. The responses have not been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the financial statements and, accordingly, we express no opinion on the responses.

This communication is intended solely for the information and use of the County Commission, County Office Holders, the Missouri State Auditor and federal agencies and is not intended to be, and should not be, used by anyone other than these specified parties.

Very truly yours,

II. INFORMATION REQUIRED BY PROFESSIONAL STANDARDS

Our Responsibilities under U.S. Generally Accepted Auditing Standards, Government Auditing Standards, and the Uniform Guidance

Professional standards require that we provide you with information about our responsibilities under generally accepted auditing standards and Government Auditing Standards and the Uniform Guidance, as well as certain information related to the planned scope and timing of our audit. We have communicated such information in our letter to you dated April 1, 2020. Professional standards also require that we communicate to you the following information related to our audit.

Significant Audit Matters

Qualitative Aspects of Accounting Practices

Management is responsible for the selection and use of appropriate accounting policies. The significant accounting policies used by the County are described in Note I to the financial statements. No new accounting policies were adopted and the application of existing policies was not changed during the 2019 and 2018 years. We noted no transactions entered into by the County during the years for which there is a lack of authoritative guidance or consensus. All significant transactions have been recognized in the financial statements in the proper period.

Accounting estimates are an integral part of the financial statements prepared by management and are based on management's knowledge and experience about past and current events and assumptions about future events. Certain accounting estimates are particularly sensitive because of their significance to the financial statements and because of the possibility that future events affecting them may differ significantly from those expected. Due to the County applying the regulatory basis of accounting, no estimates are made during the preparation of financial statements.

The financial statement disclosures are neutral, consistent, and clear.

Difficulties Encountered in Performing the Audit

We encountered no significant difficulties in dealing with management in performing and completing our audit.

Corrected and Uncorrected Misstatements

Professional standards require us to accumulate all known and likely misstatements identified during the audit, other than those that are clearly trivial, and communicate them to the appropriate level of management. Management has corrected all such misstatements. In addition, none of the misstatements detected as a result of audit procedures and corrected by management were material, either individually or in the aggregate, to each opinion unit's financial statements taken as a whole.

II. INFORMATION REQUIRED BY PROFESSIONAL STANDARDS (concluded)

Disagreements with Management

For purposes of this letter, a disagreement with management is a financial accounting, reporting, or auditing matter, whether or not resolved to our satisfaction, that could be significant to the financial statements or the auditor's report. We are pleased to report that no such disagreements arose during the course of our audit.

Management Representations

We have requested certain representations from management that are included in the management representation letter dated July 9, 2020.

Management Consultations with Other Independent Accountants

In some cases, management may decide to consult with other accountants about auditing and accounting matters, similar to obtaining a "second opinion" on certain situations. If a consultation involves application of an accounting principle to the County's financial statements or a determination of the type of auditor's opinion that may be expressed on those statements, our professional standards require the consulting accountant to check with us to determine that the consultant has all the relevant facts. To our knowledge, there were no such consultations with other accountants.

Other Audit Findings or Issues

We generally discuss a variety of matters, including the application of accounting principles and auditing standards, with management each year prior to retention as the County's auditors. However, these discussions occurred in the normal course of our professional relationship and our responses were not a condition to our retention.

Other Matters

We were engaged to report on the schedule of expenditure of federal awards, which accompanies the financial statements but is not RSI (required supplementary information). With respect to this supplementary information, we made certain inquiries of management and evaluated the form, content, and methods of preparing the information to determine that the information complies with the regulatory basis of accounting, the method of preparing it has not changed from the prior period, and the information is appropriate and complete in relation to our audit of the financial statements. We compared and reconciled the supplementary information to the underlying accounting records used to prepare the financial statements or to the financial statements themselves.

We noted during our audit certain matters that were not considered to be significant deficiencies or material weaknesses. Several county offices have limited numbers of staff, which inherently increases the risk of misstatement. Office holders appear to have mitigating controls in place to lower these risks to an acceptable level but the commission does need to be aware of these risks and offices need to remain vigilant in deterring the potential for erroneous or fraudulent activity.

RECOMMENDATION SUMMARY

Recommendations in the contracted audit of McDonald County

2019-001

Prosecuting Attorney Bank
Reconciliations

We recommend the Prosecuting Attorney's office implement a process to properly reconcile the balance per the bank to a recorded book balance to ensure that all activity in the bank is recorded in the system and vice versa. This balance should also be compared to a total balance of liabilities for amounts owed to individuals or entities on all cases being handled by the office.

Bid Documentation

We recommend that the county ensure that the reasoning for not performing competitive bidding for large purchases are documented in the Commission minutes or in other county files. We also recommend that if bids or quotes are obtained informally, such as over the phone or online, that records be maintained to prove that procedures were performed to ensure that the vendor selected was the most advantageous for the county.

Report on the Financial Statements

We have audited the accompanying financial statements of McDonald County, Missouri, which comprise the Statement of Receipts, Disbursements and Changes in Cash – All Governmental Funds – Regulatory Basis and the Statement of Fiduciary Receipts, Disbursements and Changes in Cash – Regulatory Basis as of December 31, 2018 and 2019, and the related Comparative Statements of Receipts, Disbursements and Changes in Cash – Budget and Actual – Regulatory Basis for the years then ended, and the related notes to the financial statements.

Management's Responsibility for the Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of these financial statements in accordance with accounting principles prescribed or permitted by Missouri law, as described in Note 1. Management is also responsible for the design, implementation, and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

Auditor's Responsibility

Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the financial statements based on our audit. We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free from material misstatement.

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. The procedures selected depend on the auditor's judgment, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity's preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control. Accordingly, we express no such opinion. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements.

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion.

Basis for Adverse Opinion on U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles

As described in Note 1, the financial statements are prepared by McDonald County, Missouri on the basis of the financial reporting provisions prescribed or permitted by Missouri Law, which is a basis of accounting other than accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

The effects on the financial statements of the variances between the regulatory basis of accounting described in Note 1 and accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, although not reasonably determinable, are presumed to be material.

Adverse Opinion on U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles

In our opinion, because of the significance of the matter discussed in the “Basis for Adverse Opinion on U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles” paragraph, the financial statements referred to above do not present fairly, in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, the financial position of McDonald County, Missouri, as of December 31, 2018 and 2019, or the changes in financial position thereof for the years then ended.

Unmodified Opinion on Regulatory Basis of Accounting

In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the cash balances of each fund of McDonald County, Missouri, as of December 31, 2018 and 2019, and their respective cash receipts and disbursements, and budgetary results for the years then ended, in accordance with the financial reporting provisions prescribed or permitted by Missouri Law as described in Note 1.

Other Reporting Required by Government Auditing Standards

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we also have issued our report dated August 9, 2020, on our consideration of McDonald County, Missouri’s internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grant agreements and other matters. The purpose of that report is solely to describe the scope of our testing of internal control over financial reporting and compliance and the results of that testing, and not to provide an opinion on the effectiveness of McDonald County, Missouri’s internal control over financial reporting or on compliance. That report is an integral part of an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards in considering the County’s internal control over financial reporting and compliance.

McDONALD COUNTY, MISSOURI
NOTES TO THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
DECEMBER 31, 2018 and 2019

1. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

McDonald County, Missouri ("County") is governed by a three-member board of commissioners. In addition to the three board members, there are ten elected Constitutional Officers: Assessor, Circuit Clerk, Collector, Coroner, County Clerk, Prosecuting Attorney, Public Administrator, Recorder, Sheriff and Treasurer.

As discussed further in Note 1, these financial statements are presented using accounting practices prescribed or permitted by Missouri Law, which differ from accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, which would include all relevant Government Accounting Standards Board (GASB) pronouncements. The differences include use of a prescribed definition of the reporting entity and the cash basis of accounting.

A. Reporting Entity

The County's operations include tax assessments and collections, state/county courts, county recorder, public safety, economic development, social and human services, and cultural and recreation services.

The financial statements referred to above include the primary government of McDonald County, Missouri, which consists of all funds, organizations, institutions, agencies, departments, and offices that are considered to comprise the County's legal entity.

In accordance with the regulatory basis of accounting, the financial statements of the County do not include the activity of the Circuit Court, which is part of the Missouri court system and is considered to be a state function, including the operations of the Circuit Clerk and all funds under their control.

B. Basis of Presentation

Governmental Funds – Governmental resources are allocated to and accounted for in individual funds based upon the purposes for which they are to be spent and the means by which spending activities are controlled. A fund is considered a separate accounting entity with self-balancing accounts that comprise its assets, liabilities, net assets, revenues/receipts and expenditures/disbursements. The County's funds are governmental funds. Governmental funds are those through which most governmental functions are financed. The County's expendable financial resources are accounted for through governmental funds.

Fiduciary Funds – Fiduciary funds consist of custodial funds. Custodial funds account for assets held by the County, particularly the Collector and Treasurer, as an agent of individuals, private organizations, taxing units, other governments and/or funds. Budgets are not adopted for the County's custodial funds.

C. Basis of Accounting

The financial statements are prepared on the cash basis of accounting; accordingly, amounts are recognized when received or disbursed in cash. This basis of accounting differs from accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. Those principles require revenues to be recognized when they become available and measurable or when they are earned, and expenditures or expenses to be recognized when the related liabilities are incurred.

D. Budgets and Budgetary Accounting

The County follows these procedures in establishing the budgetary data reflected in the financial statements:

1. In accordance with Chapter 50, RSMo, the County's policy is to adopt a budget for each governmental fund.
2. On or before the second Monday in January, each elected officer and department director will transmit to the County Commission and County Clerk, who serves as budget officer, the budget request and revenue estimates for their office or department for the budget year.
3. The County Clerk submits to the County Commission a proposed budget for the fiscal year beginning January 1. The proposed budget includes estimated revenues and proposed expenditures, on the cash basis of accounting, for all budgeted funds. Budgeting of appropriations is based upon an estimated fund balance at the beginning of the year as well as estimated revenues to be received.
4. State law requires that, at the individual fund level, budgeted expenditures not exceed budgeted revenues plus anticipated beginning fund balance.
5. A public hearing is conducted to obtain public comment on the budget. Prior to its approval by the County Commission, the budget document is available for public inspection, which usually takes place the third and fourth weeks of January.
6. Prior to February 1, the budget is legally enacted by a vote of the County Commission.
7. Subsequent to its formal approval of the budget, the County Commission has the authority to make necessary adjustments to the budget by a formal vote of the Commission. Budgeted amounts are as originally adopted, or as amended by the County Commission throughout the year.
8. Budgets are prepared and adopted on the cash basis of accounting.
9. Adoption of a formal budget is required by law. However, the County did not adopt a formal budget for the Courthouse Annex Fund for 2018 or 2019.

10. Section 50.740, RSMo prohibits expenditures in excess of the approved budgets. Actual expenditures exceeded budgeted amounts for the following funds:

E. Cash Deposits and Investments

Deposits and investments are stated at cost, which approximates market. Cash balances for all the County Treasurer funds are pooled and invested to the extent possible. Interest earned from these balances is allocated to each of the funds based on the funds' average daily cash balance. Cash equivalents may include repurchase agreements and any other instruments with an original maturity of ninety days or less. State law authorizes the deposit of funds in banks and trust companies or the investment of funds in bonds or treasury certificates of the United States, other interest bearing obligations guaranteed as to both principal and interest by the United States, bonds of the State of Missouri or other government bonds, or time certificates of deposit, purchased at a price at or below par. Funds in the form of cash on deposit or time certificates of deposit are required to be insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) or collateralized by authorized investments held in the County's name at third-party banking institutions. Details of these cash and investment balances are presented in Note 2.

F. Interfund Activity

During the course of operations, interfund activity occurs for purposes of providing supplemental funding, reimbursements for goods provided or services rendered, or short and long-term financing. Interfund activities are reported as "transfers in" by the recipient fund and as "transfers out" by the disbursing fund. However, interfund reimbursements have been eliminated from the financial statements in order that reimbursed expenditures are reported only in the funds incurring the costs.

2. CASH AND INVESTMENTS

The County maintains a cash and temporary investment pool that is available for use by all funds. Each fund's portion of this pool is displayed on the financial statements within the "Cash and Investments" caption. Cash includes deposits and short-term investments with maturities that are less than ninety days. Investments consist of certificates of deposit with original maturities that are greater than ninety days.

Custodial Credit Risk - Deposits – Custodial credit risk is the risk that in the event of a bank failure, a government's deposits may not be returned to it. Missouri statutes require that all deposits with financial institutions be collateralized in an amount at least equal to uninsured deposits. At December 31, 2019 and 2018, the carrying amounts of the County's deposits were $1,919,847 and $1,038,471, respectively, and the bank balances were $2,175,077 and $1,908,936, respectively. Of the bank balances, $451,588 and $351,385 were covered by federal depository insurance at December 31, 2019 and December 31, 2018, respectively. The remainder of the balances at December 31, 2019 and December 31, 2018 were covered by collateral held at the Federal Reserve Bank and the County's safekeeping bank agent in the County's name or by a line of credit held by the County or by its agent in the County's name.

At December 31, 2019 and 2018, County officeholders held, in addition to the cash and investments listed above, cash and cash equivalents held in a fiduciary capacity on behalf of individuals, private organizations, taxing units, other governments and/or funds. At December 31, 2019 and 2018, the carrying amounts of the County's custodial funds were $9,294,913 and $7,589,419, respectively, and the bank balances were $8,178,152 and $6,455,183, respectively. Of the bank balances, $687,937 and $709,776 were covered by federal depository insurance at December 31, 2019 and December 31, 2018, respectively. The remainder of the balances at December 31, 2019 and December 31, 2018 were covered by collateral held at the Federal Reserve Bank and the County's safekeeping bank agent in the County's name or by a line of credit held by the County or by its agent in the County's name.

3. COUNTY EMPLOYEES' RETIREMENT PLANS

A. County Employees' Retirement Fund (CERF)

The County Employees' Retirement Fund was established by the State of Missouri to provide pension benefits for County officials and employees.

1) Plan Description

The Retirement Fund is a cost-sharing multiple employer defined benefit pension plan covering any county elective or appointed officer or employee whose performance requires the actual performance of duties during not less than one thousand (1,000) hours per calendar year in each county of the state, except for any city not within a county and any county of the first classification having a charter form of government. It does not include county prosecuting attorneys covered under Sections 56.800 to 56.840, RSMo, circuit clerks and deputy circuit clerks covered under the Missouri State Retirement System, county sheriffs covered under Sections 57.949 to 57.997, RSMo and certain personnel not defined as an employee per Section 50.1000(8), RSMo. The Fund was created by an act of the legislature and was effective August 28, 1994.

The general administration and the responsibility for the proper operation of the Fund and the investment of the Fund are vested in a board of directors of eleven persons.

2) Pension Benefits

Beginning January 1, 1997, employees attaining the age of sixty-two years may retire with full benefits with eight or more years of creditable service. The monthly benefit for County Employees is determined by selecting the highest benefit calculated using three different prescribed formulas (flat-dollar formula, targeted replacement ratio formula, and prior plan's formula). A death benefit of $10,000 will be paid to the designated beneficiary of every active member upon his or her death.

Upon termination of employment, any member who is vested is entitled to a deferred annuity, payable at age sixty-two. Early retirement is at age fifty-five. Any member with less than eight years of creditable service forfeits all rights in the Fund but will be paid his or her accumulated contributions.

The County Employees' Retirement Fund issues audited financial statements. Copies of these statements may be obtained from the Board of Directors of CERF by writing to CERF, 2121 Schotthill Woods Drive, Jefferson City, MO 65101, by calling 1-877-632-2373, or by the following website, www.mocerf.org.

3) Funding Policy

In accordance with State Statutes, the Plan is partially funded through various fees collected by counties and remitted to the CERF. Further, a contribution to CERF of 2% of annual salary is required for eligible employees hired before February 2002, while a contribution of 6% of annual salary is required of employees hired after February 2002. The County has elected not to make contributions on behalf of employees. During 2019 and 2018, the County collected and remitted to CERF employee withholdings of $163,022 and $160,993, respectively, for the years then ended.

B. 401(A) Pension Plan

Participation in the plan is mandatory for all employees who have worked over 1,000 hours in a calendar year. The County does not contribute to the plan. Plan participants contribute .7% of earning to the Plan. Employee contributions collected and remitted by the County for the years ended December 31, 2019 and 2018 were $19,974 and $19,875, respectively.

C. Deferred 457 Pension Plan

Participation in the plan is voluntary for all full-time employee. Part-time employees are not eligible to participate in the plan. Plan participants can elect to contribute any whole percentage or dollar amount of their earnings to the plan. Fifty cents on the dollar is matched by CERF on the first 6% of an employee's contribution. The County does not contribute to the plan. Employee contributions collected and remitted by the County for the years ended December 31, 2019 and 2018 were $49,655 and $39,472, respectively.

D. Prosecuting Attorney Retirement Fund

In accordance with state statute Section 56.807, RSMo, the County contributes monthly to the Missouri Office of Prosecution Services for deposit to the credit of the Missouri Prosecuting Attorneys and Circuit Attorney Retirement System Fund. Once remitted, the State of Missouri is responsible for administration of this plan. The County contributed $11,628 and $11,628, respectively, for the years ended December 31, 2019 and 2018.

4. POST EMPLOYMENT BENEFITS

The County does not provide post-employment benefits except as mandated by the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act (COBRA). The requirements established by COBRA are fully funded by employees who elect coverage under the Act, and no direct costs are incurred by the County.

5. CLAIMS, COMMITMENT AND CONTINGENCIES

A. Compensated Absences

The County provides full-time employees with up to thirty to sixty days of sick time, depending on length of employment. Sick leave accrues at a rate of .75 days per calendar month to 1.75 days depending on length of employment. Upon termination accumulated sick leave will not be reimbursed. Vacation time is accrued for every full-time employee after completing one year of employment with the County, and accrues at the rate of .75 days per month up to 1.75 days per month depending on length of employment. Employees with less than ten years of employment may carry over ten days and employees with at least ten years of employment may carry over fifteen vacation days from one year to the next. Any days accrued in excess of these are to be forfeited at the end of the year.

B. Federal and State Assisted Programs

The County has received proceeds from several federal and state grants. Periodic audits of these grants, when performed, could result in the disallowance of certain costs. Accordingly, such audits could result in the refund of grant monies to the grantor agencies. Management believes that any required refunds, if determined necessary, will be immaterial and, therefore, no provision has been made in the accompanying financial statements for the potential refund of grant monies.

6. RISK MANAGEMENT

The County is exposed to various risks of losses related to torts; theft of, damage to and destruction of assets; errors and omissions; injuries to employees; and natural disasters, and has established a risk management strategy that attempts to minimize losses and the carrying costs of insurance. There have been no significant reductions in coverage from the prior year and settlements have not exceeded coverage in the past three years.

The County is a member participant in a public entity risk pool which is a corporate and political body. The purpose of the risk pool is to provide liability protection to participating public entities, their officials, and employees. Annual contributions are collected based on actuarial projections which are intended to produce sufficient funds to pay losses and expenses. Should contributions not produce sufficient funds to meet its obligations, the risk pool is empowered with the ability to make special assessments. Members are jointly and severally liable for all claims against the risk pool.

The County is a member of the Missouri Association of Counties Self-Insured Workers' Compensation and Insurance Fund. The County purchases workers' compensation insurance through this Fund, a non-profit corporation established for the purpose of providing insurance coverage for Missouri counties. The Fund is self-insured up to $2,000,000 per occurrence and is reinsured up to the statutory limit through excess insurance.

7. LONG-TERM DEBT

The County entered into a four-year, $72,000 note to purchase property from the Estate of Gisela M. Lewis for use by the Road & Bridge Department. The note, which does not bear interest, calls for 16 quarterly payments of $4,500, beginning January 2017 and ending October 2020. Future payments on the note are as follows:

Fiscal Year Ending December 31,	Principal	Interest	Total
2020	$ 18,000	$ -	$ 18,000

The following schedule shows changes in long-term debt during the year ended December 31, 2018:

Balance 12/31/2017	Additions	Payments	Balance 12/31/2018	Interest Paid
$ 54,000	$ -	$ (18,000)	$ 36,000	$ -

The following schedule shows changes in long-term debt during the year ended December 31, 2019:

Balance 12/31/2018	Additions	Payments	Balance 12/31/2019	Interest Paid
$ 36,000	$ -	$ (18,000)	$ 18,000	$ -

8. OPERATING LEASES

In October 2019, the County entered into a lease agreement for a dump truck, under which the County could purchase the truck at the end of the lease for $330,000. The agreement calls for monthly payments of $9,380 through September 2021.

The following schedule represents future payments under operating leases:

Fiscal Year Ending December 31,	Amount
2020	$ 112,565
2021	84,424

9. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTION

In November 2018, the County purchased land in Pineville, Missouri from one of the County Commissioners for $75,000.

10. SUBSEQUENT EVENTS

The County has evaluated events subsequent to December 31, 2019 to assess the need for potential recognition or disclosure in the financial statements. Such events were evaluated through August 9, 2020, the date the financial statements were available to be issued.

Subsequent to December 31, 2019, the County has been impacted by the coronavirus pandemic in the United States. This event has led to a decrease in business and consumer activity within the County and could have a negative impact on sales and other tax revenues in 2020, as well as potentially affecting the availability of grants and other assistance from the state and federal governments.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON INTERNAL CONTROL OVER FINANCIAL REPORTING AND ON COMPLIANCE AND OTHER MATTERS BASED ON AN AUDIT OF FINANCIAL STATEMENTS PERFORMED IN ACCORDANCE WITH GOVERNMENT AUDITING STANDARDS

To the County Commission and Officeholders of McDonald County, Missouri

We have audited, in accordance with the auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards issued by the Comptroller General of the United States, the financial statements of McDonald County, Missouri which comprise the Statement of Receipts, Disbursements and Changes in Cash – All Governmental Funds – Regulatory Basis and the Statement of Fiduciary Receipts, Disbursements and Changes in Cash – Regulatory Basis as of December 31, 2018 and 2019, and the related Comparative Statements of Receipts, Disbursements and Changes in Cash – Budget and Actual – Regulatory Basis for the years then ended, and the related notes to the financial statements, which collectively comprise McDonald County, Missouri's basic financial statements and have issued our report thereon dated August 9, 2020.

Internal Control Over Financial Reporting

In planning and performing our audit of the financial statements, we considered McDonald County, Missouri's internal control over financial reporting (internal control) to determine the audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the financial statements, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of McDonald County, Missouri's internal control. Accordingly, we do not express an opinion on the effectiveness of McDonald County, Missouri's internal control.

A deficiency in internal control exists when the design or operation of a control does not allow management or employees, in the normal course of performing their assigned functions, to prevent, or detect and correct, misstatements on a timely basis. A material weakness is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control such that there is a reasonable possibility that a material misstatement of the County's financial statements will not be prevented, or detected and corrected on a timely basis. A significant deficiency is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control that is less severe than a material weakness, yet important enough to merit attention by those charged with governance.

Our consideration of internal control was for the limited purpose described in the first paragraph of this section and was not designed to identify all deficiencies in internal control that might be material weaknesses or significant deficiencies and therefore, material weaknesses or significant deficiencies may exist that have not been identified. Given these limitations, during our audit we did not identify any deficiencies in internal control that we consider to be material weaknesses. We did identify a certain deficiency in internal control described in the accompanying schedule of findings and recommendations as item 2019-001 that we consider to be a significant deficiency.

Compliance and Other Matters

As part of obtaining reasonable assurance about whether McDonald County, Missouri's financial statements are free from material misstatement, we performed tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grant agreements, noncompliance with which could have a direct and material effect on the determination of financial statement amounts. However, providing an opinion on compliance with those provisions was not an objective of our audit, and accordingly, we do not express such an opinion. The results of our tests disclosed no instances of noncompliance or other matters that are required to be reported under Government Auditing Standards.

McDonald County, Missouri's Response to Finding

McDonald County, Missouri's response to the finding identified in our audit is described in the accompanying schedule of findings and recommendations. McDonald County, Missouri's response was not subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the financial statements and, accordingly, we express no opinion on it.

Purpose of this Report

The purpose of this report is solely to describe the scope of our testing of internal control and compliance and the results of that testing, and not to provide an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control or on compliance. This report is an integral part of an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards in considering the entity's internal control and compliance. Accordingly, this communication is not suitable for any other purpose.

FINDINGS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

McDONALD COUNTY, MISSOURI
FINDINGS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

MATERIAL WEAKNESSES IN INTERNAL CONTROL

None

SIGNIFICANT INTERNAL CONTROL DEFICIENCIES

None

ITEMS OF NONCOMPLIANCE

2019-001: Prosecuting Attorney Bank Reconciliations

Criteria: A proper system of internal controls dictates that bank reconciliations be performed on a timely basis to ensure that cash balances per the accounting records agree to the cash balances held in the bank.

Condition: The Prosecuting Attorney's office is not performing adequate reconciliations of monthly bank statements. Through discussions with staff, it does not appear that a book or ledger balance is maintained to compare to the balance in the bank account. Cash receipts and disbursements are recorded in the Karpel case management system, but there was no evidence of a running cash balance or total case balance within the system to compare to the activity in the bank statements. Our audit compared the receipts and disbursement per Karpel to the activity in the bank statement and noted some discrepancies, including a $7,065 deposit in December 2017 that was not recorded in Karpel until December 2018.

Cause: Formal bank reconciliations have not been performed for a number of years under previous administrative staff within the office, and this continued during the audit period.

Effect: Without timely reconciliations of bank balances to book balances, the risk of misstatements due to error or misappropriation is heightened.

Recommendation: We recommend the Prosecuting Attorney's office implement a process to properly reconcile the balance per the bank to a recorded book balance to ensure that all activity in the bank is recorded in the system and vice versa. This balance should also be compared to a total balance of liabilities for amounts owed to individuals or entities on all cases being handled by the office.

County's Response: For three years, the clerk in the prosecuting attorney's office did not reconcile the bank statements. Upon discovery, the employee was terminated. The office believes this issue has been resolved going forward. Remedies include a two-signature system on all deposits and disbursements. Occasionally, new transactions from prior periods have been discovered. The current clerk is reviewing the bank accounts since 2015 in order to identify and correct accounting errors.

Auditor's Response: The stated corrective actions are adequate to resolve the concern.

OTHER MATTERS

In planning and performing our audit of the Statement of Receipts, Disbursements and Changes in Cash – All Governmental Funds – Regulatory Basis, the Statement of Fiduciary Receipts, Disbursements and Changes in Cash – Regulatory Basis, and the Comparative Statements of Receipts, Disbursements and Changes in Cash – Budget and Actual – Regulatory Basis – All Governmental Funds as of and for the years ended December 31, 2018 and 2019, we considered McDonald County’s internal control in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the financial statements and not to provide assurance on internal control. We issued our report on our consideration of internal control over financial reporting dated August 9, 2020. However, during our audit we became aware of matters that are opportunities for strengthening internal controls.

Bid Documentation

As part of our testing of disbursements, we determined whether the County performed bidding procedures for certain expenditures as required by state statutes. Section 50.660, RSMo, states that, “All contracts and purchases shall be let to the lowest and best bidder after due opportunity for competition...except that the advertising is not required in case of contracts or purchases involving an expenditures of less than six thousand dollars. It is not necessary to obtain bids on any purchase in the amount of four thousand five hundred dollars or less made from any one person, firm or corporation during any period of ninety day....” Section 50.783.1, RSMo, states that, “The county commission may waive the requirement of competitive bids or proposals for supplies when the commission has determined in writing and entered into the commission minutes that there is only a single feasible source for the supplies.” There were 3 expenditures totaling $281,903 in 2018 and 4 expenditures totaling $99,906 in 2019 for which no bid documentation could be provided. Per discussion with the County Clerk and Commissioners, there are instances where there is no time for obtaining bids due to emergency situations, purchases are made from the state approved vendor listing, or bids are requested but none or only one are received.

We recommend that the County ensure that the reasoning for not performing competitive bidding for large purchases are documented in the Commission minutes or in other County files. We also recommend that if bids or quotes are obtained informally, such as over the phone or online, that records be maintained to prove that procedures were performed to ensure that the vendor selected was the most advantageous for the County.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT

To the County Commission and
Officeholders of Carroll County, Missouri

Report on the Financial Statements

We have audited the accompanying modified cash basis financial statements of the governmental activities, each major fund, and the aggregate remaining fund information of Carroll County, Missouri, as of and for the years ended December 31, 2019 and 2018, and the related notes to the financial statements, which collectively comprise the County's basic financial statements as listed in the table of contents.

Management's Responsibility for the Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of these financial statements in accordance with the modified cash basis of accounting described in Note 1; this includes determining that the modified cash basis of accounting is an acceptable basis for the preparation of the financial statements in the circumstances. Management is also responsible for the design, implementation, and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

Auditor's Responsibility

Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit. We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free from material misstatement.

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. The procedures selected depend on the auditor's judgment, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity's preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control. Accordingly, we express no such opinion. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements.

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinions.

Opinions

In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the respective modified cash basis financial position of the governmental activities, each major fund, and the aggregate remaining fund information of Carroll County, Missouri, as of December 31, 2019 and 2018, and the respective changes in modified cash basis financial position for the years then ended in accordance with the modified cash basis of accounting described in Note 1.

Basis of Accounting

We draw attention to Note 1 of the financial statements, which describes the basis of accounting. The financial statements are prepared on the modified cash basis of accounting, which is a basis of accounting other than accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. Our opinions are not modified with respect to this matter.

Other Matters

Other Information

Our audit was conducted for the purpose of forming opinions on the financial statements that collectively comprise Carroll County, Missouri's basic financial statements. The Management's Discussion and Analysis, Comparative Statements of Receipts, Disbursements, and Changes in Fund Balances – Budget and Actual – Modified Cash Basis, Statement of Receipts, Disbursements and Changes in Fund Balances – Non-Major Governmental Funds – Modified Cash Basis, and Statement of Fiduciary Receipts, Disbursements, and Changes in Cash – Modified Cash Basis, which are the responsibility of management, are presented for purposes of additional analysis and are not a required part of the basic financial statements. Such information has not been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the basic financial statements, and accordingly, we do not express an opinion or provide any assurance on them.

Other Reporting Required by Government Auditing Standards

The purpose of that report is solely to describe the scope of our testing of internal control over financial reporting and compliance and the results of that testing, and not to provide an opinion on the effectiveness of Carroll County, Missouri's internal control over financial reporting or on compliance. That report is an integral part of an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards in considering the County's internal control over financial reporting and compliance.

CARROLL COUNTY, MISSOURI
MANAGEMENT'S DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS
DECEMBER 31, 2019 AND 2018

The discussion and analysis of Carroll County's financial performance provides an overall review of the County's financial activities for the years ended December 31, 2019 and 2018. The information below, prepared by the County's management, should be read in conjunction with the financial statements that immediately follow.

Overview of the Financial Statements

The contents of this report comply with the presentation requirements of Statement No. 34 of the Governmental Accounting Standards Board, Basic Financial Statements and Management's Discussion and Analysis for State and Local Governments, as applicable to the modified cash basis of accounting. The County's basic financial statements consist of government-wide financial statements, fund financial statements, and notes to the financial statements. The notes are an integral part of the government-wide and fund financial statements and provide more detail about the information presented in the statements. This report also contains other financial information in addition to the basic financial statements.

The County has elected to present its financial statements on the modified cash basis of accounting, a basis of accounting other than accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. "Basis of accounting" refers to when financial events are recorded. Under the modified cash basis of accounting, revenues are recorded when received rather than when earned, and expenditures are recorded when paid rather than when the related liabilities are incurred. Therefore, when reviewing the financial information and discussion in this report, the reader should recall the limitations resulting from use of the modified cash basis of accounting. Modification to the cash basis is due to the presentation of investments.

Government-wide Financial Statements

The government-wide Statement of Net Position and the government-wide Statement of Activities report information about the County as a whole. These statements present the County's net position and show how they have changed. Over time, increases or decreases in the County's net position are one indicator of whether its financial health or position is improving or deteriorating. However, to assess the County's overall financial health, the reader needs to consider additional nonfinancial factors. The government-wide financial statements report only governmental activities – activities such as general government operations, public safety, roads and bridges, and health and welfare that are usually financed through taxes and intergovernmental receipts. The County has no business-type activities financed wholly or partially by fees charged to external parties for goods or services.

Fund Financial Statements

The fund financial statements provide detailed information about the most significant funds – not the County as a whole. Some funds are required to be established by state law or by bond covenants. However, the County Commission establishes other funds to help it control and manage money for particular purposes or to show that it is meeting legal responsibilities for using certain taxes, grants, or other sources of receipts. The fund financial statements include governmental funds, which focus on the flow of money into and out of those funds and the balances left at year-end that are available for spending, and fiduciary funds, which focus on funds collected on behalf of and remitted to other entities within and outside of the County. The governmental fund statements provide a detailed view of the County's general government operations and the basic services it provides. Governmental fund information helps the reader determine whether more or fewer financial resources can be spent in the near future to finance the County's programs.

The County as Trustee

The County is the trustee, or fiduciary, for its custodial funds that are used to account for assets held by the County's elected officials in a trustee capacity or as an agent for individuals, private organizations, other governments, or other funds. The County's fiduciary assets are reported in a separate Statement of Fiduciary Net Position. Fiduciary funds are excluded from the County's other financial statements because the County cannot use these assets to finance its operations. The County is responsible for ensuring that the assets reported in these funds are used for their intended purposes.

Other Information

The report also includes this Management's Discussion and Analysis. Such information is intended to supplement the government-wide financial statements, fund financial statements, and notes to the financial statements but is not a part of those statements.

In addition, the report includes the following components that are not a required part of the financial statements: the Comparative Statements of Receipts, Disbursements, and Changes in Fund Balances – Budget and Actual – Modified Cash Basis for the County's major governmental funds; the Statement of Receipts, Disbursements, and Changes in Fund Balances – Non-Major Governmental Funds – Modified Cash Basis; and the Statement of Fiduciary Receipts, Disbursements, and Changes in Cash – Modified Cash Basis.

Financial Highlights

The County's net position continues to remain steady in uncertain times, with a slight increase for both years 2019 and 2018. The County is highly blessed with state assessed railroad and utility valuations, two major pipelines, and Ethanol plant. The coming years are inspiring in that four Missouri licenses have been issued for Carroll County for Medical Marijuana growing and manufacturing facilities.

- The County's total revenues exceeded total expenditures by $114,100 in 2019 and $325,121 in 2018.
- The County's total governmental funds ended with a combined cash and investments balance of $5,308,294 in 2019 and $5,194,194 in 2018.

Financial Analysis of the County as a Whole

The following information was derived from the Statement of Net Position for 2018 and 2019 and unaudited 2017 information from the County's budget documents:

The County's Funds

- Elected officials and department heads have been diligent in their efforts to follow state statutes and auditor's instruction.
- Each office pays close attention to the spending for their department and only seems to spend what is actually needed.
- The County continues to pay 100% of the health insurance premium for full-time County employees, despite the continual increase in premium rates and increases in liability and property insurance.
- The County Commission voted in 2019 to pay for the Medicare Supplemental insurance premium for elected officials and employees who are Medicare eligible.
- The County has entered into an agreement with the BNSF railroad to replace a railroad bridge, to be reimbursed at 100% by the railroad company. Engineering began in 2019, but construction will be completed in 2020.
- The smaller court funds have all but dried up for the Prosecuting Attorney and many of the Sheriff's funds have depleted by at least 50%. General Revenue will be picking up the cost of many of these.

Capital Asset and Debt Administration

The County Commission continues to be committed to upgrading the equipment at the Road and Bridge department through lease agreements and state bids. They have purchased a Ford pickup, John Deere dozer, and a new Mack dump truck.

The County Commission continues to upgrade the Sheriff patrol cars to have newer, lower mileage vehicles, resulting in less major repairs. They have purchased three Ford Explorers in 2015, two new Ford Explorers in 2017 and two new ones in 2019. The plan is to put these on a rotation schedule to keep newer patrol cars in place.

Economic Factors and Next Year's Budgets and Rates

The economic condition of Carroll County continues to remain constant, even in the face of adversity, with record flooding in 2019 and the continual rural decline of commercial business and industry. Carroll County has been designated an "Agri-Ready" and "Work Ready" County to encourage agricultural related businesses and producers to locate in Carroll County. The state has awarded four Medical Marijuana licenses for Carroll County. One business, Feelz Good Green Products, is currently under construction and has requested a tax abatement for real estate taxes. This was still under advisement at the beginning of 2020.

CARROLL COUNTY, MISSOURI
NOTES TO THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
DECEMBER 31, 2019 and 2018

1. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Carroll County, Missouri (“County”) is governed by a three-member board of commissioners. In addition to the three board members, there are nine elected Constitutional Officers: Assessor, Circuit Clerk and ex-officio Recorder of Deeds, Collector-Treasurer, Coroner, County Clerk, Prosecuting Attorney, Public Administrator, Sheriff and Surveyor.

The financial statements of Carroll County, Missouri (the County) have been prepared on the modified cash basis of accounting, which is a comprehensive basis of accounting other than accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. The Governmental Accounting Standards Board is the accepted standard-setting body for establishing governmental accounting and financial reporting principles. The County has adopted the reporting model as required by GASB Statement 34, for the presentation of information in the government-wide financial statements and the major fund statements. The more significant of the County’s accounting policies are described below.

A. Reporting Entity

In evaluating the County as a reporting entity, management has addressed all potential component units (traditionally separate reporting entities) for which the County may be financially accountable and, as such, should be included within the County’s financial statements. The County (the primary government) is financially accountable if it appoints a voting majority of the organization’s governing board and (1) it is able to impose its will on the organization or (2) there is a potential for the organization to provide specific financial benefit or to impose specific financial burden on the County. Additionally, the primary government is required to consider other organizations for which the nature and significance of their relationship with the primary government are such that exclusion would cause the reporting entity’s financial statements to be misleading or incomplete.

The financial statements referred to above include the primary government of Carroll County, Missouri, which consists of all funds, organizations, institutions, agencies, departments, and offices that are considered to comprise the County’s legal entity, including the Senate Bill 40 Board Fund. The 911 Board and Health Center Board are not included as they are considered separate governing entities under state law.

The financial statements of the County do not include the activity of the Circuit Court, which is part of the Missouri court system and is considered to be a state function, including the operations of the Circuit Clerk and all funds under their control.

B. Basis of Presentation

Government-wide Financial Statements:

The statements of net position and the statements of activities display financial information about the reporting government as a whole. The statements distinguish between governmental and business-type activities. Governmental activities generally are financed through taxes and intergovernmental revenues.

The statement of activities demonstrates the degree to which the direct expenses of a given function or identifiable activity are offset by program revenues. Direct expenses are those that are clearly identifiable with a specific function or identifiable activity. Program revenues include 1) charges to customers or applicants who purchase, use or directly benefit from goods, services, or privileges provided by a given function or identifiable activity, and 2) grants and contributions that are restricted to meeting the operational or capital requirements of a particular function or identifiable activity. Taxes and other items not included among program revenues are reported as general revenues.

Fund Financial Statements:

Financial statements of the reporting entity are organized into funds, each of which is considered to be a separate accounting entity. Each fund is accounted for by providing a separate set of self-balancing accounts, which constitute its assets, liabilities, net position/fund balance, revenues, and expenditure/expenses.

Governmental funds are those through which most governmental functions are typically financed. Reporting for such funds focuses on the sources, uses, and balances of current resources. The County's major governmental funds are as follows:

General Revenue Fund - The General Revenue Fund is used to account for all revenues and expenditures applicable to the general operations of county government that are not properly accounted for in another fund. All general operating revenues that are not restricted or designated as to their use by outside sources are recorded in the General Revenue Fund. Revenues are derived primarily from taxes and intergovernmental revenues.

Special Road and Bridge Fund – A special revenue fund used to account for receipts of State distributions and Federal grants and related expenditures for road maintenance and improvement projects.

Assessment Fund – A special revenue fund used to account for property tax withholdings and state reimbursements that are legally restricted to expenditures for assessment purposes.

Courthouse Restoration Fund – A special revenue fund used to account for delinquent sales taxes and other revenue that are legally restricted to expenditures for courthouse restoration purposes.

Fiduciary funds account for assets held by the County as a trustee or an agent for individuals, private organizations, other governments, or other funds. Fiduciary fund reporting focuses on net position and changes in net position; fiduciary assets are reported in separate Statements of Fiduciary Net Position because the County cannot use those assets to finance its operations. The County's fiduciary funds consist of custodial funds, which report assets held in a purely custodial capacity.

C. Basis of Accounting

The government-wide financial statements and fund financial statements are prepared using the modified cash basis of accounting. This basis of accounting recognizes assets, liabilities, net position/fund balance, revenues, and expenditures when they result from cash transactions. This basis is a comprehensive basis of accounting other than accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. The modification of the cash basis is due to the presentation of investments.

As a result of the use of this modified cash basis of accounting, certain assets (such as accounts receivable and capital assets), certain revenues (such as revenue for billed or provided services not yet collected), certain liabilities (such as accounts payable, notes payable, revenue bonds, and obligations under capital leases) and certain expenditures (such as expenditures for goods or services received but not yet paid) are not recorded in these financial statements.

If the County utilized the basis of accounting recognized as generally accepted, the fund financial statements for governmental funds would use the modified accrual basis of accounting, while the government-wide financial statements would be presented on the accrual basis of accounting.

D. Equity Classifications

Government-wide Financial Statements

Equity is classified as net position and displayed in two components:

Restricted net position – Consists of net position with constraints placed on their use either by 1) external groups such as creditors, grantors, contributors, or laws or regulations of other governments or, 2) law through constitutional provisions or enabling legislation.

Unrestricted net position – All other net position that do not meet the definition of “restricted”.

When both restricted and unrestricted resources are available for use, it is the County’s policy to use restricted resources first, then unrestricted resources as they are needed.

Fund Financial Statements

Governmental fund balances are classified as nonspendable, restricted, committed, assigned, or unassigned. Nonspendable fund balance cannot be spent because of its form. Restricted fund balance has limitations imposed by creditors, grantors, or contributors or by enabling legislation or constitutional provisions. Committed fund balance is a limitation imposed by the County Commission through approval of resolutions. Committed fund balance can be assigned for other uses only by similar action of the Commission. Assigned fund balances is a limitation imposed by a designee of the Commission. Unassigned fund balance in the General Revenue fund is the net resources in excess of what can be properly classified in one of the above four categories.

E. Budgets and Budgetary Accounting

The County follows these procedures in establishing the budgetary data reflected in the financial statements:

1. In accordance with Chapter 50, RSMo, the County's policy is to adopt a budget for each governmental fund.
2. On or before the second Monday in January, each elected officer and department director will transmit to the County Commission and County Clerk, who serves as budget officer, the budget request and revenue estimates for their office or department for the budget year.
3. The County Clerk submits to the County Commission a proposed budget for the fiscal year beginning January 1. The proposed budget includes estimated revenues and proposed expenditures, on the cash basis of accounting, for all budgeted funds. Budgeting of appropriations is based upon an estimated fund balance at the beginning of the year as well as estimated revenues to be received.
4. State law requires that, at the individual fund level, budgeted expenditures not exceed budgeted revenues plus anticipated beginning fund balance.
5. A public hearing is conducted to obtain public comment on the budget. Prior to its approval by the County Commission, the budget document is available for public inspection, which usually takes place the third and fourth weeks of January.
6. Prior to February 1, the budget is legally enacted by a vote of the County Commission.
7. Subsequent to its formal approval of the budget, the County Commission has the authority to make necessary adjustments to the budget by a formal vote of the Commission. Budgeted amounts are as originally adopted, or as amended by the County Commission throughout the year.
8. Budgets are prepared and adopted on the modified cash basis of accounting.
9. Adoption of a formal budget is required by law.
10. Section 50.740, RSMo prohibits expenditures in excess of the approved budgets. Actual expenditures exceeded budgeted amounts for the following funds:

	2019	2018
Law Enforcement Training - POST	N/A	✓
Deputy Sheriff Salary Supplemental	N/A	✓
Administrative Handling	✓	N/A

- F. Property taxes are based on the voter-approved tax levy applied to the real and personal assessed property values. Property taxes attach as an enforceable lien on property as of January 1. Taxes are levied on September 1 and tax bills are mailed to taxpayers in November, at which time they are payable. All unpaid property taxes become delinquent as of January 1 of the following year.

The assessed valuations of the tangible taxable property, included within the County's boundaries for the calendar year 2019 and 2018, for purposes of taxation were:

	2019	2018
Real Estate	$ 85,489,972	$ 84,468,628
Personal Property	34,401,960	38,546,580
Railroad and Utilities	116,296,457	110,347,518
Total	$ 236,188,389	$ 233,362,726

For calendar years 2019 and 2018, the County Commission approved a tax levy per $100 of assessed valuation of tangible taxable property as follows:

	2019	2018
General Revenue	0.2655	0.2588
Johnson Grass	0.0099	0.0099
Senate Bill 40 Board	0.0954	0.0954

In addition to the levies above, the Drainage District III Fund receives .025% per $1 of net benefit, and the Special Road and Bridge Fund receives $.05 per $100 of assessed valuation of each township Road and Bridge levy for administrative purposes.

G. Cash Deposits and Investments

Deposits and investments are stated at cost, which approximates market. Cash balances for all the Collector-Treasurer funds are pooled and invested to the extent possible. Interest earned from these balances is allocated to each of the funds based on the funds' average daily cash balance. Cash equivalents may include repurchase agreements and any other instruments with an original maturity of ninety days or less. State law authorizes the deposit of funds in banks and trust companies or the investment of funds in bonds or treasury certificates of the United States, other interest bearing obligations guaranteed as to both principal and interest by the United States, bonds of the State of Missouri or other government bonds, or time certificates of deposit, purchased at a price at or below par. Funds in the form of cash on deposit or time certificates of deposit are required to be insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) or collateralized by authorized investments held in the County's name at third-party banking institutions. Details of these cash and investment balances are presented in Note 2.

H. Interfund Activity

During the course of operations, interfund activity occurs for purposes of providing supplemental funding, reimbursements for goods provided or services rendered, or short and long-term financing. Interfund activities are reported as "transfers in" by the recipient fund and as "transfers out" by the disbursing fund. However, interfund reimbursements have been eliminated from the financial statements in order that reimbursed expenditures are reported only in the funds incurring the costs.

I. Long-Term Debt

Consistent with the modified cash basis of accounting, long-term debt is not reported in the government-wide or fund financial statements. Proceeds from debt issuances are reported when received, and payments of principle and interest are reported when disbursements are made.

J. New Accounting Pronouncements

The County has implemented GASB Statement No. 84, Fiduciary Activities, effective for periods beginning after December 15, 2018, which establishes criteria for identifying and reporting fiduciary activities of state and local governments. As a result of the implementation of this statement, the County's financial statements include Statements of Changes in Fiduciary Net Position which report Additions and Deductions of the County's custodial funds.

2. CASH AND INVESTMENTS

The County maintains a cash and temporary investment pool that is available for use by all funds. Each fund's portion of this pool is displayed on the financial statements within the "Cash and Investments" caption. Cash includes deposits and short-term investments with maturities that are less than ninety days. Investments consist of certificates of deposit with original maturities that are greater than ninety days.

Custodial Credit Risk - Deposits – Custodial credit risk is the risk that in the event of a bank failure, a government's deposits may not be returned to it. Missouri statutes require that all deposits with financial institutions be collateralized in an amount at least equal to uninsured deposits. At December 31, 2019 and 2018, the carrying amounts of the County's deposits were $5,308,294 and $5,194,194, respectively, and the bank balances were $5,621,754 and $5,507,620, respectively. Of the bank balances, $537,196 and $530,539 were covered by federal depository insurance at December 31, 2019 and December 31, 2018, respectively. The remainder of the balances at December 31, 2019 and December 31, 2018 were covered by collateral held at the Federal Reserve Bank and the County's safekeeping bank agent in the County's name or by a line of credit held by the County or by its agent in the County's name.

At December 31, 2019 and 2018, County officeholders held, in addition to the cash and investments listed above, cash held in a fiduciary capacity on behalf of individuals, private organizations, taxing units, other governments and/or funds. At December 31, 2019 and 2018, the carrying amounts of the County's custodial funds were $6,484,426 and $5,321,784, respectively, and the bank balances were $6,438,345 and $5,380,592, respectively. Of the bank balances, $1,279,142 and $1,069,966 were covered by federal depository insurance at December 31, 2019 and December 31, 2018, respectively. The remainder of the balances at December 31, 2019 and December 31, 2018 were covered by collateral held at the Federal Reserve Bank and the County's safekeeping bank agent in the County's name or by a line of credit held by the County or by its agent in the County's name.

4. COUNTY EMPLOYEES' RETIREMENT PLANS

A. County Employees' Retirement Fund (CERF)

The County Employees' Retirement Fund was established by the State of Missouri to provide pension benefits for County officials and employees.

1) Plan Description

The Retirement Fund is a cost-sharing multiple employer defined benefit pension plan covering any county elective or appointed officer or employee whose performance requires the actual performance of duties during not less than one thousand (1,000) hours per calendar year in each county of the state, except for any city not within a county and any county of the first classification having a charter form of government. It does not include county prosecuting attorneys covered under Sections 56.800 to 56.840, RSMo, circuit clerks and deputy circuit clerks covered under the Missouri State Retirement System, county sheriffs covered under Sections 57.949 to 57.997, RSMo and certain personnel not defined as an employee per Section 50.1000(8), RSMo. The Fund was created by an act of the legislature and was effective August 28, 1994.

The general administration and the responsibility for the proper operation of the Fund and the investment of the Fund are vested in a board of directors of eleven persons.

2) Pension Benefits

Beginning January 1, 1997, employees attaining the age of sixty-two years may retire with full benefits with eight or more years of creditable service. The monthly benefit for County Employees is determined by selecting the highest benefit calculated using three different prescribed formulas (flat-dollar formula, targeted replacement ratio formula, and prior plan's formula). A death benefit of $10,000 will be paid to the designated beneficiary of every active member upon his or her death.

Upon termination of employment, any member who is vested is entitled to a deferred annuity, payable at age sixty-two. Early retirement is at age fifty-five. Any member with less than eight years of creditable service forfeits all rights in the Fund but will be paid his or her accumulated contributions.

The County Employees' Retirement Fund issues audited financial statements. Copies of these statements may be obtained from the Board of Directors of CERF by writing to CERF, 2121 Schotthill Woods Drive, Jefferson City, MO 65101, by calling 1-877-632-2373, or by the following website, www.mocerf.org.

3) Funding Policy

In accordance with State Statutes, the Plan is partially funded through various fees collected by counties and remitted to the CERF. Further, a contribution to CERF of 2% of annual salary is required for eligible employees hired before February 2002, while a contribution of 6% of annual salary is required of employees hired after February 2002. During 2019 and 2018, the County collected and remitted to CERF employee withholdings and fees collected of $139,388 and $121,364, respectively, for the years then ended.

B. Defined Contribution and Deferred Compensation Plans

1) Plan Description

The County offers employees the opportunity to participate in the CERF defined benefit plan and Internal Revenue Code (IRC) Section 457 deferred compensation plan. The plans' provisions and contribution requirements were established by and may be amended only by the Missouri General Assembly. Pension plan members are eligible to participate.

2) Contributions

Pension plan members are required to contribute 0.7 % of gross compensation to the defined contribution plan. During the years ended December 31, 2019 and 2018, contributions for the mandatory 401(a) totaled $8,484 and $8,359, respectively.

Participation in the deferred compensation plan is voluntary, and the employee elects the contribution level, subject to the limitations of IRC Sections 401(a) and 457. The CERF Board of Directors decides if matching contributions from the pension plan trust funds for the calendar year will be made to the defined contribution accounts of those who participated in the deferred compensation plan. The amount of any matching contribution is determined by the Board and is limited to 50% of a member's voluntary contributions to the deferred compensation plan, up to 6% of the member's compensation. During the years ended December 31, 2019 and 2018, contributions to the 457 plan totaled $35,491 and $36,541, respectively.

3) Administration

Maintenance of individual member accounts and custody of assets have been contracted to a third-party administrator and investment custodian, respectively. The County sends member contributions directly to the third-party administrator. Members may select from several options for investing their contributions and their share of matching contributions.

C. Prosecuting Attorney Retirement Fund

In accordance with state statute Section 56.807, RSMo, the County contributes monthly to the Missouri Office of Prosecution Services for deposit to the credit of the Missouri Prosecuting Attorneys and Circuit Attorney Retirement System Fund. Once remitted, the State of Missouri is responsible for administration of this plan. The County contributed $3,366 and $4,862, respectively, for the years ended December 31, 2019 and 2018.

5. POST EMPLOYMENT BENEFITS

The County does not provide post-employment benefits except as mandated by the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act (COBRA). The requirements established by COBRA are fully funded by employees who elect coverage under the Act, and no direct costs are incurred by the County.

6. CLAIMS, COMMITMENT AND CONTINGENCIES

A. Compensated Absences

The County provides regular full-time employees with up to 15 days of sick time to accrue at 1.25 days for each calendar month worked. Upon termination, the employee is not compensated for accrued sick time. Vacation time is accrued for full-time employees at the rate of 10 days per year for employees with 1-5 years of service; 11 days per year with 6 years of service; 12 days per year with 7 years of service; 13 days per year with 8 years of service; 14 days per year with 9 years of service; and 15 days per year with 10 or more years of service, up to a maximum of 30 days. Upon termination, the employee is compensated for accrued vacation time up to a maximum of 30 days.

B. Federal and State Assisted Programs

The County has received proceeds from several federal and state grants. Periodic audits of these grants, when performed, could result in the disallowance of certain costs. Accordingly, such audits could result in the refund of grant monies to the grantor agencies. Management believes that any required refunds, if determined necessary, will be immaterial and, therefore, no provision has been made in the accompanying financial statements for the potential refund of grant monies.

C. Intergovernmental Agreement

Effective June 1, 2014, the County entered into an intergovernmental agreement with the Town of Carrollton to have the Deputy Recorder of Deeds serve as the municipal court clerk. The agreement ended December 31, 2014, but has been renewed every year. The agreement is considered a renewable leave agreement. The County pays 75% of the total salary and fringe benefits and related office expenditures with the Town of Carrollton reimbursing the County the remaining 25%.

7. RISK MANAGEMENT

The County is exposed to various risks of losses related to torts; theft of, damage to and destruction of assets; errors and omissions; injuries to employees; and natural disasters, and has established a risk management strategy that attempts to minimize losses and the carrying costs of insurance. There have been no significant reductions in coverage from the prior year and settlements have not exceeded coverage in the past three years.

The County is a member participant in a public entity risk pool which is a corporate and political body. The purpose of the risk pool is to provide liability protection to participating public entities, their officials, and employees. Annual contributions are collected based on actuarial projections which are intended to produce sufficient funds to pay losses and expenses. Should contributions not produce sufficient funds to meet its obligations, the risk pool is empowered with the ability to make special assessments. Members are jointly and severally liable for all claims against the risk pool.

The County is a member of the Missouri Association of Counties Self-Insured Workers' Compensation Trust. The County purchases workers' compensation insurance through this Fund, a non-profit corporation established for the purpose of providing insurance coverage for Missouri counties. The Fund is self-insured up to $2,000,000 per occurrence and is reinsured up to the statutory limit through excess insurance.

Subsequent to December 31, 2019, the County has been impacted by the coronavirus pandemic in the United States. This event has led to a decrease in business and consumer activity within the County and could have a negative impact on sales and other tax revenues in 2020, as well as potentially affecting the availability of grants and other assistance from the state and federal governments.

COMPLIANCE SECTION

CERTIFIED PUBLIC ACCOUNTANTS

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON INTERNAL CONTROL OVER FINANCIAL REPORTING AND ON COMPLIANCE AND OTHER MATTERS BASED ON AN AUDIT OF FINANCIAL STATEMENTS PERFORMED IN ACCORDANCE WITH GOVERNMENT AUDITING STANDARDS

To the County Commission and
Officeholders of Carroll County, Missouri

We have audited, in accordance with the auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards issued by the Comptroller General of the United States, the financial statements of the governmental activities, each major fund, and the aggregate remaining fund information of Carroll County, Missouri as of and for the years ended December 31, 2019 and 2018, and the related notes to the financial statements, which collectively comprise Carroll County, Missouri's basic financial statements, and have issued our report thereon dated August 12, 2020.

Internal Control Over Financial Reporting

In planning and performing our audit of the financial statements, we considered Carroll County, Missouri's internal control over financial reporting (internal control) to determine the audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the financial statements, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of Carroll County, Missouri's internal control. Accordingly, we do not express an opinion on the effectiveness of Carroll County, Missouri's internal control.

A deficiency in internal control exists when the design or operation of a control does not allow management or employees, in the normal course of performing their assigned functions, to prevent, or detect and correct, misstatements on a timely basis. A material weakness is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control such that there is a reasonable possibility that a material misstatement of the County's financial statements will not be prevented, or detected and corrected on a timely basis. A significant deficiency is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control that is less severe than a material weakness, yet important enough to merit attention by those charged with governance.

Our consideration of internal control was for the limited purpose described in the first paragraph of this section and was not designed to identify all deficiencies in internal control that might be material weaknesses or significant deficiencies. Given these limitations, during our audit we did not identify any deficiencies in internal control that we consider to be material weaknesses. However, material weaknesses may exist that have not been identified.

Compliance and Other Matters

As part of obtaining reasonable assurance about whether Carroll County, Missouri's financial statements are free from material misstatement, we performed tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grant agreements, noncompliance with which could have a direct and material effect on the determination of financial statement amounts. However, providing an opinion on compliance with those provisions was not an objective of our audit, and accordingly, we do not express such an opinion. The results of our tests disclosed no instances of noncompliance or other matters that are required to be reported under Government Auditing Standards.

Purpose of this Report

The purpose of this report is solely to describe the scope of our testing of internal control and compliance and the results of that testing, and not to provide an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control or on compliance. This report is an integral part of an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards in considering the entity's internal control and compliance. Accordingly, this communication is not suitable for any other purpose.

Summary of Local Government and Court Audit Findings

Information Security Controls

Audit Issues

1. User Access Management

1.1 Access rights and privileges

Access to certain systems is not adequately restricted. Access rights and privileges are used to determine what a user can do after being allowed into a system, such as read or write to a certain file. Unrestricted system access allows the capability to make unauthorized changes to records or to delete or void transactions after the transactions have been entered in the system. In addition, adequate supervisory reviews of users are not performed. Access should be limited based on user needs and job responsibilities.

Without adequate user access restrictions, there is an increased risk of unauthorized changes to data and records and of the loss, theft, or misuse of funds.

Recommendation

Ensure user access rights are limited to only what is necessary to perform job duties and responsibilities.

2019-069 (Camden County Collector and Property Tax System)
2019-110 (Pemiscot County)
2019-113 (45th Judicial Circuit Lincoln County)

1.2 Terminated employees

The user access of former employees is not disabled timely.

Without effective procedures to remove access upon termination, former employees could continue to have access to critical or sensitive data and records, which increases the risk of the unauthorized use, modification, or destruction of data and information.

Recommendation

Ensure user access is promptly deleted following termination of employment to prevent unauthorized access to computer systems and data.

Report Source

2019-101 (Ozark County)
2019-118 (Barry County)

2. User Authentication

2.1 Passwords not changed

Passwords are not required to be changed on a periodic basis. As a result, there is less assurance passwords are effectively limiting access to computer systems and data files to only those individuals who need access to perform their job responsibilities. Passwords should be changed periodically to reduce the risk of unauthorized access to and use of systems and data.

Summary of Local Government and Court Audit Findings
Information Security Controls
Audit Issues

Without requiring passwords to be periodically changed, the likelihood that accounts could be compromised and used by unauthorized individuals to gain access to sensitive information is increased.

Recommendation

Ensure passwords are periodically changed to prevent unauthorized access to computers and data.

2020-029 (City of Monroe City)

2.2 Sharing passwords

User accounts and passwords for accessing computers and various systems are shared by users. The security of a password system is dependent upon keeping passwords confidential. By allowing users to share accounts and passwords, individual accountability for system activity could be lost and unauthorized system activity could occur.

Without strong user account and password controls, including maintaining the confidentiality of passwords, the likelihood that accounts could be compromised and used by unauthorized individuals to gain access to sensitive information is increased.

Recommendation

Ensure unique user accounts and passwords are required to access computers and data. In addition, ensure users understand the importance of maintaining the confidentiality of passwords.

2019-118 (Barry County)

2020-029 (City of Monroe City)

2.3 Password not required

A password is not required to logon and authenticate access to a computer.

Without requiring passwords to access a computer or system, there is no assurance the data or system is protected from unauthorized access and use.

Recommendation

Ensure passwords are required to authenticate access to computer systems and data.

2.4 Password complexity

Passwords are not required to contain a minimum number of characters. Strong passwords are often the first line of defense into a computer or system. As a result, an appropriate minimum character length should be established so passwords cannot be easily guessed or identified using password-cracking mechanisms.

Without enforcing password complexity by requiring a minimum number of characters, there is an increased risk that passwords can be more easily guessed, allowing unauthorized access to data and systems.

Recommendation

Ensure passwords contain a minimum number of characters so they cannot be easily guessed.

3. Security Controls

3.1 Inactivity control

Inactivity controls have not been implemented to lock a computer or system after a certain period of inactivity. To reduce the risk of unauthorized individuals accessing an unattended computer and having potentially unrestricted access to programs and data files, users should log off computers when unattended and an inactivity control should be implemented to lock a computer or terminate a user session after a certain period of inactivity.

Without an inactivity control, there is an increased risk of unauthorized access to computers and the unauthorized use, modification, or destruction of data.

Recommendation

Ensure an inactivity control is implemented to lock a computer or system after a certain period of inactivity.

3.2 Unsuccessful logon attempts

Security controls have not been implemented to lock access to a computer or system after a specified number of unsuccessful logon attempts. Logon attempt controls lock the capability to access a computer or system after a specified number of consecutive unsuccessful logon attempts, and are necessary to prevent unauthorized individuals from continually attempting to logon to a computer or system by guessing passwords.

Summary of Local Government and Court Audit Findings
Information Security Controls
Audit Issues

Without effective controls to limit the number of consecutive unsuccessful logon attempts, there is less assurance sensitive data is effectively protected from unauthorized access.

Recommendation

Ensure a security control is implemented to lock access to a computer or system after multiple unsuccessful logon attempts.

4. Backup and Recovery

4.1 Data backup

Data in various systems is not periodically backed up. Preparation of backup data, preferably on a daily or at least weekly basis, provides reasonable assurance data could be recovered if necessary.

Without regular data backups, there is an increased risk critical data will not be available for recovery should a disruptive incident occur.

Recommendation

Ensure data is regularly backed up.

Report Source

2019-057 (Dent County)

4.2 Off-site storage

Data backups are not stored at a secure off-site location. Data backups are performed; however, the backup files are stored at the same location as the original data leaving the files susceptible to the same damage as that data.

Without storing backup data at a secure off-site location, critical data may not be available for restoring systems following a disaster or other disruptive incident.

Recommendation

Ensure backup data is stored in a secure off-site location.

Report Source

2019-050 (Madison County Collector and Property Tax System)
2019-118 (Barry County)

4.3 Periodic testing

Periodic testing of backup data is not performed. Such testing is necessary to ensure the backup process is functioning properly and to ensure all essential data can be recovered.

Summary of Local Government and Court Audit Findings
Information Security Controls
Audit Issues

Without testing the full backup process, management cannot be assured the entire system can be restored when necessary.

Recommendation

Ensure backup data is tested on a regular, predefined basis.

2019-118 (Barry County)

5. Data Management and Integrity

Data management and integrity controls to guard against the improper modification or destruction of data and information have not been implemented. As a result, critical systems, such as property tax systems, do not prevent users from voiding receipt transactions after they are completed. In addition, systems do not have the audit trail controls or functionality to generate reports of deleted or modified transactions.

Without data management, integrity, and audit trail controls, there is an increased risk of manipulation of data without detection and the loss, theft, or misuse of funds.

Recommendation

Ensure adequate data management, integrity, and audit trail controls are in place to allow for the proper accountability of all transactions.

NICOLE GALLOWAY, CPA

Missouri State Auditor

Honorable Mike Parson, Governor
and
Chlora Lindley-Myers, Director
Department of Commerce and Insurance
Jefferson City, Missouri

We have audited certain operations of the Department of Commerce and Insurance - Insurance, in fulfillment of our duties under Chapter 29 and 374, RSMo. The scope of our audit included, but was not necessarily limited to, the year ended June 30, 2019. The objectives of our audit were to:

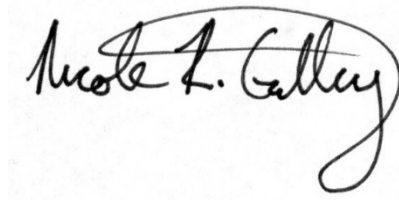

1. Evaluate the department's internal controls over significant management and financial functions.
2. Evaluate the department's compliance with certain legal provisions.
3. Evaluate the economy and efficiency of certain management practices and procedures, including certain financial transactions.

Our methodology included reviewing written policies and procedures, financial records, and other pertinent documents; interviewing various personnel of the department, as well as certain external parties; and testing selected transactions. We obtained an understanding of internal controls that are significant within the context of the audit objectives and assessed whether such controls have been properly designed and placed in operation. We tested certain of those controls to obtain evidence regarding the effectiveness of their design and operation. We also obtained an understanding of legal provisions that are significant within the context of the audit objectives, and we assessed the risk that illegal acts, including fraud, and violations of applicable contract, grant agreement, or other legal provisions could occur. Based on that risk assessment, we designed and performed procedures to provide reasonable assurance of detecting instances of noncompliance significant to those provisions.

We conducted our audit in accordance with the standards applicable to performance audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform our audit to obtain sufficient, appropriate evidence to provide a reasonable basis for our findings and conclusions based on our audit objectives. We believe that the evidence obtained provides such a basis.

The accompanying Organization and Statistical Information is presented for informational purposes. This information was obtained from the department's management and was not subjected to the procedures applied in our audit of the department.

For the areas audited, we identified (1) deficiencies in internal controls, (2) partial noncompliance with a legal provision, and (3) the need for improvement with a management practice and procedure. The accompanying Management Advisory Report presents our findings arising from our audit of the DCI-Insurance.

Department of Commerce and Insurance - Insurance

Management Advisory Report

State Auditor's Findings

1. Tax Reconciliations

The Department of Commerce and Insurance (DCI) - Insurance's procedures for reconciling information on tax payments collected by the Department of Revenue (DOR) and uploaded to the DCI-Insurance's tax systems to the tax collections posted in the statewide accounting system need improvement. During the fiscal year ended June 30, 2019, the DOR collected approximately $345 million in insurance taxes on behalf of the department.

Foreign and domestic insurance companies conducting business in the state, including certain stock insurance companies organized in the state, are required to pay premium taxes based on insurance premiums received during the calendar year. Premium taxes are required to be paid in quarterly installments to the DOR. That department is responsible for receiving these premium tax payments and posting them to statewide accounting records. In addition, DOR personnel upload premium tax payment information to the DCI-Insurance's premium tax system. In accordance with various provisions of Chapter 148, RSMo, with the exception of domestic stock insurance company premium taxes, which are deposited and accounted for in the County Stock Insurance Fund within the DOR's Financial Institution Tax Fund, premium tax payments are required to be deposited to the General Revenue Fund.

Premium tax

DCI-Insurance personnel do not reconcile premium tax payments by type to corresponding amounts posted in the statewide accounting system to ensure the collections have been credited to the appropriate fund in compliance with state law. Instead, they reconcile premium tax payments credited to the General Revenue Fund and to the County Stock Insurance Fund in total to payment information uploaded to the DCI-Insurance's premium tax system to evaluate the accuracy. As a result of the lack of reconciliation by type of premium tax collection, insurance company premium tax payments may be posted incorrectly in statewide accounting records.

In February and March 2018, the DOR receipted $2,192,313 in domestic stock premium taxes. These payments were recorded incorrectly in the statewide accounting records to the General Revenue Fund, instead of the County Stock Insurance Fund. Since DCI-Insurance personnel did not reconcile premium tax collections by type to related entries in statewide accounting records, they did not identify the error. The DOR identified and corrected the error in September 2018. The error and delay in its correction resulted in statewide accounting records being misstated in both fiscal year 2018 and 2019. In fiscal year 2018, premium taxes deposited to the General Revenue Fund were overstated and domestic stock premium taxes deposited to the County Stock Insurance Fund were understated. In addition, premium taxes deposited to the County Stock Insurance Fund in fiscal year 2019 were overstated due to this error.

Department of Commerce and Insurance - Insurance
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

According to Section 148.330.4, RSMo, on or before the first day of September of each year, all domestic stock premium taxes in the County Stock Insurance Fund are to be apportioned to the General Revenue Fund of the state, to the county treasurer and to the treasurer of the school district in which the principal office of the company paying the same is located. Apportionments are made in the same ratio as the levy rates for state, county, and school district purposes.

Because the department did not identify and correct this error timely, amounts apportioned from the County Stock Insurance Fund were likely impacted in both fiscal years.

Captive and SPLRC tax

During fiscal year 2019, DCI-Insurance personnel did not perform a periodic reconciliation of captive and special purpose life reinsurance captive (SPLRC) tax collections receipted by the DOR to the amounts recorded in the DCI-Insurance's captive tax system. Because DCI-Insurance personnel did not perform such reconciliations, no one timely identified errors in how DOR calculated and recorded the required transfer of 10 percent of these tax collections from the General Revenue Fund to the Insurance Dedicated Fund in the statewide accounting records. As a result, these errors resulted in captive tax collections being understated by $81,707 and SPLRC tax collections being overstated by $81,707 in the fiscal year 2019 General Revenue Fund statewide accounting records.

Performing periodic reconciliations of collections by type helps ensure statewide accounting records balance, transactions are properly recorded, and increases the likelihood errors will be identified and corrected timely.

Recommendation

The DCI-Insurance perform a periodic reconciliation of premium and captive tax collections by type receipted by the DOR to amounts recorded in the DCI-Insurance's tax systems and posted to statewide accounting records to ensure records in the DCI-Insurance tax systems have been updated properly and credited to appropriate fund. In addition, the DCI-Insurance should work with the DOR to ensure captive and SPLRC tax transfers from the General Revenue Fund to the Insurance Dedicated Fund are calculated and recorded accurately in the state's accounting records.

Auditee's Response

The DCI-Insurance's written response is included at Appendix A.

2. License Suspension

The state's process for the suspension of insurance licenses due to the licensee's failure to pay state taxes or failure to file a state tax return is not functioning. As a result, the DCI-Insurance has not received notice of any non-compliant licensees from the DOR since October 2018.

Each month, the DCI-Insurance provides the DOR with the name and social security number of each applicant for licensure and each anticipated licensee

Department of Commerce and Insurance - Insurance
Management Advisory Report - State Auditor's Findings

renewal as required by state law. However, the DOR has not notified the DCI-Insurance of any non-compliant applicants or licensees since October 2018. Therefore, the DCI-Insurance does not have the ability to suspend licenses for noncompliance as required by state law. DCI-Insurance personnel indicated they contacted the DOR in January 2019 when they had not received any reports for several months, and were informed the DOR system used to generate the noncompliance reports was not working properly.

Section 324.010, RSMo, requires the DCI-Insurance to provide the Director of Revenue (DOR) with the name and social security number of each applicant for licensure or licensee of the DCI-Insurance within one month of the date the application is filed or at least one month prior to the anticipated renewal of a licensee's license. If such licensee is delinquent on any state taxes or has failed to file state income tax returns in the last 3 years, the director is required to send notice to the DCI-Insurance and licensee. In the case of such delinquency or failure to file, the licensee's license shall be suspended within 90 days after notice of such delinquency or failure to file, unless the director of revenue verifies that such delinquency or failure has been remedied or arrangements have been made to achieve such remedy.

Because the DOR is not providing this tax compliance information, the DCI-Insurance cannot suspend licenses of individuals who are not tax compliant in accordance with state law.

Recommendation

The DCI-Insurance work with the DOR to receive notification of noncompliant license applicants and licensees to ensure licenses can be suspended for noncompliance as required by law.

Auditee's Response

The DCI-Insurance's written response is included at Appendix A.

3. Electronic Communication Policies

The DCI-Insurance's records management and retention policy does not comply with the Missouri Secretary of State Records Services Division guidance, as approved by the Missouri State Records Commission.¹ This guidance recommends government entities have a policy on electronic messaging, including text messages, email, and other third party platforms.

While the DCI-Insurance's policy No. 2-105, titled Records Management and Retention Policy addresses the retention of emails initiated from DCI-Insurance communication systems, the policy does not address all of the issues set forth in the guidance, including the retention of messages sent from text messages and other third party platforms, such as personal email accounts and personal devices, when they represent official business of the state.

Proper retention of electronic communications is necessary to ensure all documentation of official business of the state is retained.

Recommendation

The DCI-Insurance update records management and retention policies to comply with the Missouri Secretary of State Records Services Division Electronic Communications Guidelines.

Auditee's Response

The DCI-Insurance's written response is included at Appendix A.

Department of Commerce and Insurance - Insurance

Organization and Statistical Information

The Missouri Division of Insurance was created by an act of the Missouri legislature in 1869. With the enactment of the state Omnibus Reorganization Act of 1974, the agency was transferred to the Department of Consumer Affairs, Regulation and Licensing. Constitution Amendment No. 6 passed in August 1984, changed the name of the Department of Consumer Affairs, Regulation and Licensing, to the Department of Economic Development, effective September 7, 1984. Constitutional Amendment No. 4, passed in August 1990, created a new Department of Insurance, effective July 1, 1991. Executive Order 06-04 consolidated the former Department of Insurance, the Division of Finance, the State Banking Board, the Division of Credit Unions, and the Division of Professional Registration into one department and changed the name of the department to the Missouri Department of Insurance, Financial Institutions, and Professional Registration (DIFP), effective August 28, 2006. Executive Order 19-02 transferred the Office of Public Counsel and the Public Service Commission to the DIFP and changed the name to the Department of Commerce and Insurance (DCI), effective August 28, 2019.

The DCI-Insurance operates under the authority of Chapter 374, RSMo. The management and control of the DCI is vested in a director who is nominated by the Governor with the advice and consent of the Senate. Chlora Lindley-Myers was appointed Director on March 6, 2017 and continues to serve in that capacity.

As of June 30, 2019, there were 578 domestic, 2,705 foreign, and 478 alien companies licensed and/or regulated by DCI-Insurance in Missouri. Insurers with primary corporate headquarters located in a particular state are called domestic insurers. Foreign and alien insurers are those that are allowed to sell insurance in a state but have a primary legal residence in another state or country.

The DCI-Insurance regulates the insurance industry in the state through enforcement of Chapters 325, 354, and 374 through 385, RSMo. The department regulates and licenses the insurance industry in the state, ensures the insurance industry is financially sound, trustworthy, competent, and responsive to the insurance-buying public; and ensures the insurance industry complies with the laws of the state.

To fulfill these responsibilities, the department maintains a central office in Jefferson City and branch offices in St. Louis and Kansas City. The DCI-Insurance is organized into the following functional units: Insurance Consumer Affairs Division, Insurance Market Regulation Division, Insurance Company Regulation Division, and Administration Division. The DCI-Insurance had 190 employees as of June 30, 2019.

Organization and Statistical Information

The Insurance Dedicated Fund is authorized by Section 374.150, RSMo, to receive all fees due to the state under the provisions of the insurance laws. Appropriations from this fund are to be used solely for payment of expenditures incurred by the department in performing the duties required by law that are not paid for by another source of funds. The DCI-Insurance administers programs financed partially by federal funding placed in the Federal Missouri Department of Insurance Fund. The department receives appropriations from this fund.

The DIFP - Administrative Fund is used to account for department-wide expenditures for budget, legislative coordination, public information, accounting, human resources, and department management. The fund receives monies through a cost allocation to the divisions within the DCI.

The DCI-Insurance does not receive any appropriations from the General Revenue Fund and does not maintain any proprietary interest in that fund. Receipts collected by the Department of Revenue (DOR) on behalf of the department include the following:

- Premium Taxes: In accordance with various provisions of Chapter 148, RSMo, insurance companies licensed in the state are required to pay a 2 percent tax on direct premiums received during the calendar year. The department certifies to the DOR the amount of premium taxes due together with the amount of quarterly installments to be paid by the insurance companies. The DOR collects the premium taxes and deposits them into the General Revenue Fund. Some premium taxes deposited into the General Revenue Fund are not available for general revenue purposes. The provisions of Chapter 148, RSMo, restrict about 50 percent of such premium taxes for distribution to the various school districts in the state.
- Domestic Stock Company Premium Taxes: In accordance with various provisions of Chapter 148, RSMo, every stock insurance company organized under the provisions of Sections 379.010 to 379.203, RSMo, are required to pay a 2 percent tax on direct premiums received during the year. The department certifies to the DOR the amount of premium taxes due together with the amount of quarterly installments to be paid by the domestic stock insurance companies. The DOR collects the domestic stock company premium taxes and deposits them into the Financial Institutions Tax Fund as county stock insurance taxes. In accordance with Section 148.330.4, RSMo, domestic stock premium taxes credited to the County Stock Insurance Fund are to be apportioned to the General

The department certifies to the DOR the amount of premium taxes due to be paid annually by the captive insurance companies. The DOR collects the captive insurance premium taxes and deposits them into the General Revenue Fund. Some captive insurance premium taxes initially deposited into the General Revenue Fund are not available for general revenue purposes. The provisions of Chapter 379, RSMo., require 10 percent of these premium tax collections be deposited to the Insurance Dedicated Fund annually.
- Special Purpose Life Insurance Captive (SPLRC) Taxes: In accordance with Section 379.1412, RSMo, each SPLRC is required to pay a premium tax at the rate of two hundred fourteen thousandths of 1 percent on the first $20 million of assumed reinsurance premium, and one hundred forty-three thousandths of 1 percent on the next $20 million, and forty-eight thousandths of 1 percent on the next $20 million, and twenty-four thousandths of 1 percent of each dollar thereafter on the direct premiums received during the calendar year. The department certifies to the DOR the amount of premium taxes due to be paid annually by the SPLRC insurance companies. The DOR collects the SPLRC premium taxes and deposits them into the General Revenue Fund. Some SPLRC premium taxes initially deposited into the General Revenue Fund are not available for general revenue purposes. The provisions of Chapter 379, RSMo, require ten percent of these premium tax collections be deposited to the Insurance Dedicated Fund annually.
- Surplus Lines Taxes: In accordance with the various provisions of Chapter 384, RSMo, surplus lines insurers are required to pay a 5 percent tax on net premiums for high risk insurance that is underwritten. The DOR collects the surplus lines premium taxes and deposits them into the General Revenue Fund. In addition, the department certifies to the DOR all penalties and interest due as a result of late payments of surplus lines premium taxes. The DOR collects the surplus lines penalties and interest and deposits them into the State School Moneys Fund.

Department of Commerce and Insurance - Insurance
Organization and Statistical Information

Fines and forfeitures imposed and collected by the department under the Missouri Insurance Code are deposited into the State School Moneys Fund.

The DCI-Insurance is authorized to administer Missouri chartered insurance companies requiring rehabilitation or liquidation, commonly referred to as receiverships. Eight insurance companies were in receivership during the year ended June 30, 2019. Companies placed into receivership are under circuit court supervision with the judge appointing the Director as receiver. The Director may appoint a special deputy receiver or agent. Four of the companies did not have a special deputy receiver assigned to them. The department handled the day-to-day operations for one of these companies and contracted with vendors to act as agents for the other three. Four of the companies had a court-assigned special deputy receiver that directly supervised them. The contracted vendors and the special deputy receivers submit disbursements to DCI-Insurance for approval.

According to the National Association of Insurance Commissioners (NAIC), for calendar year 2018 Missouri ranked twelfth nationally in the number of insurance companies incorporated in the state. The department's budget for fiscal year 2019 ranks twenty-fifth nationally.

Honorable Nicole R. Galloway, CPA
State Auditor
Jefferson City, Missouri

Please accept these responses to the audit your office conducted of the Department of Commerce and Insurance – Insurance for the year ended June 30, 2019.

1. Tax Reconciliations - Audit Recommendation:

The DCI-Insurance perform a periodic reconciliation of premium and captive tax collections by type receipted by the DOR to amounts recorded in the DCI-Insurance's tax systems and posted to statewide accounting records to ensure records in the DCI-Insurance tax systems have been updated properly and credited to appropriate fund. In addition, the DCI-Insurance should work with the DOR to ensure captive and SPLRC tax transfers from the General Revenue Fund to the Insurance Dedicated Fund are calculated and recorded accurately in the state's accounting records.

Department's Response:

The department has enhanced its reconciliation process and began reconciling Department of Revenue (DOR) deposits for Captive and SPRLR taxes on a monthly basis by type of premium tax, beginning with collections received by DOR in March of 2020. The department will begin implementing the recommendation to enhance our reconciliation process by type of premium tax for DOR Premium tax deposits per the Auditor's Recommendation.

2. License Suspension - Audit Recommendation:

The DCI-Insurance work with the DOR to receive notification of noncompliant license applicants and licensees to ensure licenses can be suspended for noncompliance as required by law.

Department's Response:

As required, the department has and continues to provide the necessary information to DOR. We will continue working with the DOR and the Office of Administration, Information Technology Services Division (OA-ITSD) to resume receiving notifications of noncompliant license applicants and licensees from the DOR system.

3. Electronic Communication Policies - Audit Recommendation:

The DCI-Insurance update records management and retention policies to comply with the Missouri Secretary of State Records Services Division Electronic Communications Guidelines.

Department's Response:

The department is currently updating department policies to reflect the reorganization of the department to the Department of Commerce and Insurance and will consider this Auditor's Recommendation in that process.

If the department may be of further assistance, please let us know.

Respectfully,

RECOMMENDATION SUMMARY

Recommendations in the contracted audit of Ripley County

2019-001	We recommend that the county develop the required internal control documentation. In addition, we recommend studying the COSO internal control guidance and tools as a means to begin the process. Once this documentation is complete, those charged with governance have a responsibility to understand the controls and ensure they are operating effectively.
2019-002	We recommend that the county address various risks in the environment, including risk of fraud occurring by performing assessments to identify, analyze and manage these risks.
2019-003	The county should implement procedures to ensure that the risk assessment over federal awards are addressed going forward and formally documented. This is a repeat finding.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT

To the County Commission
The County of Ripley, Missouri

Report on the Financial Statements

We have audited the accompanying financial statements of the County of Ripley ("County"), Missouri, which comprise cash and unencumbered cash for each fund as of December 31, 2019, and 2018, and the related statements of cash receipts and disbursements and disbursements-budget and actual for the years then ended, and the related notes to the financial statements.

Management's Responsibility for the Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of these financial statements in accordance with the regulatory basis of accounting, a financial reporting framework prescribed or permitted by Missouri law as described in Note I of the accompanying financial statements. This includes determining that the regulatory basis of accounting is an acceptable basis for the preparation of the financial statements in the circumstances. Management is also responsible for the design, implementation, and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

Auditor's Responsibility

Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit. We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free from material misstatement.

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. The procedures selected depend on the auditor's judgment, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity's preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control. Accordingly, we express no such opinion. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements.

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinions.

Basis for Adverse Opinion on U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles

As described in Note I of the financial statements, the financial statements are prepared by the County on the basis of the financial reporting provisions prescribed or permitted by Missouri law, which is a basis of accounting other than accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, to meet the requirements of Missouri.

The effects on the financial statements of the variances between the regulatory basis of accounting described in Note I and accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, although not reasonably determinable, are presumed to be material.

Adverse Opinion on U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles

In our opinion, because of the significance of the matter discussed in the “Basis for Adverse Opinion on U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles” paragraph, the financial statements referred to above do not present fairly, in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, the financial position of each fund of the County as of December 31, 2019, and 2018, or changes in net financial position or cash flows thereof for the years then ended.

Unmodified Opinion on Regulatory Basis of Accounting

In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the cash and unencumbered cash of each fund of the County as of December 31, 2019, and 2018, and their respective cash receipts and disbursements, and budgetary results for the years then ended in accordance with the financial reporting provisions prescribed or permitted by Missouri law described in Note I.

Other Matters

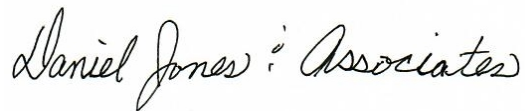

Other Information

Our audit was conducted for the purpose of forming an opinion on the financial statements that collectively comprise the County of Ripley’s basic financial statements. The schedule of expenditures of federal awards, as required by Title 2 U.S. Code of Federal Regulations Part 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards (Uniform Guidance) is presented for purposes of additional analysis and is not a required part of the basic financial statements.

The schedule of expenditures of federal awards is the responsibility of management and was derived from and relates directly to the underlying accounting and other records used to prepare the basic financial statements. Such information has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the basic financial statements and certain additional procedures, including comparing and reconciling such information directly to the underlying accounting and other records used to prepare the basic financial statements or to the basic financial statements themselves, and other additional procedures in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. In our opinion, the schedule of expenditures of federal awards is fairly stated, in all material respects, in relation to the basic financial statements as a whole.

Other Reporting Required by Government Auditing Standards

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we have also issued our report dated August 18, 2020, on our consideration of the County of Ripley's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grant agreements and other matters. The purpose of that report is solely to describe the scope of our testing of internal control over financial reporting and compliance and the results of that testing, and not to provide an opinion on the effectiveness of the County's internal control over financial reporting or on compliance. That report is an integral part of an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards in considering County of Ripley's internal control over financial reporting and compliance.

THE COUNTY OF RIPLEY
DONIPHAN, MISSOURI
NOTES TO THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
DECEMBER 31, 2019 AND 2018

I. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The County of Ripley, Missouri (“County”), which is governed by a three-member board of commissioners, was established in 1833 by an Act of the Missouri Territory. In addition to the three Commissioners, there are 11 elected Constitutional Officers: Assessor, Circuit Clerk, Collector, Coroner, County Clerk, County Surveyor, Prosecuting Attorney, Public Administrator, Recorder of Deeds, Sheriff and Treasurer.

As discussed further in Note I, these financial statements are presented on the regulatory basis of accounting. This basis of accounting differs from accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America (GAAP).

A. Reporting Entity

As required by generally accepted accounting principles, as applicable to the regulatory basis of accounting, these financial statements present financial accountability of the County.

The County’s operations include tax assessments and collections, state/county courts, county recorder, public safety, transportation, economic development, and social and recreation services.

The financial statements referred to above include only the County of Ripley County, Missouri, which consists of all funds, organizations, institutions, agencies, departments, and offices that comprise the County’s legal entity.

B. Basis of Presentation

The financial statements are presented using accounting practices prescribed or permitted by Missouri law, which include a Statement of Receipts, Disbursements and Changes in Cash and Investment Balances – All Governmental Funds, a Comparative Statement of Receipts, Disbursements and Changes in Cash and Investment Balances – Budget and Actual – All Governmental Funds, and a Statement of Assets and Liabilities Arising from Cash Transactions – Agency Funds.

Governmental resources are allocated to and accounted for in individual funds based upon the purposes for which they are to be spent and the means by which spending activities are controlled. A fund is considered a separate accounting entity with self-balancing accounts. The following fund types are used by the County:

NOTES TO THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
DECEMBER 31, 2019 AND 2018

I. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES (continued)

B. Basis of Presentation (concluded)

Governmental Fund Types

Governmental funds are those through which most governmental functions are financed. The County's expendable financial resources are accounted for through governmental funds. The measurement focus is upon determination of and changes in financial position rather than upon net income.

Fiduciary Fund Types

Agency – Agency funds are used to account for assets held by the County in a trustee capacity as an agent of individuals, private organizations, other funds or other governmental units. Agency funds are accounted for and reported similarly to the governmental funds. Agency funds are custodial in nature (assets equal liabilities) and do not involve the measurement of results of operations. These funds account for activities of collections for other taxing units by the Collector of Revenue and other officeholders.

C. Basis of Accounting

Basis of accounting determines when transactions are recorded in the financial records and reported on the financial statements.

The financial statements are prepared on the regulatory basis of accounting. This basis of accounting recognizes amounts when received or disbursed in cash and differs from accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. Those principles require revenues to be recognized when they become available and measurable or when they are earned, and expenditures or expenses to be recognized when the related liabilities are incurred.

As a result of the use of this regulatory basis of accounting, certain assets (such as accounts receivable and capital assets), certain revenues (such as revenue for billed or provided services not yet collected), certain liabilities (such as accounts payable, certificates of participation bonds and obligations under capital leases) and certain expenditures (such as expenditures for goods or services received but not yet paid) are not recorded in these financial statements.

If the County utilized the basis of accounting recognized as generally accepted, the fund financial statements for governmental funds would use the modified accrual basis of accounting, while the fund financial statements for proprietary fund types, if applicable, would use the accrual basis of accounting. All government-wide financials would be presented on the accrual basis of accounting.

D. Budget and Budgetary Accounting

The County follows these procedures in establishing the budgetary data reflected in the financial statements:

1. In accordance with Chapter 50 RSMo, the County adopts a budget for each governmental fund.
2. On or before January 15th, each elected officer and department director will transmit to the County Clerk, who serves as budget officer, the budget request and revenue estimates for their office or department for the budget year.
3. The County Clerk submits to the County Commission a proposed budget for the fiscal year beginning January 1. The proposed budget included estimated revenues and proposed expenditures for all budgeted funds. Budgeted expenditures cannot exceed beginning available monies plus estimated revenues for the year. Budgeting of appropriations is based upon an estimated unencumbered fund balance at the beginning of the year as well as estimated revenues to be received. The budget to actual comparisons in these financial statements, however, do not present encumbered fund balances, but only compare budgeted and actual revenues and expenditures.
4. A public hearing is conducted to obtain public comment. Prior to its approval by the County Commission, the budget document is available for public inspection.
5. Prior to February 1, the budget is legally enacted by a vote of the County Commission.
6. Subsequent to its formal approval of the budget, the County Commission has the authority to make necessary adjustments to the budget by formal vote of the Commission. Adjustments made during the year are reflected in the budget information in the financial statements.

Budgeted amounts are as originally adopted, or as amended by the County Commission throughout the year. Individual amendments were not material in relation to the original appropriations which were adopted.

7. Budgets are prepared and adopted on the cash basis of accounting.
